Schwarzwalder Warns Of Vote Drop-Off

Judge Alan Schwarzwalder, candidate for Probate Judge, today cited the importance of every elector to vote the entire ballot.

Although figures at the Franklin County Board of Elections show more people in Franklin County vote for the probate judge than any other judicial contest, the veteran municipal judge said he was concerned about the number of voters who fail to realize the importance of voting the entire slate.

Past voting results show that in previous elections there has been a 20 percent drop-off in voting from the top of the ballot to the bottom.

Chance To Eat And Play

St. Leo's Home and School Association has announced a public luncheon and games party to be held at the school, Frebis and Bruck, at 1 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 25. Mrs. Carl Beyer, 231 Mitthoff-st, chairman of the luncheon, states the $1 tickets may be purchased at the door.

Working Women Honored

The 39th annual observance of National Business Women's Week, Oct. 16-22, will honor all working women. The observance was proclaimed by Governor James Rhodes and Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner and is sponsored by the Columbus Business and Professional Women's Club. As a salute to working women, Dr. Ilsedore M. Edse, assistant professor of German at Ohio State University, will be honored at the dinner tomorrow evening at the Columbus Athletic Club.

RETURNS TO QUONSET

Dayton Theater Guild Takes Top Prize At OCTA Conference

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Spectator Theater Editor

The 14th annual conference of Ohio Community Theater Association (OCTA) was held this past weekend at the Beasley-Deshler Hotel with community theaters throughout the state participating.

Congratulations to the Dayton Theater Guild for its first place position in the excerpt contest. Appearing in "Royal Gambit" were Connie Braun and Ken Hardin. Congratulations also go to the Thalian Players of Cincinnati for "1984" and the Harlequins of Sandusky for "A Far Country." These two groups tied in competition.

Workshops in directing, acting make-up, sound and promotion along with panel discussions on unconventional theater and Shakespearian plays aided all groups in formation and above all created enthusiasm that will spread here and throughout the state as community theaters look to the future.

With nearly 100 theater groups in OCTA, it is an inspiration to know that the size of each theater group has no importance. Big or small, each has problems. Whether it be in ticket sales, promotion, audience, directors or various other problems. Yet, all member theaters share the same common bonds; these are love of theater and the fulfillment of having participated in one of America's heritages, community theater.

'Lady In The Dark' Opens At Little Theater Tomorrow

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Spectator Theater Editor

Opening Thursday is the musical entitled "Lady In The Dark." The play is being directed by Ed Talbert and Glenn Bittner for Village Little Theater.

As the production unfolds, it is obvious "Lady" has been treated with tenderness due a "Lady." This play will entertain you through the costumes and scenery primarily. Then you will be aware of character portrayals by Bart Loomis, Mary Kostanden, Roger Rathbun, Dick Heintz and Sally Talbert. The leading lady, Jevne Kessell, captures your heart in the musical numbers, yet is too mechanical in other scenes.

The detailed work involved with a musical will set you to thinking of just what can be produced and what cannot on a community theater stage. This means with hard work and imagination a musical can be done with ease.

The title means just what it says; you will see a story unfold in complicated musical numbers and dramatic scenes concerning a "career-type" single woman who, through dreams and a psychiatrist, becomes the feminine woman she really is.

It is unfair to you though not to mention that there are flaws. But the fact is this is the easiest part to forgive and forget. It is a rare treat to see a musical on a community stage as they are expensive and this treat should be relished by all theater advocates.

Tickets are available at the door on nights of production. Production dates are Oct. 19, 21, 22, 28 and 29 at First Community Church at 8:30 p.m.

Otterbein Production Slated For 3-Day Run

Tickets are now on sale at Otterbein College for their production of William Shakespeare's "As You Like It," which will open a three-night run in Cowan Hall, Oct. 27, at 8:30 p.m.

Reservations may be made at the Cowan box office or by calling 882-3601 any weekday afternoon. Special rates for season ticket purchasers will be in effect until the opening night.

This play was chosen by Director Charles Dodrill to commemorate the first full-length production on the Otterbein campus in 1907, which was "As You Like It."

Cincinnati Orchestra At Vets Monday

The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra will play in Veterans Memorial Auditorium on Monday, Oct. 24, at 8:30 p.m. This marks the 43rd season for the Symphony Club of Central Ohio. Max Rudolf will conduct, and soloist for the evening will be pianist Lorin Hollander. Hollander will play George Gershwin's Concerto in F.

Tickets for the concert, first of the Symphony Club's series of four, may be obtained at the Central Ticket Agency, 37 N. High-st, The University Music Shop, Discount Records, or Interiors' Associates.

Connie Braun and Ken Hardin appear in "Royal Gambit," a production of the Dayton Theatre Guild. Their performances earned the Guild first place honors at the OCTA conference held last week in Columbus.

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

Players Club has opened its season with a contemporary comedy, "Nobody Loves an Albatross." Take a long hard look at the word contemporary for this is the key to understanding what is taking place at Nat Bentley's Hollywood home. Laughs will come easy, as there are many scenes in which the writer, Ronald Alexander, will appall you with his honest appraisal of our modern day version of existence.

Nat Bentley is a TV script writer who is living in a fast-paced rat race of being on top of the heap through his fast talking or story-telling. Actually he is a liar of sorts.

To put this character across to the audience, an actor of immense skill is needed. John Purdy is immense in his ability, but from either lack of acting experience or understanding the role, he loses a lot of laughs and the audience in several scenes.

There are twelve other portrayals appearing in this production. All are capable and through managing director Gerald Ness, each one deserves an award. Referring to the cast, from Molly Sisinger through George Zeros, all turn in unique portrayals.

Little things mean a lot in theater; costumes, props, lights, sound, set and above all, the mannerisms of each character, make a production a show. These are developed with professionalism. The show will run this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Players Club. The performances are for members and guests. Anyone interested in the theater should call the club at 224-6971.

Our Gal Elected

Spectator Theater Editor Claudia Elkins was elected second vice-president of the Ohio Community Theater Association at the group's convention in Columbus last weekend.

New president of the organization is Harold Eisenstein, director of the Jewish Center's Gallery Players.

AND SO IT GROWS..

After your chrysanthemums have flowered, cut the stems off close to the ground and destroy all stems, leaves and flowers, recommend Ohio State University Extension horticulturists. You'll also have some insurance against winter kill due to heaving by mulching the plants with such materials as evergreen branches, coarse hay, or cornstalks.

Don't use such materials as peat moss, leaf mold, sawdust, or leaves because they will compact around the base of the plant. In the spring after danger of frost has passed, you can remove the mulch.

A poinsettia that you've kept from last Christmas to flower again should be in full darkness from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. every day from now until Thanksgiving. Flowering will be delayed if the plant gets any light during that 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. period. Put the plant in a closet or cover it with an opaque box to keep it in the dark.

If you haven't already brought your geraniums in for the winter, you'd better do it pronto. If you have a cool, damp cellar you can simply pull up the plants, shake off the soil, and hang them in the cellar. Check them occasionally. If the roots appear too dry, set them in water for a short time for three or four times during the year.

Another way to keep these plants over the winter would be to dig the old plants and pot them. Then put them in a well-lighted basement window. Next spring, cut them about halfway down before setting them in the garden.

Or, you may have another favorite way to keep geraniums. But whichever method you use, keep plants away from freezing temperatures. Extension floriculturists advise gardeners not to worry if geraniums became unsightly over the winter—the important thing is to keep them alive.

Here's one way to keep leaves and other foliage from plants to use in arrangements all winter. It amounts to bleaching the foliage and then dyeing it.

Bleach any leafy branches in a glass, wooden, cement, or enamel container with Javelle water. Prepare the Javelle solution by boiling four pounds of sal-soda (sodium carbonate, or washing soda) for 10 minutes in a gallon of water. Then add a pound of bleaching powder (chloride of lime or calcium hypochlorite), cool the solution, and strain it.

Shamansky Supports Demonstration Cities Bill

Robert N. Shamansky, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 12th District, has urged his Republican opponent, Rep. Samuel Devine, to vote for the proposed Demonstration Cities Bill which would provide funds for pilot urban-renewal programs.

"This bill will affect the future of Greater Columbus and all other U.S. cities," Shamansky said in a telegram to Devine.

"It is imperative that you do not follow your usual practice of trying to insert crippling amendments," he said. "You have voted against all of the housing acts, the Mass Transit Act and the bill establishing a Department of Housing and Urban Affairs, but the people of our urban district cannot afford to have you vote against this bill."

Shamansky said a vote against the bill would be "indefensible, a betrayal of the needs of the people of Franklin County."

Keglers' Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

Rainbow has what may be the youngest team in both city and state—the Wee ones in the Bantam Saturday League (Dana Widmayer, age six; Buddy Widmayer, four; Randi O'Day, six and Mike Cassidy, seven. They average 50).

And the wig leagues have hit Columbus too. Daytime league members at Rainbow receive a wig.

TRIPLICATES are a thrill, no matter what the score. Northern Lights saw Judy Shepard lay 72 down thrice.

High scores—hard to keep up with them! But add Jerry Kidwell's 262-636 at Western; Tom Dern's 702 for Bargainland at Amos; Wanda Fillinger with 637 for Century Chemical at Riverview; Bob Hart's sad seven-pin leave for 289 with Kristof's Pro Shop in Amos Doubles Classic; Ed Thomas and his 287-740; Dick West's 715.

On the distaff also in Amos Trio were Mary Kredel's 244-649 and Lovetta Linhart's 661 At Holiday, Kerr Builders built a 3024 series and 1045 game.

THEN THERE are those not so high but individual toppers as Jean Woods with 568; Hooch Haynes—246; Dee Frizzell, 576; Charlotta Counts, 577, and Jerry Miller 238-615; all at Northern Lights.

November "Let's Go Bowling" qualifiers find men at: Riverview Nov. 5-6; Wink-O, Nov. 12 and 13; Main, Nov. 19-20 and Graceland Nov. 26-27. Gals go to Gahanna Nov. 5-6; Sequoia Nov. 12-13; Clinton Nov. 19-20, and Hilliard Nov. 26-27.

Phone call from Ray Hamelaki, statistician for two years of Nationwide tourneys, tells of his recent stint of doing the states for the New York Mets.

SENIOR BOWLERS will be interested in the ABC National Senior Championships at Orchard Twin Bowl Skokie, Ill., in 1967. Get infomoration from ABC, 1572 E. Capitol-dr, Milwaukee, Wis., 53211.

Making a one pin conversion becomes a relatively easy matter with concentration and practice.

If you're in the mood for a "different" look, start at the top with a smart hair-do styled just for you.

Farmer's Animals Coming To T&C

HOWARD FARMER, 16-year-old Hilliard youth who raises and exhibits rare foreign animals, watches two llamas nuzzle up to him. Howard will bring a dozen rare breeds of animals to Town and Country Shopping Center this Saturday as part of the center's "Harvest of Values" event.

If you should happen to drive along Roberts Road near Hilliard, and see South American llamas, Sicilian donkeys and a Scottish Highland bull grazing peacefully together, don't be in the least surprised.

For these animals are only a small portion of the amazing collection of exotic creatures put together by Howard Farmer, age 16.

Shoppers at Town & Country's "Harvest of Values" event will have the opportunity of seeing an exhibit of some dozen species of these rare animals this coming Saturday at Town and Country.

The free foreign animal fair will be located near the Gray Drug Store from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday.

Howard and his two younger brothers will be in charge of the exhibit. So friendly and tame are most of them that children may pet or sit on several of them for pictures.

Few children even see domestic animals and to see these foreign animals will be a sight to remember. Parents are urged to bring cameras.

Howard's fantastic success with animals and birds began several years ago when he was visiting the zoo. There happened to be a female mouflon, a wild sheep from the mountains of Corsica, which had been injured and needed close and loving care to nurse it back to health.

The zoo superintendent, sensing Howard's unusual interest, permitted him to take the animal home to his father's 80 acre farm.

A little later he managed to obtain a male mouflon. From that simple beginning his zoo-at-home began.

Today he has llamas, Sicilian donkeys, African squirrels, deer, South American sheep, Alpine goats, Scottish Highland bulls, Japanese chickens, peacocks, pigeons and many others roaming the spacious grounds.

What started as a hobby has now become a business that has as its objective paying for the education of Howard and his younger brothers, Leland, 15, and Wayne, 14.

Both boys assist Howard in the breeding, raising, caring for aand selling of an astonishing variety of foreign animals and birds.

On the Roberts Road farm, Howard has built special cages, pens and other necessities for the care and feeding of his many animals.

For example, one breed of deer are mud lovers. So, Howard created a huge mud-puddle area, using a gravel base covered with old-fashioned dirt. The area gets watered regularly to make an almost perfect living condition for this particular breed of deer.

Out in the fields, Howard and his brothers have cleared paths and gullies for the many animals to roam freely. A friendlier group you never saw — just drive in and around these pastures and the animals are hurrying to your side.

In The Southeast This Week

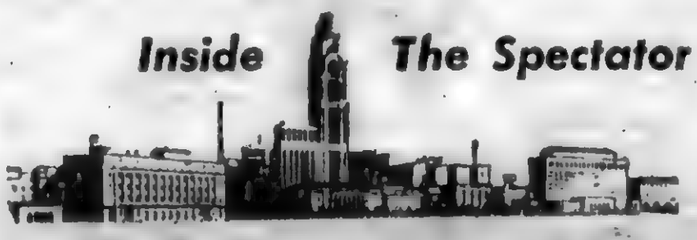
Golden-Agers On The Prowl

Senior citizens of Madison Township have announced they are "on the prowl" in Groveport. Residents of the area are invited to attend an organizational meeting scheduled at the Groveport Municipal Building at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Boosters 'Rolling Away'

A part of the campaign to raise funds for new band uniforms members of the Canal Winchester Music Boosters' club are taking orders from this Friday through Nov. 14 for holiday dinner rolls from a Lancaster bakery. Delivery of the rolls, which may be frozen, will be made on or after Nov. 18. They may be ordered through any Booster, music student or by calling 837-2583. Charles Juniper, Ronald Fisher and John Waibel, local businessmen, have donated money for the prizes to be earned by the three students selling the most of the 50-cents-a-dozen rolls. Prizes are $7.50, $5 and $2.50. The regular meeting of the Boosters is slated in the multi-purpose room of the school at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 1.

When's Halloween?



Halloween celebrations will be staggered this year in the Southeast with several communities following the procedure set up in Columbus, declaring Friday Beggars' Night and Saturday Halloween. However, Groveport is sticking with the traditional date of Oct. 31 which puts Halloween on Monday. Beggars' Night will be Saturday. Among the villages moving up the date are Lockbourne and Obetz.

There's None Better

Groveport Lions Steve Drummond and Jerry Meyers are fruit-cake minded just now as they chair the annual sale. Six teams headed by William Alspach, Jean Dill, Paul Bartsch, Bob Baer, Charles Bishop and Russ Boring are vying to see who can give the most homes a treat by seeing they have a Lions' fruitcake acknowledged to be unsurpassed in quality, on their holiday tables. A word to any Lion will insure immediate delivery.

Home On Leave

Pfc. Gary Groves, paratrooper with the 1st Air Cavalry is home on 30-day leave. He will spend the time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Groves, 6245 Brauning-dr, Reynoldsburg, and will return to An Khe, Viet Nam on Nov. 2.

Want A Free Turkey?

"Sharpen up your shooting eye and start a trek down to the Hoover Y Park on Rohr Road Sunday, Nov. 6, and the following Sunday."

This is the message from R. W. "Cliff" Olson, 1407 Londale-rd, as general chairman of the annual Right Angle Club-sponsored annual Turkey Shoot which will be held from 1 p.m until dark on the successive Sundays.

The event which helps support the youth program of the South Side Branch YMCA, includes a 15-man firing line with turkeys, hams and chicken among the prizes offered in both "X" and "pattern" competition.

Three prizes will be awarded in each of the regular events for men and women, and specially-supervised shoots will again be held for children.

Hot coffee will be served "on the house" and hot dogs and other snacks will be available.

Center Plan Needs An 'Angel'

The efforts of Pete Franks to establish a community recreation center in Groveport have the blessings of village council.

But it appears he better look for another "angel."

This was evident this week when his request for a $2,000 appropriation to get the proposal off the ground went over like the proverbial lead balloon.

FRANKS HAS inveigled an offer of free use of the first floor of the township hall at Blacklick and Main-st from the township trustees. (In the past the floor space has been leased for $200 a month).

He stated $2,000 could be stretched to make some necessary repairs, buy recreational equipment (such as pool and ping pong tables) and provide operating money.

Council went along with him to the point of naming him to represent the body on a board of directors which he envisions to represent senior citizens, youth, the schools, the ministry, the trustees and local businessmen.

BUT, AT LEAST for the present, the pocketbook is zipped up.

Besides the matter of dollars and cents, Franks learned that he must buck Mayor Bob Baer's prior commitment to support recreation for Golden Agers and council's recognition of the need for competent adult supervision of facilities used by children and teenagers.

Franks indicated he'd find another way to skin this particular cat if council funds aren't forthcoming.

COUNCIL DID a little cat skinning of its own when it amended its ordinance prohibiting offenses against public health and safety.

The amendment reduces the fine for violation from $100 to $50.

This action will prevent a defendant of such charges from requesting the case be heard in Columbus courts rather than in the local Mayor's court.

THE CHANGE came upon the heels of dismissal because of lack of prosecution in Municipal Court of charges filed against Mrs. James S. Young on allegedly unsanitary conditions in the yard of her home at Wert and College. She had requested a jury trial, and through lack of communication between Clerk of Courts office and village officials, Groveport representatives had shown up last week at 1 p.m. for the hearing which had been dismissed at 10 a.m.

Other recent difficulties in prosecution of criminal cases under village ordinance has led to consideration of adopting a code already in effect in another community.

JIM YOUNG, by letter of intent, has informed the village that he wishes to proceed with plans to extend city water lines to the northern part of the Big City Garden Center site where he plans to construct an office building. He will bear the cost except that of fire hydrant costs and the difference between a six-inch line and the eight-inch one favored by the village.

Other business included authorization for flasher lights at the junior high school entrance.

COME ON, EVERYONE

CHARLES ADKINS, assistant fire chief at the Hamilton Township Fire Department, and his fellow members of the Fireman's Association are hoping for company and lots of it Thursday, Nov. 3. That is the day they have chosen for their annual spaghetti supper which will be served from 4 until 8 p.m. Tickets are available from any member of the department and will be on sale at the door.

$4,172,000 Insurance Coverage To Be Bid

A large chunk of business is up for grabs among area insurance agencies.

The coverage provided through Dick Hamler Insurance Agency of Groveport on the school buildings and contents, owned by the Madison Local Board of Education expires and bids are to be advertised.

The board approved insurance in the amount of $4,172,000 at the special meeting held Thursday. Hamler's policy was issued for a five-year period. A $7,275 contract for the installation of exterior lighting at the Groveport-Madison Junior High School on Hamilton Road was awarded to The American Electric Works, Inc.

(The company holds the contract for the interior lighting of the building.)

With the bid submitted by the general contractor for additional grading to prepare a physical education area considerably over estimates, the board decided against awarding the contracts at this time.

Phil Williams, superintendent, explained the time required for formal advertising makes it impractical to ask bids with bad weather certain to set in before advertising could be completed.

As a stop-gap measure, the school maintenance staff will be utilized to disk, grade and seed the area so that at least limited facilities will be provided by spring.

The board met in special session at 7 a.m. this Monday to select the brick for the Madison Elementary School building which has progressed to the point that brick facing will go into position. A dark brown and light tan were chosen.

Other business included continuing the employment of Mrs. Bette Dunn, a substitution during the illness of Miss Mary Staker, until Jan. 20.

The next meeting is scheduled for Nov. 14.

THIS SPECTATOR PROUDLY SERVES:

These areas in Franklin, Fairfield, Pickaway and Licking Counties: East Columbus, Canal Winchester, Lithopolis, Lockbourne, Lockbourne Air Base, Ashville, Groveport, Obetz, Sun Vali, Catalpa Park, Edgewater Park, Asbury Park, Berwick Plaza and Hamilton Meadows.

Easy Buck Awaits You

Five Groveport Lions have money burning a hole in their collective pockets.

They are Keester Eubanks, Bernie Grebus, Tom McClure, Bill Alspach and Chet Baker, the quintet asked by judge chairman Bob Baer to determine who shall win the dollars to be won with the prettiest, ugliest, funniest and most original costumes at the annual Halloween party this Monday, Oct. 31.

A PARADE will form at the Groveport High School at 6:30 p.m. and after marching through the village the contestants will return to the gymnasium for judging and refreshments.

Four prizes will be awarded in the classes set up for preschool children, those in grades kindergarten through two, three through five, six through eight, nine through 12 and for adults.

In addition, there will be a "best of show" winner in each category.

CHAIRMEN announced for the Lion-sponsored event are Richard Stanley, prize money; William Kuhlman, favors; Larry Gillum, band; Phil Williams, school and police arrangements; Kenneth Lang, Lion attendance.

Wylie For Congress

The Spectator Newspapers firmly believe that the election of Chalmers P. Wylie to Congress would be in the best interests of the new 15th District.

Wylie is a conservative Republican, and as such, he probably represents the political views of the majority of the residents of the new 15th District.

He has a splendid background in government at both city and state levels and is therefore aware of the problems facing the fast growing urban and suburban district.

Now a successful attorney in private practice, Wylie worked his way through Otterbein College, Ohio State University and Harvard Law School. He is also a decorated veteran of World War II. He is currently serving his third term in the Ohio House of Representatives where he has compiled a respected record.

Franklin County desperately needs vigorous representation in Congress and people who know Chalmers Wylie personally are convinced he would provide it. The county has gone too long with only a negative voice in the nation's capital.

Voters can be assured that a vote for Wylie is a vote wisely cast.

Shamansky For Congress

Voters of the 12th Congressional District are urged by The Spectator Newspapers to cast their votes on Nov. 8 for Robert Shamansky for Congress.

A congressman should represent his district. He should reflect the thinking of his constituents, be sympathetic to the needs of all his constituents and provide a ready and effective contact in Washington for those constituents.

The incumbent 12th District congressman, Samuel Devine, does not represent the 12th District. His congressional voting record is that of a rural Southerner, not an urban Northerner.

Columbus city officials and private businessmen alike have found Devine ineffective. Franklin County has been virtually without a voice in Congress.

Eastern Franklin County has problems far more acute than those facing the Western portion of the county. In the East there are urgent problems which need urgent action. Shamansky has displayed an awareness of these problems and a willingness to face them. Devine pretends they don't exist.

Shamansky is a successful attorney, a responsible businessman and a man deeply interested in public service. He deserves a chance to give the 12th District the kind of representation it so critically needs.

The Spectator Newspapers endorse Shamansky without any reservations and challenge the 12th District to make itself heard in this most vital contest.

Take It Easy

Halloween is traditionally time for fun and frolic—but it carries with it the threat of serious trouble-making.

It is all too easy for what starts as a harmless prank to turn into an act of vicious vandalism, or, worse, personal injury.

The Spectator doesn't want to throw a damper on Halloween merry-making, but it does urge parents and children alike to use common sense during the weekend.

Close supervision of children by parents is the surest way to guarantee a fun-filled and incident-free celebration.

"He Took Off In A Plane With The License Number, Air Force One"

WASHINGTON CALLING

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WITH PRESIDENT JOHNSON IN THE PACIFIC — Of the No. 1 in this troupe there can be no question. The President of the United States on tour, whether in Hawaii or New Zealand, is on stage 24 hours a day.

Nor of the No. 2 can there be much doubt. Mrs. Johnson with her unfailing warmth, her graciousness and the reputation she has won for conservation and the advancement of beauty in the environment is an unfailing counterpoise to the ceaseless movement of her husband. The miracle is the calm she seems to preserve in the eye of the storm.

These are the principals in the public view. A No. 3 at the level just below might well be Walt Whitman Rostow, the President's adviser on security affairs. While he is never seen, it is hardly stretching a point to say that he is frequently heard.

The speech that he delivered at the East-West Center in Honolulu had the unmistakable stamp of Rostow. The President talked about the International Education Act, which he said he would sign in the course of his Pacific journey. He announced that he was directing Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare John Gardner to begin work immediately to establish in his department a new center for educational cooperation which is to advance the aims of the act. And, on top of this, the President proposed a world conference on education to be held in 1967.

But whether these high aims have any relevance to the great impoverished masses of Asia is questionable. This is where equating Europe and the postwar American effort that renewed that continent with the vastly different circumstances of Asia seems a distortion of history.

It is here that Rostow's brilliance and the broad sweep of his concepts fit history to contemporary events with damage often to history and events. A passage of the President's speech at the East-West Center is a good illustration:

"The West entered the industrial revolution earlier than the East. By this accident of history, the West commanded the tools of modern science and technology sooner than the East. Through colonialism and by other means the West intruded its then superior power into the East. And there was a reaction."

As a summary of the record of the last two centuries that is hardly recognizable history. It is goodwill, the friendly rhetoric that Johnson by temperament spreads so freely at home and abroad. It may produce the desired effect. It may raise hopes and aspirations that in some appreciable measure can be fulfilled. But it may raise wholly false expectations that in the light of the rapidly escalating cost of the Viet Nam War cannot possibly be met. That is one of the perils of this remarkable journey.

Cave-Man Style

To The Editor:

Why is it that residents of Southeastern Columbus must put up with "early cave-man style" roads in the name of "progress"?

Residents in the densely-populated Walnut Heights-Amberly-Maywood sections of Southeast Columbus must now journey over unpaved, rut-filled avenues north to Livingston Avenue (Noe-Bixby Road, due to outerbelt, East Freeway construction) and west (Refugee Road, due to Eastland construction).

We welcome both the improved roadways and the shopping center but why, when the projects will disrupt normal driving conditions for so long, can't the construction routes be paved.

Heavy traffic along both routes (Noe-Bixby and Refugee) should indictate, we feel, that spreading gravel over the leveled-off dirt is inadequate.

I shudder to think of the driving hazards this approaching winter if either the construction isn't completed (hardly possible) or the road conditions aren't improved.

Walnut Heights Resident

Paying The Bills

To The Editor:

Due to the current proposal for a new county jail, plus the additional juvenile facilities and court house addition, I see it is again time for the property owner to pay the bills.

The home owner has no choice but to pay up if the levies are passed. However, tenants of rental property should bear in mind, each time there is an increase in real estate taxes, it cuts the profit of the property owner.

So an increase in rent may be required to offset the new cost.

WHITE

Something is very wrong here somehow. Both political parties are paying incessant and almost hysterical tribute to the urban masses and putting the small towns and the rural areas on a thin diet.

Thus the political side of the medal. But look now at the social side of it. National advertisers are assumed to know something about public taste and public wishes and how to exploit them in selling. Even the most casual observer is bound to note that the advertisers are increasingly running an anti-citified pitch in the promotion of practically eveery kind of product. The hero-figure of many TV plugs is the antithesis of the urban type — usually a big strong silent fellow on a horse — and the heroic locale is certainly not Times Square. Instead, it is usually a mesa or a stretch of lonely plains, with perhaps mountains in the background.

In short, while the politicians believe that the future lies in more and more appeals to the urban masses, the advertisers believe that it lies in more and more appeals to the spirit of the wide-open spaces.

The opinion of one observer is that the politicians are overdoing their genuflecting to Megalopolis and that the advertisers are right in their implicit assumption that people generally are damn well sick of Megalopolis — not excluding the people who live in Megalopolis.

Political criticism is one thing and the far more hoity-toity business of social criticism is quite another. All the same, when political approaches run one way, and merchandising approaches run in precisely the opposite way, as they do now, interesting questions are clearly raised. Are the Democratic and Republican parties — the latter to a lesser degree, to be sure — really right in their assumption that this country ought to be run politically 90 percent in behalf of something called "the city"?

Are they not assuming that the uninterrupted flight toward the city of the past twenty years is a thing desired by the people rather than a thing required of the people by economic considerations? Would not both parties be smarter if they retrenched a bit in their kowtowing to Megalopolis and increased more than a bit their efforts to seek at least some favor outside the city areas?

When you come right down to it, there still must be a great deal of strength in the old sentimental concept of the sturdy farmer out there kicking the hay around and the small-town banker cocking his fist at Wall Street. The city slicker has got the truly decisive votes, no doubt about it; but the country-boy figure is far from finished — and maybe, one hopes, he is not really going to be finished at all.

barry goldwater ★ Johnson: Scarecrow Of Year ★

GOLDWATER

This is an appropriate season in which to nominate Lyndon B. Johnson as Scarecrow of the Year.

He has just had the gall to call the current Republican campaign a campaign of fear. He says Republicans try to scare people.

I hope that every American who heard him blandly say this will remember Lyndon Johnson's own campaign in 1964. It was the political horror story of the century. One of Johnson's main TV commercials showed a little girl being blown to bits by an atom bomb. And he talks about Republicans trying to scare people.

One of his main campaign themes was that if you let those trigger-happy Republicans get into office they might do such horrible things as bomb North Viet Nam. And that, he tried to scare everyone into believing, might be the end of the world.

Well, Lyndon Johnson has been bombing North Viet Nam for some time. The way he has been doing it hasn't even meant the end of the war, much less the world. But still he has the unmitigated nerve to say that Republicans try to scare people.

But there are also current reasons for nominating him as Scarecrow of the Year.

Speaking of fear campaigns: Lyndon Johnson, flapping his wild spending schemes, obviously has scared the business, industrial and financial community into a period of virtual paralysis, thus affecting all of us, making money hard to get, tightening up on jobs and seriously clouding the future of every working man and woman.

And there is Lyndon Johnson flapping his arms and flying off to the Far East where, for all anyone knows, he will set in motion a series of diplomatic setbacks that eventually will result in the collapse of all Asia under Communist pressure. Either that or he will back himself into a corner from which, after years of stalemate, only a vast escalation of the war will remove him. Either way, the world waits more in fear than in hope.

And then there is Lyndon Johnson flapping his arms and getting exactly nowhere in regard to the riot, crime and violence that beset our cities. Rather, he still courts the support of those real extremists who preach violence.

This is a real fear campaign, and Lyndon Johnson is waging it.

★ Wonderful World of Governor Rhodes ★

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a three-part series on the administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes. It was written by Abe Zaidan, editor of the WERD Commentator and reprinted from the Oct. 6 issue of The Reporter magazine.)

Any attempt to place Rhodes ideologically in the political spectrum is fruitless: he abounds in contradictions. For those who see him as a political moderate it is sufficient to recall that it was Rhodes who, to the chagrin of Ray Bliss, then Ohio Republican chairman, freed the state's delegation to vote its conscience at the Republican national convention in 1964. Rhodes' unilateral action served to hand over the delegation to Goldwater even though Bliss had urged the Governor to hold out as a favorite son. Others who see Rhodes as a conservative are troubled by the fact that once having delivered Ohio to Goldwater, he sidestepped every opportunity to be identified with the Arizona candidate during the campaign.

Although he has closely allied himself with big business in Ohio and is much given to preaching the free-enterprice doctrine, he seldom hesitates to avail himself of Federal aid. Just recently, he declared war on water pollution in Ohio and, having aroused public concern, insisted that the cost of pollution control was a Federal responsibility. Of the five states that got together to discuss pollution control of Lake Erie last summer, Ohio was the only one that had no program for financial aid to municipalities to combat pollution problems. But this did not discourage the state from publishing a booklet that boasted, "Ohio Takes Lead in Pollution Fight."

Rhodes' vision of his role as a political leader became clear the day he assumed office. The state's finances, he then declared, were on the verge of bankruptcy. He contended he had inherited an $83-million deficit from his predecessor (Michael V. DiSalle, a Democrat)—a claim open to doubt because the financial audit by a private firm was never made public.

Rhodes pledged austerity in government and vowed he would never increase taxes. To show he meant what he said, he refused carpeting for his office — a gesture that failed to impress critics who contend he doesn't spend much time in his office anyway. The chief function of state government, he seems to believe, is not very different from that of an employment agency. All of mankind's ills can be traced to unemployment — racism, neuroses, crime, and whatever. When Rhodes appears before a mental-health group that is clamoring for more state aid, he recites statistics that show a correlation between mental illness and unemployment. His task as governor, he tells them, is to assure a "healthy economic climate" that will produce jobs for everyone.

No one can minimize his zeal. Most of the time Rhodes can be found at an "industrial appreciation" dinner in one Ohio town or another, patting the local merchants on the back and urging the chamber of commerce to go out and find more business. At one point, he rounded up some sixty Ohio businessmen and took them off to Europe to ballyhoo the state's export business. Once abroad, he followed his instincts to Rome to visit the Pope, then went on to Israel in a typical exhibition of political equipoise.

The governor's Department of Development has opened offices in Washington and New York, and he repeatedly has dispatched teams of state officials and businessmen — they're called "Rhodes' Raiders" — to other states to drum up trade. To encourage tourism in the state, he has led newsmen on tours of Ohio's historical sites and state parks. He has ice-fished on Lake Erie with shivering reporters in an effort to make his point that sports fishing is a $20-million business.

This sort of thing may enhance the image of a state-on-the-go under a governor-on-the-go, but Rhodes' critics charge that he is making a lark of the governorship, doing what he likes to do most while the big problems pile up on his desk. Rhodes attempts to refute such criticism by describing his role primarily as that of a salesman.

Rhodes has never been much good in direct confrontation with his critics. One of his first moves after taking office was to eliminate the regularly scheduled news conference, an institution under his predecessor. After a few press sessions, which turned out to be highly unsatisfactory for reporters seeking fresh copy, Rhodes resorted to canned press releases. The few press conferences he has held in the past three years have been staged on his terms and have usually served to flatter his administration. But Rhodes replies that he is always accessible to the press. Such sessions, however, are on a private-consultation basis and lack the hazards of spontaneity in a large gathering. His awkwardness in carrying incisive or hostile questions could be devastating if he should try for national office and be subjected to the probing of the national press corps.

Rhodes seems to sense his deficiences as a polemicist and has scrupulously followed his prepared script for public utterances. When in doubt, he says little or nothing, particularly on sensitive issues that could drag him into controversy. What, for instance, are his private convictions about capital punishment, a topic that former Governor DiSalle fashioned into a personal crusade? Rhodes replies only that so long as the death penalty is sanctioned by Ohio law, he will abide by it. Did he plan to ask for the resignation of one of his appointees on the Ohio State University Board of Trustees who had been suspended from law practice by the Ohio Supreme Court for violation of professional ethics? The governor insisted he couldn't comment because the case was being appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. (The high court refused to hear the appeal, the trustee resigned, and the case passed quietly into history with Rhodes unscathed.)

Canal FHA Has Initiation

Becky Bohl as a Japanese girl was adjudged the prettiest dthen the Canal Winchester chapter of Future Homemakers of America held its annual initiation supper at the village shelter house recently.

Other winners were Linda Taylor, a witch, the ugliest, and Faye Ryther as an old woman and Susie Armstrong, a fat farmer, the funniest.

New members presented charades as part of the initiation ceremonies.

THEY'E KEEPING YOU GUESSING

DICK EVANS, LEFT, and Harold Holmes are doing a good job of keeping the itinerary of the Rugged Road Rally Heritage Trek planned by the Camping and Activities committee of the Mohawk District a secret. Boys in the Scouting movement will convene at the Great Southern Shopping Center the morning of Saturday, Oct. 29 and take off. Where? No one will tell, as the entire journey is one declared a mystery with destination unknown.

HAMILTON AREA CHURCHES PLAN WEEK-LONG REVIVAL SERVICES

Plans are now being completed by Obetz and Walnut Hill churches for a week of special services to be held Nov. 13-20, 7:30 p.m. at the Obetz Methodist Church. The guest speaker at the revival services will be Rev. Charles A. Farthing, Ohio Conference Treasurer. The music leaders will be Curt and Charlotte Davis.

The Obetz Methodist Church Women's Society of Christian Service will serve its annual fried chicken and ham dinner on Saturday, Oct. 29, at the Hamilton Township High School cafeteria. Serving will begin at 4:30 p.m. A bazaar table will be featured with holiday hand-made articles, baked goods and candy.

A Prayer Vigil will begin Saturday, Nov. 12, and end at 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 13, at the Obetz Methodist Church.

Teachers Train

The church school teachers of the Obetz Methodist Church recently completed a training course , workshop class from nursery through junior high.

The Youth of Obetz Christian Church, Walnut Hill Methodist Church and Lockbourne Methodist Church will be going from door to door in their neighborhoods for UNICEF on Oct. 29 and 30. The money collected for UNICEF is used for food, milk and medicine for underprivileged children all over the world. It helps children in more than 100 countries. Just five cents will provide 30 glasses of milk or 30 vitamin tablets or vaccine to protect four children from tuberculosis.

The Obetz Christian Church is in the process of a building program. An addition to the parish house will contain rest rooms, a ladies' lounge, a nursery and class room. This part will be completed by November and the addition connecting the parish house with the church building will begin in the near future.

Mary Bowers Weds

Mary Bowers and Michael LaFollette of Reese Station were united in marriage Oct. 8. A reception in the fellowship hall at the Obetz Christian Church followed. The Rev. Karl Henry Dawson officiated.

Pastor Of Church To Move

Evangelist J. Bernard Mason, pastor of the Reynoldsburg Church of Christ for the past seven years has accepted an invitation to serve the W. Fifth Street Church of Christ in Marysville, Ohio.

The Masons plan to move from their home at 1661 Graham-rd, the latter part of October. Since his arrival in Reynoldsburg Rev. Mason has seen the congregation grow from an attendance of 30 to over 200.

Besides doing church work the Masons have also been active in community affairs. Both their children are graduates of Reynoldsburg High School. Rev. Mason and his wife, Helen, will reside at 208 W. Fourth-st in Marysville.

Color London At Gahanna 'Title'

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

It might not be original but Gahanna coach George Troutman would like to "borrow" from '65's Mid-Eight title script.

Last fall London beat Hilliard, who beat Gahanna, who beat London. The result would have been a three-way title tie but Hilliard fell under Groveport, supplying co-champs.

"WE'RE GONNA' be busy again this week," Troutman promised. "This is the third straight year our game with London has come down to the title game. We've gotten used to 'London Week' out here."

"We just ran into a big, strong, well-coached ball club (Hilliard) last week and got overpowered," the Lion mentor explained of the 14-0 loss to the Wildcats.

Troutman made no excuses for his defensive unit, which allowed only 147 yds. rushing. "Their two big plays (well-executed punt return and 40-yd. pass play) made the difference."

"WE JUST couldn't muster anything offensively," Troutman added, pointing to Gahanna's 60 rushing yards and 17 more overhead.

"That's (the offense) where we'll be working this week," Troutman added.

The Lion mentor, who saw his club's '66 win skein halted at six, lauded Hilliard's strong defense.

"THEY TOOK our best play (power sweep) away from us and forced us to play left-handed. We've only lost twice in the last 25 games — both times to Hilliard," Troutman lamented.

Oddly enough, two Lion stumbling blocks — fumbles and penalties — were at a seasonal low vs. Hilliard (no bobbles, only 10 yds. in penalties).

The Gahanna grid boss praised the defensive work of linebackers Stan Poth and Ron Goldhardt and middle guard Kerry Shadwick, adding punter

Hilliard Nabs Mid-8 Title In X-Country

Hilliard picked up four of the first six places to down Gahanna, 31-54 and notch the Mid-Eight cross country championship last week at the Airport Golf Course.

Westerville's Bill Rupp set a new course mark by taking individual honors in 9:48.

Runner-up was Hilliard's Bob Hall (9:52) with Bill Price (Gahanna, 10:1), Jim Melvin (Hilliard, 10-3), Steve Von Jasinski (Hilliard, 10:14), and Mike Pullins (Hilliard, 10:33) finishing in that order.

Other team finishes were: Westerville (81), Grove City (94), Mifflin (116) and Groveport.

Party Planned For Children At State School

Members of the evening branch of the National Council of Jewish Women will entertain more than 300 children at the Columbus State School at a "Halloween Hop" Sunday at 1 p.m.

Entertainment will be provided by the North American Aviation clowns, the Shades rock-and-roll band, the Holtzapfel Trio, the Bag Pipers and go-go-girls.

Volunteer hosteeses are asked to contact Mrs. Marvin Callif at 237-8207.

Fearless Predictions

Strutting around the newsroom like a prime peacock, the "Fearless One" pointed out his 19-5 standing of last weekend which boosted the forecaster's overall standing to 110-49.

Here's how the Spectator sage views week eight:

WORTHINGTON AT ARLINGTON—And No. 27. UA.

CANAL WINCHESTER AT FAIRFIELD UNION — Heats solidify Mid-State spot. F-U.

MARION-FRANKLIN AT EAST — Devils still hopin'. M-F.

GROVEPORT AT HILLIARD — Cruisers soared upset last fall, could again but . . . Hilliard.

URBANA AT GRANDVIEW — Bobcats can't afford another stumble. Grandview.

EASTMOOR AT PORTSMOUTH — Shouldn't be any "breather" for Warriors. Eastmoor.

GROVE CITY AT MIFFLIN — We'll try the 'Hounds. G-C.

ST. MARY AT DUBLIN — Irish halt two-game losing streak. Dublin.

REYNOLDSBURG AT TEAYS VALLEY — Vikings could play spoiler role but Raiders won't be day-dreaming. Reynoldsburg.

CENTRAL AT LINDEN — Speed vs. speed. Linden.

WEST AT WALNUT RIDGE — Scotties could pull CL upset here but edge goes to Cowboys. West.

MECHANICSBURG AT WEST JEFFERSON — Riders pick up No. seven at homecoming. W-J.

DELAWARE AT BEXLEY — Should be for all BAC marbles. Try . . . Delaware.

BROOKHAVEN AT NORTH—Should be dandy but Bears stay winless. Brookhaven.

WHITEHALL AT FRANKLIN HEIGHTS — Rams winding way back; Falcons have got troubles. Whitehall.

ACADEMY AT NEW ALBANY — We'd rather wait till next week but the name's "Fearless", so . . . Academy.

LONDON AT GAHANNA — Would you believe another Mid-Eight deadlock this year? On a hunch . . . Gahanna.

MARYSVILLE AT WESTERVILLE—Monarchs pulled their surprise last week. Westerville.

HAMILTON TOWNSHIP AT PLEASANT VIEW — No room for Panther mistakes. P-V.

CARROLL AT LIBERTY UNION—Lions still hopeful. L-U.

SATURDAY

WATTERSON AT DESALES — This was No. one attraction last year. Should be a dandy again this time. Watterson.

Hilliard KO's Gahanna 14-0

Hilliard bounced back from a 19-0 loss to powerful London to bounce Gahanna's Lions out of the top slot in the Mid-Eight League last Friday night with a 14-0 win over the previously unbeaten crew of George Troutman.

Bruce Adams and Tim Porter posted important scores for the Wildcats as both are now in the second seat of the Mid-Eight with 4-1 loop mark.

Porter scored on a 40 yard pass from quarterback Terry Cole while Adams ran for a six yard score in the second period.

In other area action: London topped Groveport 45-0 and Reynoldsburg clipped Hamilton Township, 53-0 on the three touchdowns by Jim Wilcoxen and the pin point passing of Gary Shade.

Canal Winchester, whose lone score came on a 33 yard run by Jerry Shakleford, fell to Adena, 28-8 and Carroll lost its fourth Mid-State Loop game 14-6 to Amanda.

Clean, flameless electric dryers cost less to maintain.

Go flameless...put on a happy face!

Most people already know that electric dryers cost less to buy and install. But did you know that an electric dryer continues to save you money year after year? That's a fact. Take maintenance, for instance. Flameless electric dryers have approximately 15 fewer working parts to break down or wear out. This means fewer service calls and longer life for your electric dryer. Another thing, electricity is 100% efficient. And your flameless electric dryer uses only clean, flameless electricity for energy. It's easy to see why every day, more and more people give more reasons for going electric.

Doug Young (five times for a 44-yd. average) to the list.

TROUTMAN calls the unbeaten (7-0) Raiders a club which "executes very well and can do almost everything offensively.

"They've got an awful lot of depth in their backfield. It seems like half the ball club are halfbacks."

London, which operates from an "I" formation with "many variations," will be more of a passing threat this week with the return of quarterback Dale Lukens, claims the Gahanna coach.

TROUTMAN also indicated that London's line was also impressive, bolstered by a pair of sons of ex-OSU greats—guard Bill Hackett and tackle Tim Amling.

The Lion coach also listed Raider linebacker Roger Tingley as "one of the best I've seen in the Mid-Eight for a long time."

"We're comin' back, that's all," Troutman concluded.

WHITEHALL coach Jim Bline's comment that Teays Valley was "the hardest hitting ball club we've faced this season" probably was small consolation to the Vikings who saw their Metro League hopes go glimmering with a 28-6 setback to the Rams.

And coach Marion Waits must find it difficult to look with much relish to Reynoldsburg's arrival Friday with four regulars scratched off T-V's roster.

Missing are Fred Patricio (safety, broken leg), Mike Lombardo (end, fractured hand), Sid Liming (defensive end, moved) and Joe Bush (def. end, ineligible).

WAITS thought his Vikings "moved the ball well on one of their better nights of the season but . . . gave up too many yards to a good Whitehall team."

"They had the best offensive line I've seen all year," Waits added.

Waits credited quarterback Bruce Roese with the best effort of the evening, especially when he carried the pigskin.

"WE MUST contain Reynoldsburg's quarterback (Gary Shade) - fullback (Denny Spires) combination." Waits called Spires the best fullback in the Metro League and added that the Raiders possessed a pair of the circuit's better receivers.

"We look for them to come down here all steamed up," Waits continued. "If they win, they've got a share of the title."

CANAL Winchester coach Bob Blais listed tailback Jerry Shackelford and end Greg Abbott as top performers in his Indians' setback to Adena Friday.

Blais also credited tackle Dave Fullen with his best game of the season.

C-W (0-6-1) visits Fairfield Union for Mid-State play Friday with Blais preparing his Indians for the off-tackle slants of fullback Jim Seifert and halfback Tom Suttles.

OF F-U's passing game, Blais commented: "They throw enough to keep you honest."

In other area games Friday, all elevens hit the road: Groveport (1-6) at Hilliard (6-1), Hamilton Township (0-7) at Pleasant View (4-3) and Carroll (2-4-1) at Liberty Union.

RANGER 'SAVE'—Hamilton Township halfback Mike Hasecke (45) leaps high in the air to bat down this pass from Reynoldsburg quarterback Gary Shade to end Dick Baserman (84).

TROUBLE BREWING—Hilliard halfback Ron Brewer (40) looks with appreciation at approaching Gahanna tackler Steve Miller (51) and Alan Spalding (44) on sideline run Friday. Wildcats spoiled Lions' spotless '66 mark with 14-0 setback.

WELL(S) DONE—[illegible] Dick Boserman (center) supplying the big block on Hamilton's Mike Hennecke (45), Reynoldsburg's Eddie Wells (33) found this one-yard sneak into the H-T end zone a simple matter Friday.

Checkers Entertain Fort Wayne Friday

The youthful Columbus Checkers, who received their hockey "baptism under fire" as the IHL season opened last week, dig deeper into their '66-'67 schedule with a visit by Fort Wayne and three road dates this week.

The Fort Wayne Komets, bolstered by the return of seven veterans off last season's IHL runner-up, will occupy the visitors' bench Friday when the Checkers take to the Coliseum ice at 8 p.m.

THE SAME Komets will then play host to the locals Saturday, kicking off a Columbus road trip which includes stops at Dayton (Sunday) and Port Huron (a week from today).

Heart Fund Bowlathon Opens Sunday

Well-known figures in local government circles and the entertainment world will participate in the fourth annual Heart Fund Bowlathon Sunday, Oct. 30, from 4 to 5 p.m. live, on WTVN-TV, Channel 6.

These will include Billy Maxted, now playing at Grandview Inn and who has been on all previous Bowlathons; Mayor Sensenbrenner, Judge Leonard Stern, Judge Henry Holden, Judge Alan Schwarzwalder, Joseph Roberts of the Ohio Youth Commission; Sheriff Stacy R. Hall and Chief of Police Robert Baus.

The program marks the start of the week-long Bowling Tournament which will be held at all lanes in Franklin County Oct. 30-Nov. 5. For each pin downed, the Columbus Savings and Loan Association will contribute 50 cents for research in the heart field.

Wil Kasel Paces Rome Qualifiers

Defending '65 champ Wilbur Kabel set a new record while qualifying for the sixth annual New Rome Indoor Horseshoe Tourney last weekend.

Kabel rang up 274 points and 88 ringers in 100 shoes while joining 77 other qualifiers for the tourney finals coming up during the next three weekends.

The lowest Class A qualifier had 177 percent ringers in 100 shoes.

District Twelve of the Ohio State Nurses Association is having Fun(d) Night, a Bazaar, a Card and Games Party, on Friday, Nov. 4, at Mt. Carmel School of Nursing, 127 S. Davis Avenue.

PUBLIC INVITED

The Ohio State Nurses Association is a non-profit organization of Registered Professional Nurses. The funds realized from this once-a-year project are used for educational purposes for members and non-members, including student and practical nurses to keep nurses informed of the rapid advancements in medications, nursing procedures, equipment. In this way, they then are better equipped to give good nursing care to the sick.

ALL NURSES are ALWAYS willing to do their share in civic and community health projects. This association provides the leadership in securing your nurse volunteers for these programs. Won't you support them NOW?

And also, won't you please patronize the supporting advertisers? Thank you one and all!

Lawyers To Have Mock Trial At AAUW Meeting

The Columbus branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) will meet in the Little Theater at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts Nov. 9 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Helen Cameron, implementation chairman of "The Law and the Citizen," will introduce members of the Columbus Bar Association who will present a mock trail.

The audience will be the jury.

PAUL HARVEY

Paul Harvey, radio news analyst and columnist, will speak at the Third Annual State Convention of the Ohio Association of Evangelicals at the Ohio State fairgrounds on Nov. 8.

The three-day convention will be held in the Lausche Building and is open to the public. Tickets are available at the Central Ticket Agency and through the Ohio Evangelical churches.

Other persons who will take part in this event are: Dr. Torrey Johnson; Dr. John McCombe, executive secretary of the American Bible Society; Dr. Herbert Mekeel, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Schenectady; Rev. Howard Jones, president of the Negro Association of Evangelicals; Dr. David Breese, president of Christian Destiny and Jimmy McDonald, gospel singer of the Billy Graham Association.

THE MOST WANTED AUTO ACCESSORY SINCE AIR CONDITIONING

"Every Litter Bit Hurts" is a saying most Americans are familiar with, and a St. Louis company has come up with an idea it feels will help solve the country's litter problem.

It is a built-in automobile vacuum system.

Instead of throwing that empty bag, sandwich wrapper, gum paper or cigarette package out of the window of your car you simply place it in a rectangular-shaped receptacle attached under the dashboard.

As you place the litter in the receptacle, by lifting a small lid, a vacuum system is started and the litter is "sucked into" a bag in a canister mounted under the hood of the car.

The litter bag can be easily emptied by the driver or a service station attendant. So instead of saying "fill it up and check the oil" you say "fill it up, check the oil and empty the litter bag."

This invention is called the "Litter-Vac" and is a product of Litter-Vac, Inc., a St. Louis firm.

The new product consists of a motor and canaster mounted under the hood and connected to a receptacle under the dashboard by a hose leading through the firewall. Candy wrappers, cigarette packages et cetera are swooshed away into a removable filter bag inside the under-hood canister. There's also a vacuum hose for tidying up car upholstery. The company's motto, as you have guessed, is "Every Litter-Vac Helps."

"Litter Vac" is available in Central Ohio, through TOY'S RADIATOR SERVICE located at 1058 W. Mound St., Columbus, Ohio. They are distributors throughout the Central Ohio area for this revolutionary new invention. You are invited to call 224-1502 or 224-2722 for further information regarding this exciting new item which retails for only $39.95, or stop in at 1058 W. Mound St. for a convincing demonstration.

Dealerships for this all new product are available and interested persons are asked to call for an appointment.

ARE YOU WAITING FOR INTEREST RATES TO DROP?

Many people are. They're putting off buying a new home because they feel interest rates are too high.

Let's see if this is a good idea. First, just what does the one-half percent rate increase mean in dollars and cents: only 30¢ a month for each $1,000 you borrow. If you borrow $15,000, that's just $4.50 a month. Second, what do you risk by waiting? Chances are good materials and the cost of home building labor will increase. By the time high interest rates come down, the $20,000 home you want now may cost you several hundred dollars more. Third, what are you missing while you wait? Every day you wait to buy, you and your family miss out on the joys and satisfactions of living in a home you want.

Thirty cents a month for each $1,000: you may spend that much on cigarettes. Will the possible saving be worth the waiting? SEE A MEMBER OF THE HOME BUILDERS ASSOCIATION TODAY.

Self-Service Unit To Open

John Savel, superintendent of Hamilton Township School District, will buy the first stamps at the new self-service postal unit at Great Southern Shopping Center following its dedication at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

The red, white and blue brick structure has been erected on property donated by Don M. Casto and Associates at a cost of approximately $15,000.

One of 100 installation to be placed at shopping centers and universities throughout the nation this year, the unit has two drive-up mail boxes and a special depository for parcel post.

The new facility will provide 24-hour, seven-day-a-week service through vending machines which dispense stamps, post cards, envelopes and minimum insurance coverage for parcel post.

Letter and parcel scales indicating postage plus bill and coin changers will be installed. A free 24-hour-a-day direct telephone for assistance to persons requiring additional postal information will also be in operation.

A two-year study of a similar pilot unit has proved, according to Postmaster Bodish, that the modern marketing and distribution techniques are successful and enjoy a high degree of public acceptance.

THE HAMILTON TOWNSHIP High School Band will open the program when the new self service postal unit is dedicated at the Great Southern Shopping Center at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Victor J. Bodish, postmaster, will welcome the guests with a special message from the postmaster general, and the dedication address will be given by the local services division from the regional headquarters in Cincinnati. Mayor Sensenbrenner and Jerry Kaye of Great Southern will also speak.

Shamansky Claims Devine Spends, But Ignores Cities

Charges that Rep. Samuel Devine is deceiving the voters by claiming he is opposed to high federal spending were leveled this week by Democratic congressional candidate Robert N. Shamansky.

Shamansky said that in 1966 alone, Devine had voted for legislation totaling more than $90 billion in federal spending.

"I'm sure that most of this legislation was needed — and I probably would have voted for it myself," Shamansky said.

"But I think Mr. Devine ought to be candid enough to admit that he, too, has had a hand in a high percentage of federal spending."

And, Shamansky charged, Devine is "penny-wise but pound-foolish" when it comes to urban legislation.

"What Devine is really proud of, however, is not the $90 billion he did vote to spend, but the relatively low-budget items aimed at relieving the urban areas of our nation of their deepening distress that he opposed," Shamansky said.

"For some reason," he said, "Devine seems to have a total disregard for the very city he's seeking to represent. But since he has refused to appear with me to discuss the problems of the city, we may never know why he's not interested in contributing his time and effort toward the city's orderly growth."

Shamansky said Devine's refusal to debate did not surprise him "because Devine has been equally aloof to any other group or individual that is concerning itself with doing something to keep our community a decent, thriving place to live."

The local attorney also said Devine's attacks on so-called Democratic inflationary projects "has a hollow ring in view of the fact that the nation's highest cost item — the Vietnamese war — has been supported by Republicans as well as Democrats."

Shamansky is challenging Devine for the 12th District congressional seat in the Nov. 8 election.

Poison Center A Life Saver

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles written exclusively for the South Side and Southeast Rural-Urban Spectators by United Appeal volunteer writer Mrs. James Durbin, 1390 Studer-av.)

Danny was the most mischievous of the five. None of the others had ever wandered away to help the workmen at a nearby construction site, or marched diaperless through the neighborhood or toppled the Christmas tree.

And none of the others had ever sampled the taste of the deadly charcoal lighter stored away carefully with the barbecue equipment.

Yes, Danny's parents were careful, conscientious, watchful but they learned as have so many others that some children are a little more curious, a little more daring, a little more cunning.

And this is how tragedies occur. But Danny was lucky—his mother knew the number of the Poison Control Center, one of 69 United Appeal agencies. Five thousand sixty-eight other mothers last year knew and used the number too . . . 258-9783.

The Center, located at Children's Hospital, quickly answered Danny's mother giving her the information about immediate treatment and telling her what symptoms to watch for to determine the extent of the damage. Danny seemed all right for a while but then the symptoms began to appear and his mother followed the center's advice — she rushed him into the hospital immediately.

His condition was serious — chemical pneumonia — but his mother's quick call, the Center's information and the subsequent quick trip to the hospital for treatment saved his life. One thousand five hundred ninety-six patients were brought to the Center for urgently needed care last year.

The Americans who died of accidental poisoning last year (500 were under age five) were the victims, not of disease, but of ignorance or a moment's carelessness. And the battle to prevent death, serious damage or violent illness from poisoning must be fought with a facility for immediate help — and community education.

This is the work that the Poison Control Center at Children's Hospital has been doing for the Franklin County and Central Ohio area since 1957.

Most of the emergency calls to the Center come from parents since children are the largest group of poisoning victims. Calls also come from doctors, hospitals, druggists, medical students — anyone needing quick, accurate information on toxic products

The location of the Center in the hospital emergency room means that a caller is able to reach a doctor at any hour, any day. He can quickly give first aid instructions and, if necessary, direct the caller to a private physician or the nearest emergency room.

As one of the more than 500 centers in the nation, the Center is served by the U.S. Public Health Service clearing house in Washington, D.C. The clearing house constantly feeds the centers with current information on new toxic products and recommended treatment. Each center reports back on the effectiveness of treatment and the circumstances involved in poisoning accidents. A constant stream of vital information is thus kept flowing between centers.

A second phase of the Center's work is a community education program. An overwhelming demand for speakers comes from parent-teacher associations, schools and civic organizations. Whenever possible, physicians appear on radio and television programs to point up the danger of accidental poisoning and the availability of the Center when help is needed.

The Center's largest supporter is the United Appeal although some additional support came, for the first time, from the Columbus City Council in 1965. For the rest the Center must depend on private donations.

Future plans, depending on community financial support, include the hiring of a toxicologist (a poison specialist) and the establishment of a much-needed laboratory for quick analysis of unknown poisons which have been swallowed. Your UA dollar might make this possible.

Church Women Plan Community Day

United Church Women in Columbus and across the nation will join hands Friday, Nov. 4, for the annual observance of World Community Day, to be celebrated this year in five Columbus churches.

The program is designed to bind church women together in what is termed a "common search for enduring peace."

This year's program will be observed at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 30 W. Woodruff; Hillcrest Baptist Church, 2480 W. Broad-st; St. John's Evangelical Church, 59 E. Mound-st; Southeast Christian Church, 3330 E. Livingston-av, and Gates - Fourth Methodist Church, 1234 S. Fourth-st.

Features of the day are a sacrificial luncheon at noon; a program focusing on resources and responsibilities of laymen in meeting problems of human need; an offering to aid family planning in India, West Pakistan and New Guinea and collection of material gifts for emergency relief in Southeast Asia.

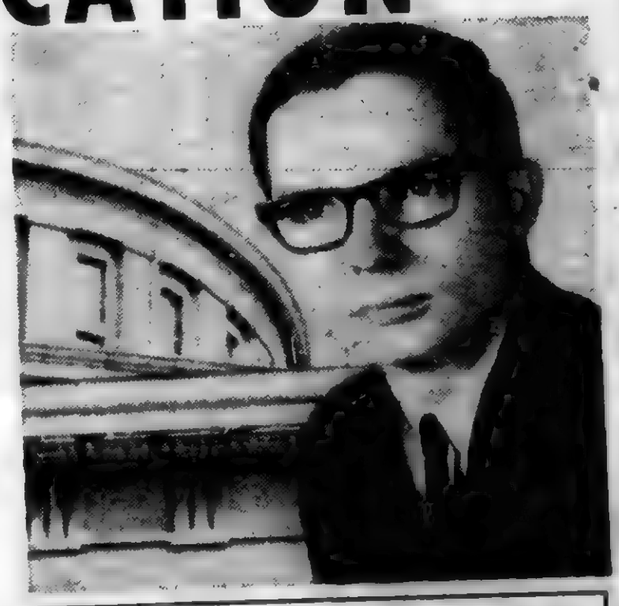
Mrs. Robert Draper is general chairman and Mrs. Henry Ruegg is material gifts chairman.

Chairman at the five locations are:

Hillcrest Baptist, Mrs. James Wallace; St. John's, Mrs. Carlton Long; Gates-Fourth, Mrs. Raymond Kuehner; Southeast Christian, Mrs. Albert Baker and St. Stephen's, Mrs. J. B. Titchener.

All five programs will run from noon to 2:30 p.m. The same five churches will serve as collection centers for additional gifts on Monday, Nov. 21, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Reservations may be made through local United Church Women representatives or by calling Mrs. Jessie Adams, 291-2409, by Oct. 30.



ACTON ACTS ON EDUCATION

Our property taxes bear too much of the burden of education! WHY? Because state support for our schools has dwindled to an all-time low of 27%. We pay the difference with increased property taxes!

The state legislature must restore these cutbacks in education so our children get the training they need and deserve.

THE LOCAL HOMEOWNER SHOULD NOT BE FORCED TO PAY ALL THE COST OF EDUCATION WITH MORE PROPERTY TAXES!

ACTON, a lawyer and teacher by profession, knows our problems. And what's more important, he has the education, sincerity and courage to ACT ON THESE PROBLEMS.

Oatmeal Crisps Tops In Cookbook Cookie Category

MRS. BAUMAN

Mrs. Virginia Bauman, 3096 Maryland-av, was awarded first place in the cookie division of The Spectator's Cookbook Contest for her Oatmeal Crisps.

Second place went to Mrs. Stacy Schneider, 80 East-st, in Ashville, for her chocolate walnut drop cookies.

Mrs. Charles R. Hulls of 3065 Derby-rd, a triple first-place winner, took third place in this category with her coconut balls.

OATMEAL CRISPS

(FIRST PRIZE)

- 1½ cups flour
- 1 tsp. soda
- 1 cup shortening
- 1 cup gr. sugar
- 1 cup br. sugar sifted and packed
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 3 cups quick oatmeal
- 1 tsp. salt

Sift flour. Measure. Add soda and salt and sift again. Cream butter and add sugar gradually. Cream until very light. Add eggs, vanilla, oatmeal and nuts, mixing well after each. Add flour, stirring well. Form into 4 rolls about 2½ inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper. Chill. Slice thin. Bake about 10 minutes at 400 degrees.

Mrs. Virginia Bauman

Savory Steak Top Winner In Casserole Competition

MRS. BROFFORD

Mrs. Clyde D. Brofford, 3315 Norton-rd, Grove City, thinks her Savory Steak is something special — and so did the judges in The Spectator's Cookbook Contest.

They awarded Mrs. Bradford first place in the casserole competition.

Second place winner was Mrs. Charles E. Jones, 601 Chase-rd, for her casserole of ham, noodles and sesame seeds.

Ruth Creek, 128 N. Westgate-av, took third place with her Baked Chili Con Carne.

SAVORY STEAK
(FIRST PRIZE)

- 1 rd. steak
- 4 tbs. flour
- 1 tbs. fat
- 2 tsp. salt
- ⅛ tsp. pepper
- 1 cup thinly sliced sweet pickles
- ½ cup catsup
- 1 cup sliced onion
- 1½ cups boiling water
- 6 carrots, quartered
- 6 potatoes
- 1½ cups celery, 1½" pieces

Pound flour into meat, brown meat in fat, place in casserole, salt and pepper, pour catsup over top. Cover with pickles and onions. Pour ¾ c. of water around. Bake covered at 350 degrees for 2 hours. Add carrots, potatoes and celery. Cover and bake one hour longer. Serves 6.

Mrs. Clive D. Brofford
3315 Norton-rd
Grove City, O.

HAM CASSEROLE, NOODLES AND SESAME SEEDS
(SECOND PRIZE)

- 3 cups diced cooked ham
- 8 oz. pkg. medium noodles, cooked
- 2 tablespoons toasted sesame seeds
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cups rich cream sauce or 1½ cans condensed cream of chicken soup

Cook noodles, drain and add butter. Toast sesame seeds in a 400 degree oven 8 to 10 minutes. Make cream sauce. Mix ham and seeds with sauce. Alternate layers of noodles and ham and sauce. Top with buttered crumbs and bake 20 minutes in a 400 degree oven. Serves 6.

Columbus, O.

7-UP CHUCKWAGON BARBECUES

- 1 lb. ground beef
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon chili powder
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- 3 tablespoons flour
- ½ cup catsup
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 7-oz. bottle or 1 cup 7-Up
- 10 hamburger buns, toasted if desired

Cook meat, onion and green pepper in heavy skillet until lightly browned, Stir in salt chili powder and flour. Add catsup, Worcestershire sauce and 7-Up, stirring until smooth. Cook, stirring octasionally, for about 15 minutes. Spoon on toasted buns. Serves 10.

Mrs. Virginia Mann
960 E. Fifth-av
Columbus, O.

BAKED CHILI CON CARNE
(THIRD PRIZE)

- 2 tbsp. shortening
- 1 C. onion, chopped
- 1 medium green pepper, chopped
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 2½ C. tomatoes (No. 2 can)
- 2½ C. kidney beans (No. 2 can)
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. chili powder

Melt shortening in heavy Dutch oven over low flame. Add onions and green pepper and saute gently about 3 minutes, or until soft and lightly browned. Add ground beef and brown, breaking into small bits. Add remaining ingredients. Cover, place in oven at 300 degrees and bake 2 hours. Serve in shallow soup bowls. This does not have much liquid such as regular chili, so crusty French or Italian bread makes a good accompaniment. Serves 6 to 8.

Ruth Creek

Columbus, O.

SAUERBRATEN

- 4 lbs. pot roast or beef
- 3 cups water
- 1 cup vinegar
- 2 lg. onions, sliced
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 tsp. salt
- 8 pepper corns
- 2 whole cloves
- 1 lemon, sliced
- ½ cup. margarine
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ cup sour cream
- 2 bay leaves

Put meat into large mowl. Combine water, vinegar, sliced onions, sugar, salt, pepper corns, cloves, bay leaves, and sliced lemon. Pour over meat. Cover and refrigerate. Marinate for 4 hrs. to 4 days. Turn meat several times. Remove meat from marinade, drain. Strain and reserve arinade. Melt ¼ cup margerine in saucepan, brown pot roast. Add 2 cups marinade (save remainder for gravy). Cover, simmer 2½ to 3 hours, or until meat is tender. Remove meat to warm platter. Pour off liquid from saucepan and set aside. Melt remaining margarine in in pan. Blend in flour, stirring, heat until mixture is golden brown. Gradually add 2 cups reserved cooking liquid and 1 cup reserved marinade or water. Stirring, boil 1 to 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Bradually blend in sour cream. Serve over sliced meat. Serves 6-8.

Fudge Nut Pie Third Winner For Mrs. Hulls

Fudge Nut Pie not only sounds good, it tasted good to our judges and it won another first prize for Mrs. Charles R. Hulls, 3065 Derby-rd, in the pie division of The Spectator's Cookbook Contest.

Mrs. Loretha Miller, Route 1, Lockbourne, took second place with her frozen pumpkin pie.

East Sider Mrs. Robert Hillier, 3547 Astor-av, took third place with her peach meringue pie.

FUDGE NUT PIE
(FIRST PRIZE)

- ¼ cup butter
- ¾ cup brown sugar
- 3 eggs
- 2 oz. unsweetened chocolate
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup chopped pecans
- 9" unbaked pastry shell
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream until fluffy. Add eggs, melted chocolate, salt, syrup and nuts. Mix well. Pour into pastry lined pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Cool. Top with whipped cream. Serves 8.

'Mammy's Dixie Double' Is Winner For Mrs. DeBoard

MRS. DE BORD

"Mammy's Dixie Double Cake" is quite a mouthful in more ways than one.

The recipe won first place in the cakes category of The Spectator's Cookbook Contest for Mrs. Jim DeBord, 6705 Schreiner-st East in Worthington.

A Bexley woman, Mrs. Marian Sprouse of 34 S. Cassady-av, took second prize with her One-Bowl Golden Layer Cake.

Third prize winner was Lois A. Slaughter, 144 Redmond-rd, who entered her Pumpkin Cake.

MAMMY'S DIXIE DOUBLE CAKE
(FIRST PRIZE)

½ c. sugar
2 T. butter
1 egg
½ c. molasses
1¼ c. sifted flour
½ t. salt
1 t. ginger
1 t. cinnamon
½ t. clove
1 t. soda
½ c. milk

Cream, sugar and butter, add well beaten egg and molasses, then sift together dry ingredients, add alternately with milk. Beat thoroughly. Prepare in another bowl these ingredients: ¼ c. butter, ½ c. sugar, ½ c. milk, 1 T. lemon juice, ½ t. soda, ½ t. salt, 2 egg whites beaten fluffy, 1½ c. sifted flour. Cream sugar and butter, add egg whites well beaten, lemon juice and milk alternately with dry ingredients. Beat well. Prepare two 8" round cake pans by greasing and flouring. Put alternate spoons of light, then dark, batter in pans. Bake at 375 degrees for about 40 minutes. Let cool and ice with 2 c. confectioner's sugar, 2 rolled Heath bars 2 T. cream, 1 c. marshmallow cream. Serves 8 to 10.

Mrs. Jim De Bord
6705 Schreiner-st, East
Worthington, O.

ONE BOWL GOLDEN LAYER CAKE
(SECOND PRIZE)

2½ c. sifted cake flour
1½ c. sugar
2½ t. double-action baking powder
½ c. shortening
1 t. flavoring
1 c. milk
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 t. salt

Sift together the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add shortening, flavoring and ⅔ cup milk. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed. Add ⅓ cup milk, 2 unbeaten eggs. Beat 2 minutes. Put in two 8 in. layer pans, greased and lined. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes. Frost in any way desired. Serves 16.

Mrs. Marian Sprouse
34 S. Cassady-av
Columbus, O.

PUMPKIN CAKE
(THIRD PRIZE)

3 cups flour
3 tsp. baking powder
2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
3 tsp. cinnamon
2 cups sugar
4 eggs, beaten
2 cups cooked pumpkin
1¼ cups cooking oil
½ cup nuts, chopped

Sift flour, baking powder, soda, salt and cinnamon together twice. Blend beaten eggs and sugar. Add pumpkin and oil. Blend. Add flour mixture and nuts. Makes 1 large cake (tube pan) or 2 loaf cakes. Bake at 350 degrees, large cake about 1 hour and loaf cakes about 30 minutes. Frost if desired. Serves 12 to 16.

Whitehouse Wins Sandwich Prize For Mrs. Hulls

A sparkling variation of the traditional Whitehouse Sandwich won for Mrs. C. R. Hulls, 3065 Derby-rd, one of her three first prizes in The Spectator contest.

Second place went to Mrs. Gerald Strutner, 4606 Healy-dr, for her own version of the Reubins Sandwich.

Louise E. Harrold, 935 Proprietors-dr in Worthington, took third place with a sandwich spread.

WHITEHOUSE SANDWICHES
(FIRST PRIZE)

6 slices toast
2 cans condensed cream of chicken soup
1½ cups milk
2 lb. grated onion
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese
½ lb. sliced, cooked chicken
1 4-oz. can whole button mushrooms
½ cup sliced stuffed olives
Grated Parmesan cheese
Parsley

Combine soup, milk and onion. Heat to boiling. Add cheddar cheese, remove from heat. In 4 individual heat-proof dishes place one slice of toast in each, top with chicken, mushrooms and olives. Put slice of toast on top of each. Pour sauce over top, sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Broil until golden (4 minutes). Serve hot, garnished with parsley. Serves 4.

FOX TRAINS

Following individual combat training at Camp Pendleton, Calif., Pvt. David L. Fox has been assigned to basic specialist training school in the Marines. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darius D. Denny, 218 Linda-av, Pataskala.

REUBENS
(SECOND PRIZE)

¾ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup chili sauce
1 tbl. chopped parsley
12 slices rye bread
2 med. tomatoes, sliced
1 pkg. (8 oz.) caraway cheese
2 pkgs. (4 oz. ea.) sliced corned beef
1 can sauerkraut (about 1 lb. can), well drained

Blend mayonnaise, chili sauce and parsley in a small bowl. Spread on each slice of rye bread as sandwiches are made. Layer each sandwich this way: Spread bread, tomato and cheese slices, spread bread, corned beef, sauerkraut and bread, spread side down. Cut each two halves in foil; place each two halves in foil; place on a cookie sheet. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) 20 minutes, or until heated through. Remove from foil. Serve hot. Serves 4.

Mrs. Gerald Strutner
4606 Healy-dr
Columbus, O.

SANDWICH SPREAD
(THIRD PRIZE)

Dried beef, 4 oz.
Cheese, med. sharp or sharp, 4 oz.
Tomato juice, approx. 1 cup

Equal weight amounts of dried beef and cheese. It all "goes far." Tomato juice optional according to how thick or thin you like spread. Original recipe preferred tomato juice strained from canned tomatoes. In a grinder or other type blender, mix dried beef and cheese to fine degree of blending. Add tomato juice to spread according to desire. You can keep adding if this spread dries out in refrigerator. It takes very little of the spread for a tangy sandwich, preferably with thin-sliced bread and some soft butter.

MOLASSES MAGIC PORK CHOPS

6 loin pork chops
Salt
½ tsp. sage
3 large tart apples
2 tbsp. molasses
2 tbsp. flour
2 cups hot water
1 tbsp. vinegar
½ cup seedless raisins

Have chops cut 1" thick; sprinkle with ½ teaspoon sage and salt. Brown well on flat edge, brown on both sides. Arrange in layer in baking dish. Core apples; cut in ½" slices; place on chops. Add molasses. Add flour to fat in skillet. Cook until browned, stirring constantly. Add water. Add vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt and raisins. Pour over chops and apples. Cover; bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., 1 hour, or until apples are tender. Serves 6.

The all purpose credit card

Merchant Progress Report

Starting December 1st, over 100,000 Franklin County residents will be shopping with their City National BankAmericards® . . . will you be on their shopping list?

BankAmericard brings you more and better customers
People with good credit spend more . . . because they have more. We seek them out for you.

BankAmericard builds larger unit sales — and more of them
Studies show that BankAmericard holders command greater buying power. They will form one of the most effective markets in this area.

BankAmericard eliminates credit risks and losses
We do the credit checks. When a cardholder comes to your place of business, you need not worry whether to let him charge the purchase. You just sell him what he wants. It pays you to have your present customers apply for a card.

BankAmericard makes every sale a cash sale
You get cash immediately for every sales draft. Frees your working capital and gives you greater operating efficiency. With cash instead of accounts receivable you can take supplier discounts.

BankAmericard ends collection problems
Collecting overdue accounts is both time consuming and costly. It's a headache you can do without.

BankAmericard means no bills to send
Do away with this costly operation that contributes to nothing but overhead.

BankAmericard lowers operating costs
Eliminates many of the more unproductive details that eat into profits, like forms, stationery, endless paperwork, etc.

Tuna Hero Sandwiches Win For Leslie Creek

Tuna Hero Sandwiches was one of nearly a dozen recipes submitted to the Teen-Age division of The Spectator's Cookbook Contest by Leslye Creek, 128 N. Westgate-av, but it took only that one to win first prize for her.

Runner-up in the category was Janice Ballard, 277 Lear-st, for her Apple Crisp.

Shelley Moore, 2767 Sherwood-rd, took third place with her Surfboard Sandwiches.

LESLYE CREEK

TUNA HERO SANDWICHES

(FIRST PRIZE)

- 1 can tuna (6½ or 7 oz.), chilled
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- 2 tbsp. pickle relish
- 2 tbsp. chopped onion
- ¼ tsp. salt
- Soft butter or margarine
- Mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 2 slices ham or bologna
- 2 slices salami
- 2 slices cheese any variety
- 1 med. tomato, thinly sliced
- 2 long Italian rolls
- Ripe olives (optional)

Mix tuna with the lemon juice, relish, onion and salt. Slice rolls lengthwise and spread with the softened butter or margarine, and then with the mayonnaise or salad dressing. Cover bottom half with tuna mixture, then a slice of ham or bologna, a slice of salami and a slice of cheese. Top with the tomato, and if used, the olives, sliced. Cover with the top half of roll, and fasten together with toothpicks. Serves 2.

APPLE CRISP

(SECOND PRIZE)

- 4 cups of sliced apples
- ¼ cup water
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 cup sugar
- ¾ cup sifted flour
- ⅓ cup soft butter

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Spread sliced apples in 8-inch square pan. Sprinkle with mixture of water, cinnamon and salt. Work together until crumbly, sugar, flour and butter. Spread crumb mixture over apples. Bake uncovered about 40 minutes. Serves 6.

Janice Ballard
277 Lear-st
Columbus, O.

TURKEY 'BURGERS

- 6 unsliced frankfurter buns
- 2 tablespoons table mustard
- 6 green onions
- 6 slices baked or boiled ham
- 6 slices cold roast turkey or chicken
- 6 slices process cheese
- 6 teaspoons catsup

Slice buns, lengthwise, remove some of the upper inner portion of bun, discard or save for crumbs. Place a green onion on cheese, ham and turkey slices. Fold over lengthwise to fit into bun. Repeat for each bun. Top each filled bun with catsup. Broil on cookie sheet under low broiler for 5 minutes. Serves 6.

Mrs. Stalnaker Wins With Tasty Fresh Peach Cobbler

A fresh peach cobbler intrigued the judges and won for Mrs. E. L. Stalnaker, 583 Elizabeth-av, first prize in the dessert division of The Spectator's Cookbook Contest.

Second prize went to Mrs. Eugene Weber, 6516 Malone-dr in Reynoldsburg, for a confection called White Luxury.

Blueberry Buckle, submitted by Mrs. Edna Scanlon, 175 Westview-av, was good for third place.

MRS. STALNAKER

FRESH PEACH COBBLER

(FIRST PRIZE)

3 to 4 c. sliced fresh peaches (frozen ones may be used)
½ to ¾ c. sugar
3 T. quick-cooking tapioca
¾ c. water
2 T. butter, melted
1½ c. sifted flour
2 t. baking powder
½ t. salt
6 T. butter
½ c. milk
1 T. sugar
¼ t. cinnamon
¼ c. slivered toasted almonds

Mix peaches, ½ to ¾ c. sugar, tapioca, water and 2 T. melted butter. Pour into a greased deep baking dish. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut in 6 T. butter. Add milk and toss lightly with a fork until flour is moistened. Turn dough out onto prepared pastry cloth or waxed paper; knead 1 minute. Roll into a rectangle 9 inches long. Brush with extra melted butter. Mix together 1 T. sugar, cinnamon and almonds; sprinkle over dough; roll as for jelly roll and cut in ½-inch slices. Place on top of peaches and bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven 30 to 35 minutes. Serve warm with lemon sauce and whipped cream if desired.

Lemon Sauce

¼ c. sugar
1 T. cornstarch
1 c. water
3 T. lemon juice
Dash of salt
1 t. lemon rind
1 T. butter

Mix together thoroughly the sugar, cornstarch and salt. Stir in water and lemon juice until smooth. Add lemon rind. Stir and cook over moderate heat until thickened and clear. Remove from heat. Add butter and stir until melted. Serve warm. Makes about 1 cup. Serves 6.

Mrs. E. L. Stalnaker
583 Elizabeth-av
Columbus, O.

WHITE LUXURY

(SECOND PRIZE)

3 egg whites
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 cup sugar
1 cup pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla
19 Ritz crackers, crumbled

Beat the egg whites and baking powder until stiff. Add the sugar, pecans, vanilla and crackers. Bake 325 degrees for 30 minutes in a 9-in. well greased pie pan. It may be served with ice cream or whipped cream. Comments: This dessert is very easy to make and is extremely rich. Therefore this dessert serves adequately 6 people.

Mrs. Eugene Weber
6516 Malone-dr
Reynoldsburg, O.

"BLUEBERRY BUCKLE"

(THIRD PRIZE)

¼ cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 beaten egg
1½ teas. baking powder
½ teas. salt
1 cup sifted flour
½ cup milk
2 cups (1 pt. pkg.) frozen blueberries, thawed (If desired, apples, peaches or raspberries may be substituted)

Cream together butter and sugar. Add beaten egg and mix thoroughly. Combine baking powder and salt with sifted flour. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with milk. Pour into a greased 8x8x2-inch pan.

Topping

½ cup sugar
½ cup flour
½ teas. cinnamon
¼ cup butter

Mix sugar flour, cinnamon together. Cut in butter. Scatter over the top of blueberries. Bake 375 degrees about 45 minutes. Serve hot with rich cream. Serves 6.

FIESTA BROCCOLI

(THIRD PRIZE)

2 bunches (about 4 lbs.) broccoli
1 cup sour cream
½ teas. salt
⅛ teas. nutmeg
2 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted

Wash broccoli under cold running water. Cut off large leaves and lower part of stalk. If stalks are more than ½ inch in diameter, make 2 or 4 lengthwise slits almost to flowerets. Cook, covered, in 1 inch of boiling salted water 10 to 15 minutes, until crisp and tender. Meanwhile, combine sour cream, undiluted orange concentrate, salt and nutmeg in small saucepan. Stir over low heat just until hot; do not boil. Drain cooked broccoli. Serve with orange sauce. Serves 8.

Police, Volunteers Plan Annual Halloween Patrol

Columbus Police, auxiliary policemen, civil defense, the Military Affiliated Radio System (MARS) and citizens' band operators will team up Friday and Saturday in a concentrated effort to cut down Halloween vandalism.

Columbus Police Chief Robert Baus said all area groups were asked to encourage youths to go "trick-or-treating" on either Friday or Saturday to avoid celebrating the holiday on Sunday.

Baus credited the volunteer "Halloween Patrol" with a sharp drop in vandalism during last year's celebration and said he anticipated a "safe two-day period with plenty of fun for the children."

Baus praised the Columbus Board of Education and the Columbus Recreation Department for their efforts to cut down vandalism.

MARS and citizens' band operators will provide police and auxiliary policemen with additional communications equipment to report any dangerous situations to a control center in the Police Juvenile Bureau.

Patrol automobiles will be identified by a blue and white "Halloween Patrol" placard in the rear window.

Baus urged all groups of youngsters to travel with an adult on "trick or treat" excursions.

SUKIYAKI

2 T. salad oil
1½ lbs. sirloin steak, cut in 2" by ½" slices
¼ c. sugar
¼ c. soy sauce
¼ c. water
2 med. onions, sliced thin
1 green pepper in strips
1 c. sliced celery
1 4-oz. can bamboo shoots, sliced thin
1 can 8 oz. mushrooms
1 bunch green onions, cut in 1" lengths with tops

Heat oil in skillet. Add meat and brown lightly. Mix sugar, soy sauce and water. Add half of this to the meat. Push meat to one side of pan. Add sliced onion, green pepper and celery. Cook a few minutes. Add remaining soy sauce mixture, bamboo shoots and mushrooms. Cook 3 to 5 minutes. Add green onions and tops. Cook 1 minute. Serves 3.

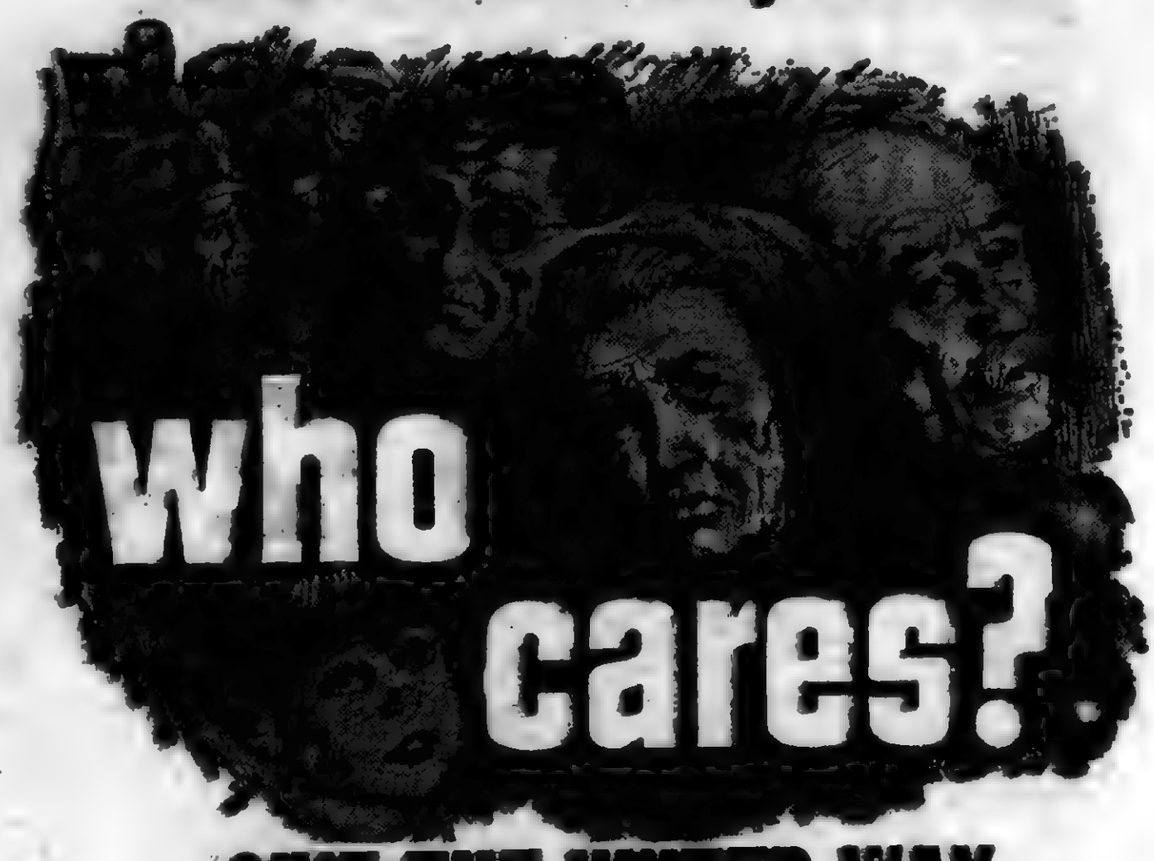
FOUR JUDGED CONTEST

Four Columbus area women prominent in the field of home economics served as judges for The Spectator's Cookbook Contest this year.

Janet Herman of Columbia Gas of Ohio's Home Service Department.



Bertha Everhart of the Franklin County Agricultural Extension Service.

Bernice Ballard, director of the Home Service Department of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

Christine Brehl, assistant director of the Columbus Milk Council.

Each of the judges went through every recipe in several contest categories and picked a grand prize winner, runner-up and second runner-up in each category.

GIVE THE UNITED WAY

Many factors contribute to a child's becoming a delinquent. Thanks to generous United Appeal contributors, there are places like the Ys, the Boys Clubs, neighborhood houses, as well as the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts and the Camp Fire Girls, all helping to provide wholesome recreation and to develop responsible, mature citizens. The United Appeal's 69 health, welfare and recreation agencies directly serve nearly every family in Franklin County. The 1966 UA Campaign opens Oct. 6 and continues through Nov. 3

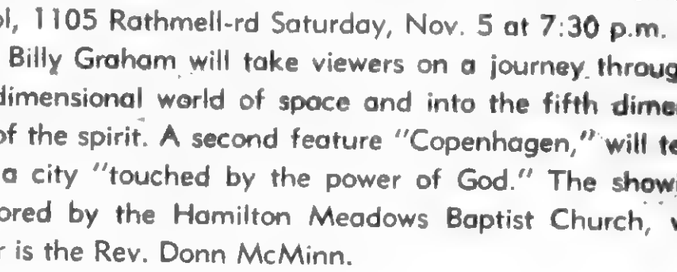
Golden Age Fun Begins

Mrs. Charles Stewart was elected president when the Senior Citizens of the Groveport area held their organizational meeting last week. Other officers include Mrs. Gidd Lambert, vice-president; Mrs. Lloyd Zimmerman, appointed secretary after Mrs. Francis Pontius declined the post and Mrs. Don Carruthers, treasurer. Mrs. Catherine Gilley, director of the Columbus Senior Citizens Center, was on hand to demonstrate what such a group can do. One of the first projects, Mrs. Stewart explained, is to start a "Good Books" library to be housed in the Town Hall. Cards and table games are also being collected to equip the Center. Already boasting about 50 members, the club welcomes anyone who can claim 60 birthdays.

Graham Explores Space



"Man in the 5th Dimension" the film shown at the Billy Graham Pavilion and known as a "must" during the New York World's Fair, will be shown at Hamilton Central Elementary School, 1105 Rathmell-rd Saturday, Nov. 5 at 7:30 p.m. Evangelist Billy Graham will take viewers on a journey through the four-dimensional world of space and into the fifth dimension, that of the spirit. A second feature "Copenhagen," will tell the story a city "touched by the power of God." The showing is sponsored by the Hamilton Meadows Baptist Church, whose pastor is the Rev. Donn McMinn.

Issued Permits

George Call, 101 Delray-rd, has been issued two building permits for frame, brick and stucco dwellings at 4940 and 4960 Parsons-av in Hamilton Township. Contractor for the $15,000 homes is Robert A. Clark & Sons, 2525 Lithopolis-rd, Groveport.

OHIO'S LARGEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, November 2, 1966 274-1155 10 Cents

THERE IS LIGHT

MEMBERS OF THE Builders Class of the Groveport Methodist Church are trading their kitchen know-how to pay for the new lights in the sanctuary as they plan their annual turkey supper. From the left are Mrs. George Claar, ticket chairman; Mrs. Robert Brobst and Mrs. David Seabolt, co-chairmen and (standing) Mrs. Ralph Smith, dining-room chairman. The menu which includes all the trimmings including home-made pies and rolls, will be served from 4:30 to 7 p.m. Saturday. Adult tickets are $1.50 and those for children half-price.

In an effort that every voter will be well-informed when he casts a vote for or against the Canal Winchester Bond Issue next Tuesday, the school board has provided the answers to common questions concerning the proposed construction.

Q. WHAT FACILITIES WILL THE BOND ISSUE PROVIDE?

A. New construction calls for 13 elementary classrooms, two special instruction rooms, a library for grades K-6, a locker-shower room, restrooms with outside access, health clinic, work room and an office and storage area.

Additions to existing building include a new kitchen, enlarging of the multi-purpose room to add dining room area, use of the present industrial arts area as a large study hall and conversion of the present basement cafeteria to industrial arts area.

Q. HOW MUCH WILL THE BOND ISSUE COST?

A. The amount requested is $587,000. The bonds will be retired over a 22-year period at an average rate of 3.5 mills or $3.50 per thousand valuation.

Q. HOW DOES THE CURRENT TAX RATE FOR OUR SCHOOL COMPARE WITH OTHERS IN FRANKLIN COUNTY?

A. Only two districts of the 17 in the county are lower. The rate is 4.62 mills below the average of the 16 other districts.

Q. WHEN WAS THE LAST SUCCESSFUL BOND ISSUE PLACED ON THE BALLOT?

A. July, 1954.

Q. HOW HAS SCHOOL POPULATION INCREASED DURING THIS 12-YEAR PERIOD?

A. School population during this period has grown from 524 to 1,080 pupils, a 106 percent increase.

Q. WHAT PERCENTAGE OF VOTERS MUST APPROVE THE BOND ISSUE?

A. A 50 percent favorable vote is required.

Q. TO WHAT EXTENT IS THE SCHOOL CROWDED?

A. Nineteen K-8 classrooms contain more than 30 pupils. Six elementary classrooms are now located in what will be the junior - senior high school.

Q. WHERE WILL THE NEW SCHOOL BE LOCATED?

A. A wing is planned parallel to and 22 feet south of the present elementary building. It will be of similar size and the same architecture. Money has been earmarked to purchase land adjacent to the site for additional playground area.

Q. WHY SPEND MONEY ON A NEW CAFETERIA?

A. During the current school year 100,000 meals will be served in an area designated totally unfit as a dining room for youngsters. An average of 550 meals a day is served in 90 minutes in the cafeteria with a seating capacity of only 124. Five-hundred more students eat lunch on gym bleachers and in the elementary basement. It is not defensible for a community to operate in this manner indefinitely.

Q. WHAT GRADES WILL USE THE NEW LIBRARY?

A. Grades K-6. This will free the present library for students in grades seven through 12.

Q. WILL ANOTHER OPERATING LEVY BE NECESSARY TO STAFF THE NEW BUILDING?

A. The Board of Education anticipates no additional operating levy. However, the ultimate answer to this question hinges on the amount of state school support, the number of new pupils, property valuation per pupil in the school district and the salaries needed to compete successfully for a competent staff. All these are variables which cannot be determined in advance.

Q. WHEN WILL THE TAX BE LEVIED?

A. The first collection period will start in January of 1968.

Vote Tuesday

"All that is necessary for the forces of evil to win in the world is for enough good men to do nothing."

Those words of Edmund Burke sum up the importance of next Tuesday — Election Day in Ohio.

Tuesday's election is vitally important. Ohio voters will choose their state officials and their representatives for the coming years.

Perhaps you think the incumbents have done well. Your best way of expressing your feelings is to vote for them.

If you are dissatisfied with the present government, your duty is to elect new officials.

"My vote won't count" is a lame excuse for not voting just because you don't have time, or it's raining, or the kids are acting up and you don't want to drag them to the polls.

For surely, if enough good men and women do nothing, the forces of evil shall take over the world.

The Spectator newspapers urge each and every registered voter in Franklin County to exercise their right and duty to vote Tuesday.

Schwarzwalder For Probate Judge

The Spectator Newspapers urge their readers not to overlook a vital contest on the Nov. 8 ballot — the probate judge race.

Seeking election are Probate Judge Richard Metcalf, serving in the post by appointment by the governor rather than by election, and Municipal Judge Alan Schwarzwalder.

It is difficult to impress deeply enough on Franklin County voters the importance of probate court and its vast powers over inherited wealth and intimate family affairs, such as adoption and mental health.

Too often the probate judge's office becomes an immensely valuable political patronage plum, to be sought after furiously and at great expense. This detracts from the inherent dignity of the office.

Judge Schwarzwalder is a mature man who has earned the respect of the community and the trust of the legal profession. He has worn the robes of his high calling with dignity and distinction.

Franklin county voters would be doing themselves and their community a disservice should they fail to elect Alan Schwarzwalder as probate judge.

In Judicial Races

Both incumbent Common Pleas Judges Leonard J. Stern and Myron B. Gessaman deserve re-election and The Spectator Newspapers urge their support.

The Appeals Court race pits incumbent Judge William C. Bryant against a name known and respected in Franklin County, Thomas M. Herbert. Young Herbert is the son of Ohio Supreme Court Judge Paul Herbert and has served capably in the House of Representatives.

Although The Spectator Newspapers tend to support incumbent jurists when there are no overriding considerations, it is felt that Tom Herbert also deserves the consideration of Franklin county voters in his pursuit of a judicial career.

County Offices

Incumbent Republicans, County Commissioner Robert T. Southwick and County Auditor Arch Warren, deserve re-election, in the judgment of The Spectator Newspapers.

Southwick's opponent is Robert L. Johnson who, hopefully, will soon find a place in politics and will bring considerable talent to such a post.

However, as in other contests involving incumbents who have good records of service, The Spectator Newspapers support the re-election of Southwick and Warren.

"Wait! Don't Hang That One——That's The Candidate"

Rhodes For Governor

Governor James A. Rhodes should be re-elected to a second term as chief executive of the State of Ohio.

The Spectator Newspapers position on Rhodes' re-election should not be construed as an endorsement of his current administration.

During his stewardship many facets of state government have been woefully neglected and enlightened citizens have been subjected to a daily diet of drivel from the statehouse that is an affront to their intelligence.

In the governor's defense, it may be that his political reading of the public mood was such that necessary revenues to support state services could not be raised without incurring the electorate's wrath. If so, Governor Rhodes placed politics before the public good, and a muffled press stood mute.

But politics is the art of the possible, and Rhodes plays politics without peer.

The steady ballyhoo and bromides were always aimed at re-election to a second term. These apparently have served their purpose. Rhodes no longer parrots about "no new taxes." Higher taxes are an inevitability. He knows it personally and he admits it privately.

It is only fitting then that Rhodes, who has led the state into a billion dollars of bonded debt without providing an additional penny to pay it off, should face the task in the four years ahead. That he should answer to the school children, the mentally ill, the humans who for four years have wasted away on sub-human standards of welfare.

The "Wonderful World of Ohio" is the misnamed creation of Governor Rhodes and it is his responsibility to meet the needs that lie ahead.

It is with this mandate in mind that The Spectator Newspapers urge his re-election.

To guarantee that the public trust is properly protected during what will necessarily be a "lame duck" administration since state law limits Rhodes to two terms, The Spectator Newspapers urge the election of opposition party candidates Robert E. Sweeney as attorney general and Thomas E. Ferguson as state auditor.

Sweeney has proved to be an able congressman-at-large and Ferguson has had the necessary training for auditor.

Rhodes is entitled to a lieutenant governor of his own political stripe and therefore The Spectator Newspapers endorse for re-election Lt. Governor John Brown. It is further felt that Republican incumbent treasurer John D. Herbert stands far more qualified than his opponent. These newspapers also urge the re-election of Republican Secretary of State Ted W. Brown and incumbent Supreme Court Judges Louis J. Schneider, Jr. and Paul W. Brown.

. . . editorials

For The Legislature

The next session of the Ohio legislature will be a crucial one in the vital fields of state financing, education and the vexating problem of proper reapportionment. Members who fill the seats during the next session will leave their imprint on the state of Ohio, even though many of them may not return.

It is therefore important that the best minds and the best of the veterans be seated during the upcoming session.

With these considerations as a guide, The Spectator Newspapers urge the election of the following candidates, without regard to party:

—In the 15th Senate District, Incumbent Democrat Jerry O'Shaughnessy.

—In the 16th Senate District, Incumbent Republican Robert Shaw.

—In the 17th Senate District, a bright newcomer, Democrat J. Michael Acton.

—In the 58th House district, Incumbent Robert E. Holmes.

—In the 59th House District, Democrat James A. Tressler.

—In the 60th House District, Democrat Robert R. Reed.

—In the 61st House District, Democrat Richard C. Sensenbrenner.

—In the 62nd House District, Republican Robert G. Jones.

—In the 63rd House District, Democrat Phale D. Hale.

—In the 64th House District, Incumbent Republican Keith McNamara.

UA Needs Help

United Appeal needs help.

The 1966 drive is scheduled to close tomorrow and from the looks of the situation the campaign won't reach its $4,815,000 goal by that time.

Last year, the drive was extended 10 days in order to reach the goal. UA officials don't want that to happen again.

As The Spectator has pointed out before, United Appeal provides a way to contribute to 69 health, educational and welfare organizations with just one contribution. All of the causes are worthy.

As of Monday, the big problem was a lack of "new money," provided by increased Fair Share giving and contributions which haven't been donated in previous years.

An increase of seven percent in that area was figured into the ultimate goal. That increase has yet to reach estimated levels.

The Spectator urges any Franklin County resident who has not yet contributed to United Appeal to do so today. The United Appeal office is located at 37 E. State-st.

GOLDWATER

Virtually since it was born, the John Birch Society has been a pain or agony to Republicans and Democrats alike. How one stands on it or whether one condemns it has posed a series of serious problems of party unity when infighting politicians try to exploit the group's controversial status for factional gains.

I have not been and am not among those who agree with the blanket denunciation of this or any other group of people without consideration of individual differences.

This seems an appropriate time — when once again there is factional exploitation of this single organization — to restate my reasons and expressions of great objection to certain actions by certain members of this organization.

When the John Birch Society began, most members publicly identified with it were those almost universally well thought of in the communities in which they live. Their goals seemed thoroughly reasonable: dedication to individual liberty, opposition to collectivism, belief in constitutional order and support of free enterprise and the open market as the best, most productive and most just of economic systems.

Then, along the way, the ranting of the society's founder, Robert Welch, came to light — his accusations against President Eisenhower, his out-of-perspective crusade against Earl Warren and so forth.

I was perhaps the first man in Washington to debunk and deflate Welch's nightmare visions.

It was said that the Birchers were trying to take over the Republican Party. Some said they had done it already. There undoubtedly are Birch members who have tried to seek political influence simply to gain power. I would describe these people as members of the Welch wing of the society.

But there undoubtedly are many, many times more members of the society who are active in both political parties as good and loyal members of the party. Their presence in either party cannot by any stretch of the imagination be called "infiltration" or the Birchers taking over.

I urge that the Birch Society drop its policy of secrecy regarding membership, making it fully public so that people working for either party can know who the Birch members are and then can judge honestly whether they are working for the best interests of the party — in which case they should be welcome members. If they are in politics simply to advance personal power or for other ulterior motives, they should individually be rejected.

Otherwise I am afraid that this most persistent of witch hunts will turn our politics into a perpetual Halloween of smears and frights.

william s. white ★ Nixon On Hot Spot ★

WHITE

Few Republicans in the country — not even those now running for office — have much more to gain or quite so much to lose as does Richard Nixon in the current Congressional election campaign.

For Nixon alone among all G.O.P. national leaders has tied himself inextricably into this struggle. Barnstorming through 30 states in behalf of Congressional and senatorial candidates, and collaterally and persistently presenting himself as the one real partisan adversary of President Johnson, Nixon is truly going for broke.

If the Republican party should make significant gains in Congress in this off-year election, Nixon will be able to present himself as the principal architect of victory. If, on the other hand, the G.O.P. does no better than score the inevitable gains for the out party, his exertions will not have earned him much more than added experience for an old campaigner.

If none of Nixon's potential adversaries for the Presidential nomination of 1968 will gain much from any possible Republican Congressional triumph this year, it is equally true that none will suffer much from any Republican failure. Indeed, a Republican inability to score importantly in Congress would significantly promote the strongest of these latent adversaries, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, simply because Romney would bear little responsibility for what had not happened on the Congressional scene.

Six months ago Nixon plainly had the inside track for the nomination among those conservative-to-ultraconservative rank-and-filers who normally will control any Republican national convention in the end. Romney at that point had going for him only the important but far from decisive backing of the Eastern and more-or-less liberal wing of the G.O.P., as exemplified, say, by Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania.

Now, however, this essential balance is already being somewhat disturbed, in part because objective indicators do not in fact suggest any very heavy Republican Congressional gains and in part because every sign indicates a most impressive personal victory for Governor Romney in Michigan. While the regular and Old Guard Republicans generally would still emotionally prefer Nixon to Romney, some cracks in this monolith are already appearing, since in politics it is notably true that nothing succeeds like success.

For one illustration, there is the case of Republican Mel Laird of Wisconsin, who is perhaps the most authentic spokesman in Congress for orthodox Republicanism. Laird now quietly comments that should Romney win re-election heavily in Michigan, he would have to be very carefully considered for the 1968 Presidential nomination.

Nixon, to be sure, remains the one Republican Presidential aspirant who is consistently and widely campaigning for Republicans generally this year. The party professionals — again, that is, the people who generally run national conventions — will appreciate this. But their appreciation for Nixon's efforts will be markedly diminished if these efforts don't pay off much. That is the way the game is played; and that is why Nixon himself is now plainly showing a sense of fatalism about his own future as he hops from state to state and from campaign stump to campaign stump.

★ Wonderful World of Governor Rhodes ★

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third and last article in a series on the administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes. It was written by Abe Zaidan, editor of the WEFD Commentator, and reprinted from the Oct. 6 issue of The Reporter magazine.)

Although Rhodes has tried hard to create an image of an economic paradise in Ohio, his critics are hammering away at the darker side of the picture. Thus, while Ohio has gained more than three hundred thousand jobs under the Rhodes administration, it still has one of the largest groups of welfare recipients in the nation. Besides, it can be argued that Ohio has merely shared a booming national economy — and it could also share a recession.

Perhaps even more informative is the plight of state services. Ohio is the sixth wealthiest state in the Union. Yet it ranks near the bottom on what it spends for mental health, and its facilities for mental treatment are rated among the nation's poorest. The Columbus "Citizen-Journal," a newspaper that only last January acclaimed Rhodes as the man of the year, recently itemized some less flattering facts: Ohio ranks forty-third in state support for public education, forty-fifth in per capita state funds for higher education (Ohio's students pay more tuition at state universities than students in any other state), fiftieth in state support for child-welfare services (indeed, the state government contributes nothing for child welfare), thirtieth in family relief allowance, and forty-eighth in per capita state funds for aid to the handicapped.

Characteristically, Rhodes largely ignores such criticism, trumpeting instead a long list of capital-improvement expenditures made possible by three bond issues under his administration totaling $1.4 billion. Even this is vulnerable in the long run because, while Ohio may be spending for example, $320 million on college-building construction, not a single cent is available for staffing those buildings, nor is there any certainty about where such funds will come from.

Rhodes' penchant for floating bonds instead of seeking new taxes has been the topic of more than one hot discussion among state economists, some of whom claim that without tax reform in Ohio the state treasury is headed for a day of reckoning. As early as 1962, a thorough study of the state's tax system, sponsored by the Ohio AFL-CIO, Ohio Education Association, Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants and Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, warned that the state was living on borrowed time with an antiquated tax structure. Last May the "Wall Street Journal" pointed out that although Ohio has a three percent sales tax, it is "porous with exemptions," while Indiana, with a two percent sales tax, raises more revenue per capita.

What exasperates Rhodes' critics is that they are unable to establish a dialogue with him. No matter how they approach critical state problems, he parries their thrusts with his "Look, I'm simply trying to find everybody a job" theme. The trouble with this line is that it doesn't account for the many thousands of Ohioans — the aged, the disabled, the mentally ill, the children of problem families — who can't work but need help.

That Rhodes has built such a huge following with so simple a formula must be viewed in the light of two other factors: Ohio's intrinsic conservatism, flavored with ruralistic self-reliance as the solution to man's worst social ills; and a fragmented state Democratic Party, which former Governor DiSalle once described as a "loose confederation of local organizations."

The Ohio Democrats, with a new party chairman and a strikingly handsome young Toledo lawyer — Frazier Reams, Jr.—running against Rhodes this year, show new signs of life. Reams, a state senator with a liberal voting record who is portrayed as being "in the Kennedy image," is wooing the support of statewide interest groups who grumble that they have been shortchanged by the Rhodes administration. He has been working to develop a strong Democratic-labor coalition which has subsisted on nothing more than a nominal relationship in the past.

Reams, however, is confronted with a fundamental predicament. To pay for the many lagging state services, he must necessarily call for new taxes, which isn't the easiest way to win votes from the great mass of Ohioans. At best, it's a precarious political road for Reams in "The Wonderful World of Ohio," where, as Rhodes' slogans remind us, "there are no new or increased taxes" and where "profit is not a dirty word." In fact, most people believe Reams will be sidetracked.

Will You Be A Friend To A Stranger?

As Thanksgiving approaches thousands of Ohio State University students are secure in the knowledge that "Mother's home cooking" is just around the corner.

But to many others, Thanksgiving is only a day made lonelier than usual by the mass holiday exodus from campus.

THESE ARE the international students from far flung corners of the world who are far separated from their native hearth.

This year the United Church Women, the Djocesan Council of Catholic Women and the Council of Jewish Organizations have joined forces in making these students "At home away from home."

Known as the Community International Student Hospitality Committee the group has found "host families" for 500 young men and women who are pursuing studying at Ohio State.

AND THERE are still many "unhomed."

The question is asked "Just what is a host family?"

According to Mrs. Si Sokol, chairman of the group, it is merely "being a friend."

It's rather uncomplicated with no overnight obligations included and the host family simply asked to include their "adopted guest" to share several family functions with them throughout the year.

And those reluctant to become too deeply involved need not fear, as all financial, academic, visa and technical problems are handled at the University and strictly "verboten" at the host level.

WHAT IS GIVEN is the opportunity to establish a rapport with a stranger that is a guest in your country, introduce him to the American home life, help him make the adjustments necessary to a strange envioronment with friendship, practical tips and a sense of belonging.

Mrs. Sokol and the women who have worked effectively this fall to find persons not only willing but eager to participate believe the program of establishing mutual understanding between the students and our mid-Ohio families provides the personal contact which can make or break the international exchange.

AN EFFORT is made to "match" both sides of the new alliance which usually lasts as long as the students are in the United States.

For example, a Battelle chemist and a graduate chemistry student from Pakistan already have a great deal in common and a 19-year-old from Nigeria fits well in a family where teenagers are "old stuff" to Mother and Dad.

Persons who believe they can help achieve the objective of offering friendship to a stranger, leading him to unselves and their friends the derstand the basic elements of our free society and give themopportunity to learn the culture of other peoples, are urged to step forward.

Panel To Discuss Community Health

A panel of physicians, dentists, and mental health experts will discuss "The Community and Its Health Problems" Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Sunday Hall of the First English Lutheran Church, E. Main at 22nd-st.

The forum is sponsored by the Medical Arts Club and is open to the public.

There will be a question and answer period following the panel discussion.

Homebuilders' Chief Says Home Is Good Investment

Ralph Metzger, president of of Greater Columbus, said to the Home Builders Association day "the purchase of a new home today is a wise move."

Metzger said that despite the current "tight money-high interest" situation," a new home is a "solid investment."

"Homes purchased 20 years ago, in most cases, are worth as muc has double their original value," Metzger said. "Yet monthly payments for principal and interest on the home remains the same (except for taxes) as it did when first contracted."

Metzger said an increase of one-half percent in interest rates means only 30 cents added per $1,000 of loan per month. This amounts to $4.50 per month on a $15,000 mortgage.

"Compared with the expected increase in housing costs in the next year," he said, "buyers will probably make a savings by buying now."

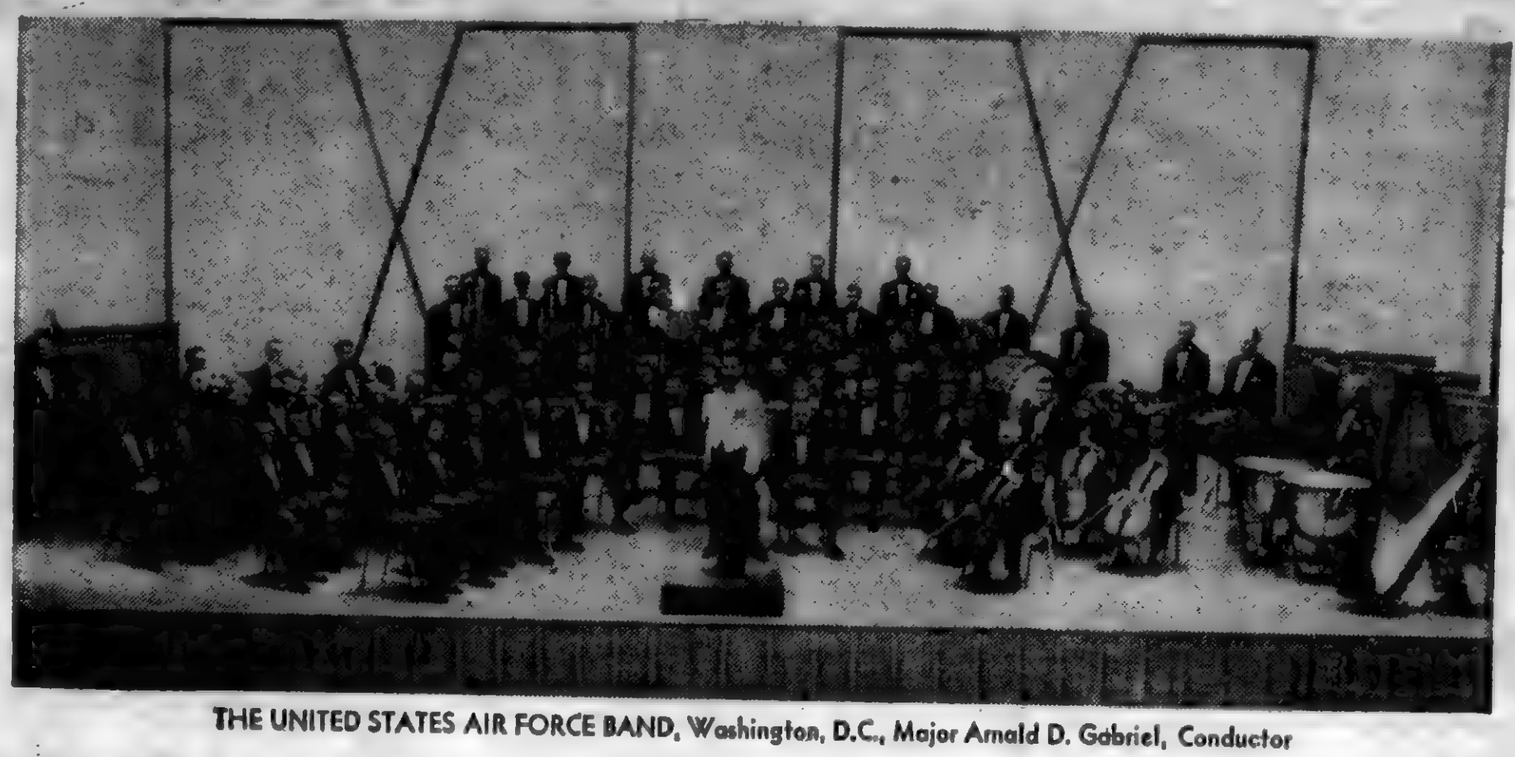
Town Hall Promised Face-Lift

With the Senior Citizens Club off the ground in Groveport, Councilman Pete Franks is plowing ahead with the next step in his effort to provide a recreation center for all ages.

That is the face-lifter of the first floor of the Town Hall made available by the Madison Township Trustees.



AT 1 P.M. the doors of the center at the intersection of Front and Main will be open to anyone who is armed with broom or mop bucket, carpenter hammer and nails or a pair of walking shoes.

Franks explained that the "Operation Clean-up" tops his agenda with the need for door-to-door solicitation for equipment and funds for the center on its heels.

The tools are needed to make minor repairs and to install the ping pong table and slot race track he has inveigled for the center. (Franks is dedicated to filling the need he sees for teenage recreation in the community, although he has yet to gain municipal support for his view).

"THIS TOWN has a $160,000 annual budget and has yet to spend two cents on recreation," he stated, pooh-poohing the stand that the supervision problems inherent with juvenile facilities are insurmountable.

At the moment he is on the search for a good used pool table. He states he'd be delighted if it were donated, but expressed the belief that if no philanthropist steps forth, purchase money will show up — if "the price is right."

Miller Denies Alternate Sites On Tap For C-W Post Office

As election day approaches, opinion is still sharply divided in Canal Winchester on the issue of rezoning to a commercial classification two sites on E. Columbus known as the Bertner and Warner properties.

Opponents to the proposed rezoning appearing on the ballot as issue No. 769 maintain that other suitable locations in the village exist for the new post office which will be built on the site if the voters give the proposal the green light.

HOWEVER, Mayor Mike Miller as chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, states this simply is not so.

"Since the movement for a new post office was in its infancy, we have been unable to find another site that meets the demands of the postal department and is conveniently located," he stressed.

The Postal Department insists on a site that has certain depth and adequate ingress and egress, not only for patrons, but for postal trucks. Furthermore, it has placed a ceiling on the price that it will pay for the site. (It will award a contract for the actual building which will then be leased on a long-term basis. This ceiling is such that interested citizens have pledged a limited sum to make up the difference in the cost of the proposed site and this ceiling.)

ACCORDING TO Miller, an available lot on N. High-st was turned down by the postal officials because of its "L" shape. Similarly, the angled lot just east of the Super Duper on W. Waterloo did not meet with their approval.

He also states that the suggestion that the new post office replace the building now housing the Hunter's Laundrymat (although admittedly involving an ideally convenient site) was financially infeasible and that long-term leases on the property exist.

The mayor indicated that a nix on rezoning for the Columbus street properties will not put an end to the government's plan to build a new post office to service the area.

HOWEVER, with centrally located sites at a premium, he forecasts that a failure of the referendum will mean an outlying facility.

There has been some talk, he says, of a location on Gender Road and also of one north of the railroad tracks on High Street.

E. Columbus Street residents who have led the fight against the rezoning have based their objections on the ground that the area is predominantly a residential one and its character should not be further disturbed.

THE HUNTINGTON National Bank at Columbus and High, the Vorhies insurance building between the bank and the subject property and the Harry Doan building across Columbus Street are the only commercial properties on the block except Johnson's Garage (at the rear of one of the lots) which operates under a nonconforming use permit.

Debate Refusal Shows Contempt, Shamansky Says

Democratic congressional candidate Robert N. Shamansky charged today that his opponent's refusal to debate him "shows contempt for the American tradition of political debate."

As the campaign in the 12th Congressional District headed into its final week, Shamansky again scored Rep. Samuel L. Devine, who has refused several offers of air time and newspaper space to debate.

"It seems to me that my opponent is saying in effect that the public is not capable of deciding the merits of both candidates on the basis of a face-to-face confrontation on the issues," Shamansky said.

"On one hand, he says he has nothing to hide; on the other, he says he doesn't think a debate would be useful. I believe he fears an open debate would search beneath the surface of his patented answers for each critical issue and force him into an embarrassing position of having to defend some of his arbitrary ideas on government — whether it be local, state or national," he said.

Shamansky said it would be "honorable" for Devine to meet him in public debate "and let the public decide whether it had served any useful purpose."

He pointed out that incumbent Democratic Reps. John J. Gilligan of Cincinnati, Thomas L. Ashley of Waterville, Rodney Love of Dayton and Robert Secrest of Cambridge had all agreed to meet their Republican opponents in debate

"But not," he said, "Samuel L. Devine."

LUNCH A MUST

While labels were affixed to some 250,000 envelopes needed to carry the 1966 Christmas Seals and appeal letter into the homes of Columbus and Franklin County residents, these women prepared the box luncheon served to the other volunteers.

Operating Levies Keep Madison Doors Open

What keeps the lights on, the furnaces roaring, the teachers paid and the school supplies rolling into Madison Local Schools?

This is the task of the dollars provided by the operating levies which, day in and day out, "keep the doors open."

A 2.4 levy passed in the early sixties as the Southeast suddenly teemed with children from new subdivisions expires next year.

And according to Superintendent Phil Williams, the $86,000 it provides is an essential part of the budget.

Although the proposed renewal levy of a like 2.4 mills will not go on the tax duplicate until after the older levy expires in the end of 1967, voter approval is being sought this election at the request of the county auditor.

Williams explained this is standard operating procedure to avoid-year-end accounting rush.

A vote for the levy will not increase taxes, but instead only insure the present level of operation can be maintained for the next six years.

Panel Discussion Planned At Moler

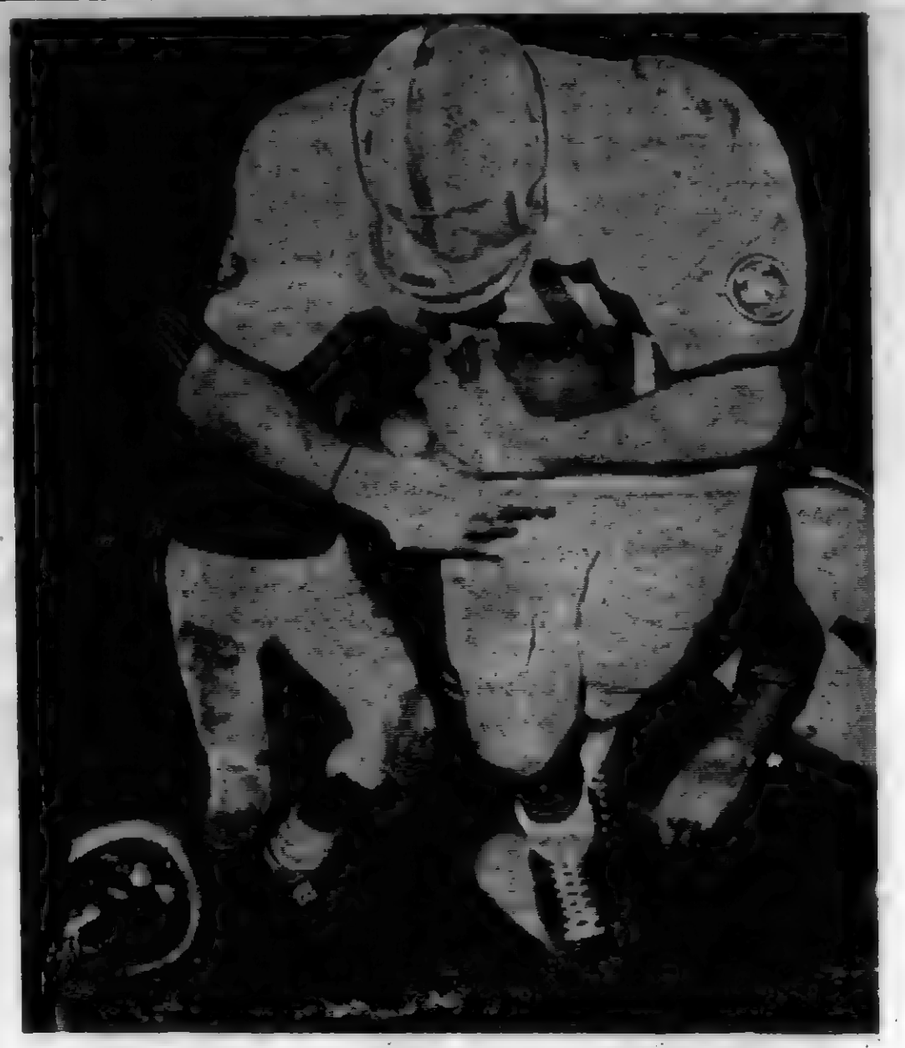
BARACK GOLDEN AGERS CUT HALLOWEEN CAPERS



Halloween fun wasn't limited to totst and teenagers this year.

This was as plain as some of the very large noses on their faces when the members of the Golden Age Club of Barack Recreation Center gathered last week to strut their costumes, trade trick or treats, bob for apples and wash down their donuts with apple cider.

Camera failure (a few venture the opinion the sight was too much for the shutter) prevents sharing a view of the costumes with Spectator readers.

Those "taking the cake" were Mrs. Gertrude Brown, a Spanish cat, judged the prettiest; Mrs. Audrey Fox, the Window Girl, most original and Mrs. Helen Garran, Man in the Gray Flannel Suit, the funniest.

A 100-year family tradition of public service.

UA Collections Behind As Campaign Nears Climax

United Appeal general campaign chairman, Charles T. Wheeler, announced that the amount of "new money" needed to make a campaign victory on Nov. 3 was running behind schedule.

"New money" represents the new gifts and increases over last year's gifts by corporations and individuals. It is the seven percent increase UA must get to reach its over all goal of $4,815,430. This year's total "new money" needed is $314,000.

The UA campaign will be climaxed with a dinner to be held at the Sheraton-Columbus at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday.

The program, which will feature the Capital University Men's Glee Club, will pay tribute to the campaign leadership of General Chairman Wheeler and his vice-chairmen, Richard Heer Oman, Robert H. Snedaker, Jr., C. Gordon Jelliffe and Harold Mirvis.

ACTON

ACTS FOR:

1. EDUCATION: Quality education demands the state restore its support to our schools so the local home-owner is not forced to pay almost the whole cost of our schools.
2. THE ELDERLY: Ohio's citizens over the age of 65 need a "Homestead Exemption Act". With rising property taxes, persons on fixed incomes deserve tax relief on their homes.
3. BUSINESS AND AGRICULTURE: Ohio's personal property tax is unfairly determined and collected. We must revise it to be more equitable to farmers and private businessmen.

X J. MICHAEL ACTON
STATE SENATOR

ACTON, A LAWYER AND TEACHER BY PROFESSION, KNOWS OUR PROBLEMS. AND WHAT'S MORE IMPORTANT, HE HAS THE EDUCATION, SINCERITY AND COURAGE TO ACT ON THESE PROBLEMS.

VIKINGS WRAP UP SEASON FRIDAY VS. WESTFALL

Pride, Cellar At Stake In Finales

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

With the exception of Reynoldsburg (host Circleville next weekend) all area elevens "call it a season" Friday night.

The area's two Mid-Eight entries — Groveport and Gahanna—have more than a little at stake Friday as the Cruisers and Lions ring down the '66 curtain.

GROVEPORT (1-7) needs a win over visiting Marysville and a Gahanna (6-2) victory at Mifflin (1-7) to escape the loop cellar while the Lions will go gunning for a "jug" and something called "pride."

In other area games, Canal Winchester (0-7-1) closes at Berne Union, Teays Valley (2-6) hosts Westfall, Hamilton Township (0-8) journeys to Greenfield McClain and Carroll (3-4-1) visits Fairfield Union.

Bill McCann's Cruisers will be waiting for the Monarchs still battling injuries which "have bugged us all year," according to the Groveport mentor.

BILL HOPES tackle Gary Cook and end Bill Boring (ankles) plus guard Dave Fenstermaker and halfback Ralph Stout (both knocked cold vs. Hilliard Friday, suffering concussions) will be available for the Cruisers' finale.

McCann listed two-way guard Keith Legg and defensive ends Jeff Nelle and Ronnie Miller as top performers in Groveport's 47-7 setback to Hilliard Friday.

Marysville, who has been coming on strong since being bombarded by Hilliard, London and Gahanna in succession earlier this season, operates from a basic straight T although the Monarchs sometimes move into a "shotgun" spread formation when a passing game strikes their fancy.

McCANN LISTS sweeps as Marysville's forte (along with a criss-cross play which sends a back up the middle) but the Cruiser coach adds that the Monarchs possess an effective throwing quarterback who likes the "bomb."

"We've seen films of their games with Gahanna and Westerville and they moved well against both those clubs," McCann concluded.

"We played one whale of a ball game, by far our best of the season, but we just didn't get the five points we needed to win."

SO SPOKE Gahanna' George Troutman of his Lions' 18-14 setback to London Friday—a loss that dropped Gahanna out of the Mid-Eight title room for the first time in three seasons.

Statistics bore out Troutman's statement, showing the Lions up 343 (228 rushing) to 334 (206 rushing) in total yardage.

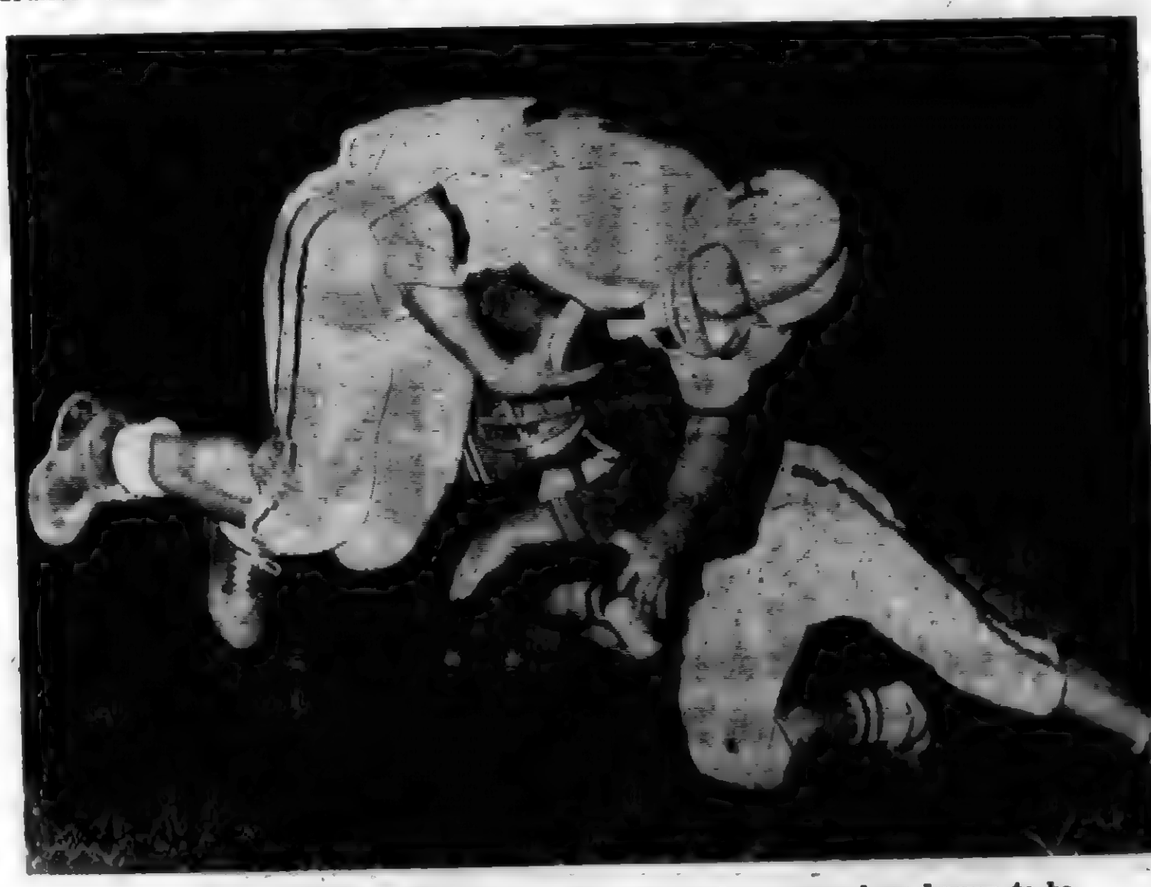
Penalties were costly, however, as Gahanna sustained eight for 78 important yards.

"THEY WERE just a real good ball club," Troutman lamented. "We led them for three quarters but they just kept their guns going.

"But I can't take anything away from our kids. I was really proud of them."

Offensively, Troutman credited fullback Charlie Freeman (149 yards in 16 carries), quarterback Mike Kane (hit four of ten attempts for 115 yds.) and the interior line (guards Mike Hennis and Larry Spann and center Dave Tucker).

THE LION mentor also credited linebackers Ron Goldhardt and Spann and ends Freeman and Al Strickling with "excellent" defensive performances.



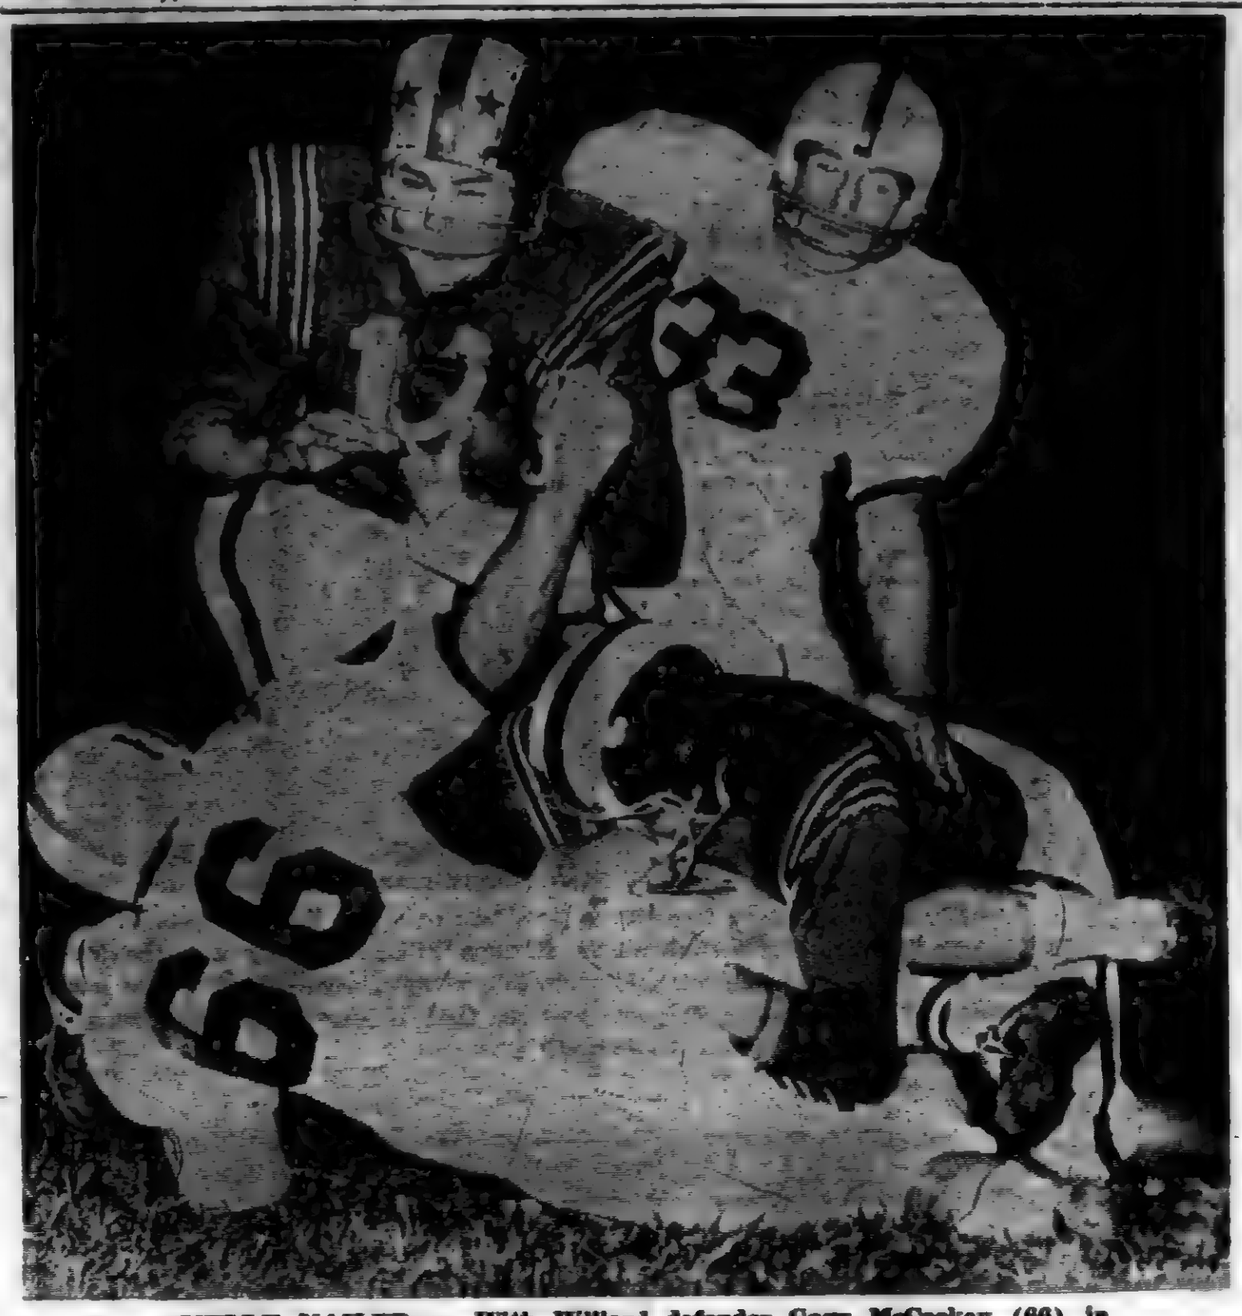
Troutman is worried most about the morale of his club this week but hopes that pride will carry them through.

"They're really low this week," Troutman stated. "They got up so high for London. It'll be a real job coming back."

TROUTMAN doesn't figure the fact that Mifflin won its first game in three years and host "probably the oldest rivalry in the county (Blue Jug) Friday will help matters much."

Toughest test for the Lion defense looks like Cowpuncher halfback Bruce Warren who scored all five Mifflin TDs in Friday's 34-0 homecoming win over Grove City.

The Cowpunchers, who operate from a single wing with an unbalanced line, list the screen pass as one of their favorite offensive weapons.



'CAT UPSET — Hilliard-Groveport games have never been known to be lacking in contact and Friday night's battle was no exception. Above, Cruiser defender Dave Stokes separates Wildcat ball carrier Ron Brewer from terra firma with this hard tackle.

Raiders Have Hand On First Metro Cup

The Metropolitan League's first football crown was given out last Friday night — and three came up to claimit. Reynoldsburg, who handled Teays Valley, 26-6, Pleasant View, with its 49-20 win over Hamilton Township, and Whitehall, with a 32-20 victory over Franklin Heights, each had its hands on the first place prize.

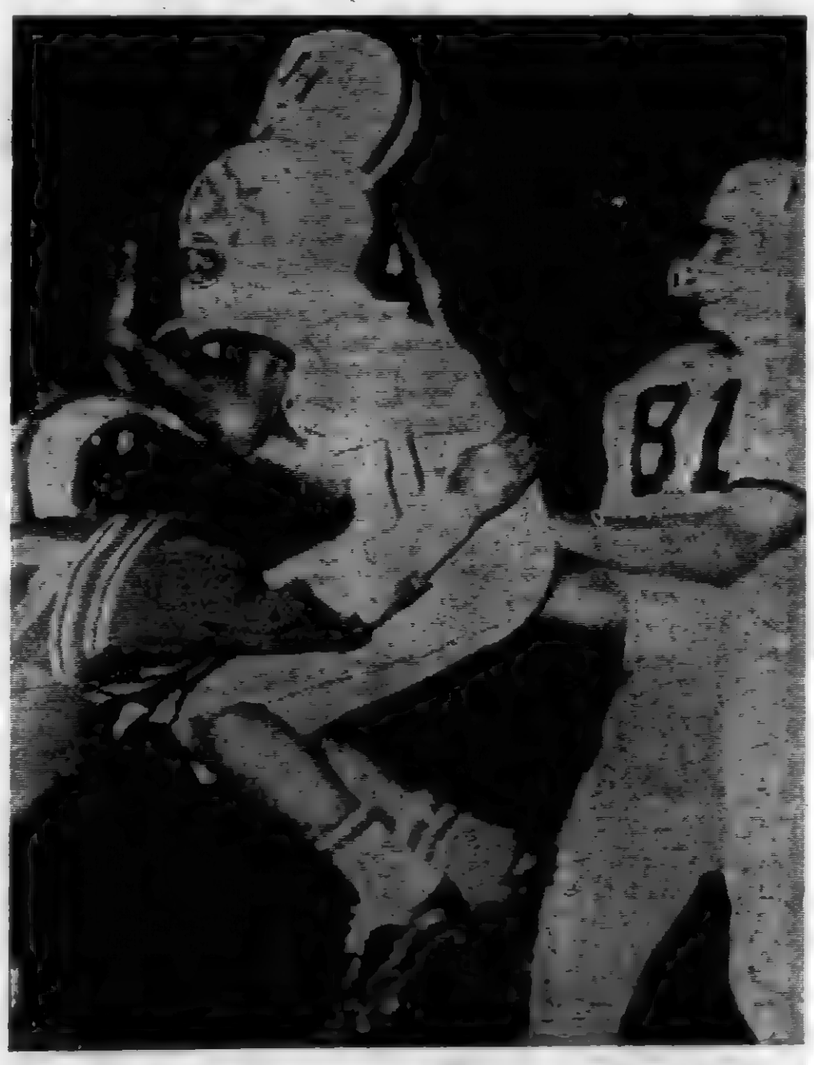
Dick Baserman and Denny Spires counted for touchdowns apiece in Reynoldsburg's ride to the throne room of the Metro League. The Raiders, now 5-3 overall, won the Franklin County League title last year.

IN OTHER league action: Gahanna lost its shot at the title by falling for the second time to London, 18-14. The Lions lost to Hilliard last week, 14-0. Alan Strickling scored both Gahanna TD's.

Hilliard canned Groveport, 45-0, Fairfield Union out-foxed Canal Winchester 57-0 and Carroll downed Liberty Union to round out area action.

Prairie J-C Pin Tourney

Only two more weekends (Nov. 5-6) and Nov. 12-13) remain for area bowlers to compete in the fourth annual Prairie-Lincoln Jaycee Headpin Tourney at Lincoln Village Lanes.



Kegling continues from noon till midnight this Saturday and Sunday with bowlers vying for five top prizes in both men's aand women's divisions.

Top men's prize is $75, while gal keglers will be aiming for $50 top prize. Trophies will also be awarded to top bowlers in both men's and women's divisions and both (boys and girls) junior categories.

All men (190 and under) and women (175 and under) bowlers are eligible to compete.

Lawrence Yates is current men's leader with 109 of a possible 120 score.

KEYS TO METRO TITLE SHARE

BREWER TD—Hilliard back Ron Brewer (center) leaps between Groveport's Dave Stokes and teammate Chuck Boyer (81) to pull in this touchdown pass from Tom Cole Friday during third-period play.

LAFB Wives 'Do' German-Village

WHEN THE CHARTERED bus made its first stop, it was at the home of Mrs. John Stevens, 147 E. Deshler. Pictured here with Mrs. Earl Johnson, left, president of the Officers' Wives, Mrs. Stevens, a tireless supporter of German Village, played hostess to the group, acting as guide until they wound up the day with a late lunch at Deibel's.

ONE OF THE most impressive sites visited when the members of the Lockbourne Officers Wives Club toured German Village recently was the century-old St. Mary's Church with its towering steeple, deep-voiced organ and beautiful altar. The day-long program was the first of a series of trips planned by the women in "Excursions Unlimited."

WHEN Mrs. William J. Koward visited the old-fashioned store at the German Village Bazaar, the balls of fruit-scented shower soap got the stamp of approval from her olfactory inspection.

THE STUDIO of Ivan P. "Lefty" Pusecker proved an intriguing stop for the visitors, some of whom immediately decided he was exactly the artist to do portraits of their children. On his doorstep are, from the left, Mrs. W. H. Champion, LAFB, and Mrs. W. J. Weinheimer of Reynoldsburg.

Browsing in one of the antique shops at the Bazaar was Mrs. Thomas Doonan who, like most of the officers' wives on tour Thursday, lives on the Base.

FOUND TO BE especially interesting to Mrs. Carl L. Holcomb, 7666 Brandywine-dr, was the wood sculpture displayed in Marvin Tischler's shop in the Bazaar. Stops not pictured were made at Isaly's Cheese Shop, the German Village Society office, Marny's Flowers and several homes in various stages of restoration.

A NEW HOUSE OF WORSHIP IN GROVEPORT

THE REV. DR. GERHOLD Doermann, professor at Capital University Theological Seminary, will speak when the Groveport Zion Lutheran Church is dedicated at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. Open house will be held from 2 until 4 p.m. and a congregational dinner is planned at 6 p.m. with the Rev. Dr. Ronald Hals, professor of the Old Testament at the Lutheran Seminary in Bexley, as the banquet speaker. The structure, just west of Groveport Pike, consists of 16 classrooms, a lounge, nursery, choir room, kitchen and utility rooms. NO LOCAL PROTESTS . . . YET

Experts Explain Food Cost Hikes

By NANCY LOGUE
Spectator Staff Writer

Somewhere between the meat departments and the checkout counters of our nation's chain food stores, housewives have become fed up with rising food prices.

Their protests are taking form in picket lines, decreases in purchasing and changes in buying habits. And, in some cases, these "petticoat picketers" have been the victors by forcing supermarkets to lower their prices.

In Columbus, however, although one can occasionally hear muttering about the rising food costs between the supermarket aisles, no one has yet declared an open war against the chain food stores.

Tom McNutt, county agent for the Ohio State Agricultural Extension Service, said that the price increases can be attributed to high labor costs, poor weather conditions in 1966 which affected crop production, reductions in food reserves and to consumer demands.

"What people fail to realize is that their own demand for convenience products has caused food prices to climb. They seem to want more food that takes less time to prepare for less money," McNutt said.

"Food is really a bargain now. During the years of 1957-59, consumers had to put in 40½ hours of labor to buy a month's supply of food for a family of four. Today, all that is needed is 35 hours.

"Another reason for the increase in the weekly food bill can be attributed to the purchasing of non-food items like soap, floor wax and paper products and including these purchases in the total food bill," McNutt said.

Karl Kahlor, executive assistant of the Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants, said that consumers are more aware of the rise in food prices because of the frequency with which they shop for food and the fact that food for the family is a major item in the household budget.

"The price of food has increased but not as fast as the prices of all goods and services according to the Department of Labor Consumer Price Index," Kahlor said.

"The average family today spends about 18 percent of after-tax income on food — the lowest in the world and the lowest in the history of our country. In 1947, it took 26 percent of income to buy food and 20 percent of income as recently as 1960."

Kahlor explained that the bulk of food retailing is done by supermarket operators who get merchandise in quantity and move it directly to the retail store.

These retailers, who are now experiencing the wrath of the housewives, have profits among the lowest of any major U. S. industry—only one to one and a half cents of profit out of every food dollar spent.

Still, housewives think that the supermarkets can do-away wth the "extras" like stamps and prize give-a-ways in order to cut down the expenses of the food products.

"The theory behind the stamps is that it will increase the volume of sales enough that it won't up the price of the goods. My only advice is for the consumer to redeem those stamps," said Kahlor.

He said that the consumer can get the most for her food dollar by watching the supermarket ads for good buys and by carefully comparing prices and sizes between competing brands.

"Substitution of one vegetable or fruit for another which is more favorably priced can stretch the food dollar.

"Consumers' desire for more prepared foods and continuing inflation will add to food costs. The addition of national programs and goals that add government costs will likely raise the cost of doing business," Kahlor said.

Kahlor's theories are apparently being taken at face values by Columbus housewives—so far.

But it may be just a matter of time before they start taking the lead from their sisters in other areas of the state and the nation.

Women No Longer Supplementary To Labor Force—Mary Keyserling

Twenty-eight million women between the ages of 18 and 64 are working in the United States.

This is twice the number that was employed at the end of World War II and Mrs. Mary D. Keyserling delved into the reasons at a recent breakfast.

If anyone has the answers, she should—as the director of the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

ACCORDING to Mrs. Keyserling the answer is twofold.

First, and perhaps the most important factor is that women are no longer a supplement to the labor force but an integral part of it in a world which needs "the talents of everyone."

Secondary in importance is the fact that women are willing to accept the new role because they want the income, they want to show their skills, and they gain a great deal of satisfaction from using their "brains, their heads and their hearts."

SCOFFING at the idea that women are not actually breadwinners and are taking jobs away from men who are, she pointed out that eight million of the women working today are single and that another six million are divorced, separated or widowed.

Furthermore, of the remaining wives, one-fourth of their husbands are non-earners or boast incomes of less than $3,000 annually and another quarter of the husbands are making less than $5,000, little more than a subsistence level for a family.

Mrs. Keyserling sees more fields open to women yearly, but concedes that there is still a great deal to be done to improve women's salary levels.

SHE LAMENTS that more women do not seek elective office, pointing out that only three percent of the nation's legislators (regardless of level) are women.

She has the highest praise for the last two administrations which have made a pointed effort to seek out women with needed talents and skills and put them in government job positions paying over $11,000 a year.

One of the more interesting statistics she reported was that roughly 80 percent of the women over 40, with five or more years of education beyond the high school level, are employed, compared to only 60 percent of women with only a bachelor's degree.

THE ECONOMIST touched lightly on the report due to be completed by the first of the year on the attitude toward subjecting the fairer sex to the draft.

Women are represented in this study group, and Mrs. Keyserling indicated preliminary reports show that the women themselves are the chief supporters of the idea.

Grove City Man In Viet Nam 'Destroy Sweep'

Seaman Hospital Corpsman Second Class William Howard Feyl, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Feyl, 290 Midland-st, Grove City, participated in Operation Deckhouse III, a marine battalion landing, near Binh Tuy, Viet Nam.

The operation was a massive "search-and-destroy" sweep, launched by landing craft and helicopters from the ships of the Seventh Fleet's Amphibious Ready Group.

During the operation, the team found enemy complexes containing more than 400 bunkers and tunnels where supplies of rice, medical provisions, weapons, clothing and other equipment were found.

Although contact with the enemy was generally light, the destruction of these complexes and supplies dealt the enemy a damaging blow.

Shamansky For Congress

Voters of the 12th Congressional District are urged by The Spectator Newspapers to cast their votes on Nov. 8 for Robert Shamansky for Congress.

A congressman should represent his district. He should reflect the thinking of his constituents, be sympathetic to the needs of all his constituents and provide a ready and effective contact in Washington for those constituents.

The incumbent 12th District congressman, Samuel Devine, does not represent the 12th District. His congressional voting record is that of a rural Southerner, not an urban Northerner.

Columbus city officials and private businessmen alike have found Devine ineffective. Franklin County has been virtually without a voice in Congress.

Eastern Franklin County has problems far more acute than those facing the Western portion of the county. In the East there are urgent problems which need urgent action. Shamansky has displayed an awareness of these problems and a willingness to face them. Devine pretends they don't exist.

Shamansky is a successful attorney, a responsible businessman and a man deeply interested in public service. He deserves a chance to give the 12th District the kind of representation it so critically needs.

The Spectator Newspapers endorse Shamansky without any reservations and challenge the 12th District to make itself heard in this most vital contest.

T-B Society Gives Tests; Spohn Heads Seal Drive

Nearly 25,000 first, seventh and eleventh grade students in the Columbus Public Schools began receiving free tuberculin skin tests administered by the Tuberculosis Society of Franklin County yesterday.

By request of the school board, the tests are being given on a mandatory basis. Parents and guardians have been notified of testing and reading dates.

A small amount of harmless tuberculin fluid is injected beneath the first two layers of skin on the forearm of each student. If the test is positive, a chest X-ray will be given to determine if T-B is actually present.

The yearly skin testing service is made possible through contributions to the Christmas Seal campaign.

The society also announced that Charles L. Spohn, associate professor of music and director of the famed Ohio State University Marching Band, will serve as chairman of the 1966 Christmas Seal campaign.

Lions Find Cold Cider Hot Item

It was no surprise when receipts climbed close to $2,500 at the annual auction held by the Canal Winchester Lions Club last weekend, but the going price of cider was an eye-opener.

With apple juice as scarce as apples this year, the jugs sold as if they were Calvados, with prices ranging up to $3.10 a gallon.

ACCORDING to Bob Reinhard, Lion treasurer, more than 1,000 persons came either to dine royally or bid as if money were going out of style at the sale, manned by a battery of volunteer auctioneers, that lasted till midnight.

Among the community projects to which part of the money raised will be put is that of erecting large community signs to the west and east of the village on new 33.

The annual event, chaired by Bill Weiser and Bill Spires with Paul Mausser and Ken Hoover dinner chairmen, attracted the usual number of political hopefuls. Spotted were Mike Acton, Robert Reed, Judges Leonard Stern and Alan Schwarzwalder, Arch Warren, Roger Tracy, Robert Johnson, Paul Thompson, Bill Bryant and Edward Heffernan.

SEVERAL CANDIDATES such as bill Saxbe, who couldn't make it, sent either representatives or merchandise for the sale.

Strangers Meet In The Inner City

IT HAD been years since Mrs. Marietta Robinson had thrown her hand to pumpkin carving, but she found her old skill had not deserted her.

Every Wednesday morning women from several suburban Christian Churches of Columbus head for the Bethany Christian Church, deep in the inner city.

Here they meet with several dozen women who call the Wilson-Fulton Avenue neighborhood home.

One might think this an unlikely union, but a morning spent at the "Homemaker's Exchange" dispells the idea that never the suburban and the inner city shall meet.

AT FIRST GLANCE it might seem they are spending the time exchanging recipes, working together on a pattern or trading skills.

But according to the Rev. William Hansen, pastor of Bethany, who originally saw the need for the program, the dresses, the recipes, the crafts are but tools.

He explained, "These are the tools by which the product—'creative fellowship'—is created."

DESCRIBING THIS fellowship as one with which people come to see and think of others in a new way, he added, "Thrown together in this manner, they learn to look upon one another as individuals, each in his own image rather than one they have created for that person."

He doesn't deny that at first the community was leery of the women from churches such as the Broad Street, the Northwest, the Southeast and Hilltop Christian Churches.

He takes it for granted that many immediately said to themselves, "Here come another bunch of do-gooders."

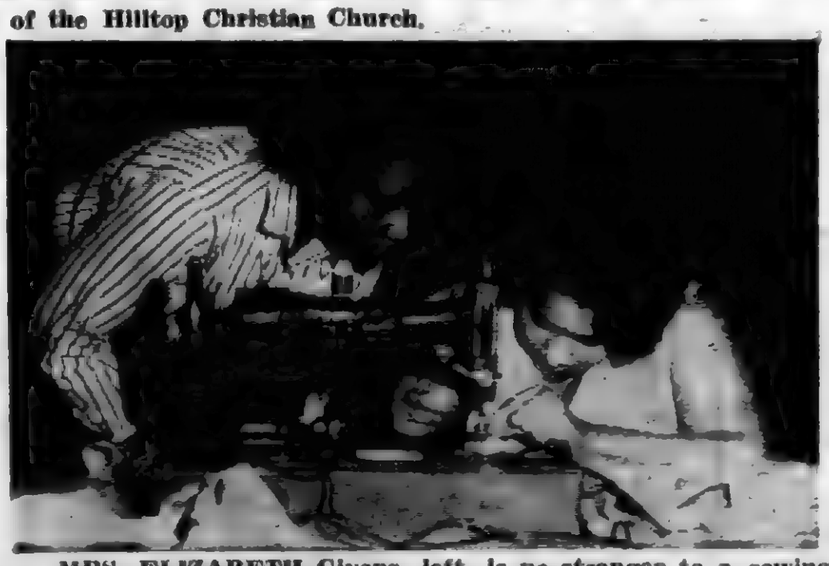
BUT DURING the past year as the program has stepped from its infancy the leeriness and distrust are melting away.

Smilingly he said, "It's not quite so easy to distrust a woman whom you've learned had just as big a fight with her husband the night before as you did."

VISITORS are welcome, and, of course it is hoped that some of these visitors will go only to return.

A bulletin describes the work being done as a "ministry of reconciliation."

A simpler way of saying it is that "Love Thy Neighbor" is not an empty phrase among these women—regardless of which side of the fence they have dwelled.



WHENEVER there are cooks around, you'll find that someone gets stuck with the bottle washing. In this case it was the Rev. John Bean of the Northwest Christian Church, and Mrs. Gladys Viney from Detroit who is in Columbus visiting friends and relative.

THE YOUNG mothers don't worry about their babies while they take part in the activities at the Homemaker's Exchange. They know, that only an earshot away, little ones from nursery age up are either tenderly cared for or entertained. Above, one of the wee ones is shown with Mrs. Hayes Kilgore, 199 N. Murray Hill, of the Hilltop Christian Church.

LIFE WAS RATHER humdrum for Mrs. Amy Freeman, center, 540 Wilson, before the Bethany Christian Church-based program began. She sat all alone all day while the "young folks" were at work. Now, at least one day a week, the pace steps up as she sits and rocks as usual, but with the company of Mrs. Harry M. Cronin, left, 2565 Eastcleft-dr, Northwest Church member who is considered a guiding light of the project, and Mrs. Gloria Holland, 737 Wilson-av.

MRS. ELIZABETH Givens, left, is no stranger to a sewing machine, and she found it a pleasure to give Miss Theresa Smith, 621 Oakwood-st, a few tips on its operation. However, Mrs. Givens couldn't resist teasing Miss Smith about the fact that she first had to master the technique of threading it.

Conceded by her companion Mrs. Marilyn Hollan, left, 318 E. Barthman, to "crechet beautifully," Mrs. Aleeb Rogers, 891 E. Fulton, works on a shell while Marilyn (currently a "beginner" from the word "go") struggles with an elementary stitch.

IT'S TURKEY TIME

The opportunity for a "trial run" before the traditional Thanksgiving feast is being offered their community by the Christian Women's Fellowship of the Benfield Avenue Christian Church. They will serve a turkey dinner between 5:30 and 7 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 10. Donations are 75 cents for children 12 and under and $1.35 for adults.

And So It Grows

Moth balls (naphthalene crystals placed around newly planted tulip bulbs will prevent mice and mole damage.

Tulip bulbs can be planted until mid-December in Ohio, but late October to November is better. Ones planted late need to be mulched. Place bulbs six to 10 inches deep, using the deeper settings only if the soil is light. Choose a planting spot where the soil is loose and well-drained.

The 1967 All-America Award winning roses include Lucky Lady, Roman Holiday, Gay Princess, and Bewitched. Lucky Lady is a grandiflora with classic, urn-shaped buds that are long and tapering and open into light pink flowers. It actually is a bi-color because the backs of the petals are a much deeper pink.

Roman Holiday is a showy floribunda in an orange-scarlet color with an elusive tea fragrance. Also a floribunda, Gay Princess has tea rose sized blossoms on a bushy floribunda type plant. It has soft creamy shrimp-pink blooms. Bewitched is a true hybrid tea rose with large flowered, bright clear phlox-pink flowers that are fringed and have tall, strong stems.

Most of these roses will be available this fall and next spring in catalogues and supply centers.

By punching pin holes in each end of small, hard-shelled gourds they'll dry out so you can keep them for decorative purposes all winter. If left alone colors will fade but you could shellac or paint and decorate them.

Five Sisters Celebrate

Four sisters and their families recently gathered to observe the 80th birthday of the fifth sister, Mrs. Nathan Stern, 1268 S. High-st.

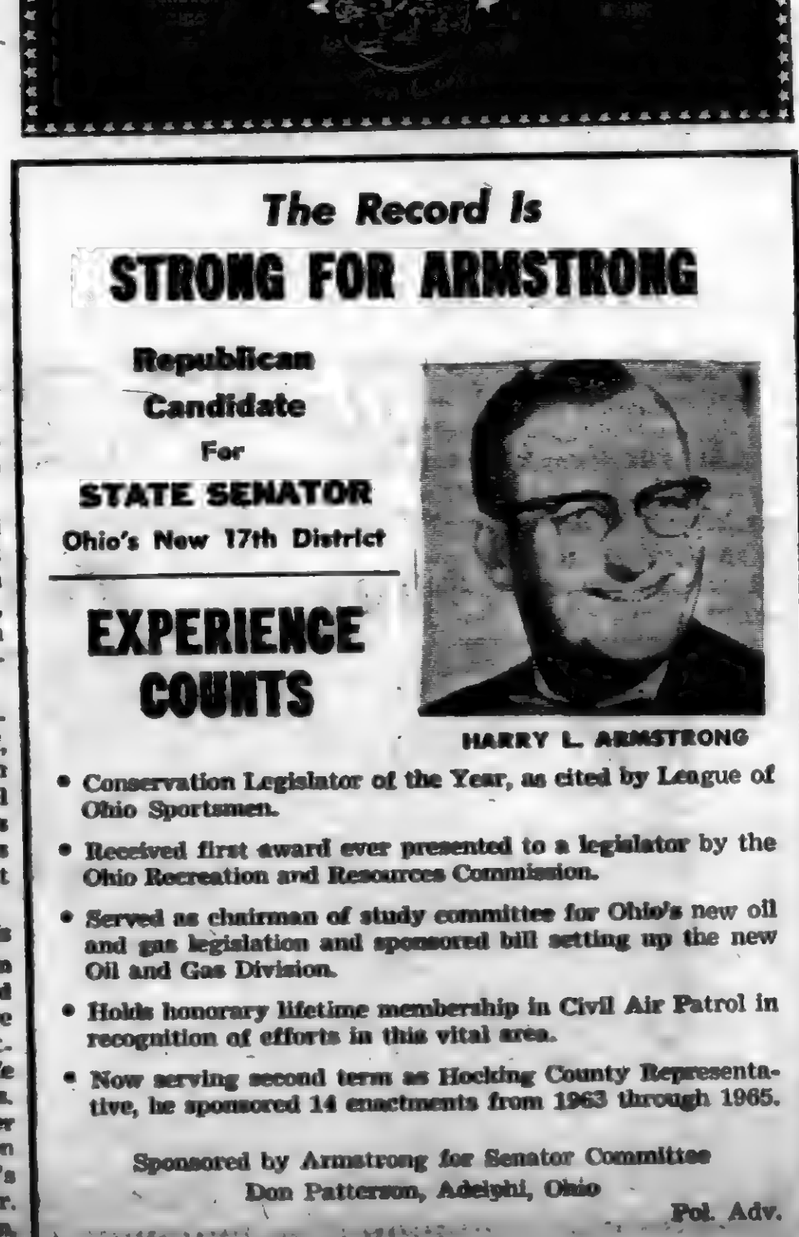
The "girls" are all daughters of the late Maj. and Mrs. Charles Becht who came to Columbus from Cincinnati 60 years ago.

The family dinner followed by an open house, was held at the home of Mrs. McClellan Flanagan, 100 Hemswell-ct, with Mrs. Wayne I. Wilson of Cambridge acting as cohostess.

The other two sisters present were Mrs. Porter Metcalf, who shares an apartment with Mrs. Stern, and Mrs. Paul Stoebe of New York who was host to the other four sisters at her 80th birthday party last year.

Guests included Mrs. Stoebe's son Laurence of Yorktown Heights, N.Y., and his wife and daughter, Mrs. August Gnerre of Mt. Vernon, N.Y.; Mrs. Metcalf's son Carl and his wife and children of Columbus; Mrs. Flanagan's husband and her daughter Mrs. Joseph D. Cohen of Bexley and Mr. Flanagan's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. McClellan Flanagan, Jr., of Wintersville, Fla.

Mrs. Backus Will Preside



Mrs. Wilmajean Backus will preside over the meeting of the Southway Unit 144, American Legion Auxiliary Friday, 8 p.m., at the Post Home, 874 S. High-st.

Members are asked to pay their 1967 dues to the membership chairman, Mrs. Blanche Klein, 3801 Alum Creek-dr, before the annual roll call of membership Nov. 10.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting by Mrs. Alma Hahn and her committee.

Columbus USO Active

By KATHY MASON

A lot of people don't know it, but Columbus has a United Service Organization (USO) performing a fistful of duties to make life a little easier for servicemen in the area.

Their most recent project is staffing the USO lounge at Port Columbus. USO workers say it's a place where the 70 to 80 inductees who leave daily can pass time.

Some of these servicemen are greeted by "Wish You Well Groups" armed with "goodie bags." It's the hope of the USO to interest enough groups —ladies' clubs, church groups, etc.—to have volunteers there every day. As it is they make it only a few evenings.

The USO contends the boys really appreciate a send-off by area volunteers. Since Fort Hayes is the induction center for all of central and southern Ohio, many of the boys' families and friends can't be on hand. "It means a lot to them to know people of the area are aware they're leaving," a USO worker said.

That's just one need of the USO. They're also looking for senior volunteers who chaperone and supervise USO social functions. The USO feels "The quality of service rendered by senior volunteers sets the tone of the entire USO operation."

USO leaders are hoping that relatives of armed forces personnel will be interested in being senior volunteers. There is a special need for men in this area.

The major activity of the local USO is the weekly dance at Lockbourne Air Force base. About 90 junior volunteers are transported to the dance where they serve as dance partners and hostesses for base personnel. The USO wants to raise the number to 100.

A USO spokesman said about 300 servicemen attend each dance.

Junior volunteers participate in other activities too. They have a glee club and drill team. A special project this month will be two one-act plays presented the evenings of Oct. 27 and 2 Sat Lockbourne.

To become a senior or junior volunteer, the applicant must have three good references, be interviewed and attend orientation. Junior volunteers are then required to sign a statement saying that they will adher to the USO rules.

The USO's job is many times the role of the go-between. Workers contact businesses and organizations to arrange special facilities for servicemen.

Special rates and free tickets were arranged for Jet baseball games, Scioto Downs, the Ohio State Fair, the municipal golf courses, Playhouse on the Green, the Lady Carling Open and Ohio State football games.

The USO also acts as an information office for servicemen passing through or stationed in the area. The most frequent questions deal with what Columbus has to offer in the entertainment sphere.

It seems many of the USO's aspirations are founded on hope. The USO is financed by voluntary contributions and allotments from the local United Appeals campaign.

Due to the escalation of the Viet Nam war and the subsequent increase of armed services, funds have been depleted. There is no money for rent, salaries or even postage stamps.

However, Mrs. Jean Elin, program director, says USO facilities will remain open.

Brown To Visit City This Week

Ohio's Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, will visit Reynoldsburg Friday.

He will make a tour of the business district to meet and talk with the citizens and businessmen of the community.

Accompanying Brown will be Harry L. Armstrong, Republican Senatorial candidate from the 17th District, and Roger W. Tracy, Jr., Republican candidate for the Ohio House of Representatives from the 60th District.

Brown, Armstrong and Tracy will also be guests at a coffee hour at 10:30 a.m. in the Ohio Federal Building. This is being sponsored by the Reynoldsburg Republican Club and the Reynoldsburg Republican Women's Club. All citizens of Reynoldsburg are cordially invited to come for the coffee hour Friday at 10:30 a.m.

WIG SHOW PLANNED

A wig show and a cosmetic demonstration will be given at the monthly meeting of Christ the King Parish Council of Catholic Women to be held Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. in the school hall. All ladies of the parish are invited to attend.

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

Friday, the National Repertory Theatre opened with Noel Coward's series of three one acts entitled, "Tonight at 8:30."

From 8:30 on, theater at its best took place. Each of the plays has its own tasteful story line, with each creating its own distinctive mood.

The first, "Ways and Means," directed by Nina Foch, related to the story of an upper-class married couple's problem of no money. Through various "ways" the "means" are provided with the situation lending itself to comedy.

At 9:30 p.m. the curtain goes up on "Still Life," directed by Jack Sydow. A complete set of dreariness and drabness takes the audience to a train station restaurant. A love affair develops in three different couples with one being the story line. A married doctor and a housewife meet, fall in love and, after some beautiful speeches and actions—part.

Last comes "Fumed Oak," the best of the evening as directed by G. Wood. From curtain time on, one enjoys every portrayal. This play concerns a family consisting of three domineering women and one meek head of the house. After a few drinks he arrives home and from then on is no longer meek. The ending comes too soon as he leaves with suitcase. The man, Henry Gow, is professionally portrayed by Geoff Garland. His performance will long be remembered. The three women, his wife, daughter and mother-in-law, are portrayed with a magic touch of theater at its best.

The ending indeed comes too soon. The scenery and costumes possess such complete beauty that a memory of sheer involvement in each play leaves the audience basking in memories of 1927, 1937 and 1947.

The Repertory will again produce "Tonight at 8:30" on Nov. 5 and 11. Also included in their three week stay are presentations of "A Touch Of The Poet," Nov. 4, and "The Imaginary Invalid" on Nov. 12. For tickets phone the Hartman at 224-9412.

Mimmi Fulmer To Perform At Capital University

Mimmi Fulmer will present her fourth piano recital at 8 p.m Nov. 11 in Tuicio room of Mees hall on the campus of Capital University. Miss Fulmer is a member of the junior department of music at Capital University. Mimmi is a student of Loy Kohler and, as a ninth grader, attends Eastmoor Junior High School. The program will include: French Suite in B Minor, Bach; Sonata Op. 27 No. 2, Beethoven; Impromptu Op. 90 No. 2, Schubert; Minstrels, Debussy, and Rondo Capriccioso and Concerto in M Minor, Allegro, Mendelssohn.

Balthaser Has Lead In 'Guys And Dolls'

SKIP BALTHASER

Skip Balthaser will play the leading role of Sky Masterson when the Independent Players present the musical "Guys and Dolls" at Veterans Memorial Nov. 18 and 19.

Skip has appeared in 17 previous Independent Players' productions. He has had leads in "Brigadoon" and "The Most Happy Fella." He has also appeared at Players Club and Stadium Theatre.

Other leading roles in "Guys and Dolls" will be played by Fred Luper, Dick Melfi, Linda Nichols and Annette Plasterer.

The directors for the show are: stage director, Bob Stegmiller; musical director, Paul Morris; assistant musical director, Frank Cory and choreographer, Brenda Fleer.

Tickets for the production are available from all club members and by calling 262-8709.

Town & Country: Still Growing

T&C Gets New Managers

Seven new managers have taken over the reins at seven stores in the growing Town and Country Shopping Center.

Town and Country's newest unit, Town and Country Cinema, is managed by Lew Michael, a Canton, O., native who came to Columbus from Buffalo, N.Y., where he managed another General Cinema Theater.

Michael, a Kent State graduate, was with Loew's Theaters for eight years, with two years spent in the Army. He is a bachelor.

Promoted from assistant manager of the Northland Holiday Shoes store to manager of the Town and Country store is Larry L. Burns, a Decatur, Ill., native who has been with Holiday-Flagg Shoes for less than two years.

He and his wife, Melba Jeann, live with their son and daughter at 3082 Bellwood-ct.

The newly-remodeled Schiff Shoe Store at T&C is now managed by James Wharton, 3735 Ferman-rd, where he lives with his wife and two children.

Wharton was a student in Distributive Education at Central High School, where he graduated in 1961. He began work at Schiff's in Graceland, serving as assistant manager there, then manager of the Great Southern store before succeeding Leonard Temple as Town and Country manager.

Temple, a 28-year veteran with Schiff's, has been promoted to district manager for five Columbus Schiff stores.

Another Central High graduate, Temple lives with his wife and daughter at 1268 Striebel-rd.

Twenty-two-year-old Marvin Luckett succeeds Don Kobel as manager of the Majestic Paint Center at Town and Country. Kobel has been promoted to art buyer and merchandising director for Majestic Paint, working out of the T&C store.

Luckett, a DECA student at Whitehall - Yearling High School in his scholastic days, lives with his wife, Jeanne, at 42 Scenic-dr. He has just been elected secretary - treasurer of the Town and Country Business Association.

Another newcomer to the Town and Country scene is Edwin N. Hart, new manager of the Liberty Loan Corp. office at 54 Town-rd.

Hart, a Circleville resident who commutes daily to Columbus, is married and the father of two boys.

Assuming the duties as manager of the Town and Country Big Bear Store is Jim Farber, formerly manager of the Big Bear store in Berwick Plaza.

Farber brings 10 years of experience with Big Bear to Town and Country. A 1949 Central High School graduate, he lives with his wife, Ruth Ann, and daughter, Michelle, at 5636 N. Meadows-bl.

Festa Elected Head Of T&C Business Asociation

Carl Festa of General Tire Sales has been elected new president of the Town and Country Business Association for the 1967 year.

Other officers are Hy Copeland, Madison's, vice-president, and Marvin Luckett, Majestic Paint Center, secretary-treasurer.

F. W. "Bill" Grover, executive secretary of the association for the past six years, was retained in his position.

Elected to the board of directors were Tom Arthur, S. S. Kresge's; Charles Collins, J. C. Penney Co.; Mary Darling, Darling Flowers and Gifts; Victor Gorski, The Boston Store; Don Kobel, Majestic Paint Center; Lew Michael, Town and Country Cinema; William Ryan, Ohio State Bank; Glen Smith, Glick's Furniture, and William Kossman, The Union Co.

The Nov. 1 issue of Look has an excellent article on Dick Weber.

Mark Oct. 29 through Nov. 20 weekends for special Columbus Cancer Clinic tourney at Rainbow Lanes.

IT TAKES a lot of consistency to roll a 171 triplicate as did Ward Stiltness.

Add those 700's—Dick Warren's 717 in the Big 10, while in Imperial Doubles Classic there were Don Kramer's 278-716 and Norm Farnsworth's 703.

Junior Bowlers at Northern Lights turned in some whoppers: Janice King (Bantam)—234, Charlie Weinstager (Bantam)—215 and Kevin Stumph (Bantam)—234.

MARGE Brandel threw a 187 all-spare. And how about Bob Davison's average of 221 for the TV qualifier (six games total 1330).

It runs in a family—Russ Baltzy's mother, Mary Snider rolled a high "first-ever" 204-513 in Keglorettes Matinee.

Though lucky hits do occur occasionally, a strike is normally produced when the ball enters the 1-3 pocket (right-handed bowler) and is deflected slightly to hit the five and nine pins.

THE REMAINING pins are felled by a chain reaction in which the head pin hits the two pin which hits the four pin which then hits the seven pin.

The five pin takes out the eight pin and the three pin hits the six pin which in turn hits the 10 pin.

This perfect ball and pin action invariably produces a strike.

ALTHOUGH the ball may hit the pocket, a strike will not always occur unless the five pin (kingpin) is hit. Recognizing the manner in which a strike is made, one can understand why various pins remain standing on any but a perfect delivery.

A bowler only has to reconstruct the action which causes a strike and then diagnose and analyze the faulty delivery.

"Let's Go Bowling" qualifiers end on Dec. 1-4 with men at Lincoln Village and women at Gahanna Lanes.

MR. AND MRS. COWGILL

Miss Lech Weds Michael Cowgill

Before the altar of St. Phillip the Apostle Church on Aug. 6, Sandra Lee Lech, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Lech of 3764 Dehner-dr, exchanged wedding vows with Michael John Cowgill, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cowgill, 3826 Roswell-dr.

Father Smith of St. Phillip's officiated at the 10:30 a.m. nutials.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, chose for her wedding a floor-length gown of white chantilly lace fashioned with an iridescent and pearl sabrina neckline. A bouffant skirt of tiers of lace ruffles flowed into a chapel-length train. Holding her silk illusion veil was a fingertip-length coronet crown of lace, pearl and crystal.

She carried a cascade of white glamellias and stephanotis, centered with a purple-throated orchid.

Maid of honor was the bride's cousin, Miss Suzanne Lech of Cicero, Ill. Bridesmaids were Miss Vicky Lynn Lech, sister of the bride; Miss Mary Cowgill and Miss Kathy Cowgill, sisters of the bridegroom; Miss Donna McKenzie of East Point, Ga., and Miss JoEllen, Middletown. Flower girl was Miss Cathy Dickson, Aurora, Ill.

James Cowgill, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Rich Lech, brother of the bride; Tom Lech, Jack Breech, Michael Burgett and Bob Eckman. Johnny Ruddock, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's parents. An evening dinner and reception was held at the Bexley American Legion Hall.

Following a honeymoon trip to the Pocono Mountains, the couple returned to Columbus, where they are now residing.

Checkers Home Friday, Sunday Vs. Gems, Blades

The Columbus hockey Checkers, battling to overcome a slow start, host early IHL leader Dayton Friday (8 p.m.) and '65 tailender Toledo Sunday (7 p.m.).

The two home dates are spliced in between a pair of road engagements as the Checkers are guests of the defending playoff champion Port Huron Flags tonight and play at Muskegon Saturday.

The Mohawks, who won the IHL title last season, have experienced the same slow start as the locals this year.

The Checker management has announced that students who present their identification cards at Checker ticket offices will receive a $1 discount on reserved seats.

Ticket offices are located at the Central Ticket Office (Richman's), Sears stores at Northland and Town and Country shopping centers and Discount Records.

Little Bucks Host Pennsy Champs Saturday At M-F

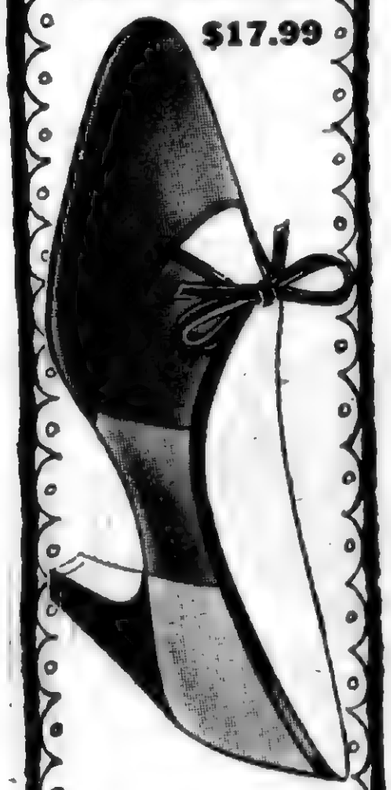
The unbeaten, unscored-upon Little Buckeyes line up against their toughest foe of the season Saturday when the Monroeville (Pa.) 'Gators furnish the opposition at Marion-Franklin High School Stadium.

The 'Gators, already crowned league champs, will play in Fort Lauderdale (Fla.) Bowl game later this year.

THE Buckeye-Gator game will follow a battle (at 7 p.m.) between the Berwick Jets and the Monroeville 'Mites,' whose goalline was crossed for the first time by the Jets earlier this season.

Admission for the grid doubleheader will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students and children.

Joe Hill, radio voice of the OSU buckeyes, will provide the play-by-play at M-F.



THE MONROEVILLE squad, coaches and cheerleaders will be house guests of the ets and Little Buckeyes for the weekend.

No Site Switch Seen For Eagle-Bear Clash

If you think it's tough landing a pair of tickets for an OSU football game, try your luck at duplicating that feat for seats Nov. 11 when Watterson visits Upper Arlington for what most folks have been tabbing Central Ohio's High school "game of the decade."

Unless somebody stumbles this weekend (Arlington at Cambridge or Watterson at Hartley) both clubs should enter the game unbeaten (and sporting impressive win streaks) and possibly rated in the top five in AA state rankings.

ARLINGTON athletic director (and football coach) Marv Moorehead quelled rumors that more seats for the clash might be available via a change in site this week.

"There is no serious consideration to move the game elsewhere because there's no place to move it," Moorehead commented.

Moorehead announced that Ohio Stadium is "not available" and the cost of moving the same into Jet Stadium would be too great.

THE GAME will be played at the Jones Junior High (2100 N. Devon in Arlington) whose capacity will be swelled to 7000-7500 with the addition of some 2000 bleacher seats, according to Moorehead.

Moorehead agreed that a demand for tickets in excess of the supply was unfortunate but added, "It is our home game and our first obligation is to Arlington and Watterson people."

Moorehead spiked rumors that both Ohio Wesleyan (Delaware) and Ohio University (Athens) had offered the use of their stadiums for the game, adding that Arlington was not interested in moving the game that distance even if the offer had been made.

WATTERSON fans, who received 2200 tickets for the game, reportedly were not satisfied with the number of ducats sent their way.

But Moorehead specified that the school had received "all the student tickets they had originally requested and more adult (general admission) tickets than any visiting team had been alloted in the last 12 years."

Heart Pin Tourney To End Saturday

Don't forget the tenth annual Heart Fund Bowling Tourney (runs through Saturday).

Everyone whose leagues bowl yet this week can enter with the payment of $1 fee. All Franklin County Lanes are participating.

WHERE'S 'DA' BODY?

Curtain Players is in the final two weeks of rehearsal for "Gazebo" which is being directed by Ed King. Production dates are Nov. 10, 11 and 12 at 8:30 p.m. in the Westerville Armory, 240 S. State-st. Tickets are available at the door.

The men finalists are: Ewing T. Boles, Phi Kappa Tau; Dr. Russell G. Means, Sr., Kappa Sigma and Earl F. Morris, Alpha Tau Omega.

Reed Charges Opponent Moved To Run For Office

Robert R. Reed, Democratic candidate for the General Assembly from the new 60th District, charged this week that his opponent's "only purpose for moving into this district is to run for office."

Reed, a long-time district resident, said, "It is important that the people know that my opponent (Roger W. Tracy, Jr.) had never lived in this district until he decided to run for office."

Reed also called for increased state aid to local school districts and said a diminishing state contribution to local districts "has placed an unfair burden on local property owners, which is reflected in the ever-increasing real-estate tax needed to support local school levies."

Trip Behind Red Door Unforgettable

By MARIANNE TOMLINSON
Spectator Fashion Editor

Elizabeth Arden is dead . . . LONG LIVE ELIZABETH ARDEN . . . and all the mystical potions she mothered.

Potions that can be bought across the counters of the world . . . potions that will add immeasurable moments of joy and pleasure . . . chemical formulas that wind up smoothing our wrinkles, enhancing our color or smelling divine.

In addition to the line of cosmetics that Elizabeth Arden (really Florence Nightingale Graham) made famous, she also spawned two ultra-luxurious spas or health farms where for a pretty healthy fee you can be taken in hand . . . slimmed down . . . toned up . . . lose all your worries and cares. I'd love to test the services and check the veracity of their press agentry.

Miss Arden also founded 50 famous salons in 33 countries, invariably marked by a red door, where she tried to perfect the "total women"—physically, mentally and emotionally — by having her rubbed, scrubbed, pounded, patted, stretched, scented, oiled, tinted and occasionally encased from tip to toe in paraffin.

I'd like to tell you about my trip behind the red door of Elizabeth Arden's salon at 691 Fifth-av in New York.

I must point out that my visit was complimentary . . . one of those fringe benefits a fashion editor has from time to time.

Anyway, I was shown into the eighth floor salon, feeling rather gauche . . . a feeling quickly dispelled by the gracious lady who managed the salon. Her warmth made me feel completely at home (well, almost). She offered me a lovely velvet tray of jewelry to look over while I waited. The jewels were marked down . . . from $165 to $100 . . . I tidied up the tray and gave it back to her with appropriate smiles and significant shrugs. I think she understood.

I soon was taken over by a horde of people all surprisingly cheerful and friendly. First a little French girl shampooed my hair in a pink aura . . . then she whisked me back to my BTO (really big time operator) who flipped my hair about to decide on the style. While he did that, my nails were being worked on, and another little French girl stood ready to assist the whole group. Does this sound like Columbus, Ohio???

One thing that amazed me during all this was the informality and I said so. Pierre pointed out, "We try to suit the mood of our customer . . . when the Duchess of Windsor is in the salon we are not quite so informal."

It's rather awesome to find yourself in an atmosphere you've only read about before, and there are many thoughts that crop up. One thought I had as I was approaching the final comb-out was rather disturbing . . . since this was complimentary, and I would have no check to check, how do I tip?

Believe me, I got the old Ohio jitters at this point but I think I managed to get through with a minimum of embarassment because I simply explained to the "gracious manager" that I was planning to use my visit behind the Red Door in talks and radio commentary and I would need some facts, such as "how much for a shampoo, set, haircut, manicure" and "how much should we tip in a New York salon?"

Her information boiled down roughly to 15 or 20 percent to a manicurist and hairdresser and 10 percent to the shampoo girl. She also pointed out that I should not tip the featured hair stylist just as at home we shouldn't tip the owner of the shop.

I was happy to give her a bill to cover all the necessary tips and asked her to give them to the proper people with my compliments. She was a doll. As I was leaving she sprayed me all over with one of Elizabeth Arden's and my favorite scents, Memoire Cherie. Believe me, I wafted out onto Fifth Avenue on a cloud.

My trip behind the Red Door was delightful. I'll never forget it. As a matter of fact, I'm still talking about it.

WE'RE FLATTERED, INDEED, BUT...

There's only one Welcome Wagon.

Imitation, 'tis said, is the finest of compliments. And as a much-imitated organization, we're certainly flattered.

But as many have learned, the "reasonable facsimile" too often falls short of "the real thing."

Be beware of substitutes, for there is no real substitute for the services of and the benefits provided through Welcome Wagon.

Zimmer Appointed V.P. For Chamber Administration

ROBERT ZIMMER

Robert C. Zimmer has been appointed vice-president of administration for the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber President Kline L. Roberts said Zimmer's new duties will include coordination of committee and program work, general administration of internal affairs and establishment of additional lines of communication between the Chamber, its members and the community at large.

Zimmer will retain responsibility for publication of the Columbus Business Forum and for the membership program.

A graduate of DePauw University and Ohio State University, Zimmer has been with the Chamber since 1953. He resides at 3106 Astor-av.

Navy Urges Seniors Not To Miss The Boat

High school seniors interested in a free cruise through college, courtesy of the United States Navy, must make application for the NROTC qualifying exam by Friday, Nov. 18, or they will "miss the boat."

The nation-wide competitive exam will be given Dec. 10 to students who will enter college next fall and who will be at least 17 but not 21 by July 1, 1967.

Those making qualifying scores will be given medicals and the opportunity to complete application after the first of the year.

Under the NROTC plans, tuition, fees and books are furnished as well as a $50 a month subsistence allowance.

Applications for the Navy College Aptitude Test are available at local high schools and Navy recruiting stations or from the Chief of Naval Personnel, Department of the Navy, Washington, D. C. 20370.

MORRIS WINS MOGOL'S PRIZE

WAYNE MORRIS, left, 19, 4078 Powell-av, accepts a General Electric Stereo record player from David Bogante, president of Mogol's Men's and Boys' Wear Stores. Morris' name was selected in a drawing sponsored by the four Mogol's stores in Columbus.

Jones Calls For Fight Against Crime

Robert G. "Bob" Jones, Republican candidate for the House from the new 62nd District, called this week for increased state participating in "the fight against crime and violence."

"In recent months," Jones said, "two of our major cities, Columbus and Cincinnati, have experienced a startling series of murders and robberies."

He said the state should offer advanced courses in crime detection and enforcement and called for a cooperative effort "to improve communication between the various law enforcement agencies, and more research in this area.

Fleet Reserve Association To Meet At Vets' Memorial

The Fleet Reserve Association, Buckeye Branch 199, will conduct its monthly meeting Nov. 11 at Veterans' Memorial, Room 207, at 8 p.m.

The objectives of the Fleet Reserve Association are to take care of members and their families who may urgently need financial or other assistance, recruit for the Naval Service and to keep members informed on United States Naval matters, for continued loyal service to the nation and the United States Naval Service.

Membership in the Fleet Reserve is open to active and retired Navy and Marine enlisted men and officers who were formerly enlisted men. Buckeye Branch 199 urges all retired Navy and Marines in the Columbus area to attend the monthly meetings and place your membership with the local branch.

According to G. D. Lowry, 3490 Homecroft-dr, retired personnel are especially urged to join.

OSU Theater To Open With Civil Rights Play

Next week an exciting and powerful drama about an important unsolved social problem of our day, civil rights, will be the opening production of the 1966-67 season of the Ohio State University Theatre.

George Sklar's new play, "And People All Around," was inspired by contemporary events in the South. It will open Nov. 11 at 8 p.m. and be repeated on Nov. 12, 17, 18 and 19.

On Nov. 12 there will be a 2:30 p.m. performance.

The Derby Hall Box Office will be open Nov. 7 to 11 from noon to 5 p.m. Phone orders may be placed during these hours.

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

Prairie Players is presenting the comedy "Send Me No Flowers" this weekend. By the looks of Sunday's rehearsal they have created an amusing and successful play which is being directed by Elizabeth Noblitt.

The play is centered around a hypochondriac who overhears his doctor's phone conversation. This conversation leads him to believe his death is quickly approaching. From this moment on the play is funny and laughs are plentiful.

Joe Heitter as the main lead is so capable at acting he glows. He completely takes over. Other cast members contribute their share of acting, and they are: Wayne Krepps, Jack Kessler, Dick Sutton, Barry Conners and Leslie Chittenden.

Performances will be at the Prairie Norton School on Norton Road at 8:30 p.m. Only two performances will be held and they are Nov. 4 and 5, Friday and Saturday. Tickets are available at the door.

County Voters To Decide Jail Fate

Franklin County voters will decide Tuesday whether to authorize two levies totaling .98 mills for construction of a new courthouse complex including a new Franklin County Jail.

The levies were placed on the ballot by the county commissioners shortly before the filing deadline after the second riot of the summer rocked the ancient Fulton Street jail.

The levies have gained support from such local groups as the Metropolitan Committee and the Columbus Bar Association and from Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner and other county and city officials.

They claim the need for a new courthouse and jail is immediate.

Opponents, however, charge that the levies were put on the ballot as an "11th hour panic move" to quell public opinion stirred up by the riots.

The courthouse construction levy is for .55 mills and will run for five years, raising an estimated $7 million for construction of a new courthouse and improvement to other county buildings in the immediate area.

The second levy, for correctional facilities, would call for new taxes of .43 mills and would run for five years, raising $4 million for a new jail and $1.5 million for new juvenile detention facilities.

Opponents have also charged that building of new county offices on the present site would preclude any future plans to build a joint city-county office complex in the Civic Center, as has been recommended by the city.

Sensenbrenner, in giving his approval to the county levies, hinted the city may have given up on that idea.

A majority vote is necessary for passage of the two levies.

MAVERICK

with muddy shoes

Statistics show that the average small game hunter goes afield just four times each year in search of sport and food.

Opening day, the first Saturday, Thanksgiving and/or Christmas and the last Saturday of the season are the most popular days.

USING THIS as a guide, we must consider every means possible to make those trips successful. We must pick out hunting territory carefully and ask permission well in advance of opening day.

PAUGH

We must make sure our guns and gear are in fine fettle, as should be our physical condition.

So many times, the preparation of one's clothing and tools for the hunt is either forgotten or left to be done the morning of the hunt—in six minutes or less.

STARTING with the most important single item (your gun) you should check against any possible trouble in the field. Wipe off last year's oil and grease, squint through the barrels to be sure they are open and clean of rust and recoat with a good gun oil.

Always have a couple of SPENT shells on which to dry fire and test the works. Dry firing on an empty chamber will crystalize the steel firing pin.

Do not, under any circumstances, put live rounds in any gun while in the house. Rub plenty of oil into the surface of the gun and spray some into the gun case. This will re-oil the gun as you return it to the case after the hunt.

NEVER carry two or more gauges of shotshells in your pockets. A 20-gauge shell will slide right into a twelve bore allowing a twelve gauge shell to be loaded behind it and when the trigger is pulled —forever is a long time.

Never load you gun and store it in your car, it's both unhealthy and illegal. Make your companions observe the same rule. It's no fun hunting with an itchy backbone.

Never walk behind each other with loaded guns. If you trip or fall, check your barrels immediately to make sure they aren't clogged with snow or mud. Always know instinctively where the others in your party are in the field. The smaller the group, the less danger.

IF YOUR teen-age child wants to start hunting, take him along if it's O.K. with the rest of the group but keep him very close. Let him carry an empty gun for the first couple trips.

In this way, you can watch how he controls the muzzle. On the second trip, let him carry the gun he will use in the future and put expended shells in so that he can draw down on the game as it gets up.

This gives the exact illusion of going hunting without ruining the day for all worried adults. If he really wants to become a hunter, he'll put up with two dry runs as a shakedown period.

IF YOU catch him pointing that thunder where it shouldn't be, put boy and gun on the shelf for another season. It'll smart but as Grandpa used to say "smartin' makes you smart."

Hats off to the Newark Jaycees. On Oct. 22 they took two canoe trips down the north and south forks of Licking River right through the heart of Newark to find the source of pollution.

Over 60 people attended and a petition was drawn up with over 500 signatures to be presented to the Water Pollution Control Board.

THIS WILL force an inquiry into the disgraceful practices of some industries north of town.

Lions, Rotarians and Kiwanians take note — you too could function in this capacity to clean up Ohio's waters.

Fearless Predictions

The "Fearless One" hit one of those "slumps" which have plagued him all season, slipping to a 14-8 countdown for the week and a 124-57 overall standing.

Here's the outlook for the last full week of grid play:

WEST JEFFERSON AT WORTHINGTON — Cardinals hand Riders second straight bump. Worthington.

CANAL WINCHESTER AT BERNE UNION — Indians continue slide. B-U.

WHETSTONE AT EAST — Slight edge to Braves. Whetstone.

MARION-FRANKLIN AT PIQUA — Devils close on winning note. M-F.

WESTERVILLE AT HILLIARD — Mid-Eight pressure off, 'Cats try for second place. Hilliard.

GRANDVIEW AT BEXLEY — Let's see, whose turn is it? Try . . . Bexley.

EASTMOOR AT WEST — Title or multi-champs? We think . . . Eastmoor.

GAHANNA AT MIFFLIN — Lions take out ire on late-chargin' Cowpunchers. Gahanna.

WESTFALL AT TEAYS VALLEY— Vikings sail into smoother waters. T-V.

WALNUT RIDGE AT CENTRAL — Pirates have too much speed. Central.

LINDEN AT NORTH — Panthers still hoping for E-M stumble. Linden.

MARYSVILLE AT GROVEPORT — Monarchs make it two straight. Marysville.

DUBLIN AT EAST KNOX — Four-leaf clovers for Shamrocks. Dublin.

LONDON AT GROVE CITY — 'Hounds could be Mid-Eight's "best friend." However . . . London.

SOUTH AT BROOKHAVEN — Bulldogs look best here. South.

FRANKLIN HEIGHTS AT CIRCLEVILLE — Could be mistaken here but . . . Circleville.

ARLINGTON AT CAMBRIDGE — If Bears can keep their eyes on their hosts. UA.

PLEASANT VIEW AT WASHINGTON C.H. — Panthers have picked up their impetus but Lions have looked tough. Flip of coin says . . . P-V.

REYNOLDSBURG AT WATKINS MEMORIAL — Could well be Raiders' toughest foe to date. Reynoldsburg . . . but not by much.

READY AT MIAMI TRACE — Knights break win drought. Ready.

DESALES AT WHITEHALL — Stallions got the hosses. DeSales.

HAMILTON TOWNSHIP AT GREENFIELD McCLAIN — Hosts prove to be poor ones. Greenfield.

FAIRFIELD UNION AT CARROLL —A strong Union. F-U.

SATURDAY

ST. MARY AT OLENTANGY — Rams get back to winning ways. St. Mary.

WATTERSON AT HARTLEY — Perfect spot for upset but Eagles still want that CCL crown. Watterson.

IS HOME LOAN MONEY REALLY TIGHT

NOW?

"Tight" . . . yes. Unavailable . . . NO! True, there is not now as big a supply of home loan money available as there was this time last year. However, savings and loan institutions, banks, and other sources are still making home loans every day.

Just as with any other commodity, the "price" of money goes up when the supply is limited. But, when you get right down to dollars and cents, this increase in the "price" of money isn't very much. Specifically, the one-half-of-one per cent increase in interest amounts to only 30¢ per month on each $1,000 you borrow. Isn't it worth that small amount to be in your own home now, instead of waiting for that day — probably far in the future — when interest rates come down again? Also, the rising cost of living will mean a rising cost of homes. The house you want now may cost as much as one thousand dollars more next year — far more than the additional interest you may pay at today's rates.

Yes, money is "tight", but it hasn't disappeared. Call your builder. He may already have the answer to your home loan questions.

Build Better . . . Buy Better . . . NOW!

Democrats Form Unit To Support Cloud for Auditor

COLUMBUS, OHIO ☐

A statewide Committee of Democrats for Roger Cloud, Republican candidate for election to the state auditor post he already holds by appointment, has been organized with former State Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers as chairman.

"I am a Democrat and expect to remain one," said Bowers, who served 30 years in state government. The committee includes Samuel O. Linzell, a former state highway director, of Columbus, and retired United Mine Workers District 6 President Adolph Pacifico.

"Ability and integrity in public office are far more important than a party label," explained Bowers, who has served under four Democratic and three Republican governors.

Bowers, a Columbus attorney, hailed Cloud as "the architect of Ohio's present tremendous highway construction program...."

"It is to Ohio's interest," he said, "to retain the services of a man with such an excellent record of integrity, knowledge and leadership."

An Editorial

An Urgent Civic Need

Franklin County voters will have an opportunity Nov. 8 to correct one of the most deplorable situations in the community—the lack of facilities to house valuable county records, juveniles taken into custody and citizens awaiting trial.

Anyone who has visited the dilapidated courthouse is aware that records vital to the welfare of the county and its citizens are in constant danger of being damaged or lost because of inadequate facilities or destroyed by fire which could sweep the old building.

MANY WHO VISITED the old jail during the open house periods have concluded it is not fit to house animals let alone human beings. While some confined in the jail are hardened criminals others are first offenders and some are even minor offenders awaiting trial.

In any event, the community should provide at least a decent, sanitary, safe and secure jail.

One of the prime purposes of the juvenile detention home is to begin the work of rehabilitating youngsters and prepare them to become good citizens. Oftentimes the youngsters become wards of the county because of undesirable homes and certainly these children are entitled to adequate facilities.

ACTION TO CORRECT these situations is long overdue. The voters will have the opportunity to take the necessary action by voting FOR two levies which will provide for a new courthouse, new jail and new juvenile detention home facilities.

Balanced against the need, the cost is slight. The levies will add less than a dollar to each $1000 property assessment for a period of five years.

A Letter To The Citizens of Franklin County from J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington D.C.

The problems confronting law enforcement today are many and complex. A rising crime rate coupled with a growing disrespect for law has heavily burdened all members of the profession. To meet their responsibilities for providing maximum public protection, law enforcement agencies must achieve higher standards of training and superior administration and they must also have the equipment and facilities necessary to carry out their programs effectively.

It is incumbent upon the individual citizen to realize that the problems of law enforcement are also his problems; that to be secure in his own pursuits, he must support the laws and those charged with enforcing them. This is a basic challenge to the citizen, and one of the important ways he can meet this challenge is by speaking out for community projects such as that proposed in Columbus for the construction of a new courthouse.

I heartily commend the civic spirit of Columbus which is working to provide this new facility.

Sincerely,
J. Edgar Hoover

Mission Dated At Obetz

Rev. Charles A. Farthing, treasurer of the Ohio Conference of Methodist Churches, will conduct a "New-Life" Mission at the Obetz Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. for eight consecutive evenings beginning Nov. 13. The program is co-sponsored by the Obetz and Walnut Hill Churches whose paster is Rev. Charles Titko. Music leadership will be directed by Curt and Charlotte Davis, Indianapolis musicians who are well known for their annual appearance at the Lancaster Methodist camp meeting. On two Sunday evenings of the mission, the Obetz Junior Choir and the Wesley and Chancel choirs of Walnut Hill will sing.

Mohawk Meeting In Obetz

Cub and Boy Scout leaders of the Mohawk District will meet Thursday evening at the Obetz Zion Lutheran Church, 1080 Obetz-rd, at 7:30 p.m. Any person interested in becoming a youth leader is urged to attend the program which will review in roundtable discussion: Cub Scouting, "Yuletide Everywhere," Winter Camping, the new member recruiting, the "Toys for Tots" project and the Columbus Comet basketball team.

Peggy 'In The Money' Now

Peggy Schumacher of Hamilton Township High School was elected state treasurer when the Vocational Industrial Club of Ohio met in the Ohio Youth Center at the Fairgrounds Saturday. Peggy, running against five other candidates, was one of the 15 students representing Hamilton when over 2,000 teenagers convened for the annual election of officers.

Hines And Helser Captains

Harold Hines and Charles Helser are captaining the East and West teams of Ashville Kiwanis Club newspaper ad sale. As usual, the members of the winning teams will dine on steak while the losers cry into their beans when the campaign for the joint Ashville-Circleville paper is over. Proceeds from sale of ads and the door-to-door paper sale, opening with an auction at Bastian's Coffee Shop, supports the community programs of the two organizations.

Closed Friday

The Post Office Department has announced that all local postal installations will observe Veterans Day on Friday. The Main Post Office and all branches will be closed, except for the lobby of all stations which will be open from 8-9 a.m. for the convenience of boxholders. No window service will be provided, no deliveries except for special delivery will be made and holiday collection schedules will be followed. AN EDITORIAL

"Parents who expect to give their children quality education without paying quality prices are running up a blind alley."

This statement was made by Dr. Nikolaus L. Emgelhardt, one of the nation's foremost educational consultants.

Beleagured taxpayers, squeamish at the thought of carrying an additional burden, have many times been quoted as saying, "Money alone won't bring better schools."

As little research has been available on the matter until recently, it was a stand difficult to refute.

However, a study made by the Ohio Department of Education indicates students scoring in the top quarter on state achievement tests came from schools spending an average of $113 more per student than those students placed in the bottom quarter.

Southeast adults who voted for local school issues voted to better prepare our youth for the future.

It was a fence that could not be straddled.

Are you proud of your vote?

IT EVEN BEATS BEING SWEET SIXTEEN

PART OF THE JOY of being 17 is being just a bit pixilated" and the cast of "Seventeen Is Terrific" is having a ball during rehearsals. The Groveport-Madison junior class play, which will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, portrays the trials and tribulations of a young swain struggling to raise sufficient coin of the realm to take his "dream-boat" to a school dance. In the front, from the left, are Betty Boyer; Craig Harpence, who plays the suitor, and Ila Miller. In the middle row are Tom Sparks, Becky Lang, Marsha Smith and Peggy Gray, the object of Craig's affections. Jerry Corn, Don Werner, Rene Easterling and John Langbein are pictured at the back. Linda Carroll, student director, was not present.

Faculty Exodus Reviewed

Three-hundred thirty - three new teachers were employed by Franklin County schools for the 1966-67 year.

Of these, 255 were women and almost all of the 78 male teachers are at the secondary level either as regular faculty members or teaching special classes such as industrial arts, physical education, music and science.

ADDED because of additional enrollment were 49 staff members.

A study by the Franklin Board of Education reveals that 56 members of teachers were lost last year to another Ohio district. "Family reasons" accounted for another 52 resignations, and 38 left because of pregnancy and a like number because their husbands were transferred.

Nineteen temporarily left the field to return to college, 13 are teaching in other states and 12 more faculty members entered business or industry.

RETIREMENT or marriage was responsible for another 20 resignations.

Only one teacher left the system for the armed forces.

Comment And Criticism

editorials . . .

Time For Restraint

Central Ohio football history will be made Friday night when two behemoths, Upper Arlington and Bishop Watterson, clash in what is properly billed as the "high school game of the decade."

It is only natural that the student bodies of both schools should be "sky high" for this battle, which will be televised for the thousands of high school buffs who have tried in vain to obtain precious tickets.

The Spectator Newspapers don't want to put a damper on Friday night's festivities, but we feel that the time is right to caution students and parents alike about the dangers of excesses that seem to crop up when spirits run high.

This game is more than a local event. Because both teams enter the game undefeated and rated in the state polls, all of Ohio will be watching the Jones Junior High field in Upper Arlington Friday.

The conduct of the fans will reflect as heavily on Columbus as will the game itself. A brilliant football game can be ignored if it is surrounded by unfortunate incidents of vandalism or personal injury.

The Spectator looks forward to Friday night's Arlington-Watterson battle with anticipation.

But we urge those lucky enough to be on hand to conduct themselves with the dignity and sportsmanship we are sure will be practiced on the playing field.

Mouthwash

Columbus City Councilman Ronald DeVore should have his mouth washed out with soap.

In a typically irresponsible outburst, DeVore charged there was graft in the department of urban renewal. When it came time to put up, DeVore shut up.

There is little enough faith in government today without elected officials going around shouting graft for obviously nothing but political reasons.

If DeVore wants to convince the citizenry that he's a gentleman he should have the courage to get up in the same forum and make his apologies to Mayor Sensenbrenner and Urban Renewal Director Pat Phelan.

This is the same DeVore who wants to be mayor of Columbus?

Congrats To UA

Although the United Appeal campaign fell slightly less than one percent short of its goal, the 1966 drive must be considered a success.

UA raised well in excess of $4 million to benefit 69 health, educational, recreational and welfare agencies in Franklin County.

Last year, following the successful campaign, United Appeal agencies helped nearly 250,000 Franklin Countians ranging from the elderly and infirm to children needing proper recreation supervision.

There is little doubt that UA agencies will help even more Columbus and Franklin County residents this year as they reach out to aid the community.

The Spectator, a Fair Share employer, congratulates the UA committee, headed by Mel Tharp, and thanks the thousands upon thousands of Central Ohioans who aided this year's campaign.

Door Prize

Ohio's Tax Needs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles on Ohio's tax structure by Dr. George Thatcher, Miami University economist who authored the now-famous 1962 Thatcher Report on Ohio's tax alternatives. It is reprinted from the WRFD Commentator.)

Several excellent studies in recent years have given Ohio a master plan for improvement of its health, education and welfare programs. The problem is that these programs cannot be instituted successfully without an increase in taxes. The cost of bringing the level of public services in Ohio to a level of excellence that correlates with its ability and need is estimated to be $1 billion of additional revenue a year.

State and local governments, under existing tax structures, are unable to finance even the minimum increase in governmental expenditures necessary to maintain the standard of service now provided, let alone provide for any improvement in those services.

It is never easy to increase taxes. Our citizens must be educated to the proposition that there is nothing "evil" in a dollar spent by government. Government expenditures are not necessary sterile and less productive than private expenditures.

A dollar spent for health, education or welfare is a dollar invested in survival and a better life. The vital question has become: "Can we convince the people of Ohio to assume an additional tax budget against their private inclination or is there a Gresham's law in which soft decisions tend to triumph over hard ones?"

In the end the citizens of our state are going to have to balance their need for better health, better education and better welfare programs against the cost in resources that might be used for other purposes.

No financial devices or fancy slogans can eliminate the need for making the choice. It is almost axiomatic that the only thing you can buy for peanuts is peanuts.

They Said It

"With all the advances that have been made by minority groups for their rights within recent years it is obvious that all is not well. The drive has turned sour, people are tired of violence and some believe that there are some elements who turn their efforts to their own gain. All groups are going to have to obey the law. The only way that any real lasting progress can be made is for both sides to make sincere efforts within the framework of our laws." (Elk Point, S.D., Leader-Courier)

Colorful Reader

To The Editor:

As a reader and subscriber of your Spectator newspaper since I was a young school girl (and I won't say how long ago that was) I choose to keep it on hand at least three or four days.

I noticed the color on your front page this week. You may not realize it, but the color—(any color to make it stand out that it is NOT the daily paper) is an advertisement in itself.

A few years ago as I recall, it was "green."

AT ONCE I could pick out the "Hilltop Record" as it was called. I did not have to fumble through the "other" papers, so I could reread the certain article or want ads in your "Spectator."

I always throw away each daily paper. Do you want your readers to throw your Spectator along with them?

Let's put a little sunshine of YELLOW into our paper. We'll make the dailies GREEN with envy. They'll get good and BLUE when they realize why our Spectator is (red) read.

marquis childs ★ The President's Asian Tour ★

CHILDS

Thousands of hours of intensive effort, several million dollars and risks to life and limb went into the Asian-Pacific conference and the Presidential tour built around it. But, was it worth it?

The answer is a compound of faith and hope; faith that the cracks in the loose alliance of the nations committed to Viet Nam were cemented and hope that the conflict will be resolved short of a far larger war.

Both the faith and the hope ignore the contradictions below the surface. The assumption of the communique was that the present South Vietnamese government can stay in power after a negotiated settlement and the withdrawal of Allied forces at the end of the proposed six-months period. You cut off the flow of help from the north, so the theory goes, and the Viet Cong aggression dries up.

Yet two men very concerned with the conduct of the war, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, hardly share this conviction. They talk about the need to root out the Communist guerrilla intra-structure deeply embedded in the Vietnamese countryside which is essential to pacification and development.

It is highly doubtful that the Ky government and the South Vietnamese army can carry it out.

It has been said that one target of the conference was Hanoi. The seven nations, demonstrating their solidarity and resolve to stay the course, would convince the Communistic regime of the futility of further war — this at a time when infiltration from the north into the south has been upped by military estimates to 9,000 a month.

Hints have been dropped of a larger target than Hanoi. The signs may be, as the Air Force says of unidentified flying objects, merely swamp gas. But both American and British sources have suggested that in a changing atmosphere the Soviet Union may be prepared to join in some kind of peace initiative. One hint is the trial balloon floated by the Hungarian delegation to the United Nations about the possibility of a response from Hanoi.

The conference was not, as many had feared, a hawkish war council. To believe that Eastern Europe will accept this as proof of peaceful intention while the number of American troops steadily builds up is to venture on swampy ground indeed.

But two indicators suggest that the hints are not altogether swamp gas. In the face of growing Chinese hostility the Soviets must have room to maneuver. This shows in many ways. Several high level Americans seem convinced that a nuclear nonproliferation treaty will be signed as a first step in the direction of improved U.S.-Moscow relations. Should this happen early in the coming year it will be a notable score for those who believe the Vietnamese war does not preclude the kind of betterment proposed by the President in his speech to the editorial writers.

Asians are acutely sensitive to the charges of corruption and impoverishment. You in America, they say, have corruption and poverty. True — but the important difference is in America's remarkable capacity to produce. With proper management and luck America's problems are soluble.

The fine rhetoric of the conference flies in the face of a fundamental fact. The rich nations of the West are getting richer at a faster rate than the poor nations of the East, with the exception of Japan, are moving up from poverty. The World Bank in Washington has come up with deeply disturbing figures on how many year it will take to raise average annual income above the $100 level.

In the revolution of rising expectations patience has its limits. Congress this year passed the lowest foreign aid appropriation on record, a fact of which President Johnson must be aware.

Men cannot live forever on faith and hope.

GOLDWATER

Evidence strongly suggests that the Johnson administration organized, fed and spread the food store boycott now sweeping the country.

The action directs attention away from the responsibility of the White House and the Democrat majorities in both houses of Congress for today's skyrocketing inflation which is robbing every consumer.

The timing—coming as it did just before the elections —is highly significant.

The starting point — Denver — also is significant, because that city was made to order for the kind of hocus-pocus which, I am convinced, big-spending Democrats hit upon to help their candidates slip, slide and duck the issue of high prices.

What gave the boycott movement its steam were published reports that the housewives' "revolt" in Denver achieved a 15 percent reduction in the price of some food items.

But Denver had higher food prices than most of the country to begin with. Denver had higher service costs, giving a ready area in which costs temporarily could be cut.

The boycott took advantage of a price war that temporarily forced stores to cut prices, anyway, but which, if continued, would force them out of business.

You have to be the world's champion believer in coincidences to conclude that the politically worried Johnson administration didn't play a major role in the so-called revolt with the help of "volunteers" from the radical left where the art or organizing protests is highly developed.

Is it mere coincidence that food store boycotts broke out in one city after another in the wake of visits by Mrs. Esther Peterson, White House aide assigned to consumer problems?

Was it mere coincidence that Mrs. Peterson had her picture taken with Mrs. Paul West, leader of the Denver boycott, to go with a Washington Post article entitled "Esther Peterson Raises Flag in Boycott Battle?"

Since Denver seems to be the model, I have reviewed what took place there. In the Denver Post of Oct. 16 I found an article announcing the boycott and a televised meeting at which Washington officials of the U. S. Department of Labor and Department of Commerce were to appear.

The next day Denver's Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) announced plans to picket five supermarkets.

Other rapid-fire developments had Denverites quoting Mrs. Peterson as saying "I'm a housewife, and I know what I'd be doing if I were in Denver;" The State Democrat candidate asking Colorado farmers to join the protest because they, too, had been caught in what was called "the middleman squeeze and manipulative practices."

This leaves the real problem, the inflation caused by Lyndon Johnson's wild spending and the hardships caused by his high taxes, on the wrong doorstep, the steps of the chain stores.

The worst thing that is happening to your pocketbook is the spending of the Johnson administration.

In his long-range drive for the Presidency, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is allowing unrestrained personal ambition to run counter to elementary national interest and even against his own ultimate interests.

His declared efforts in the Congressional and gubernatorial compaigns to help hard-pressed Democratic colleagues immediately facing the voters were obviously more concerned with promoting Bob Kennedy than with assisting these unhappy fellows.

What Kennedy is doing is certainly not against the law. It is, however, profoundly outside the basic American political tradition; and many in his own party will not forget this year of Kennedy rampant.

First of all, he is making the same mistake that cost the Presidency nearly a generation ago to a similarly demanding and similarly young politician in a hurry named Thomas E. Dewey.

In 1948 Dewey had everything going for him, including an inherently unpopular Democratic adversary, Harry S. Truman. But what destroyed Dewey was a long-accumulating conviction among other Republicans that Dewey was interested only in Dewey and not at all in the Republican party nor in his partisan allies.

The unbeatable Dewey was beaten after all because he had lost any true comradeship with fellow Republicans. Too many sat on their hands. They simply looked the other way when he needed help.

In New York this year, Kennedy, the party leader, refused to take any step to bring unity.

In California, Kennedy campaigned for Democratic Gov. Edmund Brown. Again there is great question as to whether he was working for Brown or for Kennedy. For when Kennedy stands in Berkeley, Calif., and renews his attack on the fundamentals of American policy in Viet Nam, he is hardly helping a Governor whose very refusal to run away from that policy is his most important national contribution to the campaign.

Worse yet, Kennedy's renewed proposal that this country cease its bombing of North Viet Nam, before the North ceases its aggression against South Viet Nam, goes far beyond mere embrarassment to Brown and to the Democratic party. Nor is it merely a hip-shooting jab at Lyndon B. Johnson.

To join publicly with the peaceniks at Berkeley at an hour when President Johnson is attempting to forward the American position in a fateful Asian summit conference is to embarrass not simply Brown and Johnson and the Democratic party, but rather the United States of America.

Fantastic stories on Kennedy's undoubted charm and appeal to the bobby-sox generation cannot alter the reality that this is an irresponsible business indeed. It is among other things the sort of thing that his late brother, President John F. Kennedy, would never have dreamed of doing —not even if a President of the opposition party had been involved.

For John Kennedy recognized that while the rules of the political game are relaxed, they are not relaxed enough to permit assaults upon the American position in a critical foreign conference in the middle of a war. There are some limits, even to the most hard-shelled politicians, wherever the Presidency of the United States is the goal involved.

Cars Are His Favorite Pastime

By MARY BILDERBACH
Spectator Staff Writer

To say that E. O. Nance likes cars is an understatement. It would be more appropriate to say that a boyhood ambition to own a Model-T Ford has developed into a $25,000 hobby.

Nance, a local Reynoldsburg realtor and businessman is the owner of 21 antique, classic and late model cars. He houses them in a newly-built aluminum structure at 7217 E. Main-st.

PERHAPS one viewer summed up the essence of his assemble with one word, "quiet," for few area people are aware of his almost priceless collection.

"This is the first time that all my cars have been together under one roof," said Nance. "Before, I managed to store the majority of them in my garage in Harbor Hills and various other places."

Another fascinating item about Nance's collection is that each auto seems to have a special story all of its own.

TAKE THE shiny black 1940 Packard touring car which smells faintly of mothballs on the inside. It was the car used by former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman.

"Actually Eleanor Roosevelt preferred using this car to any other," said Nance. He purchased the car from the vice-president of Delta Airlines for approximately $2,500.

Nance also owns Edsel Ford's private "gold plated" town car. He bought the car from Eleanor Clay Ford in 1953. "It's worth more now than then," said Nance. "But I wouldn't consider selling it." The car was also featured at the Ohio State Fair this summer.

ONE OF Nance's favorite beauties is an air-flow Chrysler from the thirties. "When this car was on the market, it was 10 years ahead of its time with its aero dynamics feature," he said.

Nance explained that it is a town car, or those used for elegant "one-nighter affairs." It was owned by a Long Island executive.

Nance is really interested in unusual features of cars along with the classic and antique models.

He has a 1947 black Ford that was purchased because "it was the greatest change made by Ford in a car." He also has several foreign sports cars in the collection.

THE MAIN difference between antique and classic cars is that the antique group includes all cars before 1929, whereas the classics are the high-priced, chauffeur-driven cars made between 1929 and 1942.

Of the two types Nance prefers the classic.

Often Nance will buy a car for its nostalgic value alone. He pointed to a bright green Model-T Ford with a rumble seat in the back. "This is the type of car the Roosevelt voters drove," he said.

MORE THAN once Nance has gone on wild-goose chases in search of new purchases. "I've driven to places as far away as New York for a car only to find that the owner deceived me," he said. "Oh, the car would be there all right, but in a pile scattered all over the floor.

Finding parts for the cars poses another problem. "We usually have to scour the country, and it's not unusual to send as far away as Reno, Nev., for a headlight."

Presently Nance is in the process of restoring many of the autos to a facsimile of their original features.

ALL OF Nance's cars run, but he's skeptical about driving them. "You never know when a radio or block is going to bust," he said. Nance has driven them in several of the Reynoldsburg parades.

Some time in the spring he hopes to have an open house in his newly constructed garage. "Who knows," said Nance, "this may be the nucleus of a museum."

THEY WERE BUSY AS BEES

THE TOWNSHIP HALL at Front and Main Streets in Groveport was astir with new life Saturday as young and old of the community gathered in "Operation Cleanup" to ready it for use as a recreation center for the people of Madison Township. Dr. Richard Baer, seated, is shown as he gets plenty of free advice from George T. Adams of the Groveport Presbyterian Church as he works on the floor plans. Worley Rager holds out the keys to the building which he, as one of the trustees, made available to the community. Kathy Franks whose father Groveport Councilman Pete Franks has thrown his shoulder to getting the project out of the talking stage and into reality, is seen armed with a broom.

Recreation Center Is Smoking Along

Pete Franks and the gang working toward a community recreation center for Groveport found out Saturday that where there's smoke, there's not always fire.

The sad fact that the furnace, supposedly heating the first floor of the Township Hall, has seen better days, came to light as a brigade of about 30 got the project under way.

A CHECK-DOWN in the area previously used as an appliance sales room made it clear that problems of floor plastering and painting exist. patching, additional lighting, It was also recognized that the "co-educational" restroom is not adequate, and dual facilities must be arranged

At a meeting at Franks' home last week an organizing committee was set up which will wrestle with these problems and those in three other areas (finance, administration and enrollment and registration).

Franks will represent city council, Worley Rager, the trustees, Mrs. Charles Stewart, the senior citizens, Jim Moisey, the Groveport Businessmen's Association and Rev. Gilbert Rechart the local churches. Dr. Dick Baer and Rev. George Adams have been named delegates-at-large. A teenage boy and girl will also be selected by administrators of Groveport - Madison High School to represent youth.

FRANKS STATED that later a somewhat larger advisory board drawn from community leaders will be formed.

Lists of areas of interest are being prepared and will be posted Saturday to enable young and old alike to sign up for the activities most inviting to them

According to Franks, any original friction concerning whether the use of the hall should be limited to senior citizens has been resolved with everyone more or less agreeing the facility shall be for everybody.

ONE MORE hurdle in the effort to get equipment for the center was sailed over when Bill Minor offered to donate not only a television set, but a stereo system. He also is contributing his time and know-how to the installation.

Dominican Republic Viewed

Robert Moran, who has just returned from the Dominican Republic, will present a timely documentary film lecture at Wagnalls Memorial at Lithopolis at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Against a backdrop of barbed wire barricades, shattered buildings, road blocks and sand-bagged gun positions, he photographed the rebels, constitutionalists, military officers, revolutions, embassy officials, Peace Corps volunteers and the poor, the rich and the middle class of the nation.

And So It Grows

Poison ivy is good at poisoning even at its bare winter stage. So, if you're giving the yard a pre-winter spruce-up, don't let the poisonous plant fool you. Bury or burn all roots and stems you dig up. But don't inhale the smoke or get it on your skin or clothing — the smoke carries the toxin too.

Ever wonder why your once colorful tulip bed turns out with only one color after three or four years? U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists say the reason is that one of the varieties (usually the yellow one) is the strongest. Since it's more hardy, and more vigorous, it divides better and you get larger bulbs. Many gardeners throw out the smaller bulbs and keep the larger ones. Result: tulips of all one color . . . usually yellow.

Clean out your pesticide storage area now that the gardening season is over. If you have any unlabeled or near empty containers, bury them in an isolated area. A sanitary landfill where refuse is regularly covered with soil is best, according to Ohio State University Extension pesticide specialists. Never drain pesticide containers near a well, pond, stream, sewage system or street gutter.

To store leftover pesticides, be sure they're in the original labeled containers — never in food or drink containers. And be sure your storage area is out of reach of small children, pets, livestock, and wildlife.

Such squash varieties as Hubbard, Delicious, Table Queen, Butternut and similar varieties are among the best ones to store. Harvest them with the short stem attached. Be sure to handle carefully, since any bruise or dent is a likely spot for decay to start.

Cure squash for 10 days after harvesting in temperatures of 80 to 85 degrees with a relative humidity of about 80 percent. Then put the fruit in a dry place where the temperature is 50-55 degrees and the humidity 70-75 percent. Don't pile squash on top of each other in the storage area.

This month is a good one to plant ornamentals in Ohio. If you're thinking of doing some planting before the ground freezes, plan before you plant. Trees and shrubs are easier to dig up and reset on paper than in the lawn. Remember to keep the eventual size of the plant in mind before you buy. Selecting a small plant for a small area will save you hours of pruning time.

What's New At The Zoo?

By VICKI HOY
Spectator Staff Writer

Ground breaking for construction of a reptile house at the Columbus Zoo took place Friday afternoon. Completion of the $428,000 circular building is expected early next fall. The building will house about 500 specimens.

"We have that many reptiles already but no place to display them," said Dr. James C. Savoy, director of the Zoo.

The elephants' home is also receiving face lifting. A dry $25,000.
mote nine feet wide is being constructed around the elephants' quarters. The mote will drop 4½ feet on the elephants' side and seven feet on the spectators' side. It will confine the elephants more safely, give them a little more romping room and still make the grounds more attractive. The project will cost about

Dr. Savoy is looking for a new resident veterinarian for the zoo. The former veterinarian resigned three weeks ago for another position. Several men have been interviewed but "We are in no particular hurry. It is not something you want to rush into," Savoy said. Although Savoy is a veterinarian, with his administrative responsibilities, he does not have time to be zoo psysician too.

The two new female giraffes are expected out of quarantine in New York this week. They are anxiously awaited at the Columbus Zoo.

"We hope they can be here by Thursday but it will depend on the weather and their height," Savoy said.

If they are much over 13 feet clearance under bridges and viaducts may be impossible, so detours will cause longer and slower routes.

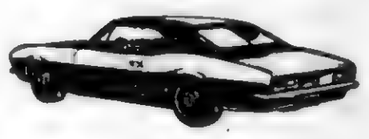
There are some 20 giraffes that will be released from quarantine in New York. Dr. Savoy does not know which two the Columbus Zoo will receive.

Recently two old buffalo were sold and two young ones purchased. The male is already at the zoo and the female is expected soon.

These animals, unfortunately, cannot be seen by the public until the zoo opens next season. There were plans to have the zoo open all year round but because of the construction and extra equipment needed the idea was postponed until next year. Some of the animals are so sensitive to cold and drafts that before the zoo can stay open all year round, double sets of doors must be put on some of the buildings.

At any rate, spectators have much to look forward to.

ITALIAN MEAT LOAF



2 slices rye bread
2 slices white bread
1 onion
4 sprigs parsley
1 lb. ground beef
3 T. grated Parmesan
1 egg
1 t. salt
¼ t. pepper
2 T. butter
1 can tomato sauce
1 t. oregano

Put slices of bread in 9 in. casserole. Pour water over bread. When soaked, crumble. Combine with chopped onion, parsley, beef, cheese, slightly beaten egg, salt, pepper and mix thoroughly. Shape mixture into a loaf right in the casserole. Dot top with butter and bake uncovered in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Pour tomato sauce over loaf, sprinkle with oregano and continue baking 20 minutes longer. 10-12 slices.

Clean, flameless electric dryers cost less to maintain.

Go flameless...put on a happy face!

Most people already know that electric dryers cost less to buy and install. But did you know that an electric dryer continues to save you money year after year? That's a fact. Take maintenance, for instance. Flameless electric dryers have approximately 15 fewer working parts to break down or wear out. This means fewer service calls and longer life for your electric dryer. Another thing, electricity is 100% efficient. And your flameless electric dryer uses only clean, flameless electricity for energy. It's easy to see why every day, more and more people give more reasons for going electric.

Silken Look Adds To Fall Fashion

By MARIANNE TOMLINSON
Spectator Fashion Editor

Long, long legs and long, long hair may be the beauty flash points for Fall '66 . . . but for the long, long look (male) it's what's in between that counts. Specifically . . . soft, silky skin . . . all over.

Luckily, a beautiful complexion is a beauty bonus available to every woman . . . provided she is willing to spend some time and effort every day on the project. Even skin that has been neglected for months and has been left to the ravages of summer's sun and wind can be coaxed back into a state of silky beauty. Lack of moisture and lack of oil both contribute to a dry skin condition; you must replenish your skin with both, say the makers of Polyderm products who suggest an intensive program of proper diet, facial exercises and home massage. Here's how to go about all three.

1. See that your diet contains adequate amounts of Vitamin A. It is found in butter, egg yolk, green and yellow vegetables, fish oils, milk, cream and organ foods.

2. Drink plenty of water.

3. Get adequate exercise daily to stir circulation.

4. Get plenty of rest at night.

5. Keep your home atmosphere humid.

6. Always remove makeup as carefully as you applied it. Use a thorough, penetrating cleansing cream.

7. Add moisture to your skin with a good moisturizing lotion. Use it all over your body; it will provide moisture saving benefits to your skin.

8. Add oil to your skin with a rich layer of emmolient cream before stepping into the tub; let the combination of steam and cream go to work. Leave the cream on while you bathe the rest of you; remove it last with warm water.

9. Investigate the new bath oil for dry skin that adds both scent and suppleness to your skin.

One caution, however . . . don't do as I did and grab the wrong tube when brushing your teeth. Who needs soft teeth? NOBODY . . .

All of us need to strive for good firm teeth and good firm muscles. Exercise is the answer in both cases. In the former, this can be accomplished by brisk brushing and massage of gums. To keep our muscles as firm as possible, daily exercise is the only answer.

Here are a few facial exercises you can do each day to keep your cheeks firm, your jawline from sagging, your chin from sprouting a twin, your nape from acquiring a dowager's hump.

1. Forehead area: Lift eyebrows as high as possible, hold. Relax them suddenly. Repeat three times.

2. Make a semi-circle of your thumbs and forefingers on your head above the hairline forefingers, touching, the thumbs in front of the ears. Now push back toward crown, as if you were putting a tight headband in place. (One over-50 beauty claims this is the neatest face lift short of plastic surgery.) Do this whenever you think of it.

3. Try a bit of Yoga for a pretty neck and shoulder line. Inhale, drop head toward your right shoulder. Don't raise shoulder; see if you can ouch it with your ear. Exhale, straighten head. Then repeat other side. Next inhale. Drop head back. Look at ceiling. Exhale as you straighten up. Inhale. Drop head to chest. Exhale. Straighten. Do three to each position.

4. Tilt head back. Close your eyes. Drop lower jaw. Now close your lips, raising your jaw to do so. Do this ten times. You may look like a carp out of water, but you can feel the beneficial effects on your chin and jawline immediately.

It's never too early to start on a program of exercises to fight the laws of gravity and time. It's easy, when you're young, to think "It can't happen to me." Don't kid yourself. It can and will.

Don't fight it. Switch to the aggressive approach. Exercise.

Contemporary Art Is Subject

The achievements and prospects of contemporary art will be discussed at the seventh annual "Conference on the Humanities" at Mershon Auditorium Nov. 11 and 12.

Henri M. Peyer of Yale University will examine "Modern Literature and the Absurd" at the opening lecture, 11 a.m. Friday.

"Fresh Forms in Contemporary Painting and Sculpture" will be the 2 p.m. topic by James J. Sweeney, critic and director of the Museum of Fine Arts in Houston, Tex.

The Saturday speakers and their topics will be Malcolm Cowley, literary adviser for the Viking Press, who will lecture on "The Parricides and Mr. Papa" at 10 a.m., and Henry Aiken, professor of French at Brandeis University, who will speak on "Art and Anti-Art" at 11 a.m.

SAUERBRATEN

3 lb. rump roast
½ tsp. garlic powder
1 tsp. salt
½ cup chopped onion
2 bay leaves
1 tsp. peppercorns or 1 tsp. cracked black pepper
¼ cup sugar
½ cup wine or cider vinegar
½ cup water
½ tsp. all-spice
6 whole cloves

Rub the roast with garlic powder and salt. Put meat in deep crockery or glass bowl. Combine the other ingredients for a marinade and heat, but do not boil. Pour marinade over the meat. Store in refrigerator for 5 days, covered. Turn the meat once a day. After 5 days, remove meat and brown in a small amount of fat. Add marinade and simmer, covered 2½ to 3 hours, until tender. Remove cooked meat and strain juice. Add 1 to 1½ cups additional water to juice, depending upon the amount of juice that has cooked out of the meat. Thicken with a flour and water paste to make gravy. Salt to taste. Slice meat thinly and immerse in gravy. Simmer slowly 10 to 15 minutes. Serves 8.

HUNGARIAN GOULASH WITH NOODLES

1 lb. beef, cut in cubes
2 med. onions, minced
3 Tbsp. flour
½ tsp. dry mustard
1¼ tsp. paprika
1½ cup water
2 Tbsp. brown sugar
1¼ tsp. salt,
4 Tbsp. catsup
1 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
¼ tsp. cider vinegar
1 6-oz. pkg. noodles (broad)

Brown meat on all sides in heavy metal sauce pan. Add onion, mustard, paprika, brown sugar, salt, Worcestershire sauce, vinegar, catsup to meat. Add one cup of water. Stir, cover and cook. If pressure cooker is used, cook at 10 lbs. for 40 minutes; in saucepan, 2½ hours or until meat is tender. Serve over cooked noodles. Thicken with flour and remaining water. Serves 4.

Opportunity For Men Who Can Qualify For A Career In Police Science

WHERE WILL YOU be in 10 years on your present job? If the outlook is bleak, think of the advantages you can have by starting an interesting, challenging career with the Columbus Police Department.

GOOD SALARY, $485 to $620 per month, 12 days per year paid vacation, 11 paid holidays, paid sick leave, and other fringe benefits, plus a job of service to the community makes this job rewarding from the start.

TO QUALIFY you must be between the ages of 20 and 31, have a high school diploma or equivalent, be 5'9" to 6'4" (weight proportionate), and have a valid driver's license.

TRAINING PROVIDED prepares you for promotion to higher paying jobs. Selection of officers from within the department betters your chance of becoming a police executive of the future.

IN POLICE WORK a wide variety of activity develops your full potential, makes your job interesting — never routine. For a job with real satisfaction, assured respect, good salary, and other fringe benefits with full civil service protection, APPLY TO:

The Columbus Civil Service Commission
67 North Front Street

Bring with you your birth certificate, high school diploma, driver's license, and if a veteran, your military papers.
Office closed Nov. 11, Veterans' Day

THEY PACED '66 GROVEPORT CRUISERS

Area Gridders Wrap Up 1966 Campaigns

It was pretty much a case of the rich getting richer and the poor poorer last weekend as all area elevens but Reynoldsburg wrapped up their '66 campaigns.

Teays Valley (3-6) smothered Westfall, 55-0, and Gahanna (7-2) dropped Mifflin, 29-6, while Groveport (1-8) lost out to Marysville, 20-0, Berne Union downed Canal Winchester (0-8-1), 74-6, Fairfield Union stopped Carroll (3-5-1), 22-0 and Greenfield McClain defeated Hamilton Township (0-9), 34-6.

VIKING COACH Marion Waits credited Greg Hall (five TDs, two called back via penalties) and Tim Wells (two six-pointers) and TV's entire offensive line as standouts in the Ashville school's romp over Westfall last weekend.

Waits also lauded the defensive efforts of ends Joe Bush and Sid Liming.

Bill Welsh was named honorary '66 captain and Cliff Nutter "most valuable player" at T-V's banquet last weekend.

NUTTER, the Vikings' "jack of all trades" this past season, played center, end and tackle during the season.

Welsh was also tabbed T-V's top defensive lineman, the Viking linebacker accounting for 12 tackles per game to pace Teays Valley in that department.

Other special awards went to senior tackle Randy Wilson (top offensive lineman), Greg Hall (top offensive back, top ground gainer all season with over 500 yards) and Bruce Roese (top defensive back, second only to welsh in number of tackles).

GAHANNA'S Lions wrapped up a fine season by retaining the traditional Blue Jug — prize for the winner of the Lion-Cowpuncher game each season.

George Troutman's Lions compiled 338 total yards (269 rushing) as compared with Mifflin's 107.

Standouts were backs Charlie Freeman (139 yards in 14 carries), Ron Doran (returned kickoff 85 yards to paydirt), Al Strickland (61 yards in 13 carries) and Doug Young (got off 64 yard punt).

THE LIONS' annual grid and cross-country banquet will be held tomorrow (Thursday) evening at 6:30 in the school cafeteria.

Ex-Gahanna coach Dick Slager will be the guest speaker.

GROVEPORT coach Bill McCann credited two - way guard Keith Legg, linebacker Dave Ritchie and safety man Ralph Stout with the top efforts Friday in the Cruisers' loss to Marysville.

FEARLESS PREDICTIONS

"Easy go, easy come," was the "Fearless" One's comment on his strange reversal to success (20-1) last week. Overall average: 143-58.

With one last chance to up his '66 grid percentage, the sage offers these final football calls:

WORTHINGTON AT WESTERVILLE —Cardinals close two up on the plus side. Worthington.

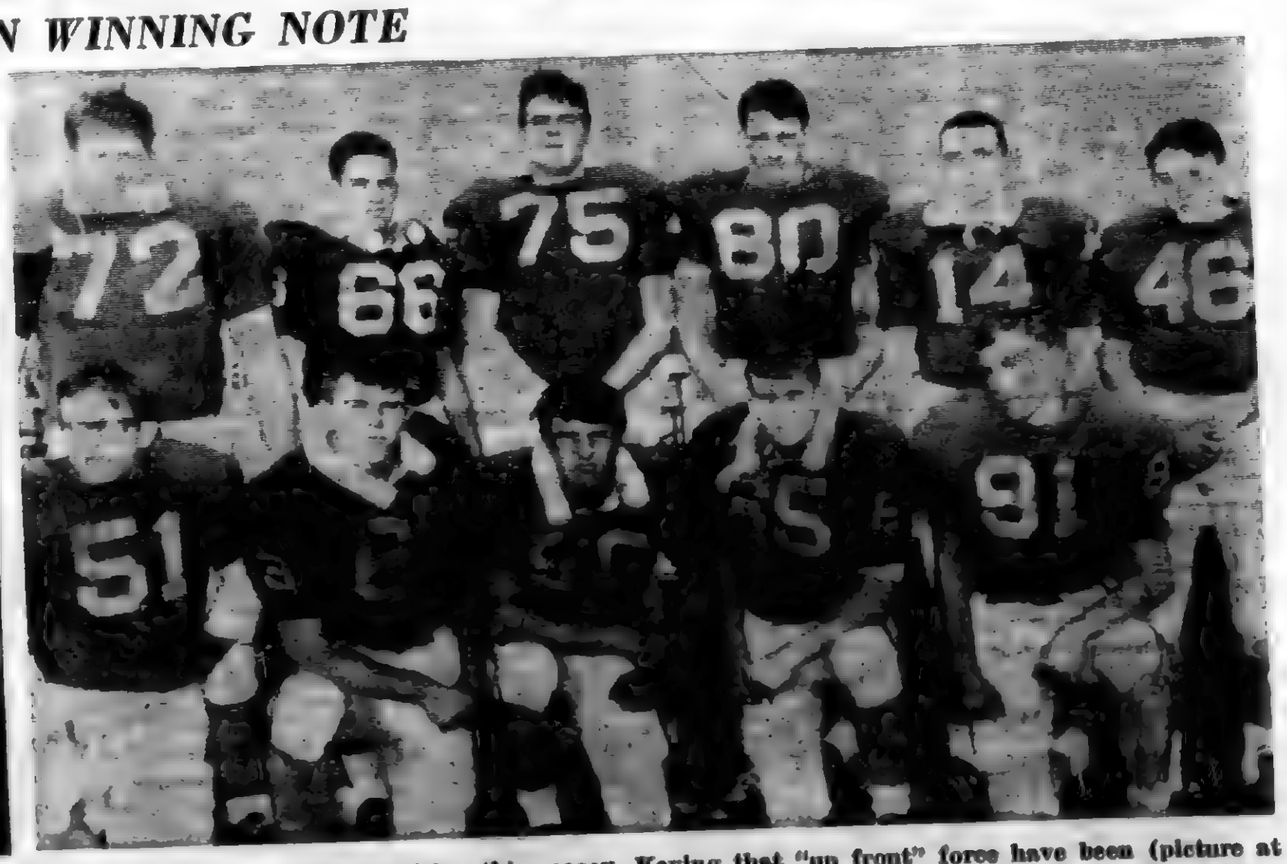
HARTLEY AT MIFFLIN — Hawks wait till finale for "breather" (?). Hartley.

DUBLIN AT OLENTANGY — Shamrocks complete fine season on right side of log. Dublin.

PLEASANT VIEW AT GROVE CITY —Another one of those rivalry games. Panthers should have the edge. P-V.

FRANKLIN HEIGHTS AT MIAMI TRACE — Falcons should leave good taste in their mouths for '47. F-H.

CIRCLEVILLE AT REYNOLDSBURG —Could be rough but Raiders should close by posting victory. Reynoldsburg.



Oh, we almost forgot . . .

WATTERSON AT ARLINGTON — About everything you can name is riding on this one — biggest stake is probably state's top rating. Won't make any friends either way I call this one but . . . WATTERSON. (Of course, I'm not always right!)

GAHANNA CLOSES CAMPAIGN ON WINNING NOTE

ALBERS NAMES MANAGERS FOR NEW EAST STORE

YMCA To Sponsor Service For World Prayer Week

An inter-faith vesper service will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. in the First Congregational Church to usher in local observance of the 70th annual week of prayer and world fellowship sponsored by YMCA's in 75 nations.

The main address at the local service will be given by Dr. Chalmers Coe, senior minister of First Congregational. He will be assisted by Father Krause of St. Charles Seminary; Rev. Alvia Shaw, St. Paul A.M.E. Church, and Rabbi Edward D. Kiser, Temple Israel.

Music will be provided by vocal groups from Brookhaven and Eastmoor high schools. Students from Ohio State University representing numerous nations will march in the opening processional.

The World Fellowship Committee of the YMCA, headed by Mrs. John A. Rosemond, is in charge of the program. Assisting with the service will be Mrs. Karl Kuhn, Mrs. E. K. Patton, Mrs. Lawrence McGill, Mrs. Melvin Koch and Mrs. William Willis.

District Governor Coming

Max Sechrist, district governor for Lions of Ohio, District 13F, will present a program on Lionism when the Groveport Club meets Nov. 17 at the Groveport Methodist Church. According to secretary Ken E. Lang, Sechrist was elected to his office at the state convention last spring. Described as dedicated to the principles and ideals of Lionism, the Marion County farmer who has taught in Marion City Schools for over 20 years has helped organize three Lions clubs in the Marion area, the Marion Evening, Ridgedale and Pleasant. Among the offices he has held are first, second and third vice-presidencies, president, directorship and senior deputy of the district.

MAYOR DECLARES M-D WEEK

MAYOR M. E. SENSENBRENNER holds a copy of his proclamation declaring Nov. 13 as Muscular Distrophy Day in Columbus. Flanking the mayor are Bernard Schottenstein, president of the Franklin County chapter of the Muscular Distrophy Association, and Mrs. O. F. Lassiter, chairman of the women's division of the drive to be staged door-to-door this Sunday.

Old Campaigners

Karsh, Ottawa

Four-year-old Paul Carter Hawkins is barnstorming through his second year as national poster child for Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America. He and Jerry Lewis, MDAA's national chairman, are working hard to raise funds for the Association, which is conducting its annual March Against Muscular Dystrophy this month. Money is needed for a wide variety of patient services, as well as a global program of research seeking the solution to dystrophy and related diseases.

Driver Training Course Planned For Deaf Persons

A four-week course in safe driving geared for deaf drivers and pedestrians will get under way tomorrow in the State Highway Patrol Auditorium, 240 S. Parsons-av.

The course is being given by instructors from the Highway Patrol, the Columbus Automobile Club, the Ohio State Automobile Association and the safety bureau of the Columbus Police Department.

Included in the program will be normal driver-training subjects plus a discussion of special problems facing drivers and pedestrians suffering from loss of hearing.

Sign language will be used to interpret the instructors' comments for the deaf.

Helping to sponsor the program are the Ohio School for the Deaf, organizations of the deaf and law enforcement agencies. Local coordinator is Dr. James T. Flood, 117 Meadowlark-ln, a teacher at the School for the Deaf.

The program was inaugurated in Denver, Colo., by District Judge Sherman G. Finesilver, who arranged the conference last May that launched the local program.

PRIZES OFFERED

Several valuable door prizes will be offered when the Diocesan Child Guidance 400 Club presents its annual dinner-dance Nov. 26 at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel. Proceeds are used to support the Diocesan Child Center, which aids children with mental and emotional problems.

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

Curtain Players presented a rehearsal Sunday of their season opener, "Gazebo," in the modern auditorium of Scioto Village.

A comment is deserving of the girls at Scioto Village. A better audience could not have been found. They received the play with politeness and enjoyed screaming, laughing and the "ohs" and "ahs" that go with the play.

Students from the drama class at Scioto Village built the set for the performance, using what was on hand and imagination to create a remarkable resemblance of the actual set.

This play, which opens Thursday, is a two act comedy relating the "web" a TV script writer spins as he attempts to protect his wife from blackmailers.

Sunday night lines were "down" and blocking was excellent. This is a credit to both cast and director, Ed King.

The lack of characterization was obvious as most of the cast lacked direction. The inability to deliver a line or to understand a line or to react to another's lines was detrimental to the production.

Special attention is due Tom Davis as he has no more than four words in one line and walks away with the show. His "in character" is established quickly and he leaves the stage all too soon.

Another small part that shows good character portrayal is that of Clarence Lewis as the gangster, "Louie."

The leads, Tony Simonski and Ginger Mayer, show promise and would have created more than straight roles if given direction.

Production dates are Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the Westerville Armory, 120 S. State-st, Westerville. Tickets are available at the door.

POETS TO MEET

The Verse Writers Guild of Ohio will meet Saturday at the Columbus Public Library Auditorium, 96 S. Grant-av, at 1:30 p.m. Dr. Cecil Daniel Smith, assistant professor of Bible at Ohio Wesleyan University will speak on "The Poetry of Paul Laurence Dunbar."

TV and RADIO NOTES

On Saturday, Channel 4 will present "The Man Who Knew Too Much" with James Stewart and Doris Day. The Alfred Hitchcock thriller will be on the "Saturday Night at the Movies." The story involves an American tourist couple whose son is kidnaped to keep them from telling the secret of a diplomatic murder they have stumbled on.

Phyllis Wright of WBNS-TV was recently appointed traffic manager of the station by John A. Haldi, vice-president of programming. The Traffic Department is the busy "nerve center" of the television station. All significant information about each day's programs, commercials, promotion and public service announcements funnels into the department. It is then coded, assimilated into the program log and distributed to the various people responsible for getting each show on the air. Mrs. Wright is corresponding secretary of the Columbus Chapter of the Gay Northeasterners and is a member of Jack and Jill, a national organization working with planned activities for children in her spare time.

NO, THIS WAY STUPID!

Bob Markwood gets a failing grade in amour from Barbara Thomas after she unsuccessfully attempts to teach him the ways of wooing before a shocked Jean Meier. This scene is from "Wake Up, Darling," a comedy which will open the season for Grove City's Little Theatre Off Broadway. Production nights are Nov. 11 and 12, 18 and 19 at 8:30 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door, Brookpark Junior High School Auditorium, Grove City.

'Royal Hunt' To Play At Mershon

Tickets are on sale at Mershon Auditorium for "Royal Hunt of the Sun," the stirring spectacle which plays a one-night engagement Nov. 17, at 8 p.m.

This historical play features W. B. Brydon as the intrepid adventurer Francisco Pizzaro; Clayton Corbin as Atahualpa, Emperor of the Incas, and Michael Eagan as the cynical veteran of the Spanish campaign who points out its meaning for contemporary audiences.

100-Foot Cross Sentinel Of Freeway

Not quite a year ago, Roland Perkins guided a venerable horse-drawn plow in a driving rain as more than 100 members of the Livingston Methodist Church pulled it through the mud.

The occasion was the groundbreaking ceremony for the $460,750 church which will be dedicated with Service of Consecration at 10:30 Sunday morning.

THE GROUNDBREAKING opened another chapter in the history of the congregation which began in 1843 as a small group of German speaking people gathered to worship in an old school house at the corner of Third and Mound Streets.

The following year the first actual church was built at a cost of $1,700. It was replaced in 1871 by the brick structure which, with its subsequent additions, served the congregation until the city purchased and razed it to make way for the East Freeway.

In place this week, at the entrance of the church at Livingston and Fourth goes a towering white cross, an eye-catcher viewed by the thousands traveling the expressway below.

RISING 100 feet toward the sky, the cross is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Loewendick.

Loewendick, a Catholic layman, held the contract for the demolition of the aging church.

It was his bulldozer, bearing the name "The Red Devil," that was moved in to level the house of worship.

THE AWE-INSPIRING cross guarding the church is matched by a smaller one, blood-red, that dominates the sanctuary.

It will be bathed, along with the chancellory, by the hues of Jacob's robes with light pouring in through the stained glass skylight, unique in the United States.

Made of laminated rather than conventional leaded glass, the sky-light duplicates windows seen in European churches in recent years, but never before adapted in this country.

Equally unusual are the "Windows of the Apostles" leading to the sanctuary.

The slim panels are each etched with the name and symbolism of one of the Disciples. Simon is represented by a fish, Thaddeus by a ship, Peter by the Keys to the Kingdom, John with a snake rising from a cup of poison and Judas by 30 pieces of silves.

In the much smaller chapel, the traditions of the church will be poignantly recalled by the altar hand-carved many years ago by H. C. Kiechly with the heads of John Wesley and Martin Luther.

THE MORNING service will be conducted by F. Gerald Ensley, the resident Bishop of the Ohio West Area of the Methodist Church officiating and Perkins and Dr. Claude Garrison, superintendent of the Columbus District of Churches acting as liturgists.

The 2:30 p.m. Service of Praise and Thanksgiving will be conducted by E. I. Klotz, pastor of Livingston from 1935 through 1955, now retired who reassociated himself as a layman with the church last Sunday.

Open house will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. with refreshments served by members of the Young Married Class, and Dr. James A. DeWeerd, evangelist of the Ohio Evangelical United Brethren Churches, will preside when Consecration Service is held at 7:30 p.m. each evening this Sunday through next.

SERVING ON the building committee, which raised almost $100,000 toward the new church, in addition to Perkins and Steppert have been Norman Broadway, James Donahoe, Fred J. Duerlin, Earl Gutknecht, Miss Janet Gutknecht, Nelson Hennis, Arthur King, Frank Kairner, John Erwin Kuhn, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Lauterback, Mrs. Porter Munford, Robert Poe, W. Curtis Steinmetz, Frank Turner and Miss Anne Mayer.

The unusual church with the apex of the roof rising 61 feet over the altar came from the drawing boards of Fred Wright of Wright, Gilfillen and Kiske with Altman-Coaty the general contractor.

Erected on a 2.2 acre site purchased from Urban Renewal, the church is 20,000 square feet in area and seats 334 in the sanctuary and another 90 in the chapel.

The terrace level includes the Fellowship Hall with seating for 250 and parking for 150 cars provided.

Shortly after the first of the year, a $28,000 pipe or agnwi year, a $28,000 pipe organ will be installed.

C-W Choirs Plan Concert

The Canal Winchester choirs are out to prove you can still get something for nothing.

The members are presenting a concert which will begin at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 11, and not only is admission free, but there will be no hat passed for "donations."

Among the numbers being rehearsed by the senior choir are "'Dry Bones," "Anywhere I Wander" and "Exodus." "The Gospel Train" and "Tom Dooley" are two of the compositions appearing on the junior choir program. Five ensembles will also be featured.

TB Society Launches Fund Drive

The 1966 Christmas Seal Campaign will be out to collect $225,000 in Franklin County between Nov. 15 and Dec. 31.

The announcement was made by Charles L. Spohn, director of the Ohio State University band and honorary chairman of this year's Christmas Seal campaign.

Expected to be financed out of the 1966 drive are 70,000 free chest X-rays, 45,000 tuberculin skin tests offered to school children, research on local, state and national levels and the TB Society's educational programs.

Spohn pointed out that tuberculosis is still a significant community health problem. Last year in Franklin County, 16 persons died of TB and 243 new active cases were discovered.

This year's goal is six percent higher than last year's to provide for expanding services of the society.

CHARLES L. SPOHN, director of the OSU Marching Band and honorary chairman of the 1966 Christmas Seal Campaign, puts the finishing touches on a poster emphasizing the TB Society's $225,000 goal for the campaign.

CONCERT SLATED

The Ohio State University Symphony Orchestra will play its annual autumn concert in Mershon Auditorium at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Under the direction of Prof. George Hardesty, the orchestra auditions members each fall and selects players from all available auditioners. The orchestra is open to all students on the Columbus campus.

For the Sunday concert, admission is free and the public is invited.

Secretaries Plan Boss Night Dinner

The 21st annual Boss Night dinner, sponsored by the Columbus Chapter of the National Secretaries Association, will be held at the Athletic Club, Nov. 16 at 6:45 p.m.

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the "boss-of-the-year" award. This award is selected from letters submitted by secretaries and screened by the "boss-of-the-year" committee.

The guest speaker will be Dr. Charles C. Noble, Dean of the Chapel at Syracuse University.

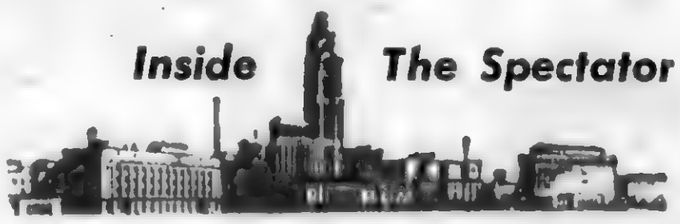
Special Meeting Called

The Canal Winchester School Board will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in a special session with its architects. With the construction bond issue approved last week, Dec. 15 has been set for the opening date on bond bids. Superintendent Carl Miller explained that not until working drawings have been completed and approved can advertising begin for bids on the actual construction. If no major stumbling blocks are met, (everything from spiraling costs to bad weather conditions could cause these) Miller hopes that the new facilities may be in operation by the second semester of the 1967-68 school year.

Come And See Us

Parents of Canal Winchester High School students (grades seven-12) tonight will have the opportunity to visit four 15-minute classes similar to those their children attend. After a 15-minute welcome and explanation of class schedules in the auditorium before the annual open house, teachers at their stations will explain their subjects, teaching methods and grading systems. It is necessary for parents to know prior to the 7:30 p.m. meeting in what courses their children are enrolled.

Walsh Named Chairman



Robert B. Walsh, 4426 Virginia-dr, Obetz, executive assistant of the Ohio Trucking Association, has been appointed chairman of the third annual Trucking Company Publications Evaluations and Awards Program sponsored by the American Trucking Associations. Walsh said that winners would be announced at the ATA Public Relations Council meeting in February in St. Louis, Mo.

Mail Standards Fixed

Postmaster Victor J. Bodish announced that all first-class mail, tape recordings and parcels weighing five pounds or less and measuring not more than 60 inches will be airlifted on a space-available basis between the United States and all overseas military post offices.

Hunting Season Opens

Ohio's 1966-67 hunting season for pheasants, rabbits and quail was officially opened yesterday at 9 a.m. State law requires that all hunters must have a hunting license and hunt between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. They are not permitted to hunt on Sundays. The bag limit for one day is two cock pheasants, four rabbits and six quail. The season will run from Nov. 15 to Dec. 17 for quail and pheasants—and from Nov. 15 to Jan. 28 for rabbits. A guide of all rules and laws for Ohio hunters may be obtained when purchasing a license.

Housing Development Speculation Spurs Hamilton School Board Action

Since farmers in the area west of Alum Creek Drive in Hamilton Township are claiming they have a signed option for their land with a "Cleveland developer," the school board is on the alert.

According to John Savel, Hamilton Local superintendent, no one is talking about final figures, but at least one landowner has stated he "turned down" an offer of $2,500 before signing on the dotted line.

WITH THESE speculations added to the current problems of what is rapidly becoming a badly overcrowded school district, the board has authorized a study of the physical plant that will be needed in the next ten years.

Dr. M. J. Conrad, Educational Administrative and Facility director at Ohio State, has been employed by the board to carry out this work.

Savel explained that with much of the "leg work" being done by the regular school staff, the cost of $1,900 is only about half such a study would usually cost.

UNTIL THIS report is complete (target date is set for March 1967) the board hopes to postpone any decisions as to where or what future expansions should be.

SAVEL STATED, "In the past, the physical plant has been expanded without a master plan and we no longer want to proceed in this manner."

He did report that he has been authorized to explore the possibilities of gaining additional federal construction funds. (With Hamilton educating the children of personnel attached to Lockbourne AFB, federal subsidy is available to them through the Impacted Area Act.)

Hamilton Local School Board has changed its regular meeting night from the first Monday to the second Tuesday of each month.

This was done to accommodate the Board President Jim Stowse who stated he would be unable to attend on Monday evenings.

He has since learned that his fears were far from groundless, as school enrollment has jumped almost 100 since the doors opened in September.

Savel was first alarmed about lack of preparation for the growth potential in the district this year when he learned that the children from a new section of Southern Pines, not annexed to the City School District, were figuratively "his babies."

His prediction that a majority of the new students would be of elementary age, the level at which crowding is most evident, proved valid.

NEW MAYOR FILLS HORNER'S SHOES

Henry Coon Inherits Title And Headaches

Ninety residents of the Village of Lockbourne voted last week.

That pretty well tells the size of the hamlet whose job of mayor fell to Henry Coon after the death of Jim Horner this fall.

BUT IT doesn't tell the size of the headaches that accompany the job.

"I'm faced with the same problems Jim had," he said, speaking of the former mayor who was one of his closest friends "and there's no more money than there ever was."

He was specifically answering a query concerning the need for recreational facilities in Lockbourne.

FROM TIME to time, the community has become alarmed about the restlessness of its children and teenagers. The conclusion has always been reached that organized recreation would give at least a partial answer.

However, any enthusiasm for such a program invariably ebbs with the perennial lack of money coupled with the factor of volunteer leadership at a premium.

Use of the Municipal Building (not only the brain child but the muscle child of the late Horner, after whom it will be named) as a recreation facility has been suggested.

BUT ACCORDING to Coon, these plans cannot materialize until equipment is acquired, and the proper leadership comes forward.

HENRY COON

Actually, inside area is not so much of a problem (there are four churches in the tiny community) as is open space.

Trailers (most often occupied by Lockbourne AFB personnel) sit on practically every vacant lot and in dozens of side yards. Even a game of hide and seek produces a problem.

BUT COON'S hamlet headaches aren't confined to the woes of the youngsters who are cut off from even their schools by about five miles.

Lockbourne's "industry" consists of two grocery stores and a filling station. Not located on a main thoroughfare it cannot even fall back on a strategically-placed traffic light as some small Ohio communities, preferring the description of "speed trap" to "broke" have done.

With the exception of electricity, there are no utilities. Bottled gas is used in place of natural and pumps and septic tanks take the place of water lines and sewers.

AN EFFORT has been made to keep the streets in reasonable repair, but residents are claiming the sidewalks are miserable and streets worse than they've been in years.

With practically no employment available in the village, those in the labor force make a mass departure daily for Columbus.

But there are more left behind than in many similiar communities.

This is due to the fact that many of Lockbourne's residents have reached retirement age.

THESE ARE a few of the problems that Coon has inherited.

It's small wonder that he hasn't bothered to find out whether Horner's unexpired term has one or three more years to go.

He's probably afraid he might learn it to be the latter.

"OPEN WIDE, I want to tickle your teeth," chants Dr. James P. Henahan and second graders learn that dental work can be truly painless. In fact, Suzette Cline seems reluctant to give up her place in the chair at the Asbury Dental Clinic for the next customer.

Dental Chair A Throne At Asbury Elementary

For the past two weeks at Asbury Elementary, the children in the second grade have had exclusive nibs on their very own dentist.

With Dr. James P. Henahan nearly as deft in child psychology as in the profession of dentistry, the children have been having a ball.

BUT WHAT is more important are the goal of Ohio Department of Health which he is carrying out in the southeastern part of the state.

Dr. Henahan moves into a school, and, before he even peeks into a tot's mouth, he gets acquainted with a 40-minute classroom introduction of the basic fundamentals of oral hygiene.

When the children come in groups of five for their "check up," they come to a friend—the jovial "Doc" with a set of props that would do credit to a vaudeville performer.

FEAR IS gone, and almost without exception the tots scramble into the chair as if upon a throne, eagerly accepting the application of fluoride to their teeth and eventually race home with his card of recommendations, demanding Mother and Dad take them to the nearest dentist.

Experience in the southwestern part of the state over the past 13 years shows that the program can be a "chomping" success.

Second graders are chosen as they usually have a complete set of baby teeth plus their six-year-molars.

STRESSING that the time to take notice of these first permanent teeth is from the very beginning, Dr. Henahan believes his work is timed to a "T" (for teeth).

With about 300 children in the Asbury Elementary school, more than 85 percent of the pupils have had their teeth painted with the chemical that studies show reduces caries at least 40 percent. (No child is treated without written parental approval.)

In Memoriam

They don't come along very often.

When they do, things happen. Men like that make things happen.

They don't do things just to make money. The money is a by-product of their dreams. They build things. Things that stand long after they are gone.

They are often simple men and the ideas they set into action are often simple ideas. Ideas, like people, working together can accomplish more than those working individually.

And they make those ideas work. Of such dreams empires are built. From such a dream the Nationwide Insurance companies were fashioned.

They don't come along very often.

Heavy Responsibility

No man in Ohio history has held such complete control over state government as Governor James A. Rhodes does now.

All elected state officials are Republicans, most of whom owe their election to Rhodes.

All judges of the Ohio Supreme court are Republicans, except for one, and several are beholden personally to Rhodes.

All departments of state government are administered by Rhodes appointees, and soon all commissions and boards of trustees will be Rhodes-dominated.

Both houses of the Ohio legislature will be heavily Republican, and Rhodes will have the final word in the selection of both the powerful Senate majority leader and Speaker of the House.

The public is ordinarily protected against wanton use of such power by a probing, aggressive and outspoken press. However, 99 percent of Ohio's press is totally committed to Rhodes. He has pretty much dictated press coverage for the last four years and can be expected to continue.

And while the ultimate judgment rests in the electorate, Rhodes can escape even that because state law (at least for the present) bars the governor from more than two terms.

Since Rhodes will have total authority during the next four years, it follows that he also should have final responsibility for the conduct of state government.

It is a heavy responsibility, indeed. But it is one which he sought vigorously and which the voters of Ohio conferred upon him generously. It can be sincerely hoped that all that confidence was properly placed and will be dutifully accepted.

New Taxes Coming

It should not come as a shock to Ohioans.

In spite of all that prattle you heard about "no new taxes," the state is in for a heavy dose of higher taxes.

And you can bet it will be the consumer who gets stuck with the bulk of the load. After all, "Profit is not a dirty word in Ohio."

Reports are already leaking out of the Statehouse that the state sales tax may be extended to cover currently exempt services.

According to an expert, Dr. George Thatcher, Ohio needs a billion dollars additionally each year to provide necessary services.

It will be interesting to watch the next session of the state legislature struggle with the problem.

It's too bad the tax-paying public doesn't have a lobby. Everybody else has one.

"Nobody Ever Cares About My Surgery"

Ohio's Tax Needs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Dr. George Thatcher, Miami University economist who authored the well-known Thatcher Report on Ohio's tax needs in 1962. It is reprinted from the WBFD Commentator.)

For the most part local governments have one source of revenue — the property tax. The yield of this tax does not respond to the rise in economic growth as much as other taxes in our tax system. Real property no longer is an accurate measure of the capacity of an individual to pay taxes. Taxes on real property discriminate against those who have large property holdings, but whose income has lagged behind the national average. In this group are farmers and elderly citizens. Inaccuracies in assessments of real property discriminate between individual property-owners, penalizing low income people who must spend a large percentage of their income for shelter. The tax on residential property has an effective annual rate of 6.92 percent on families in the $2,000-and-under income bracket. The effective date drops significantly with each higher income bracket to 1.14 percent on incomes above $10,000 a year. In short, the tax places the heaviest burden on those least able to pay taxes.

This discrimination is magnified as the rates of the property tax rise. Unless the rates are kept within reasonable bounds, excessive burdens will be placed on those against whom the tax discriminates. This inherent limitation of the property tax, as well as the self-imposed property tax limitation amendment, prevents much increase in revenue from this source. (It should be pointed out, however, that although property tax collections in Ohio have increased faster than the national average over the past 10 years, the tax as measured on a per capita basis or as a percent of personal income is still slightly below the national average.)

One possible source of new local revenue is a county tax on personal income, the revenue from which could be divided among the municipalities, school districts, and the counties. It is estimated that a tax of one percent of personal income would yield approximately $235 million. This would represent an increase of $130 million over the sum now produced by municipal income taxes. County-wide income taxes when compared with municipal income taxes would avoid duplication of collection machinery by the several municipalities in a county, and administration would be simplified. The problem of allocating income of firms doing business in more than one area would be reduced.

Praises C-F Workers

To The Editor:

The recent Cystic Fibrosis Campaign for funds was the most successful the Columbus Chapter has ever experienced.

All credit for this success is given to the marchers and captains. We thank them for their donation of many hours of time. The willingness of the public to support Cystic Fibrosis and contribute at their door is most gratifying.

Your newspaper gave of its time and space to inform the public that Cystic Fibrosis is an inherited disease of infants, children and young adults that cannot be cured and strikes one in every 1,000 babies born.

I wish to thank all who participated in this year's campaign and I know that it is a heartfelt thanks that each C/F child gives you.

Kudos From Whitehall

The Board of Education has asked me to express their appreciation, and I would like to add my personal thanks as well, for the fine cooperation and outstanding support you have given in behalf of the school levy.

I am certain that our success is directly connected to the untiring efforts of individuals and organizations such as yours who are willing to put forth the courage necessary to insure the schools will be provided the necessary funds to continue offering a quality program of education for the children of Whitehall.

Thanks you again for all your efforts and you may take real saistaction in knowing that you and your organization have made significant contributions to the educational program in the Whitehall City Schools.

barry goldwater ★ Attack On Nixon Unjust ★

GOLDWATER

President Johnson's ranting, personal attack against Richard M. Nixon during a recent press conference is bound to have two immediate effects.

For one thing, it adds a new dimension to the President's growing sensitivity to criticism and will convince many Americans that he really does not want any discussion of policies, that all he wants is blind, unquestioning obedience from a nation of "yes" men and women.

The man whom President Johnson so bitterly and unfairly criticized has done a good deal more to gain support for the administration's over all policy in Viet Nam than have leaders in the Democrat Party. But when Nixon dared question certain highly questionable phases of the policy, the President blew his top.

This is scarcely a recommendation for bipartisanship. It was a display of political temper which will surely dismay many Republicans.

The other effect of the Johnson blast singles out Nixon as the man whom President Johnson has picked to fight in the political arena. Whereas the President has had only nice things to say about George Romney, he has now declared open political war on Nixon and, through him, the entire Republican Party.

Particularly objectionable was the sharp-tongued and highly personalized nature of the Johnson attack. It seems inexcusable to use the White House for such a personal attack, on such personal terms and in such language. Neither Lyndon Johnson nor Richard Nixon is running for office, but the President is accorded the greatest platform in the land and is protected by the greatest prestige.

Lyndon Johnson, in effect, used the office of the Presidency as a foxhole from which to snipe at one individual Republican.

It will not be lost on those who had hopes for more statesmanship and less politics in our foreign policy that the attack against Nixon was far more bitter than any he has launched against those members of his own party who flatly and absolutely oppose his entire Vietnamese policy rather than honestly question parts of it.

The outburst was a performance of which no President should be proud and no American, regardless of party or feeling toward Nixon, should be pleased.

The effect on our allies and on our enemies may be considerable. Richard Nixon is known throughout the world as the man who took America's story behind the Iron Curtain and told it effectively. He is known as a firm advocate of strength and decision and as a firm opponent of the spread of communism.

The President's harangue against him might well call into question the President's own attitude toward those positions which Nixon represents and which, until now, had also seemed to be part and parcel of the Johnson policy, at least in Viet Nam.

william s. white ★ Romney In '68 ★

WHITE

The transformation of Gov. George Romney of Michigan from a reluctant and part-time Republican into an aggressive party leader — in Michigan at least — is one of the most significant if subtle developments of the 1966 political year.

For by this metamorphosis Romney is stolidly reducing the greatest single barrier to what is widely assumed to be his ultimate goal — the G.O.P. Presidential nomination in 1968.

Long since he had accepted the importance of being earnest as a Governor; now he is accepting the indispensability of being an earnest partisan politician as well.

This businessman who entered politics with something approaching open scorn for mere party loyalty and organization types is now dramatically becoming a party regular of the regulars.

Long since, Romney had been the quietly-chosen favorite of Eastern and liberal Republicanism, as exemplified by such men as Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, for the 1968 Presidential nomination. When this off-year campaign opened, Romney's great rival for 1968 was former Vice-President Richard Nixon; and the betting then was that Nixon would finish first at the 1968 Republican National Convention. This was the outlook because Nixon was the true choice of regular and old-guard Republicanism — the choice, that is, of the pros.

Romney, for his part, was widely suspect among these pros not because he had been a poor Governor, but because he was thought to be, and for that matter was, only a sometime Republican who did not care overmuch for the party faithful.

All this estimate is being radically changed now. For even though Nixon's services to the national party in the current campaign have been immense, in a 30-state barnstorming tour in behalf of Republican congressional and other candidates, he is no longer standing klieg-lit and alone as a partisan leader.

The long and short of it is that Romney was overwhelmingly re-elected in Michigan and, through his efforts as a good party man. The Democratic Labor party in Michigan was smashed through a victory for Griffin as well.

Romney is almost certain to move into the posititon of front-runner for the 1968 presidential nomination.

marquis childs ★ Campaign Spending Needs Cut ★

CHILDS

With the shouting and the tumult of the election campaign ended it is possible to take another hard look at the political big spenders. The bill will come due in the months ahead and in one way or another most of it will be passed along to that old familiar figure, John Q. Taxpayer.

During his recent Asian tour, President Johnson boasted about the record of the 89th Congress. While in many ways it is an impressive record there were glaring omissions. One of the most conspicuous was the failure to put any curb on the spending that grows more reckless with each succeeding campaign.

The Johnson Administration sent to Congress a reform bill containing various provisions giving the voter a better chance to support the candidate and the party of his choice. An offset against income tax or a straight deduction would encourage small contributors.

Yet the Administration did little or nothing to get action on it from Congress. The only gesture was the random one of allowing taxpayers to designate $1 of their tax money to be paid over to the party of their choice. This could result in many millions of dollars put at the disposal of party chieftains with no restraints on how it would be used.

The Democrats have come to rely on big contributors through the device of the President's clubs. Conscientious party men, mindful of past scandals, are fearful that this will be a major embarrassment in 1968. In instance after instance a pattern is shown that can hardly be put down to coincidence.

A contractor or an architectural firm seeks and wins a big government contract. When campaign contributions are filed with Congress as required by law, it develops that four or five of the officers of the firm gave $1,000 eash to join the President's Club either just before or just after the contract was awarded.

The response when this comes to light is pure coincidence. But as the relationship with rewards handed out by government is shown that answer will hardly go down. The example of the President's Club is more glaring in light of the fact that the Republicans have shown that an ever-larger proportion of their funds comes from small donors. This is a reversal of the form of an earlier day when a few men of great wealth enabled the GOP to live in high style.

As campaign costs go up, the cynical belief is growing that only the rich can run for public office in this country. The Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, Milton Shapp, a self-made millionaire in the electronics field, spent an acknowledged $1,400,000 to obtain the nomination against the Democratic machine in Philadelphia. His spending, much of it on television, in the campaign now ended was expected to run higher than $2,000,000.

Two Rockefellers, running for governor, Nelson in New York and Winthrop in Arkansas, had available the vast resources of one of the world's great fortunes. This gave them an independence denied to the man of little means who must think what his future will be if he is defeated for public office.

We can call 1967 a last-chance year. If reforms are not put through in the first session of the 90th Congress the spending in the Presidential campaign of '68 promises to get out of all control and a sad commentary on the country's political process.

Madison Board Finds Schleppi Land Costly

At a routine meeting of the Madison Local School Board this week, the members reviewed the election returns with considerable pleasure (the renewal operating levy passed with an unofficial 62.12 percent of the vote), considered insurance bids and considered its current land-site problems.

Consideration of acquiring additional frontage on Hendron Road for the Odhe site by purchase of Schleppi lots on Hendron Road was tabled when it was learned the property was not available except in a five-acre plot and that the asking price was $15,000.

Personnel matters included employing Mrs. Marcella Nolze, Blacklick, to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. Mary Beverly, Edwards Elementary.

Who's For Spanish— Or Cake Decorating?

Carl Miller, superintendent of the Canal Winchester School District, has asked that the forms distributed in the area surveying interest in a self-sustaining adult education program be returned to the school before Thanksgiving.

As proposed, the program will offer 10 two-hour sessions in several subjects one evening a week beginning early in January and continuing through March.

TEN REGISTRATIONS are a minimum number for which a class will be set up. If competent teachers can be found, any class will be offered in which sufficient interest is shown.

The current survey, available at Hartman Printing Company and the school, lists oil painting, speech, furniture refinishing, financial planning, cake decoration, co-educational physical education, personal typing and conversation Spanish as possible subjects.

Anyone who is a resident of the school district and who is 18 or over and not attending Canal Winchester High School is eligible to enroll.

TUITION WILL be $10 for each course, and an extra charge will be made for supplies.

Residents of the Southwood Avenue and Fourth Street neighborhood better "take off" this weekend if they don't like teenage music.

There's going to be plenty of it every evening from Thursday through Sunday with duets, quartets and even a trumpet trio blaring.

BUT IT WON'T be the rock 'en roll variety, and many adults are expected to even have their homes for "front row seat."

It is the program prepared by the youth of the Southwood Church of Christ—a "Youth Revival" to which churches within a 50-mile radius of Columbus have been invited. (A trophy will be awarded to the one sending the largest visiting delegation.)

Tim Coop, youth minister of the Southwood Church, Lexington, Ky., is the evangelist conducting the 7 p.m. services and Gene Stinson, minister of the Buford Church of Christ, will lead the song services.

THE SOUTHWOOD youth choir and the two groups from Southwood pictured above will be joined by groups from other area churches. They include the "Apostles Quartet" from the Welch Avenue Free Will Baptist Church, "The Indianola Church of Christ Senior High Bell Ringers," "The King's Harbingers" (a trumpet trio) from Columbus and "The Melodaires," a girls' trio from Washington Court House.

Enthusiastic about the efforts the youth of the church have put forth to arrange this four-day revival, Mrs. Richard Donovan, 297 Markson-av, one of the youth sponsors, stresses that it is being carried out at a time when juvenile delinquency and the problem child are main topics of conversation.

"THESE YOUNG people keep busy doing good," she stated.

Following the services on Friday and Saturday evenings a social hour with games and refreshments will be held.

FEARLESS PREDICTIONS

The "Fearless One" burrowed into seclusion at his local retreat, hoping to recharge his crystal ball before the roundball season opens later this month.

The Spectator forecaster completed his football predictions with a 5-2 effort, providing a seasonal total of 148 right, 60 wrong (slightly over the 70 percent mark).

"Fearless" is due to return and begin basketball calls in time for the Nov. 30 edition.

Good Depth Should Make TV Contender In Metro Race

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

The toughest part of Russ Gregg's task at Teays Valley so far this year is one that might give a hint at what the Vikings have in the way of a Metro League basketball contender.

"I am having a tough time selecting a team this year," Russ said, "both because of the boys' ability and desire. We will have a great deal of depth, and should have a real good squad.

"LAST YEAR at this time," Gregg added," "we were set with the boys we would use, but right now I am only sure of Teets."

Rodney Teets, the Vikings' 6-4 leading scorer last year, is the lone returning starter. Gone from last season's 11-9 outfit are regulars Butch Kinsell, leading scorer along with Teets, Gerald Green, Gayle Fosnaugh and Gary Wilson, all who averaged in double digits during the 1965-66 cage campaign.

GREGG FEELS that he will have ample replacements for that group with the bulk coming from six returning letter winners and a group of an 11-4 reserve team which won the South Suburban League title.

The returning letter wearers, who are working for the four vacant positions in the starting line-up, are Mike Stone, a 6-0 senior forward, Ron Leatherwood, a 5-8 senior guard, Victor Love, a 6-2 senior forward, John Beavers, 6-0 senior forward, Larry Williams, a 6-0 senior forward.

MEMBERS OF the 11-4 reserve squad are all juniors with 6-5 Roger Kiser working on a shift from center to forward to beef up Russ' rebounding strength.

The rest are Bruce Roese, a 5-10 guard, Glen Gulick, a 6-0 guard, Stan Will, a 5-11 guard, Gary Rife, a 5-10 forward, Mike Lombardo, a 5-10 forward, Jim Chapin, a 6-1 forward, and Mike Kitchen, a 6-2 forward-center.

OF THE newcomers who look impressive are Larry Murphy and Jim Estep. Murphy is 5-10 and Estep stands 5-8, both are seniors.

GREGG feels that the defensive unit will benefit the most from the added bench strength that he expects this season.

"WE COULDN'T do a lot of things that we wanted to on defense last year because we were afraid of being over aggressive and getting hurt with fouls," he said.

On the offensive side of the court Russ fells that his group is shooting a little better from the forward corner position than last year but that the board work from that spot isn't up to last year's play by Fosnaugh and Wilson.

GREGG LOOKS for the biggest bugaboo to be the lack of size at the forward spots, hence the switch ("if we can do it") of Kizer from center to forward.

"But while our board play may suffer," Gregg said, "our inside shooting has picked up."

AS FOR the Metro League, Gregg sees it as a toss up. "I don't think you can pick a team right now," he said, "we have as good a chance as any."

Checkers Travel To Dayton, Des Moines Ice

The Columbus hockey Checkers set out on a week-long road trip today with stop-overs at Dayton (tonight) and Des Moines (Friday and Saturday).

The local IHL entry's next home game is scheduled a week from tonight on the Coliseum ice (8 p.m.) vs. Muskegon's Mohawks.

TEN AREA GRIDDERS MAKE METRO 'ALL-LEAGUE'

Tri-Champs Dominate First Metro Grid Squad

Metropolitan League tri-champs Reynoldsburg, Pleasant View and Whitehall divvied up honors equally on the loop's All-League squad this week by placing five each in the lineup of 22 gridders.

Teays Valley gained three berths while Franklin Heights and Hamilton Township gained two each. Each loop team added three more players to the honorable mention list.

THE SQUAD was divided into linemen (14) and backs (8) with a total of eight ends listed on the latter roster.

Pleasant View's Tony Ward was lone junior on the squad among 21 seniors.

Here's the Metro All-League line-up:

LINEMEN

BACKS

HONORABLE MENTION

FRANKLIN HEIGHTS — Terry Tonkin; John Jones and Don Glover; HAMILTON TOWNSHIP — Dale Brigner, Jeff Nelson and Steve Warning; PLEASANT VIEW — Pat Ward, Bill Greenlee and Jerry Boggs; REYNOLDSBURG — Mike Herold, Bob Gerdeman and Tim Wolfe; TEAYS VALLEY—Greg Hall, Ben Vause and Don Vosbury; WHITEHALL — Scott Graeler, Randy Nichols and Glen Foltz.

Buckeye Ranch Plans Halfway Home

By VICKI HOY
Spectator Staff Writer

In 1957, the Women's Juvenile Service Board reached the goal they had worked for and dreamed of for many years, the purchase of 75 acres near Grove City to be used for the construction of adjustment homes for teenage boys with behavior problems.

This women's club grew to 200 active members with three sustaining boards, and within 10 years, two lodges were built, each housing 12 boys, houseparents and offices of social workers and administrators. It was called Buckeye Boys' ranch.

THE LADIES PLANNED to finance a new lodge about every five years, but another need has become more pressing — the need for further care of the boys after they complete their stay at the ranch. A "Halfway Home" is needed.

"Often when a boy is ready to leave the ranch, he has no home to return to and, although rehabilitated, is unable to strike out on his own," said Les Bostic, director of the ranch.

"Sometimes too, a boy can return to his original environment and fall back into old bad habits," he said.

THE HALFWAY HOME would not be on the ranch campus but nearer town and would house about 12 boys. It would have a dorm atmosphere with house parents. Boys could always return to this home if they wished.

After a boy is through at the ranch, after about three years, placement is difficult. Many of the boys wish to keep the ranch as "home." They return often to visit the house parents or friends. Some need continued regular counseling after they leave.

AFTER LIVING at the ranch the boys become proud of their "home" and they soon accept their chores around the house without contempt.

The ranch grounds are kept beautifully landscaped by the boys, who are paid according to the amount of responsibility required in the job (about 50 cents an hour). This money comes from a group of men who call themselves the Buckeye Rancher Group.

The boys also receive $5 a month allowance from parents or the social agency that sponsors the boy.

Some of the boys are permitted to work in Grove City to earn extra money. This summer 10 boys worked on campus and six boys tackled full-time jobs in the community. Others were placed in activity groups supervised by teachers or social workers.

MOST OF THE BOYS go to public schools and are able to participate in many extra school activities.

"After the boys have shown a healthy response to their environment," Bostic said, "limitations are at a minimum.

"Restrictions depend on the boy," he said. "For instance, when the boy's home condition is stable and receptive to his return, the boy is encouraged to keep in close contact with his parents and return as soon as possible.

Les Bostic, director of the Buckeye Boys' Ranch, supervises and befriends the staff and the boys when problems arise. There are about 24 boys living at the ranch now and 24 staff members.

"If the boys does not want to see his parents, or if his home invironment is unhealthy, the boy may be entirely restricted from seeing or talking with his family," said Bostic.

The individual consideration given each boy is an expensive endeavor.

"IT IS HARDER to get money for operation than for construction of new buildings," Bostic said.

Last year the Women's Juvenile Service Board, through projects and donations, gave over $10,750 to the ranch.

Tuition is $200 a month for each boy. This is usually paid by the boy's sponsor. Service clubs, United Appeal and federal funds help out too.

Some 50-60 boys are refused entrance each year because of lack of space or money or because of the boy's condition.

ENTRANCE screening is selective. Because of the open setting of the ranch, chronic criminal behavior can not be controlled and therefore can not be permitted. The boys must be managed without restricting walls, bars or corporal punishment.

Recommendations come in from the court, agencies or individuals. Requests are screened by a social worker; then the case history is reviewed by the entire staff at the ranch. Then the boy and his parents are asked to come for an interview.

"The team makes the final decision on admittance," said Bostic. "The entire staff discusses each case."

BUCKEYE BOYS' Ranch does not carry the stigma of a reform school. The methods used to reform boys are very different than impersonal institutionalized systems.

The atmosphere is that of a home. Brutal punishment or custodial force is not used; as much freedom as possible is given to each boy.

"The center is mental-health oriented, a treatment center rather than a correctional center," Bostic said.

The intellectually - retarded or those with severe criminal behavior are not admitted. Boys do not necessarily have to be recommended through a court nor do they need a delinquency record to get in.

At the ranch the boys are given order and routine, yet freedom.

"AT THEIR AGE, they are looking for a model, someone to be like," Bostic said. "All the staff tries to set a good example."

EVENING recreation leaders help with homework and play. There is no set time to do homework, but someone is always there to encourage the boys to do it.

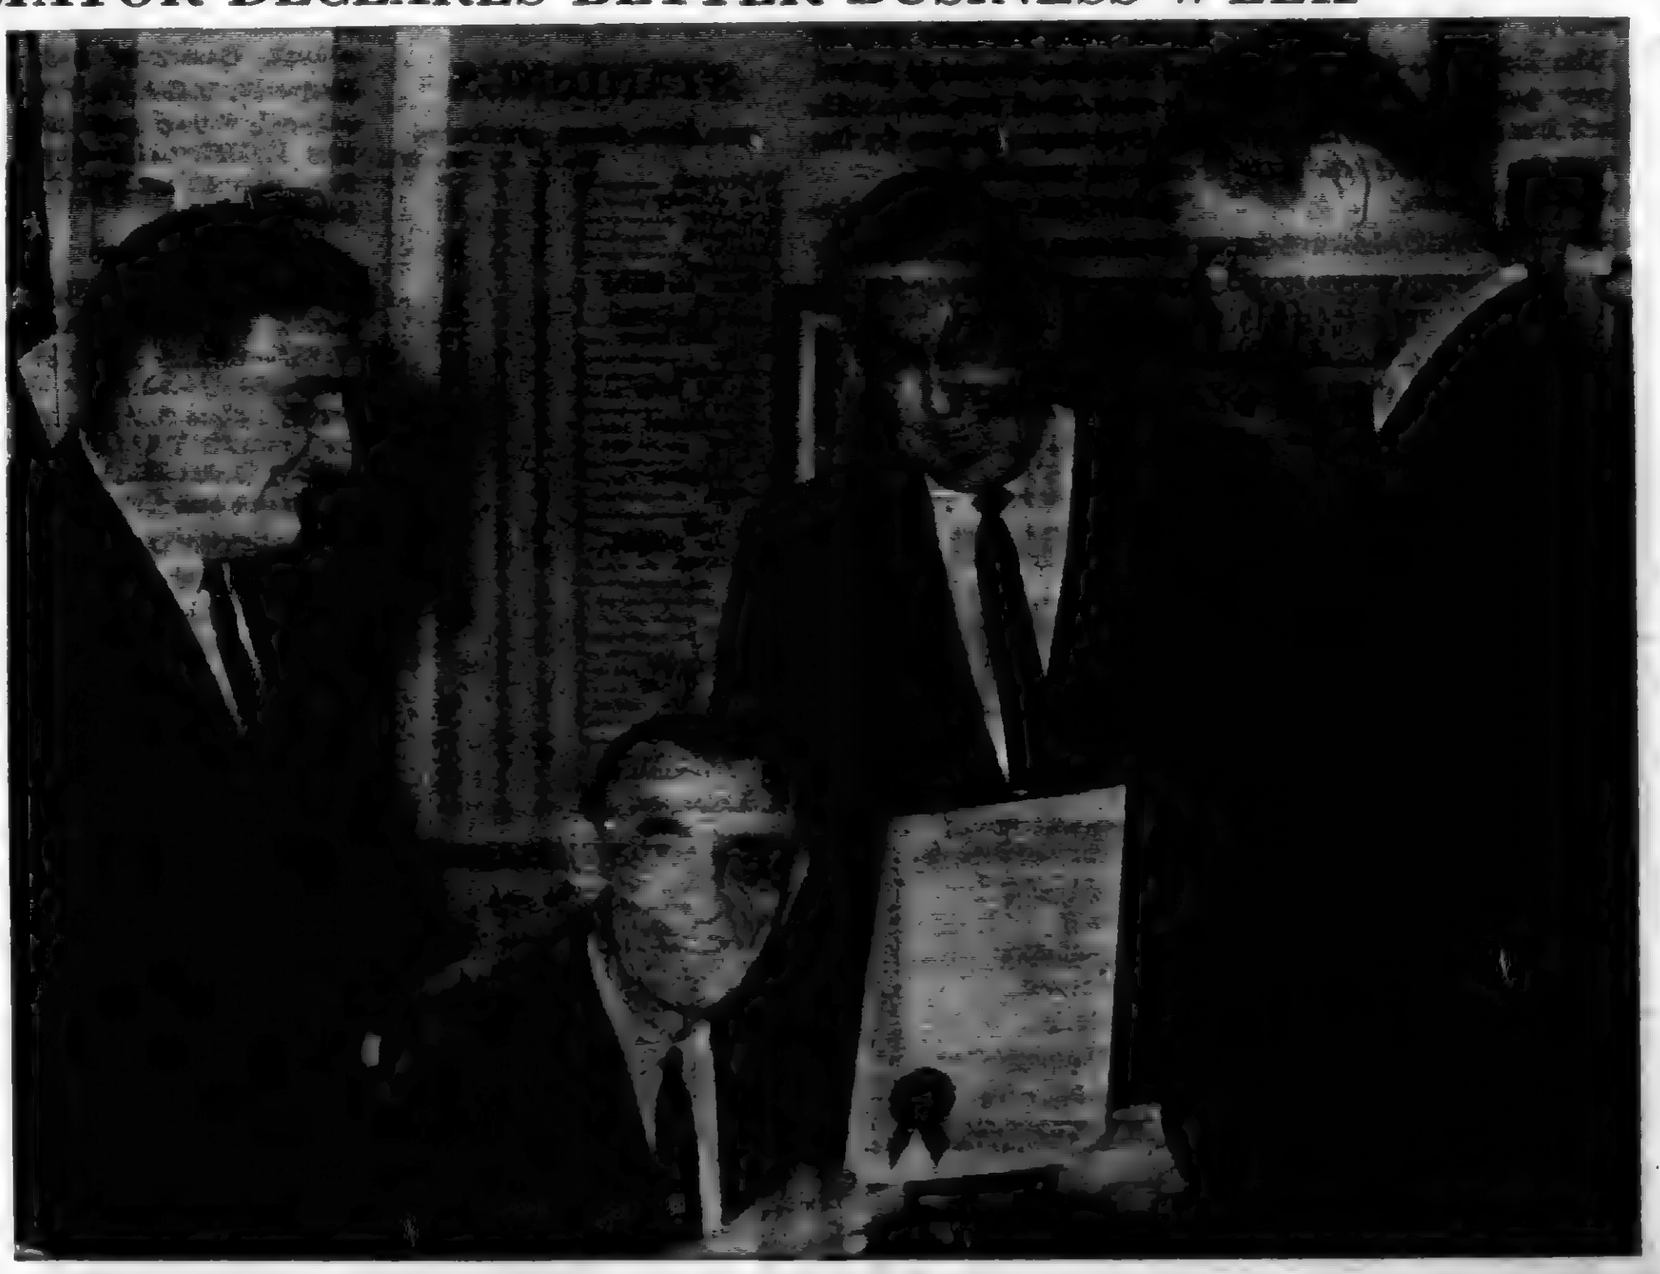
Buckeye Boys' Ranch is staffed with people who really care about each boy.

"Their pay is low, but rewards are high," Bostic said.

St. John's Church Host To Thanksgiving Service

Columbus' oldest Union Thanksgiving service will be held at St. John's Church, 59 E. Mound-st, at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving morning.

The service which has been held each year since 1923, rotates from church to church. Participating churches are Central Presbyterian, Livingston Avenue Methodist and St. John's UCC.



The offering is designated for "Combat World Hunger," an interdenominational effort in Ohio to raise $500,000 to send agricultural equipment and technicians overseas.

Pastor John Omerod of Central Church will deliver the sermon entitled "The Peril and Power of National Pride." Pastor Roland Perkins, Livingston Avenue Church, will read the Scriptures.

Teachers Conference Set

The Columbus and Suburban Council of Teachers of Mathematics will hold its annual conference on Saturday, Dec. 3, in cooperation with Capital University. Capital Math Professor Dr. Harold Brockman will serve as chairman. The morning-long meeting will be held in Bexley Hall on the Capital campus on E. Main Street.

MAYOR DECLARES BETTER BUSINESS WEEK

Giraffes Finally Arrive At Columbus Zoo

By VICKI HOY

Spectator Staff Writer

Delivering two female giraffes to the Columbus Zoo this weekend was routine to Harry Overbaugh, who has been transporting wild animals all over the world for 30 years.

"Unless there are zoos recently built that I don't know about, I've transported animals to every zoo in the United States and Europe several times," he said.

Overbaugh used to live in Africa and capture animals himself. But hauling animals is as dangerous as capturing them, he said. He has had both arms and legs broken, his chest crushed and his nose broken four times.

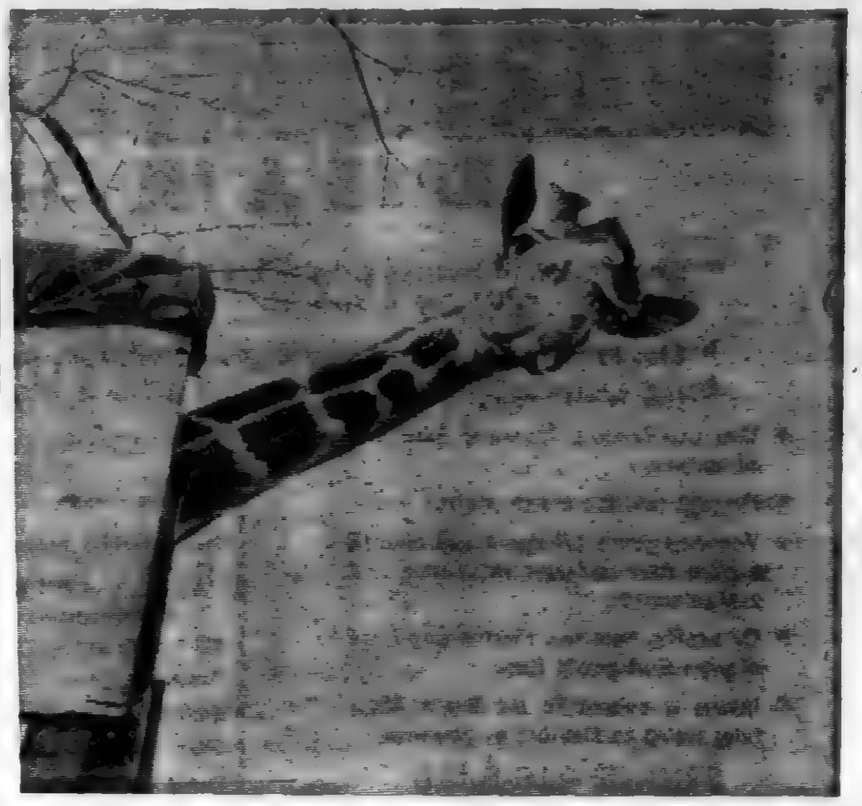
Despite all the injuries and occupational hazards, Overbaugh has retained a lively sense of humor and the patience of a saint. He must be patient, not only with the animals, but with other motorists who do not understand that he carries a delicate and expensive cargo.

"I've been called every name in the book because of the way I have to drive," Overbaugh said.

Driving as if he had a truck load of nitroglycerine, he averages only 30 miles per hour, accelerating and stopping very slowly to prevent the animals from losing balance and falling in their crates.

He stops every 25 minutes to check the animals, especially when carrying giraffes.

"If a giraffe goes down, it often falls with its neck under its body. This can be fatal," said Overbaugh. "If we find one down, we help it back up with our hands."



He found the giraffes going to the Columbus Zoo to be "good travelers." He attributed this to their being in quarantine for 90 days before he picked them up in New Jersey.

"They were used to people, and by the time I picked them up they had settled down a lot," he said.

He had driven 40 hours straight to Columbus, but showed no sign of weariness. He did not stay long at the Columbus Zoo for he was enroute to the San Antonio Zoo in Texas with a load of African antelope. His total cargo was worth $22,000. The giraffes for the Columbus Zoo, counting traveling expense, cost about $8,000.

Overbaugh has never had an accident, nor have any of the animals that he has transported had shipping fever, a dangerous condition resulting from animals being overheated and cooled too fast.

This unusual occupation takes Overbaugh away from his New York home much of the year, but often his wife or grandchild accompanies him. He recalls that, in 1946, he and his wife delivered animals to every country in Europe.

Harry Overbaugh, in the truck he made himself, hauls wild animals all over the country. Often his routes are drastically changed, depending on height of his load. Luckily, the giraffes delivered to the Columbus Zoo were under 15 feet, so the truck fit under all the viaducts and bridges.

Gas Rates On Rise In Worthington

Columbia Gas of Ohio has announced that the service rates for the city of Worthington wgill be increased by .50 cent (one-half cent) per one thousand cudbic feet. The new rates will be effective with all bills after Dec. 1.

The rate increase, the gas company said in a letter to Worthington City Council, is attributed to an increase of cost of labor.

The Worthington ordinance regulating the price which Columbia Gas may charge contains a Labor Cost Clause that allows for the increase.

Urbancrest: Hope For The Future

By VICKI HOY
Spectator Staff Writer
(First of Two Parts)

"In order to conserve water, some of us train ourselves to use the bathroom at work, and many of our children are taught to use school facilities."

The speaker was Kenneth E. Penn, mayor of Urbancrest, an all-Negro community located within shouting distance of progressive, modern Columbus.

But the water and sewer situation in Urbancrest is so bad that residents avoid flushing their own toilets for fear of wasting water.

Urbancrest lies five miles southwest of Columbus, midway between the capital city and Grove City on Harrisburg-pk. It is a low-income residential area with a dwindling population of 1,027. It is one of only 12 cities in the nation with a population of over 1,000 that is more than 95 percent non-white.

Urbancrest residents are faced with buying water at $15 for 900 gallons, saving rainwater, drilling wells or hand-digging wells.

In a community in which the average income is under the poverty level of $3,000 a year, indoor plumbing and a drilled well costs up to $2,500.

"And even then, the water may not be good," Penn said. "Most use old hand-dug wells."

Urbancrest's sewage systems range from outhouses to septic tanks. Often, water and sewage facilities are within a few feet of each other. The village doesn't have enough money to tie into Columbus sewer facilities or into a water line running to Grove City that passes within feet of the eastern edge of the village.

"It's a wonder that there has never been an epidemic here," Penn said. "Sometimes the septic tanks spill onto the ground, creating dangers that the drainage systems may pollute the wells."

The 1960 census showed that of the 310 housing units in Urbancrest, 139 were sound, 108 were deteriorating and 63 were dilapidated. Even in the sound units, only 52 had complete plumbing facilities. Of the 108 dilapidated structures, 96 had no plumbing at all.

Maryellen Meredith, an Ohio Office of Opportunity worker, is working in Urbancrest to help rehabilitate the community.

"In some ways it is almost unbelievable that this community could exist the way it does —only a few miles from downtown areas, yet virtually isolated."

Most of Urbancrest's residents have less than an eighth-grade education. Most work in unskilled jobs.

There are few jobs in the village, so most workers must pay $1.40 a day to ride the bus to Columbus or Grove City. That adds up to more than $300 a year on weekly salaries that average about $50. More than half of the households receive some sort of welfare payments.

Added to physical blight are the problems of the aging, juvenile delinquency and the loss of young persons to other communities. Jobs and federal housing have pulled many youths out of Urbancrest.

About two-thirds of the residents own their own property, but land is hard to sell in the village.

Village Solicitor Bernard LaCour said Urbancrest's growth is limited "by absence of sewer and water systems."

No attempt by Columbus or Grove City has been made to annex Urbancrest.

Moving to change the bleak picture, however, are the village's administrators who feel the time has come to move.

Within the last year many people and organizations have become interested in helping the little lost Negro community of Urbancrest which lies five miles southwest of Columbus on Harrisburg Pike.

The 200-acre community is faced with a flood of problems: there are no modern water or sewer systems, the average income is $3,000 a year, housing is deteriorating, and the youth are moving out, leaving the community to the aged. But Urbancrest refuses to go down for the count. Village administrators feel the time has come to change.

THEY'LL BE FIDDLIN' AROUND

SOMETHING NEW has been added at Barrett Junior High. For years, parents have flocked to the school for the pleasure of the Spring Music Festival. But this year, a preview will be presented by both the instrumental and vocal departments at the Fall Festival dated for 7:30 tomorrow (Thursday) evening. Three members of the stringed section of the orchestra shown are, from left, Stevie Scarver at the bass viol, Becki Arleuge with her viola and violinist Karen Mauer.

Art League Plans Annual Festival

The annual art festival and auction of the Columbus Art League will be held Friday in the court of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, 480 E. Broad-st.

The festival will begin at noon and continue to 8 p.m., at which time auctioneer Si Lakin will begin auctioning paintings donated by Art League members.

Demonstrations will begin at 2:30 when Patti Krumm will demonstrate oil painting, and Vasa Canzani will demonstrate watercolor. Ed Colston will demonstrate ink drawing, and Phyllis Spachner will do portraits at 6:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the auction go toward conducting shows during the year, the May Show at the Gallery and a student art scholarship.

Co-chairmen for this year's event are Sally Schaedler and Patti Blackett.

Community Members Urged To Participate In Testing

The Diabetes Detection Drive, which began last Sunday, is in full swing today as community members are being tested at the Town and Country Shopping Center from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The purpose of the drive is to test residents for diabetes, persuade those with positive results to get medical care and to inform everyone about diabetes symptoms.

Dr. Donald Vincent, medical advisor to the campaign, said that diabetes can be dangerous if not diagnosed and brought under control. It can lead to complications with eye troubles, kidney disorders and hardening of the arteries. About two million persons in the United States have the condition without knowing it.

"Our diabetes-detection committee urgently requests everyone in the community to respond to the campaign for diabetes testing during the week. For those among our citizens who have undetected diabetes, early detection and prompt medical care will almost always make it possible for them to continue to lead essentially normal lives," Vincent said.

Those persons who are overweight, over 40 years old or have diabetic relatives are especially urged to be tested.

Tests for all members of the community are available at the following places: from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday, the Town and Country Shopping Center; Thursday, the Lane Avenue Shopping Center; Friday, the Great Western Shopping Center and Saturday at the Sears Store in the Northland Shopping Center.

The drive in Franklin County is being sponsored by the Central Ohio Diabetes Association in cooperation with the Ohio Department of Health, the Columbus City Health Department and the Academy of Medicine.

Investment Bids Due Nov. 30

With its $1,650,000 construction bond issue sold to the Ohio Company bearing 4½ percent interest and a premium paid of $12,557, the Eastland Vocational School is awaiting opening of investment bids Nov. 30 for the money it will soon have in hand.

Tom Quick, county superintendent, explained that until actual construction is begun, and bills start rolling in, it is not economically sound to allow the money to lie idle with minimal interest.

EASTLAND, the facility on Hamilton Road designed to serve the youth of Canal Winchester, Madison, Whitehall, Reynoldsburg aand Jefferson (Gahanna) school districts has come a long way since it was first considered at a meeting in Hamilton Township more than four years ago after a survey of vocational needs in the area was completed in 1962.

The biggest hurdle after voter approval was gained last spring was overcome this fall when the State Board of Education, with $7,000,000 available in federal funds to divide up among school districts asking for a total of $31,000,000 gave Eastland a priority second only to that of the Athens-Hocking-Perry project which had applied for funds to complete a facility already under construction.

THIS ACTION, which left Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, Cincinnati and Youngstown on the wrong side of the priority list, again brought the "judgment factor" upon which funds are allocated under fire from some of the city districts.

Especially heartening to those who have worked so long and diligently to bring the vocational school dream into reality was the attendance of the business community at a recent meeting where the preliminary plans were unveiled.

Among the local companies that were represented were Jeffrey Mfg., Buckeye Steel Castings, the Ohio National Bank, Western Electric, City National Bank, Dan Royhan Ford, North American Aviation, Burwell Landscaping and the Battelle Institute.

AS THESE industries and commercial firms are among those viewed as potential employers for the students who will graduate from Eastland, it is believed they should have a voice in planning not only the program to be offered but the physical equipment of the school.

One matter stressed by Dr. Byrl Shoemaker, Ohio director of vocational education, was one which has in the past caused some criticism of the proposal.

Attendance of the Vocational School, primarily intended for those who do not plan to go beyond a high school level does not cut an enrollee off from university admission.

EACH STUDENT is required to fulfill the basic academic work required for high school graduation which automatically makes him eligible to enter state schools.

Shoemaker also emphasized that the vocational curriculum is not so much of one of mere "subjects" but an occupational program that will give a student the ability to establish acceptable patterns of work flow, respect of materia'ls and high standards of work habits as well as specific skills.

The federal program is set up so that it must be evaluated at the end of each five years to make sure the students are being turned out with skills and training that are currently in demand by a modern, technological age.

CONCEDING that it seems impossible for a person to "stockpile" sufficient skills and technical knowledge during high school or post-high school training to maintain himself at an employable level during his lifetime, he believes the vocational skills to be offered at Eastland will at least get one started in the right direction.

It was surprising to some of the relatively uninitiated to learn that it is expected several times more adults than youth will eventually find their way to the vocational school

The ground-level floor plan included in this week's Spectator shows what areas are on the drawing board at this time.

ACCORDING to Quick, good evidence that the meeting with those who will some day utilize the talents developed at Eastland was not merely "window dressing," is the fact that the architects, after hearing suggestions from these sources, have already made several changes of varying consequence.

High Pay In Cards For Vocational Grads

A criticism commonly heard of some of the training programs in effect today is that men and women are trained for jobs that do not pay a living wage.

A recent review of the pay rates in some of the fields graduates of the Eastland Franklin County Joint Vocational School will enter indicates these students will not fact such a problem.

FOR EXAMPLE, today an electrician is paid an hourly wage rate of $2.70, and the average wage of a carpenter is $3.78 an hour.

Those learning auto mechanics may expect from $2.05 to $3 if paid by the hour or from $110 to $150 if on weekly sallary. An auto body repairman commands a similar (sometimes slightly higher) wage.

Two fields where the employment outlook is excellent are those of sheet metal work and welding. Those skilled in the former can expect an average salary of $4.17 an hour while welders draw between $1.50 and $2.63.

AN ELECTRONICS technician who can detect and correct malfunction in electronical equipment usually makes from $75 to $125 weekly. Another trade particularly inviting to local students is that of macchines trades as Ohio is one of the eight states that hires over half of the nation's machinists. The pay scales vary from $1.84 to $3.02.

Many young women are attracted by cosmetology; skilled operators make $75 to $100 a week. Chemistry lab assistants have beginning salaries as high as $105.

COMMERCIAL art is one field where the sky seems to be the limit. Although beginners are sometimes asked to start as low as $50, good ones demand and get around $150. Those with an established reputation can earn $15,000 and up annually.

Eastland, offering these and many other vocational opportunities to Madison, Canal Winchester, Whitehall, Reynoldsburg and Jefferson School districts is expected to open in September of 1966.

Jewish Orchestra Open To Lay Musicians

Richard G. Fisher, chairman of the Jewish Center music committee, extends an invitation from the committee to all musicians by vocation or avocation to became members of the Jewish Center Orchestra.

The group is now meeting regularly for rehearsals in the Center auditorium, 1125 College-av, on Thursday evenings, from 8-10 p.m.

Under the guidance of Richard Suddendorf, instructor in brass at Ohio State University and a member of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, the orchestra offers to everyone in the community, without regard to profession or occupation, the opportunity to take part in this orchestra.

Three Artists Display Paintings

An exhibit of the paintings of Ron Franks, John Schaffner and Luray Schitrtzinger Schaffner will be shown in the Battelle Auditorium Nov. 21 through Dec. 28.

Franks, known for his series of paintings portraying stylized female figures, has previously exhibited his works at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, Ohio State University and Columbus' Bryson Gallery.

John Schaffner, an Op artist, introduces the viewer to a visual illusion of shapes and values. He has exhibited his works at the Columbus Art League Shows, the Ohio State Fair, the Dayton Art Institute and the Columbus Festival of Arts.

Schaffner's wife, Luray, is the third member of the group. She is an abstract expressionist and explores a religious theme in her paintings. She has exhibited at the Columbus Art League shows, the New York Life Building, the Ohio State Fair and the Columbus Festival of the Arts.

All three are graduates of the Columbus College of Art and Design.

The exhibit will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

STEALING GOODIES from the kitchen may be "easy as pie," but escaping without chastisement is another problem as David Carter finds out. The whole scene with Mary Anne Rose, the cook in hot pursuit, seems to puzzle Art Ray, left.

Caesar's Ghost Howls

Great Caesar's Ghost!

At Hamilton Township High School that's the word this Friday night and again on Saturday when the curtain goes up on the three act comedy bearing that name.

Presented by the Senior Class, it tells the unhappy story of a fabulously rich young man who is unacceptable as a suitor to the father of the lass of his choice.

It isn't the money that gets in his way, but the fact that he doesn't share his prospective father-in-law's faith in seances.

Before the curtain falls, love has found a way with the help of Great Caesar and an Indian chief, long retired to his "happy hunting ground."

Curtain time is 8 p.m. in the High School Auditorium with adult tickets $1 and those for students 50 cents.

Directed by Miss Diane Levin, the cast includes Mary Anne Rose, Art Ray, David Carter, Ruth Beggrow, Connie Harris, Ann Osborne, Ann Noble, Mike Tomsic, Mike Crapser, Maria Carroll, Doug Walker and Brenda Spradlin.

Carol Ross is the student director.

Results Of Alum Creek X-Ray Tests Reported

Sixty-seven free Christmas Seal chest X-rays were given area residents Oct. 10 when the Tuberculosis Society's X-ray cruiser was located at the Rental Office of the Alum Creek Apartments.

Preliminary findings showed one suspicious tuberculosis and one other suspicious non-tuberculosis pathology.

This service to the public is made possible by contributions to the annual Christmas Seal campaign.

Candy Cane Ball To Open Season

BOTH THE LONG and short evening gowns are in style this fall. The long gown on the left is modeled by Mrs. Eugene (Agues) Kerrigan, co-chairman of the raffle committee for the Candy Cane Ball. Mrs. Joseph Skilken, center, is wearing the very fashionable short "glitter dress." The chic brocade costume worn by Mrs. Jesse (Helga) Eisen is also in style this year.

By MARIANNE TOMLINSON
Spectator Fashion Editor

Are you ready for the holiday season?

I don't mean your seasonal shopping . . . or baking . . . or the many other duties that can be taken care of in due time. More specifically, I mean, are you ready for the holiday festivities, ready for all the gay parties and dances that are due to start soon?

Now is the time to be shopping for gowns and accessories for the special occasions that may dot your social calendar before you know it.

One of the first holiday parties, the Candy Cane Ball, will be held Nov. 26 at the Neil House. Dinner will be at 8 p.m., followed by a holiday fashion show from Josephine H. Tetlow and Leakas Furriers. Yours Truly and Bob Conners of WTVN Radio will commentate the show. Dancing will follow to the music of Joe Lavinger's Tunetimers and Tijuana Band.

This annual fund-raising event is sponsored by the Women's Service Board of Grant Hospital, an enthusiastic group which does an outstanding job. The proceeds of the Candy Cane Ball will help provide the means to pay for their hospital needs. The Women's Service Board has also bought quite a bit of equipment for the intensive care unit of this community supported hospital.

The ladies in our photo today, all working members of the committee, are not wearing their working clothes, as you can see. They are showing the types of attire that will be seen at the Candy Cane Ball, and probably other holiday dances.

Their choice is typical of choices that will have to be made this season because the big question this year is whether you want to go long . . . or short. Both are correct . . . so take your choice.

Granted, the short gown of glitter or lustrous brocade is newer, but the long gown is still a mighty feminine choice for a ball.

Glitter will not be limited to gowns this season. You can glitter from head to toe if you so desire.

Hair-do's for the party season will depend a great deal on hairpieces. From a smooth hairline (no bangs), extra hair will be wrapped and piled with the newest fullness at the back, perfect background for ribbons and jewels and also a perfect background for the new, elegant dangle earrings that sparkle.

Legs can sparkle with glitter hosiery, and silver kid shoes are very popular with the ladies who know what's what.

Even make-up is glittery . . . most cosmetic firms have marketed luminous looks for after-five. If you need help in selecting special cosmetics, speak to the lady who represents the line. She can give you wise advice. She has been trained in the use of all their new products.

Whatever your choice for the holiday season (even staying home by the fire), I hope you have a ball . . . and if you'd like to go to the Candy Cane Ball, call Mrs. Don Fisher, 2333 N. Cassady-av.

Sorority Moms To Have Rummage Sale Nov. 17

The Ohio State Delta Zeta Mothers Club will have a rummage sale at 1360 Cleveland-av tomorrow beginning at 8 a.m.

Proceeds from the sale and other club projects aid in the support of the active chapter.

SOCIETY TO MEET

The Central Ohio Watercolor Society will meet at the Little Gallery, 1373 E. Broad-st, tonight at 8 o'clock. The current exhibit by Alexander Bozcicovic, teacher at the American Academy in Chicago, will be discussed.

ENDS ADVANCED

Pvt. John M. Albert, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Albert, 292 E. Sycamore, recently completed eight weeks of advanced infantry training Oct. 21, at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

Mrs. Dick Scott Has Shower For Bride Karin Brintlinger

A miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Mrs. Jerry (Karin Brintlinger) Hammond Nov. 3 at the home of Mrs. Richard Scott. Karin and Jerry were united in marriage Oct. 29. Jerry returned to duty in the U. S. Navy Nov. 4.

Would you like to make someone happy this Christmas? The Obetz Christian Church is again helping to supply gifts to the Columbus State Hospital. These items will be placed in the gift shop at the hospital giving the patients an opportunity to select gifts for their loved ones at home. This is their only way to shop, and of course, no charge is made to the patients for these gifts. If you would like to donate a toy, doll, billfolds for men and women, jewelry, cosmetics or anything that would make a nice gift, please contact Joy Barr, 491-2191; Ruth Borden, 491-8141 or Sara Stewart, TE. 7-4977. Gifts have to be in by Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Scott were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Cooley of Fayette, Ohio. Mrs. Cooley was the former home economics teacher at Hamilton Township High School.

Services Scheduled

Thanksgiving Eve services will be held at the Zion Lutheran Church, Obetz Road, at 7:30 p.m. Services will also be held at the Obetz Christian Church at 7:30.

Let's don't forget our boys in service at Christmas time and remember them with a card. If anyone has a son, husband or father in the service and would like to have their address in this column so their friends will know where to send them a card, please call me. We have — Pct. William A. Hayes RA 11568472, Company A, 10th Bn, 2nd Bde, U.S.A.T.C., Fort Bragg, N. C. and Donald L. Meade, S.T.G.-S.N., 699-13-16, 3rd Div, U.S.S. Maddox DD731 c/o F.P.O., San Francisco, Calif.

Meeting Set

The regular monthly meeting of the Hamilton Township Junior and Senior High School PTA will be tomorrow evening at the high school.

Turkey Shoots are held every Sunday beginning at noon at the Obetz Business Men's Park sponsored by the Obetz Business Men's Association. They will be continued every Sunday as long as weather permits. Prizes include hams, turkeys and chickens.

IN & AROUND TOWN

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

University Play Convincing

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Spectator Entertainment Editor

"The subject hounded me" is George Sklar's reason for writing "And People All Around." This poignant play which deals with civil rights is presented by University Theatre through the American Playwrights' Theatre program. Under the APT program new plays are offered to non-profit producers for one year before going to Broadway.

Embarrassment, anguish and finally tears stir the audience as this two act drama unfolds. Taking one incident of a southern community's oppression of civil rights workers through vile phone calls, house burnings and murder, George Sklar creates a play concerning today's events with such credibility that one almost forgets he is watching a play.

The cast is capable and certainly aware of its challenge to make the audience aware of the human indignities about which the author writes. The central characters, Edward Debic as a Southerner with a conscious and Judith Higgins as a COFO worker from New York, perform well.

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

Two new theater houses will open Wednesday, marking a new realm in theater for movie advocates.

North, east and west areas of town now have modern theaters designed for the convenience and the comfort of their patrons.

Having taken the grand tour of Great Western Cinema Saturday, it is obvious all three theaters are designed on the same plan with only a few changes in color scheme and structure for variation.

The first of three cinemas to open here was Town and Country Cinema which has been in operation six weeks.

All three, University Cinema, Great Western and Town and Country will show the same movies, with only a slight variation in their Saturday Kiddie Shows, in regards one to realize that this movie is just for entertainment. After that, laugh you will as Dean Martin is Dean Martin and Joey Bishop is Joey Bishop.

The story line is weak; there is no real plot; this movie is just for the sheer fun of it all.

to prizes and games; this is due to the imagination of each manager.

For an opener, a slapstick-type "western" will run. Dean Martin, as the "typical" cowboy and his sidekick Joey Bishop as an Indian, yes, an Indian, star in "Texas Across The River."

A mockery of every typical gun fight, fist fight, Indian attack and the usual scenes of a "western" takes place in one hour and forty-one minutes. There are some very funny scenes as the movie unreels.

It takes fifteen minutes for City's Theater-Goers Treated To Musical

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Spectator
Entertainment Editor

Tomorrow and Friday, Columbus Theater-goers will be treated to a musical production at Veterans Memorial. "Guys and Dolls" will be presented by community theater group, Independent Players.

With a cast of nearly fifty, Bob Stegmiller, stage director, Paul Harris, musical director, and Frank Cary, assistant musical director, have taken nine weeks of rehearsals and formed a nostalgic production of "Guys and Dolls."

Some song titles from the musical include "Guys and Dolls," "Bushel and a Peck," "If I Were a Bell," "Luck Be a Lady" and "Sit Down, You're Rockin' the Boat."

Leading the cast is Skip Balthaser whose background in theater is quite impressive, and Linda Nichols who recently appeared in Stadium's "The King and I." Fred Luper as Nathan Detroit, a typical Damon Runyan character and his fiance of fourteen years, Miss Adelaide, played by Annette Plasterer, round out the main leads.

If you like musicals and want sheer entertainment don't miss this almost professional production. Tickets are available at Central Ticket Office or at Veterans Memorial on Thursday and Friday. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Comedy Begins Community Group Theater Season

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Spectator Entertainment Editor

Little Theatre Off Broadway has opened its season with a comedy, "Wake Up, Darling" under the direction of Dick Grace.

A comment is due the community theater group for its "after-the-performance" confab with the audience. Announcing officers, patron members and giving a special welcome to newcomers presents a true community theater spirit.

As for the play the scenes move fast, the set design is in keeping with the characters and the acting is of better caliber than in past productions.

TV And Radio Notes

Leonard Bernstein's topic for the premiere broadcast of the 10th season of the New York Philharmonic Young People's Concerts will be "What Is a Mode?".

Bernstein will explain that a mode in music is a scale, and that a scale is simply a way of dividing the distance between any note and the same note repeated an octave higher.

This concert will be Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

Channel 10 will broadcast a two-hour parade of parades on Thanksgiving Day, 10 a.m. to noon.

Well-known entertainers will narrate the three parades. Arthur Godfrey and Bess Myerson will cover the R. H. Macy parade in New York; Mike Douglas and Marilyn Van Derbur will cover the J. L. Hudson parade in Detroit, and Jim Backus and Bob Denver will narrate Eaton's Santa Claus parade in Toronto.

Wedding anniversaries to receive acknowledgement include those of Cliff and Juanita Berger, Dorothy and Pete Kessler and Thelma and Joe Gleich.

Co-Chairmen Named

Mrs. Emma Dennis and Mrs. Allan Barclay are co-chairmen of the final "football dinner" scheduled for this year at the Harmony Glee Club, 435 E. Kossuth-st. The feature of the 2 to 5 p.m. serving Saturday will be cube steaks.

So They May Give

Our week's donors for the "Gifts for Giving" project are Marie Myers, Bertha Richards and Lillian Ryan, and it makes us feel so appreciative to receive the "gifts" which will be given to patients of Benjamin Franklin Hospital to give to their families on Dec. 25! Other interested donors may call us at 444-1051, if they care to do so.

Hodge-podge hop-scotch . . . "Our Wonderful World of Music" will be the theme for the PTA meeting of Barrett Junior High, at 8 p.m. tomorrow. The Fall Festival of Music will feature selections by the instrumental pupils of Herbert Germain and the vocal groups under the direction of Andrew Denman.

Laurel Court No. 40, Order of the Amaranth, will meet Monday, 7:30 p.m., at 697 S. High-st.

The meeting day of PEBS, Chapter 2, will feature bowling at the Berwick Lanes in the morning, followed by a noon luncheon at Shade's Restaurant.

The Women's Sewing and Service Guild of St. Paul's United Church of Christ will meet at the church Monday.

Open House Thursday

The Christian Day School of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold an "open house" at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The annual Christmas Fair sponsored by the WSCS of Thurman Avenue Methodist Church is being held today and will continue until 8 tonight. The 5 to 7 p.m. supper menu will be baked ham, scalloped potatoes, green beans, cranberry relish, relish plate, homemade pie, rolls and butter and coffee, tea or milk. Adult tickets are $1.50, children's portions 75 cents. Many items are available at the fair.

ESTHER CIRCLE TO MEET

Esther Circle of St. John's United Church of Christ will meet today in the home of Emilie and Louise Schmidt, 1169 Livingston-av. The Young Adults of the Church will hold a 6:30 p.m. potluck dinner Saturday in the Fellowship Hall of St. John's.

Listed at the South High EUB is the Cub Pack meeting, 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, and the annual congregational meeting Sunday at 9:15 a.m.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason, who became the parents of little Stefanie, born Oct. 7. Proud grandparents are Mary and Paul Mason, naturally! (Stefanie's maternal grandparents are residents of Germany, and so will not be able to enjoy her personally.)

Awarded Bronze Star

Capt. David S. Reid (USSAF) has been presented the "Bronze Star" for his efforts in forming a well-rounded Air Force judicial system in Southeast Asia. Capt. Reid served as assistant staff judge advocate to Ton Son Nhut from Sept. 5, 1965 to Aug. 27, 1966. A native of Muskogee, Okla., Capt. Reid has been serving with the Air Force since 1963. He has previously seen duty with the U.S. Navy and acted as a representative to the Oklahoma State House of Representatives in 1955-1956. He and his wife, Constance, reside at 6382 Livingston-av, Reynoldsburg.

Program Slated

The Village Aires will present a program in the auditorium of Lincoln Junior High School, Gahanna, Dec. 3. Proceeds from the variety show will be given to the Lincoln High School Marching Band to assist in financing a trip to the Orange Bowl.

To Be Honored

The Reynoldsburg Raiders, Metropolitan League tri-champions, will be honored at a banquet sponsored by the Raider Athletic Boosters Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the high school. Jack Smith, football coach at Ohio Wesleyan University, will be the guest speaker for the affair. Parents and friends of the teams are invited to attend. Tickets are $1.50, and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Robert Hundley, 866-3763.

Auction Is Set

The annual Christmas auction of the Reynoldsburg Garden Club will be held tomorrow at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Russell Ream, 7648 Broadwyn-dr. The sale features handmade Christmas decorations and gift items. All members are asked to bring guests. Proceeds from the auction will be used for the club's project of beautifying the grounds at the city building.

St. John's Church Host To Thanksgiving Service

Columbus' oldest Union Thanksgiving service will be held at St. John's Church, 59 E. Mound-st, at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving morning.

The service which has been held each year since 1923, rotates from church to church. Participating churches are Central Presbyterian, Livingston Avenue Methodist and St. John's UCC.

The offering is designated for "Combat World Hunger," an interdenominational effort in Ohio to raise $500,000 to send agricultural equipment and technicians overseas.

Pastor John Omerod of Central Church will deliver the sermon entitled "The Peril and Power of National Pride." Pastor Roland Perkins, Livingston Avenue Church, will read the Scriptures.

NEWSIES PLAN FACTORY SOLICITATION

MOM'S GOT A NEW FLAME!

...AND DAD APPROVES!
Mom's new flame is a clean, modern, dependable Gas range. It was love at first light.
Her new flame is the sensitive type. Responds to her slightest whim. It starts cooking when she wants, stops cooking the instant she turns off the burner, and offers 1,001 shades of heat in between.
Only Gas ranges have the instant control that means less wasted heat before and after the actual cooking. Keeps your kitchen cool. Only Gas ranges let you broil with the oven door closed. Keeps your kitchen clean.
And only Gas ranges offer such exciting new styles, gleaming eye-level ovens, appetizing new colors. New cooking ideas, too, only on modern Gas ranges—ovens that keep dinner serving-hot for hours without overcooking, new automatic self-basting Gas rotisseries and many others you'll have to see to believe.
But best of all, food looks better and tastes better when it's cooked with a clean Gas flame.
Here's more food for thought: Think of all the things you can do with the money you save with Gas.

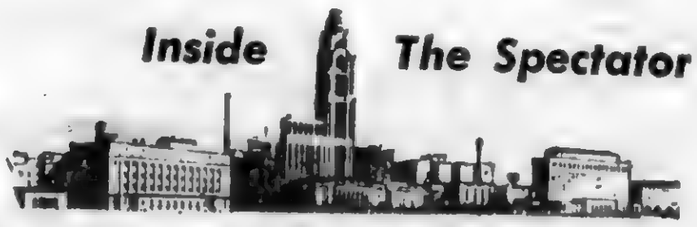
Tenenbaum Named Editor

Spectator Publisher Robert W. Burdock today announced the appointment of Robert Tenenbaum as managing editor of the seven Spectator Newspapers. Tenenbaum, 25, joined The Spectator in April, 1966, after three years as statehouse correspondent and staff writer for United Press International. A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., Tenenbaum is a graduate of Cleveland Heights, O., High School and the journalism school of Ohio University. He and his wife, Judy, a teacher at Goshen Lane Elementary School in Gahanna, live at 3998 Andrus-av in Whitehall.

Wreath Blessing Planned

A community Advent wreath blessing will be held in the Groveport Municipal building Saturday at 2:30 p.m. This is the first time that a community blessing has been held in Groveport. Sponsoring the ceremony will be Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian and Catholic churches. After the formal blessing, the wreath will be placed in each church during the Advent season. The public is invited to the ceremony where refreshments will be served.



Post Office Wants Trucks

Bidding closes next Wednesday on the closed and covered stake body trucks needed by the Columbus Post Office to deliver Christmas mail. Almost 200 vehicles ranging in size from vanettes to semi-tractors and cargo trailers will be rented, without drivers, on an hourly basis. They will be used seven to nine hours daily, averaging 30 miles. Bid forms are available in Room 127 of the Main Post Office, phone 469-5768.

Freeway To Open

The East Freeway section from James Road to Hamilton Road was scheduled to open today, State Highway Department officials said. Opening of the vital freeway leg has been delayed by bad construction weather. The James Road extension linking the freeway to U.S. 33 near the Berwick Plaza Shopping Center was opened to local traffic last week. The next section of the East Freeway, to Noe-Bixby Road, is scheduled for a spring opening.

WINTERTIME FUN COMING

TIME HAS a way of slipping by, and the customary Fall Festival of the Brice Elementary PTA has developed into a Winter Festival, planned for Dec. 3 from 3 to 7:30 p.m. Advance tickets are available from any student for a nickel. The attractions offered include games, movies, cake walks, a country store and gift shop and a refreshment stand with sandwiches and baked goods. Among the gifts in tune with the holiday season, Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill McClure of Edgewater Park, found the "toothpick tree" particularly fascinating. From left are Mrs. Donald Eisnaugle, 3479 Noe-Bixby, publicity chairman; Mrs. Robert Longstreth, 4585 Refugee-rd, ways and means chairman, and Mrs. Floyd Cantrell, 4765 Harbor-blvd, program chairman.

Teens Plan Benefit At New Civic Center

With the Edgewater Park Firemen's Auxiliary making the first cash contribution ($25) to the Groveport Civic Center, the new facility has opened a bank account.

According to Pete Franks who has pushed the project from the beginning, the next thing on the agenda is to get the doors open.

THIS, HE reports, isn't too easy with funds yet inadequate to meet even the utility bills on the first floor of the Town Hall, made available by the Madison Township Trustees.

But he is determined that by Saturday night when teenagers of the community, headed by Jim Gallione and Gary Valentine, president of Groveport-Madison High School Student Council and Band Club respectively, sponsor a benefit dance at the Center, coal will have been purchased and things going steamingly.

With finances the chief concern at this point, Jim Moisey is chairman of the fund raising drive.

IN ADDITION to the upcoming dance, house to house solicitation is planned and letters will be sent out to all the businessmen in the community telling them of the needs of the Center.

Another pressing matter is that of learning the precise interests of the townspeople, of all ages, who will be using the new facility.

Franks has posted sign-up sheets so that these preferences may be evaluated and acted upon.

THOSE IN the field of instruction involves subjects from fiction writing and basic bridge to modern dance and baton twirling.

Clubs which may be formed if sufficient interest is shown include stamp and coins, photography, radio and junior rifle and pistol.

Police Chief Al Whipple has offered to handle this last area and volunteers are already available in several others.

GENERAL ACTIVITIES which Franks has listed included leather craft, pottery and ceramics, dramatics, slot car racing, needle craft and a town band.

Currently, an effort is being made to get the women of the town to volunteer several hours in the afternoon to man the Center so that it can be opened to allow youngsters and others to come in and sign up for the classes and/or other activities of their choice.

"To be of value to the community," Franks stressed, "this Center will have to be used. Arrangements must be made to have it open when any recognized group wants to use it."

SOON, HE reported, a new insigna will be seen around town to remind everyone that Groveport does have a recreational facility.

It is a shield, designed by Dr. Dick Baer and bearing the legend "Booster-Groveport Civic Center."

Anyone making a contribution, large or small, will earn the right to display the shield.

Sometimes when "the die is cast" there is no opportunity to revoke the action.

But voters in the Teays Valley District are not in this predicament.

ON DEC. 13 they will be given the opportunity to reconsider their negative vote cast Nov. 8 which denied the school board a three-mill increase in operating income and cut by almost 40 percent the existing operating levies.

According to George McDowell, Pickaway County Superintendent, it is completely unrealistic to believe "business can go on as usual" with this drastic cut in income.

The 15.7 mills authorized before the six mill renewal was defeated had already proved inadequate to meet current expenses.

AS GENE Tosca, chairman of the Citizen Committee that is fighting to restore the levy, pointed out, the school has been "going in the red" for the past four and one-half years.

THIS DEFICIT financing was made possible by a $100,000 cushion in existence when the new high school opened in 1962.

This has been completely depleted and coupled with rising costs of an inflated economy, the board deemed the three mill increase the only means of balancing the budget. (Stopgap measures such as combining the responsibilities of superintendent and high school principal and dispensing with a full-time guidance director had already been exhausted.)

THE BOARD and staff are reluctant to be put into the position of threatening the community with curtailment of services, but feel they are obligated to acquaint the public with the incontrovertible facts.

If the millage is not restored, it is inevitable, according to McDowell, that the building doors will be locked after school hours and not available for any community functions.

Secondly, the athletic program will be put on a pay-as-you-go basis, and the school buildings will not be available for any events that cannot afford to pay rental for their use.

ALL WORKBOOKS now furnished by the school will be purchased by the student, and an assessment will be levied for the use of regular textbooks.

With bus transportation of high school students a matter of discretion with individual school districts, it is realized that serious consideration must be given to abandoning extensive bus routing.

And, according to McDowell and Orlan Hines of the school board, no single problem is more eminent than the loss of teachers.

FOR THE FIRST time in years, Teays Valley lost almost 20 percent of its teachers. Authorities attribute this directly to the fact that the basic salary schedule of $4,500 a year is not competitive with that of neighboring districts.

One of the puzzling aspects of the Teays Valley crisis is that the school district is a comparatively wealthy one, a situation that precludes it from the state aid that is available to districts where pupil evaluation is far below the $18,000 appearing on the tax duplicate for each Teays Valley school child.

"Some people seem to think the state or federal government will keep these schools open," McDowell stated, "but they are wrong. Federal monies aren't intended for operating expenses, and our wealth precludes us from additional help from the state."

Tightening of the purse strings by property owners already paying lower taxes than in 31 surrounding districts has set off a search for an answer.

ONE unpleasant one has come up.

That is the matter of personality differences, and petty matters have been allowed to influence a decision that is of vital concern to everyone in the community — the education of its youth.

The renewal of the six-mill levy and that of the additional three mills will be separated on the ballot.

ACCORDING to McDowell, passage of the six mills will guarantee that the doors will stay open, but by itself will not be sufficient to maintain education at the level expected from accredited schools.

The superintendent also pointed out that a bare majority will not carry the issue.

In a special election, a 55 percent vote is required.

One cheerful note was voiced. The county auditor is holding her books open until after Dec. 13, so that if the issues pass, tax money will be available the next fiscal year.

C-W Board To Secure Appraisals

Superintendent Carl Miller was asked to secure appraisals from three sources on property adjacent to the Canal-Winchester School when the board met in special session last week.

Miller explained the action by stating it was a step "to establish a possible price" on ground that will be needed to enlarge playground area.

HE IS EXPECTED to be able to report to the board when it meets in special session Dec. 1 to give the architectural drawing for the new elementary wing and other school additions further consideration.

Although any time schedule is still tentative, it is hoped advertising can begin in time for bids to be awarded the middle of March.

OTHER BUSINESS included moving the regular December meeting from Dec. 13 to Dec. 15 when bids on the investment bonds will be ready to be acted upon, and the appointment of Clark Davis as freshman basketball coach will be made.

Thanksgiving, 1966

Thanksgiving, 1966, and again all is not well with the world.

As the day of giving thanks dawns, the world is embroiled in turmoil — in Southeast Asia, in Africa, in the Near East.

American soldiers will eat a turkey dinner in the jungles of Viet Nam — and some will never eat another meal.

Millions of Americans, too poor to really celebrate, will spend Thanksgiving like any other day, scratching to make enough to feed the family for another day.

But for most of us, Thanksgiving is truly a day to count our many blessings. It is a day to spend with the family, thanking God for what we have and hoping to someday acquire what we don't have.

The Spectator Newspapers, mindful that we, too, owe thanks to many, take this opportunity to thank our readers who have helped us through the past year.

And we take the opportunity, also, to pray that next year, Thanksgiving will find the world at peace and the fight against ignorance, bigotry, disease and poverty a step nearer to victory.

Talks Needed Now

Franklin County voters made it clear in the Nov. 8 election that they felt a new County Courthouse was a luxury the county could well do without.

While approving a new jail and juvenile correctional facilities, they turned thumbs down on the proposed tax levy for construction of a new courthouse and remodeling of existing structures.

The defeat of a courthouse levy gives new hope to the idea of a joint city-county office complex located somewhere in the downtown area.

Thus far, however, both sides have insisted that the building be constructed either in the Civic Center, in the case of the city, or the Market-Mohawk area, in the case of the county.

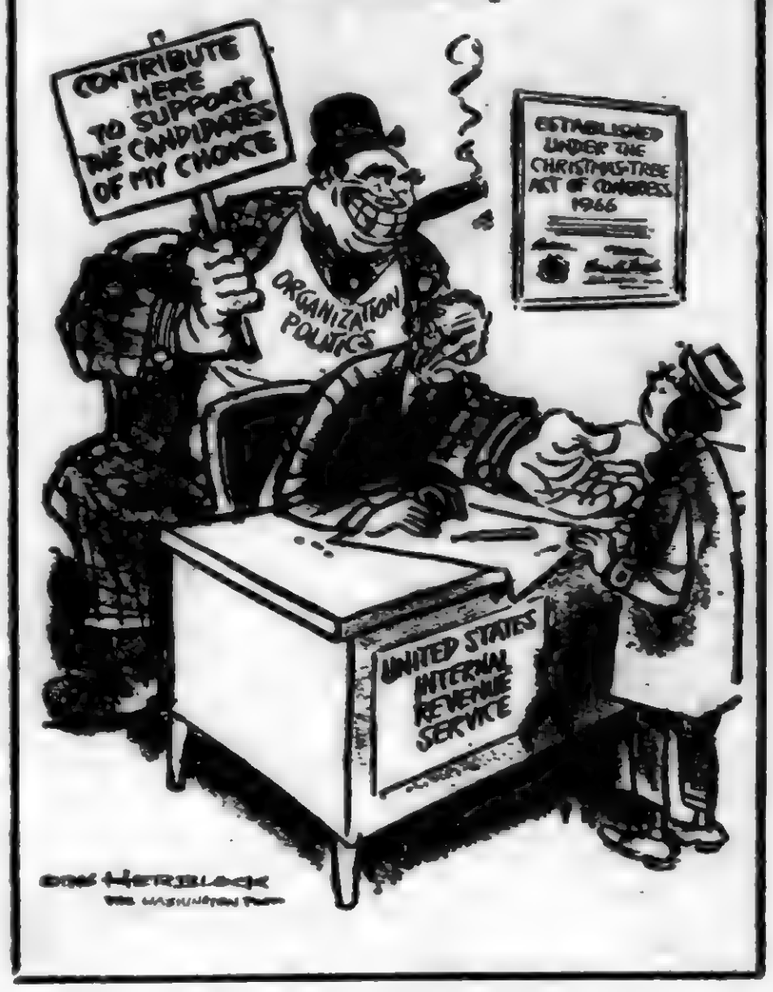
The Spectator Newspapers do not particularly care where such a complex would be built — although the Civic Center seems somewhat more logical.

What we do feel is that the need for a city-county complex is growing all the time, and that further delay in getting talks under way could only hurt progress.

To The Dogs

City Councilman Roland Sedgewick's suggestion that the Police Department spend hundreds of dollars for police dogs is another example of the inanities supplied by the Republican minority on City Council.

Sedgewick's logic is that, since the department can't pay enough to hire qualified officers in any quantity, it should spend the money instead to purchase German police dogs.



It seems to The Spectator that any money spent on dogs is money taken out of the pockets of city policemen and potential policemen — hard enough to come by as it is.

And his logic that the dogs could be used for decoys to avoid sending officers into the scene of a burglary and thus saving police from possible injury is in inhumane as well as absurd.

Police dogs have proved to be unsatisfactory nearly everywhere they have been used — except in the South, where they are handy for attacking civil rights demonstrators trying to stage peaceful protests.

We don't need that sort of business in Columbus.

Ohio's Tax Needs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Dr. George Thatcher, Miami University economist who authored the well-known Thatcher Report on Ohio's tax needs in 1962. It is reprinted from the WRFD Commentator.)

The costs of withholding should be reduced because of the greater uniformity of the tax base and rate. Moreover, the problem of possible double taxation would diminish and the threat of out-migration of people and firms would be reduced. The tax base could be broadened to include other types of income than wages, salaries and profits of businesses, thus making the tax more equitable. Finally, the central city versus the suburb problem would, to a large extent, be solved.

The major problem of a county-wide income tax would be to develop an adequate formula for distributing the revenue from the tax. Such a formula, if equitable would have to develop measures of need, taxable capacity and tax effort for each political subdivision sharing the tax. Needs vary greatly but to find indices to measure these needs is difficult. Competition among the counties could be a serious problem unless the state prescribes rules governing the tax base, rates and so on, so that the tax would be uniformly applied in all counties using it.

Greater possibilities for increased tax revenue exist at the state level. Although state taxes have increased in the last 10 years, in 1965 Ohio ranked 45th among the 50 states in taxes per capita, taxing $34.29 per person less than the national average. Most tax experts regard personal income as the best measure of ability to pay taxes. In 1965 Ohio taxes amounted to $38.75 per $1000 of personal income while the national average was $53.52. Here Ohio ranked 46th among the 50 states. The need for increased tax revenue for health, education and welfare has been proved. There is no logical reason then why the citizens of Ohio should not be making as much of a tax effort to support these essential services as the average citizen of the United States.

The major argument against increasing state taxes is that an increase would cause industry to migrate or at best prejudice the state's industrial development. This bogey is overplayed and overstated. If taxes are such an important factor in the determination of the location of industry, why is not industry flocking to Ohio to take advantage of our low taxes?

Praises Peewee Football

To The Editor:

Funny thing happened on my way to a football game on a recent Sunday.

I noticed that apparently someone had stolen the stands.

I had to apologize to the hundreds of visitors from the Cincinnati Jewish Community Center at Westgate Park that day for the stands had been there the day before and I knew the city did not plan to move them on a Saturday night.

Cincy and our team still had a wonderful game, sans stands.

However, someone proposed to the Cincy team that another team from Columbus play them next year. The J.C.C. team from Cincy and our own Columbus team have already founded a natural rivalry based on sportsmanship after only one exposure to one another, and we look forward to visiting them next year. This is at their request.

Then there was open soliciting of our players by another group while the game was on. The Columbus Peewee League plays low-pressure neighborhood kid football; most of the fathers concerned feel that sportsmanship means more than victory and are only too happy to foster inter-city inter-religious relations. Our meeting with a group like that from Cincinnati was a fine climax to a great season for the J.C.C. parents feel the same as we do.

Our young boys were exceedingly happy to gain entry to the sports pages alongside the greats such as the Little Buckeyes, Watterson and Arlington. Someone up there at the sports desk must like our philosophy. We of the Columbus Peewee League shall continue to try to keep their respect.

To The Editor:

The South-Western City School System had a most important tax question on the ballot at the November 8 election. It was approved by the voters with a 58 percent majority.

The Spectator played an important part in obtaining this approval. The support which you gave to the issue in your newspaper, and the editorial in which you endorsed the levy certainly was noted by thousands of residents in the area.

On behalf of the Board of Education and of the administration of the schools, may I say "Thank You" for your work in behalf of this issue.

Long List Of Presidential Hopefuls ★

WHITE

The Republican party now has, for 1968, the largest field of genuine Presidential possibilities within decades, if not indeed within this century. This is one of the measures of the strong revival of the old G.O.P. elephant signaled by the recent off-year elections.

Obviously, it is very early to predict which of the many available is to win the nomination in the Republican National Convention of the summer after next. It is plain already, however, that there are two big front-runners, Gov. George Romney of Michigan and former Vice-President Richard Nixon of New York.

At this point it might fairly be said that the rest come along in about this order of descending probability:

Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan of California, Sen.-elect Charles Percy of Illinois, Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio — who is in fact a lot more significant now than most commentators have yet recognized, and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York.

Nixon's front-runnership rests upon his major services to the Republican party in the recent campaign and his "in" position with nearly all those party pros who are conservative or ultra-conservative. Romney has reached the heights of the huge success of the Republican state generally in Michigan and because he was already the favorite of the Eastern and more-or-less liberal wing of the G.O.P.

Reagan's leap forward results from the simple facts that he carried the biggest state in the Union and his face is "new." Still he is unlikely to go to the convention as a candidate since he will have had little time to make much of a record in office.

More likely when the various convention power centers have solidified, he will be on Nixon's side.

Rockefeller probably in the end will be found in a similar king-maker role in behalf of Romney.

Already a marshaling of forces is beginning to take faint form to pit the Eastern and liberal Republican convention delegates against the Western and Midwestern orthodox and Old Guard delegates.

This means that the man who is now overlooked, Ohio's Governor Rhodes, may well become powerful before it is all over. Rhodes' victory for re-election, though not much publicized, is vastly important. If Rhodes — and he, too, is more likely to be a king-maker than a king — should pitch in with the Nixon-Reagan group, that group's mastery of the convention would be better than an even bet.

In this scene the manifest first necessity for the G.O.P. is not to allow its now traditional Eastern-liberal versus Midwestern and Western orthodoxists struggle to become so bitter as to tear the party apart, as it did only two years ago. Nixon has always understood this.

What goes here for the Republicans goes equally for the Democrats. If they wish to win in 1968, they must all rally around President Johnson —whether or not the President decides to run again. For if one thing is clear about last week, it is that the screeching far-left in the Democratic party has been a Typhoid Mary to the moderately liberal Democrats, including President Johnson himself. If they do not now cease they could wreck the whole show for the Democrats, even as early as 1968.

GOP Needs United Front ★

CHILDS

'Twas a famous victory but why it happened hardly a Republican can tell in the cold light of day with the battle flags coming down. That is the puzzle the party must solve if 1966 is to be the beginning of a march to a real victory in 1968.

The realists know that the triumph was the result of a series of happenstances. It followed the landslide of 1964, the sweeping-in of so many Democrats in normally Republican districts. To a greater extent than almost anyone had anticipated Americans voted their accumulated discontents.

They may not have known what they wanted but they knew in large numbers what they didn't want. The Republicans must prepare in the short span of a year and a half to show that they have some answers. This is a large order, for it was abundantly plain in the recent campaign that they had failed to mount a national attack.

The party suffers from a kind of war-lordism. There are reigning lords exercising their authority over limited territories and prescribing their own individual ideologies. To date they have shown no signs of composing their differences. What the country will want to know is whether one commanding figure can give a unified lead.

There are candidates for that role. Richard M. Nixon is the most obvious and has been working hard to give himself the right look as the new, new, new Nixon. No political divining rod is necessary to sense his tactic in the months ahead. He will offer himself as the acceptable compromise between the conservative war lords and the moderate-progressive war lords.

But to many in his own party Nixon is a souffle that has fallen twice before. And the election returns in Michigan have put forward a new man with a demonstrable vote-getting appeal. Gov. George Romney won re-election to a third term with a majority of 536,000 by unofficial count.

Observers at Romney's first press conference on the day after the election felt that his triumph had given him renewed confidence. He talked about state issues such as taxes and air and water pollution, but quickly these were translated into national issues. Understandably, he turned aside the big question of whether he will be a candidate for President in '68.

It is too early for that and much must be done to insure proper timing and the proper setting. But Romney cannot wait too long for conservative war lords are lining up their forces to block the man who successfully evaded the Goldwater curse of two years ago.

Again and again in the past two and a half years the moderate-progressives in the party have appeared hesitant and uncertain. Events leading up to the Goldwater nomination were for the moderates a disaster. The election in the governorship victories greatly strengthened their hand.

They have a chance to prove what they can do. An early opportunity will be the conference of Republican Governors in Colorado Springs on Dec. 9. Uniting behind Romney at that meeting they would be off to a meaningful start. The old jealous, fumbling war-lordism will give the game away by default.

Newspapers Fooled By Organizations ★

GOLDWATER

If there was any comic relief in the elections, it must have been that two paper dragons of the Republican Party roared and snorted, puffed fire and smoke and actually fooled a number of newspapers into taking them seriously.

The two are the Ripon Society and the Republicans for Progress. If their total paid-up memberships were scrambled together and served on a platter, there wouldn't be enough real political calories on the table to feed even a moderately hungry state chairman.

The Ripon Society is scarcely anything but a personal front for John Saloma Jr., a political science professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Republicans for Progress is just another organizational assault against the regular Republican Party structure organized and chiefly manned by Charles P. Taft, the Taft family's liberal black sheep.

These groups are not so much splinter groups as they are merely thorn groups, but they manage to huff and puff enough to get newspaper coverage. For the past months they have huffed and puffed together, to double the decibels. Newspaper accounts of their grave statements usually began with "Two national organizations of moderate Republicans" or something of the sort.

The stories, edited and accepted by men who are perfectly willing to see a Bircher under every bed, without any corroborating membership figures, easily accept the statement that these two organizations are national, meaningful, moderate and Republican.

Having a few pen pals in various states hardly makes a group national; simply suggesting that Republicans adopt more and more Democrat programs hardly makes a group meaningful, original or even Republican.

At any rate, these two musical comedy contributions to high drama in the Republican Party got away with it again during the elections by having the check to issue their own lists of "endorsed" candidates.

To my amazement, some papers not only reported this footnote to political history, but actually printed both lists. Now they must be awaiting the report in which these two groups either take credit for winning some elections or bemoan the fact that so many regular Republicans won. In either case they will be dealing in political illusion.

The next time their duplicating machines start whirring it would seem most appropriate for responsible Republicans to blow the whistle on them, lest someone, somewhere make the mistake of continuing to take them seriously.

State Aid Coming Up

Ashville may not be able to wrangle state aid for its schools, but according to Dave Kraft, village solicitor, the municipal government fares a bit better. Kraft stated that the application for the State Highway Department to assume maintenance of Long Street from Main to Rt. 752 has been filed and as soon as the easements are checked, State road markers will go into place. With the asphalt season about ended, he does not expect any street maintenance except snow removal until spring. He reports the State has indicated that money is available to resurface Long, and the only real delay is the approaching winter.

Franklin Village Hurt By Apathy

CHURCH HOLDS BAZAAR

Last Sunday Reynoldsburg's St. Pius X Parish held its annual Christmas Craft Bazaar in the school.. "Mr. Clown" Bernard Piotrowski, entertained the children and let them pick toys out of his pockets for 10 cents. Having some fun with "Mr. Clown" are Kathy Haight (left to right), Bobby Steer, Cindy Smith, Mike Brooker and Billy Smith on the floor. The school open house was also held on this day.

By NANCY LOGUE
Spectator Staff Writer

A lack of community interest and general unawareness are creating problems for the staff at Franklin Village, Franklin County's home for dependent and neglected children.

Internal problems have forced the closing of one of the nine cottages that provide heat, shelter and a bed for 180 children placed at the Village.

There are supposed to be nine sets of cottage parents to provide love, discipline and understanding for these children, but because of a lack of qualified personnel, there are now only eight.

The cottage was closed last August because officials could not find suitable persons to fill the position. They are now interviewing applicants and hope that the cottage can soon be re-opened.

James W. Grant, director of the Child Welfare Board, said, "We are fortunate that the population at the Village is now relatively low so we can do this without many problems. We have simply taken the children from the closed cottage and moved them into the other eight."

But the closing has caused some problems for at least one caseworker.

"I have at least six children that should be removed from their present environments and placed out here until something more suitable comes along," he said. "Under the present conditions we can only take the emergency cases simply because there is not enough room.

"I think that the turnover of cottage parents is so large because there is a lack of in-job training, a lack of communication between administrators and themselves and just poor salary," the caseworker said.

Grant denied the charge by saying that the turnover of cottage parents for the last year was a surprisingly low figure.

Grant said there were 20 to to 50 children now living at the Village who should be placed in foster homes but due to a shortage of foster parents these children are forced to remain at the Village.

The caseworker cites public apathy as a major factor for the conditions at Franklin Village.

"Most of the public just does not concern itself with the child welfare program. Right now we are handicapped by a lack of foster homes and because of this we are forced, at times, to accept persons as foster parents who are not really suitable for the position," he said.

"The public needs to be educated as to what Franklin Village is, what it is doing, how it is going about doing it and what it needs. Too many people look upon the youngsters at the Village as delinquents and because of this discriminate against them. This is a misunderstanding that deprives these children of the right to live a normal life," he said.

One caseworker reported that a Columbus school made the Franklin Village children leave the school early to board the bus because school administrators felt that the Franklin Village youngsters were troublemakers.

"This is the kind of discrimination that is so wrong and does so much damage to the Village children," he said.

"Every person in Franklin County should educate himself as to his responsibility to the children at Franklin Village and then get out and do something."

Grant said that first and most importantly, citizens could offer themselves as foster parents. But since this is not possible for a large majority of persons, other things could be done to make the children realize that people do care.

"Christmas can be made more enjoyable for youngsters when they get a Christmas gift that they wanted — that's just a little different than everyone else's presents. Also, we need people to sponsor cottages by doing things like giving birthday parties or providing transportation for the girls to the hairdressers.

These are just some of the jobs that community members could do to make life a little easier and happier for both the children and the staff at Franklin Village.

You May See 'UFO' Near Teays Valley

It's highly unlikely anyone traveling on the Circleville-Lockbourne-rd just northeast of Teays Valley High School will see a flying saucer.

But those keeping their eyes open these days may well see a UFO—an automobile developed by Ohio State University for on-the-road studies of automatic vehicle control.

A FOUR-MILE strip is being used to test the vehicle in whilh a dashboard mounted control stick replaces the conventional steering wheel, as well as the brake pedal and accelerator.

A small computer built into its trunk can be programmed to control speed in the research that is aimed at an era when high-density traffic will travel over 100 mph.

If the electronic car passes its trials with an operator controlling its movements the computer will be allowed to start the car off by itself overtake an imaginary vericle and stop of its own computer will, and eventually follow and overtake a real automobile.
dollar grant is financing the research and experiments.

ALMOST A HALF-million dollar grant is financing the research and experiments.

According to Ohio State, persons need not fear a driverless car because, once one is perfected, it will make better and faster decisions than a non-electronic mortal.

Ego deflating, isn't it?

Services To Be Held

Reynoldsburg's traditional Thanksgiving service will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Reynoldsburg Methodist Church, Graham Road. "A Day For Thanksgiving" will be the subject of the sermon to be presented by Rev. J. Kenneth Allaby, minister of the Reynoldsburg Baptist Church. Dr. Robert Ginn, minister of the East Livingston Avenue Baptist Church, and Rev. Charles D. Kirsch, minister of the Reynoldsburg Methodist Church, will conduct the worship service. The special music of the evening will be presented by the Reynoldsburg High School Choir.

Groveport Lions List 25 Jamboree Winners

Groveport Lions report that the largest crowd to date attended their annual jamboree.

Grand prize winners were Marshall Hollinger, prettiest; Jeff Baker, ugliest; Robert Hubner, most original and Jay Klamfoth and his goat, funniest.

Pre-school age winners were Peggy Stambaugh, prettiest; Jeffrey Douglas, ugliest; Jennifer Bally and Gary Derenthall, funniest and Jay and his goat, most original.

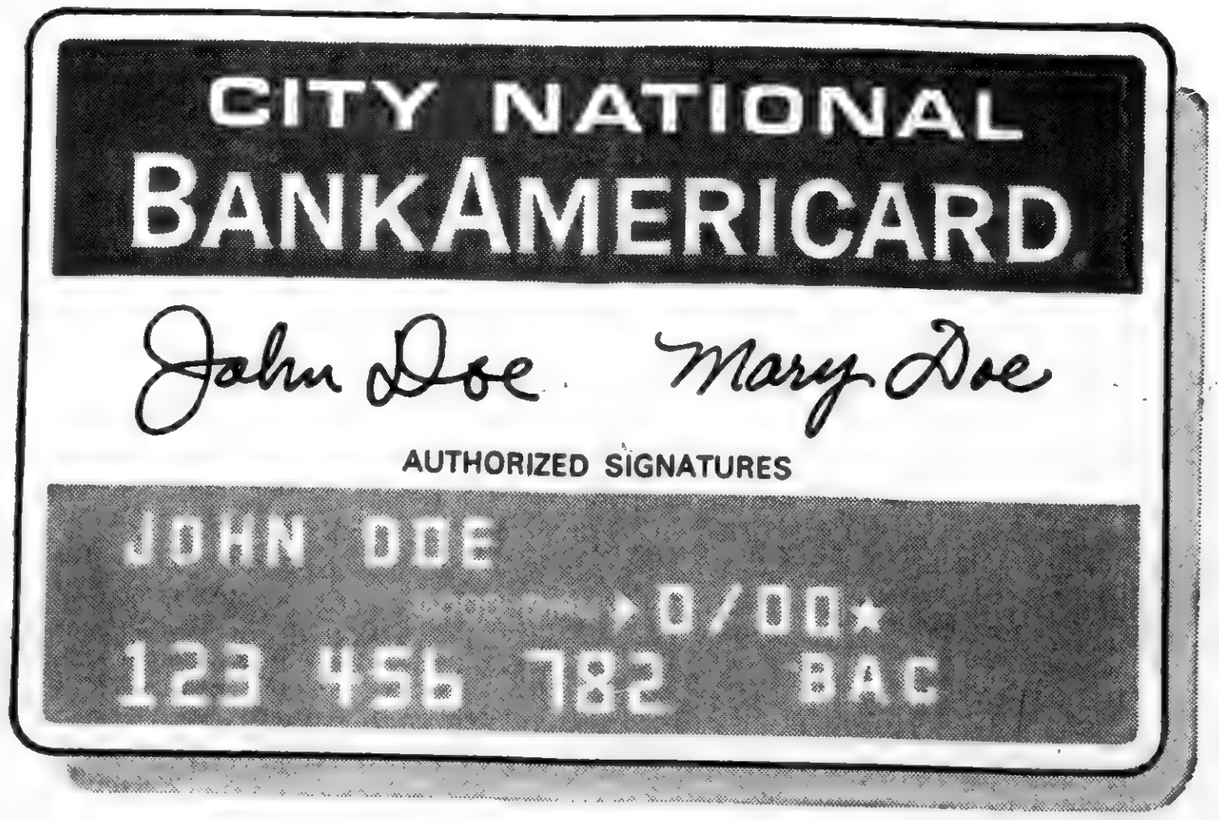
Martha Hollinger as the prettiest, Jennifer Locket as the ugliest, John Ball as the funniest and Kathryn Leske as the most original were tops in the class for children in K-3.

Among the third, fourth and fifth graders, Jolenn Cries was judged the prettiest, Jeff Baker the ugliest, Sally Knips the funniest and Roberta Hubner the most original.

Winners in the group made up for sixth, seventh and eighth grade children were Kathy Franks, prettiest; Terry Browning, ugliest; Scott Lockett, funniest and Jeff Young, most original.

Kathy Haines was named the prettiest among the high school entries. Other teenage winners were Mark Boyer, funniest, and Alice Stimpfle, most original.

Ann Cleary and Ann Young were the adult winners, judged the funniest and most original respectively.



THEIR SHOOTIN' IRONS WERE HOT

RICKY GRIM never had a shot gun in his hand before he entered the line at the turkey shoot at Hoover 'Y' Park Sunday and won first place. Larry Perry, left, an experienced marksman, came in second. Ricky, 5500 Lockbourne-rd, who could have taken home a turkey, chose the grill instead and Larry's award was two chickens. Perry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Perry who chose their home site on Rohr Road because of its proximity to the park. More than 300 persons attended the annual shoot sponsored by the Right Angle Club for the benefit of the South Side YMCA.

The all purpose credit card

More than 100,000 Franklin County residents will receive their BankAmericards this week

(and will be using them starting December 1st).

City National BankAmericard is the new, more convenient way to buy, to borrow or to pay your bills. It can be the only credit card you'll really need.

You can use this one, "all purpose" credit card to buy almost anything you want to buy... go almost anywhere you want to go... do almost anything you want to do.

Your BankAmericard is issued free. No membership fees. No annual dues. No service fee, either, if you pay your monthly statement within 25 days; and only a small charge if you spread your payments over several months.

You get only one bill each month, write just one check to cover all your purchases.

You will be able to use your BankAmericard at over 1,000 stores and businesses in the Central Ohio area. It will be welcome all across the country, too — from Boston to San Francisco.

You don't have to be a customer of City National to get one (but it's O.K. if you are).

That's over 2 tons of credit.

James T. Foley, 2873 Wellesley-rd, has been elected vice-president-general manager of the Nationwide Development Company of Columbus.

Foley succeeds Edward F. Wagner, recently named a Nationwide Insurance vice-president in charge of administration of the Development Company, Peoples Broadcasting Corporation, Heritage Securities, Nationwide Mortgage Company and Approved Finance, Incorporated.

Foley, formerly vice-president of operations, joined Nationwide Development in 1953 after serving as real estate editor of the old Columbus Citizen.

He is active in civic and professional affairs, serving as a member of the Columbus International Airport and Aviation Commission, the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce, the International Council of Shopping Centers, the Columbus Home Builders Association and the Press Club of Ohio.

In his new position, he will be responsible for the coast-to-coast operations of Nationwide Development. Locally, Nationwide is developer of Lincoln Village and co-developer, along with the John W. Galbreath Company, of Thurber Village and the Market-Mohawk Urban Renewal Project.

Currently in the development stage are Amherst Village in Westerville and Collegeview and Industrial Mile industrial parks near Columbus.

Manry, Dunn To Speak To Student Journalists

Robert Manry, Cleveland newspaperman turned sailor, and Bob Dunn, who draws the popular carton, "They'll Do It Every Time," will be the featured speakers for the annual High School Press Club workshop to be held Dec. 3 at Ohio State University.

Manry, who astounded the world by crossing the Atlantic Ocean alone in a 13-foot sailboat, will talk to the group and writeups of his talk will be considered entries in the "on-the-spot" reporting competition at the workshop. Dunn will discuss cartoon work.

Their appearances are sponsored by contributions from local newspapers, including The Spectator.

Local newspapermen and women will discuss various phases of journalism.

The program is open to Central Ohio journalism students and advisers. Awards and trophies in seven categories of journalism will be presented.

Daughters of 1812

Lucas Sullivant Chapter, U.S. Daughters of 1812, will meet at the Deshler-Beasley Hotel Monday at noon for the regular luncheon meeting.

Mrs. Walter E. Hane will talk about "My 1812 Ancestor."

EUCHRE PARTY SET

A euchre party, sponsored by the Sacred Heart Parish, will be held Saturday, 8 p.m., at Ryan Hall, First Avenue and Summit Street.

The public is invited. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

MEETING PLANNED

The Civil War Roundtable of Columbus will have a dinner meeting Nov. 30 at 7 p.m. in the Press Club Room of the Southern Hotel.

The guest speaker will be Congressman John A. Ashbrook whose topic will be "The Grand Army of the Republic."

The dinner will cost $4, and reservations can be made by contacting Mrs. Warren E. Motts, 235-4458.

Lockbourne Will Honor Jim Horner

News Of Lockbourne

BERTHA GRAY
491-1319

As soon as the Lockbourne Municipal Building is completed it is planned to dedicate it in honor of the late James Horner, formerly mayor for 18 years, who was influential in acquiring and building it.

Sympathy is extended to the family and relatives of Dr. Frank A. Williams, 75, who was raised on a farm near Lockbourne and started his medical career here before going to New York.

Burial was made in Green Lawn Cemetery Nov. 8.

WSCS met at the Methodist Hall Nov. 10 with the president, Mrs. Florence Miller, presiding.

St. Matthews Lutheran Circle will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Larry Kline has returned to New Jersey after a week's leave with his wife Portia Smith Kline. He has been assigned to Germany.

Club Banks Anonymous Contribution

With backers of the new Groveport Civic Center opening a bank account with a contribution from the Edgewater Park Firemen's Auxiliary (see Page 1 story), the Groveport Madison Senior Citizens Club has picked up a little "jingling money" too.

According to Mrs. Charles Stewart, Senior Citizen president, her group has also opened a bank account with what she terms "an anonymous and very generous gift" of $25.

The Senior Citizens are one of the groups expected to benefit from the establishment of the Center.

Gas Lines To Be Laid In Reese

Construction will soon begin that will bring natural gas to Reese by the first of the year.

Elden H. Davis, central district manager for Columbia Gas of Ohio stated that the $35,000 project involves building a four-inch line along Rathmell Road with smaller line blue-printed along Drexel, Lisle, Fairfax, Roanoke, Davis, Reese and Daugherty Avenues and Ridge Street.

Logan Construction Company has been given the contract for the project which will soon bring service to more than 100 residents and businesses.

Traffic will be maintained along the three-mile path of the pipeline.

Lazarus To Hold Santa Parade

Santa Claus makes his appearance in Columbus Sunday and an estimated 250,000 persons are expected to line the route of the annual Santa Claus Parade sponsored by the F. & R. Lazarus Co.

The parade will form at W. N. Broadway and N. High Street at 1:30 p.m. with 12 big floats, 200 costumed characters and Santa himself.

The parade route moves south on High Street to Rich Street, then west on Rich to Front and North on Front to Town, winding up at Lazarus' Town and Front parking area.

Santa will make three stops along the route, alighting from his "Sleighliner" to talk to children along the way. The stops are scheduled at 1:43 p.m. at the Olentangy Lanes parking lot; 2:23 p.m. at the Ohio Union on OSU campus and at 2:48 p.m. at High Street and Fourth Avenue.

The parade is scheduled to arrive at Town and Front at 3:38 p.m.

In addition to Santa's "Sleighliner," drawn by eight reindeer, the parade will include a toy train float, a baby doll carriage, a moon machine, a drag racer, an old woman in a shoe, a rocket plane, a tank, a ship, a sugar plum and a butterfly float.

A variety of unusual characters will parade alongside the floats. Also included will be a clown riding a unicycle and clowns riding noisy, rolling beetles.

Parade music will be provided from each float.

Nurses To Hold Career Program

Members of the Ohio League for Nursing Careers Committee will present a program Dec. 4 from 3 to 4:30 p.m., in the Lazarus Auditorium at the Center of Science and Industry, 280 E. Broad-st.

Four nursing-education programs will be presented by nursing educators in the fields of baccalaureate and higher-degree, associate-degree, diploma and practical-nursing programs. Admission is free.

Aselin Named President Of Konner's Chevrolet

Paul Aselin, 1019 Fairway-bl, has been named president of Konner's Chevrolet Corporation.

Aselin, who formerly served as executive vice-president, is also an associate owner of the corporation, which owns and operates Konner's Chevrolet at 5055 E. Main-st.

Before coming with his family to Columbus in June, Aselin was president of American Auto Sales in Frankfurt, Germany, a corporation which sold all General Motors vehicles in Europe.

In his 18 years in the automobile industry, he has managed numerous large Chevrolet agencies on the East Coast. From 1959-65, he was vice-president of the Konner's Corporation and general manager of Konner's Chevrolet in Leavittown, N.Y.

PAUL ASELIN

HELPS FIGHT FIRE

Cpl. Millard E. Moore was among the 1,000 soldiers from Ft. Wainwright, Alaska, who battled a forest fire in interior Alaska that burned 80,000 acres of an Army training area.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Moore, 1343 Frebis-av.

The soldiers, all members of the 15th Artillery stationed at the Army's northernmost post, used 20 bulldozers and 100 tracked vehicles in fighting the blaze.

The training area, where the fire began, has tightly packed rolling hills, and valleys and draws covered with muskeg into which men and vehicles sank several inches, creating another challenge for the firefighters. The fire was eventually extinguished. with the help of some light snows.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my darling son "Richard" who went to Heaven 13 years ago (Nov. 24, 1953):

Keep the gates ajar, Son,
For soon I'll cease to roam,
And won't we have a lot to say
When I get home.

Still loved and missed
by "Mamma."

Brewer Named Head Of Kidney Campaign

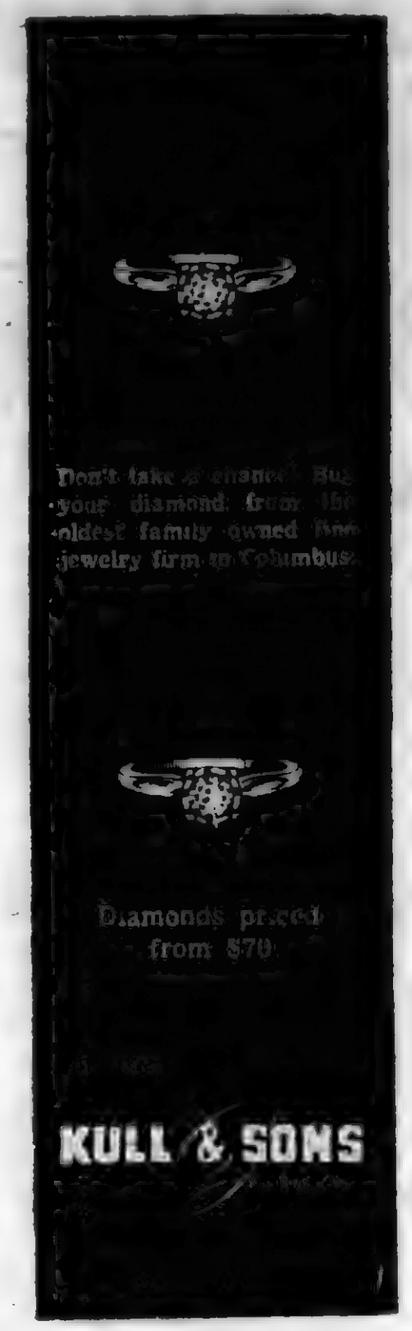
Jacob R. Brewer, 181 Collingwood-rd, will head the 10th annual Kidney Walk to be held Sunday, Dec. 4, from 1 to 5 p.m.

The Walk is sponsored by the Kidney Foundation of Central Ohio. Some 3,000 volunteer walkers will solicit every home in Franklin County for contributions.

Proceeds from the drive will be used for artificial kidney machines, for the drug bank program, to maintain the only chronic dialysis center in the area and for research at Children's and University Hospitals.

The official walk will be held between 1 and 5 p.m., Dec. 4, but workers will be canvassing homes on Dec. 2 and Dec. 3 as well. All workers will be identifiable by Kidney Foundation kits.

Bob Marvin, Channel 10's "Flippo" and local band leader, is honorary chairman of the 1966 campaign — the Foundation's 10th in Columbus.



Executive director of the foundation is Mrs. Verda K. Sharp.

Noted Author Will Lecture In Columbus

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, noted author, lecturer and minister of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York City will be in Columbus Monday. He will lecture at an open meeting at Lincoln Junior High School, Haven Corners Road, Gahanna at 8 p.m.

Dr. Peale is the author of "The Power of Positive Thinking" and the editor of "Guideposts Magazine."

There will be no charge and the public is invited to attend the meeting. The program is sponsored by the Reformed Church in America Synod Expansion Committee.

Market Renewal Passes $10 Million

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner has announced that new construction in the Market-Mohawk Urban Renewal area has passed the $10 million mark but warned that an often-mentioned 1975 completion date for Market-Mohawk is "unrealistic."

"Under the terms of our contract with the major redeveloper for Market-Mohawk (the John W. Galbreath Co.)," Sensenbrenner said, "the completion and redevelopment for only a single parcel may go that long."

"But the important thing to the people of Columbus is that about 90 percent of all the Market-Mohawk project area must be completely redeveloped within the next three years and nine months," the Mayor said in a prepared release detailing renewal progress. "This means we can look forward to an additional $30 to $40 million in new construction within this brief time."

Sensenbrenner said that in all city renewal areas, new construction now totals $35.4 million, $24.1 million of which is completed.

By district, the construction breaks down like this:

Goodale, $9.9 million completed, $3.5 million started; Market-Mohawk, $3.9 million completed, $6.1 million started; Children's Hospital, $1.8 completed; OSU-North, $6.3 completed, $1.09 started, and Dennison Avenue, $1.9 completed, $520,000 started.

"The city receives frequent inquiries from potential buyers throughout the nation who are looking for urban renewal land to be developed," the Mayor said.

"But I'm happy to say we have nothing to offer them. Every parcel of land we had available in our redevelopment areas is already sold."

Columbus now has nine urban renewal projects in the execution stage; Goodale, Market-Mohawk, Children's Hospital, OSU-North and Bolivar Arms II clearance projects; Dennison Avenue Conservation Project; code enforcement projects on the West Side and East Side-South Garfield Square and the Community Improvement Program, which is correlated with the Blue Plan.

Bob Miller's Canal Winchester Indians of the Franklin County League dealt rival Groveport a sound 62-32 licking last Friday night to open the 1966-67 basketball season.

And if Miller was worried about an offensive scorer to take the place of three year vet Jim Burke, that was taken care of with the 25 point output by slick shooting guard Vic Argobright.

THE INDIANS started their five returning letter winners with Jerry Shackelford, a 5-10 senior holding down the guard position beside Argobright, a 6-0 senior, Bill Miles, a 6-4 junior is back at the center slot that he held down as a sophomore, with senior Kim Black, (6-0) and senior Dick Whitmer, a 5-11 leading scorer from last year, operating from the forward positions.

MILLER FELT that prior to the game, experience would play an important part in the success of the 1966-67 legions with three returning starters . . . Whitmer, Miles and Argobright.

The main problem that Miller thought would hamper the Indians is one of depth since he is only carrying 10 boys on the varsity this season.

Argobright scored 209 points last season, Moles netted 165 and Whitmer scored 229 points in 16 games.

Other members of the Canal squad are John Sayre, Greg Williamson, Dennis Padgett, Harry Hickman and Chuck Carpenter.

GROVEPORT returned three letter winners from a 2-17 team of a year ago.

Back are Ken Bosworth, a 6-0 senior, Larry White, a 5-9 junior, and Mark Raynes, a 6-2 sophomore.

Those three vets greeted first year Groveport coach Bill Schneider plus four starting candidates in John Cundiff, a 6-0 forward, Pete Marinello, a 5-8 junior guard, Dave Richie and Rand Schockley.

SCHNEIDER figures on those seven to be the mainstays of the team this year and he felt before the C-W game that the defense would be a little while in coming around.

Against the Indians, John Cundiff tallied 10 points to lead the Cruiser scorers.

Trio Shares MVP Honor

Seniors Gary Shade, Denny Spires and Dick Baserman shared Reynoldsburg's "most valuable player" award Monday evening at the Raiders' annual grid and cross country banquet.

Baserman was also named "top lineman" of the season.

8 Vets Key Groveport Hopes For Third Straight Mat Title

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Editor's note—This is the first of a two-part series previewing area high school wrestling teams for the '66-'67 season. This week's subjects—Groveport and Hamilton Township).

GROVEPORT

Athletic titles haven't exactly been plentiful at Groveport in the past few years with one exception — wrestling.

The Cruiser matmen have now stashed away two consecutive loop titles and will be striving for an unprecedented third in a row this campaign with eight returning lettermen

GROVEPORT mat mentor Bob Carter, taking over grappling reins from Pete Nix who moved over to Gahanna, welcomed 55 (including frosh) prospects this season.

Not included in that total, however, are three '65-'66 Mid-Eight champions — Tim Micheal (154), Jim Dill (165) and Bill Nelle (145) — and a loop meet runnerup, Jack Woodworth (138), all graduated.

Setting the pace for the '66-'67 Cruisers will be tri-captains Jeff Nelle (145), Skip Musselman (133) and Jim McConaha (120) and fellow senior vet Roger Adams (165).

CARTER ALSO has a quartet of junior letter winners available in Donnie (127) and Ronnie (138) Miller, John Queen (112) and heavyweight Bill Marshall.

Top prospects Tom Sparks at 103 and Keith Lee at 154 appear ready to fill those vacancies with Carter's biggest problem apparently settling on one of three contenders for the remaining 175 slot.

The first-term Groveport mat boss looks for Hilliard and Westerville to be chief obstacles far a third straight Cruiser title with Marysville listed as a "sleeper" in a well-balanced Mid-Eight alignment.

DISTRICT-WISE Carter lists Worthington and East as early favorites.

The Cruisers won three of four dual tests last season, placed first at their own Invitational and took second and third spots in similar battles at Brookhaven and Pleasant View respectively.

HAMILTON TOWNSHIP

First-term Ranger mat coach Wes Mirick is still busy testing an 18-man strong H-T wrestling squad in an effort to come up with starters this week.

MIRICK HAS three returning lettermen available in Jeff Nelson (138), Eric Bomhard (145) and Roger Milligan (120) but the remainder of the eight starting weight slot starters will have to come from the Rangers' prospect list.

Pacing those non-letter winners to date have been Mark Haesecke (127) and Bob Engleman (154).

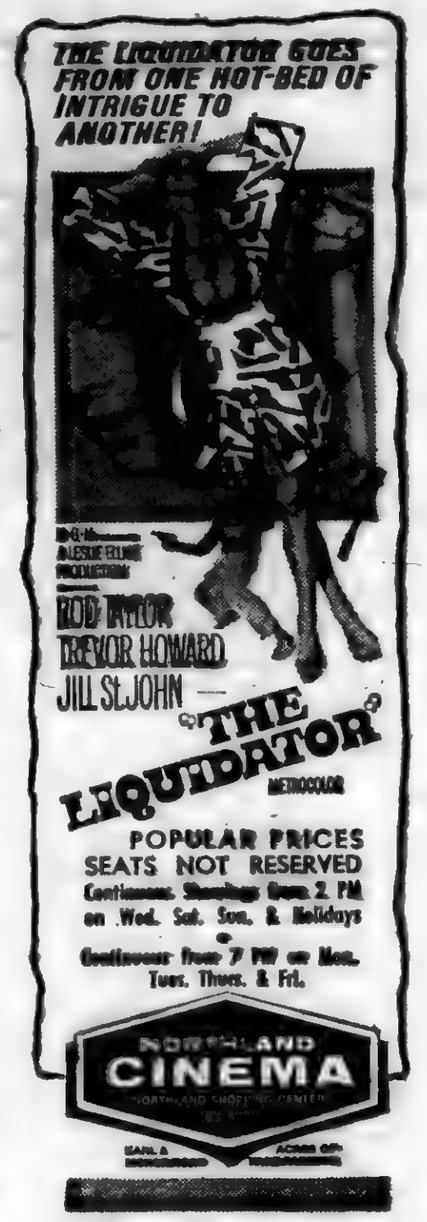
Worthingtonian Named Junior Theater Director

The Columbus Junior Theater of the Arts has appointed a new managing director, Mrs. Ortha Stambaugh of Worthington. Mrs. Nancy Calland, previous managing director, is now residing in Zanesville.

As coordinator of workshop activities, Mrs. Stambaugh will organize teacher-classroom sessions, plan outside workshop productions and work with members of the Junior Theater Board as well as the various women's groups that support the workshop.

A graduate of Ohio State University with a B.A. and M.A. in theater, she has done graduate work and taught at Northwestern University and in 1965 directed and taught at Otterbein in Westerville. Locally, she has directed Players Club and the Curtain Players.

Bishop Starring At Local Cinemas



Joey Bishop returned to motion pictures after a four-year absence to star with Dean Martin, Alain Delon and Rosemary Forsyth in Universal's "Texas Across The River," a comedy western in Technicolor, now at Columbus' three new Cinemas, Town and Country, University City and Great Western.

"I was just beginning to get my teeth into the business of creating dimensional characters in "Oceans 11," and a few cameo parts when my television series took me away from motion pictures. I thought that in four years I'd be a millionaire, and who could resist such a sure thing? But an actor gets rich in TV only when his show is in the top ten according to ratings, and mine wasn't."

DIRECTOR TO SPEAK

The Starling-Ohio Women's Club will meet for a dessert meeting at the home of Mrs. Howard Strak, 2399 S. Commonwealth-pl., Dec. 6 at 12:30 p.m.

Prof. Jerome Hausman, director of the School of Art at Ohio State University, will speak on "The Wonderful World of Art at O.S.U."

'Liquidator' Makes Hit On Northland Screen

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Spectator Theater Editor

A top secret "L" presents to theater-goers a good plot, laughs, tension and most of all, good entertainment, in the movie, "The Liquidator," now showing at Northland Cinema.

The top secret "L" is no less than Rod Taylor. Through an interesting, yet freak accident he saves the life of a British intelligence officer, Trevor Howard, who later remembers him when he needs a man to be a liquidator. This device is to remove spies through "accidental deaths" as there is just no other way. Thus the story.

To induce Taylor to take the job, Howard engulfs him with beautiful women, a car and a luxurious apartment. Enjoying these benefits, how could the free-living Taylor turn down the position.

As for acting, Howard is outstanding, with Taylor a close second. Both are believable in their portrayals.

Jill St. John, as the secretary who seeks the Liquidator for secret reasons of her own, is convincing and quite charming.

Don't miss this one, as this is one of the better spy films.

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

As a community theater advocate, I am pleased to announce and be a part of a new organization called ACT—Columbus.

Association of Community Theaters was organized through the efforts of Carolyn Lane, now president of ACT.

Local groups forming this organization include: Stadium Theatre, Village Little Theater, Gallery Players, Little Theatre Off Broadway, Welsh Hills Players and Curtain Players.

To promote and encourage better community theater is the chief aim, and through communications, billboards, exchange of ideas and enthusiasm, this aim will hopefully be obtained.

Delegates from the six charter member groups are as follows: Augusta Frank of Gallery Players, Professor Roy Bowen, Stadium Theatre; Joyce Gordan, Welsh Hills Players; John Warhol of Village Little Theater, Jack Pappas of Little Theatre Off Broadway and yours truly of Curtain Players.

There is an ACT—Cincinnati and ACT—Dayton which have grown in stature throughout theater land. ACT—Columbus hopes to follow their fine example.

Vice-president is John Warhol, secretary is Joyce Gordon, and treasurer is Jack Pappas.

All local community theater groups are invited to phone President Carolyn Lane at 878-5449 for further information.

On the new 2nd level, see the big New England Coffee Shop, see our new FURNITURE Department, see our holiday Trim-A-Tree Shop and many more special shops, storewide, to make your selecting of fashions, home furnishings, gifts a pleasure.

We've added a complete "Home Store" on the new second level of Lazarus West. The new departments include furniture and home furnishings; linens and bedding with a colorful new bath shop; lamps, pictures and mirrors; radios, TV sets and stereos; plus toys, children's clothing and many more areas for you, your family, your home.

Lazarus west

Is the LAZARUS-WEST expansion all finished? No! But this popular store at 4141 West Broad, Columbus, is now doubled-in-size and many departments have expanded selections now. There are many entirely new departments to provide you with new fashions, holiday gifts, and home furnishings—and many more to come in early 1967!

We are grateful to our Lazarus West customers. You have put up with a lot of inconvenience this year while we went through our growing pains. Now, our new second floor is open for business. The escalators up to the second floor are running. Many of the added departments are ready for you. We have a great deal of polishing up to do yet, and some adjustments to make in departmental locations, to make this the complete department store we promised you. When the expanded Lazarus West is completed in the Spring, it will have a completely separate series of Main Store budget and better departments, and of Basement departments. It's a store with greatly increased assortments right now, and we invite you to come and see what has been accomplished.

Jay Teele, eight-year-old Cub of Pack 302, Wagner Memorial church, recently took in Columbus by air, piloted by Ken Hadden, production supervisor of Pollock Paper Co. which is sponsoring plane rides as part of the current Boy Scout recruiting program. The next flight is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 17 and all boys registering in Boy Scouts before Dec. 8 are automatically eligible for the drawing that will determine who will ride with Hadden on the 17th. The winner may take any friend of Scouting age on the tour which includes a bird's eye view of the OSU campus and stadium, the Fairgrounds, the downtown area and the northern section of the city. Jay's guest was Larry Horn, also a Cub. Those interested in joining the Boy Scouts and winning an opportunity to see their city from the air are asked to write Mr. Icenhower at the Boy Scout Council, 2211 Parsons-av.

210 Attend Shindig

With 210 teenagers attending the first dance at the Groveport Civic Center Friday night, Pete Franks has nothing but praise for the combo led by Richie Kimble, known as the Englishmen, who donated their time, talent and equipment. He also praised highly Dr. Richard Baer, Jim Moisey, Mrs. Martha Krumlauf and the Rev. George Adams who helped him as chaperones. He was especially pleased with Rev. Adams whose presence as a young minister of the community was recognized and appreciated by the teenagers. Franks reports that the $85 netted from the affair plus the $75 donated to the Center by the Management Club of Columbus Machine and Bolt Co. in lieu of a professional fee to Mrs. Lilley Franks who danced before them recently is earmarked to the construction of decent restroom facilities at the Center. He also reported that 18 have signed up for a town band and a great interest has been found in slot car racing, pool and billiards and teen dances. The next dance is tentatively set for Saturday, Dec. 10 with the Englishmen promising an encore. The problem of heating the building Saturday was solved with coal donated by the North Grain Co.

Dig Out Those Lights

Mrs. Helen Broughton is chairman of the Christmas Decorating Contest that will be sponsored by the Hamilton Meadows Civic Association. Although the subdivision blazed with the lights of entries last year, it is believed that the cash prizes offered this year will provide a greater incentive than that of last year's plaques. Precise categories will be announced later. Judging will be made the week before Christmas.

The fitting of this child with glasses is just one of the many Southeast Lions projects that are supported through the sales of the "Roar", the Lions' annual newspaper which will hit the streets Friday. When a knock comes at your door this year, even though you may have been a Lions' customer for 16 years, you may find a stranger on your threshold. This is because new members and new helpers join the list of old faithfuls every year to help put the Roar in every South and Southeast home. If indeed, a stranger does come knocking, do not hesitate to ask for identification. Any bonafide Lion or helper will be happy to show you the identification that he will carry with him. Five hundred men and boys have the job of delivering the 28,000 Roars in the early evening hours, and they will stop wherever they find a porch light on. Only with your contributions are they able to continue the sight-saving program which helps conduct the eye-research program at Ohio State and the eye clinic at Children's Hospital where more than 5,000 children are treated each year.

Madison Board Buys Young Building

SPECTATOR

OHIO'S LARGEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, November 30, 1966 274-1155 10 Cents

When bids for a central office for the Madison Local School District came in last September at over $20 a square foot, Board members saw their hopes for a much-needed office area threatened to oblivion by inflation.

However, Wednesday morning papers were signed which gives the District the 38 by 94 feet office building completed this week by Jim Young on a 125 by 240 foot site just north of the Big City Garden Center.

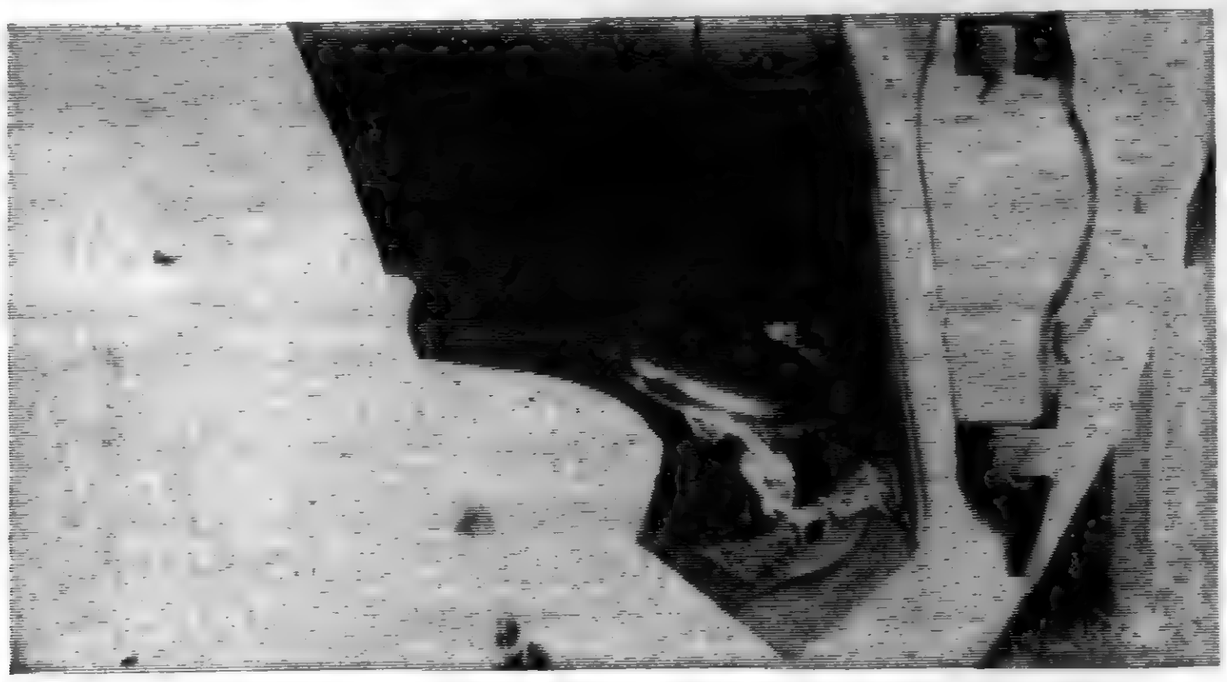
THE PRICE of $59,650, which includes $10,000 for the site, sets the square foot cost at $13.51, more than $9 under that offered by the bids turned down about 90 days ago.

The building will house the office of Superintendent Phil Williams and his assistant Ralph Hudson; Charles Dean, clerk; Don Merschon, maintenance superintendent; secretarial help and the Board of Education. It is constructed of concrete block on a cement slab and features brick veneer.

IT'S PURCHASE was made possible with money the board has earned on invested bond money over the past three years.

ANOTHER real estate transaction authorized at the special meeting Monday night was the surrender of the option on the 40-acre Cole site, purchased at a cost of $300 in March of 1963.

Originally eyed as a potential junior high site the Cole property became excess real estate when the junior high was built on the school section to the north.



As the property was optioned at $1,000 an acre, a sum now considerably below market, the board had considered making the purchase and reselling at a profit.

HOWEVER, as the school board is not primarily in the real estate business, it was determined a more ethical procedure would be to allow the property to revert to its owner, Mrs. Fern Cole.

Mrs. Cole expressed her pleasure with the outcome by agreeing to return the $300 "earnest money" as well as to reimburse the school board for the two topographical and drainage surveys at a cost of $480.

Other business conducted on Monday included the reassignment of Mrs. Norma Holt from the Asbury office to the new Central office and employment of Mrs. Pauline McNeese at Asbury as full-time rather than one-fourth time clerk.

Madison Local School Board awarded its "umbrella" insurance contract which gives over $4,000,000 coverage on buildings, equipment and other property to the McElroy-Minister Co. of Columbus Monday night. Its $1,081 bid was approximately $1,200 below that of the Richard Hamler Insurance Co. of Groveport which provides the present coverage.

A BACKSEAT bespattered with pumpkin pie and a dutch oven trailing Jon Marzetti gave mute testimony that one Thanksgiving dinner didn't go off as planned. The ill-fated dinner was left after this wreck at noon Thanksgiving at the intersection of Gender Road and new 33. The driver of the car pictured, Everett Spencer of Circleville, was listed in good condition at St. Anthony Hospital at press time, but his wife Mabel is in a Grant Hospital intensive care unit in poor condition. It is believed that Spencer, northbound on Gender Road, failed to yield the right-of-way to the car driven northeast on 33 by Floyd Allbaugh of Athens, who with his passenger Marian Richardson, was not seriously injured. According to Dick Vorhies of the Canal Winchester emergency squad, the squad answers a call at this intersection at least once a month. He stated that he does not believe a solution will be found to stop the carnage that has become habitual until the clover-leaf blue printed for the spot is built.

Council Balks At Bill

A housewife discovering an overcharge on her grocery tape usually sputters with righteous indignation.

But when Groveport council detected what it considers an overcharge on its street repair bill, no time was wasted in sputter.

INSTEAD, the bill was turned over to village solicitor, Jim Thompson, with the instructions, "Do something."

Last summer a firm was engaged to level off the "trenches" on Main Street resulting from the laying of sewer laterals.

The job was given on basis of an estimate of "under $1,000."

WHEN THE bill was presented for approval by the clerk Monday night it was for six days' work at $500 apiece or $3,000.

The councilmen and Mayor Bob Baer are definitely "not buying."

Even if they were unarmed with the letter quoting the original estimate they feel they would be standing on firm ground.

BY LAW, the council cannot purchase goods or services costing more than $1,000 without advertising for competitive bids.

Plainly in no spending mood, council greeted a proposal brought by Bernie Grebus of the local Lions Club with less than unabated enthusiasm.

The service club is willing to help finance the purchase of several chain-link type signs at the entrances of the village as well as new street markers.

THE SUGGESTION was left hanging with Baer indicating council would be glad to accept the signs as a gift.

Action was also postponed on the purchase of blinker lights on Hamilton Road at the new junior high site.

Criticism had been made of the proposal on grounds that such a safety traffic control is more critically needed at Groveport elementary and high school site. After the first of the year a decision will be made whether to purchase one or two sets of lights, or forget the whole thing.

IT WAS reported that Groveport's share of the cost of extending waterlines to the new Central Office building just north of the Big City Garden Center is about $1,900. Jim Young who is selling the structure to the Madison School District this week is paying the $6,000 balance.

Baer informed council that Regional Planning has assured him that a satellite 200-

Gahanna Looks Strong In Mid-Eight; Carrol Meets L-U

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

If any member of the Mid-Eight League is considering taking home the trophy of that loop after the season, they had better talk it over with Gahanna, who has the makings of a sage strong boy.

The tall, experienced Lions, working under new coach John Stanley, come on string last Saturday night with a 74-67 win over Reynoldsburg who has been given the favorite nod in the new Metro League this year.

BACK FROM last year's 6-8 Mid-Eight loop record are five returning letter wearers headed by 6-5 Mike Browning and his 6-4 brother, Fred. Other returnees are Chuck Bosse (6-3), Bob Lawhead (6-4), and Bob McGuire, a 5-10 senior.

Newcomer Mike Wiley, who broke into the starting line-up this season, stands 6-0. Others working for key positions on the team are Clark Coleman, Steve Morrison and Scott Aurandt. Coleman is 5-10 with Morrison standing 6-5 and Aurandt is 6-4.

STANLEY figures that the strong points thus far for the Lions are the progress of the sophomores . . Wiley and Mike Browning . . . and the team's desire and attitude to go along with their size and rebounding ability.

Major problems are "ball handling and some defensive trouble," according to Stanley, but "I feel this will come in time."

Stanley sees his group along with London, Grove City and possibly Hilliard to be the teams to beat this year in the Mid-Eight loop race.

CARROLL

Carroll is under the direction of a new coach also with baseball tutor Mario Mills taking command of the varsity, following three years of reserve coaching.

BACK FOR Carroll are four letter-winners from last season with two starters included in that batch. Starters are Jerry Rathburn (6-0) and Bill Frye (5-11) to go along with returnees Bill Lupfer (6-2) and Jerry Crago (5-10) that played for Gerald Klobusnik's 6-12 team last year.

Mills looks for some added help to come from Roger Epperson, a transfer student from Virginia, John Arnett (6-1) Jake Lott (6-9) and Lonnie Koach (5-11).

"WE HAVE good balance and bench strength," Mills added, "and our defensive play is pretty fair.."

And Mills felt that improvement in shooting had to come when he glanced over the 15 for 70 chart of the Bulldogs' 6$6-50 loss to Logan Elm.

"Our shooting should come along as we pick up experience," he added. Carroll plays Liberty Union Friday.

Sophs Dominate Initial Lion Wrestling Squad

(Editor's Note—This is the final installment of 1966-'67 wrestling previews on area high school squads. Today's subject—Gahanna.)

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

After piloting Groveport to two consecutive Mid-Eight mat titles, Gahanna wrestling coach Pete Nix finds himself in the middle of a building program this year at the Lion helm.

Gahanna will adopt a grappling schedule for the first time with the Lions battling reserve squads until the first of the year.

AFTER THAT, it's strictly big time with Gahanna assuming a variety schedule that includes a visit to Brookhaven's Invitational and the Mid-Eight Meet.

Nix, who's presently down to 24 varsity prospects, has a young squad with 16 of his total sophomores, the remainder juniors.

The following Lion candidates have shown the most promise to date according to Nix:

As far as the Mid-Eight tourney goes, Mix sees his ex-Cruiser charges early favorites for a third straight crown.

But Nix added that Hilliard, improved by experience, should make the loop closer this year (Wildcats placed second last season).

THE LION mat boss envisions as evenly spread a District Meet as the area has seen for some time.

Two New Athletic Loops Likely By '67

A new athletic alignment of area high schools may largely combine two existing leagues in early 1967, the "Spectator" learned this week.

Affected would be the Metropolitan and Mid-Eight Leagues.

THE "SPECTATOR" source indicated that one new loop would contain two members of the Metro, three Mid-Eight schools and an independent — the alignment largely geared to the eastern sector of Franklin County.

Speculation as to the makeup of a second league suggested a union of the four remaining Metro members and two or three Mid-Eight schools — with South and West Franklin County a general locality.

Traveling distances and differences between league members were reported to be prime factors in the desire for new alignment.

A FORMAL announcement of the new lineups is expected around the first of the year.

FEARLESS PREDICTIONS

The "Fearless One" showed up for work the other day with a bundle of IBM cards under his arm and a method to work on for the 1966-67 cage season selections. Last year, he picked 271 right and missed on 91 for a near .750 mark.

His first efforts look like this:

Comment And Criticism

editorials . . .

Baiting The Hook

It's been several months now since Columbus City Council authorized creation of a Department of Development to consolidate the activities of the divisions of urban renewal and planning and zoning.

The Spectator felt at that time that it was a step in the right direction, and we still feel that way.

But to date Mayor Sensenbrenner has been unable to fill the post of Director of Development. The mayor says he has not been able to find a qualified planner and won't fill the post with someone not completely qualified.

The Spectator commends the mayor's dedication to a good job, but perhaps the bait isn't big enough to catch the fish.

If no action is taken within the next few weeks, The Spectator recommends that the mayor go back to council and ask for more money to pay a development director.

That way, the city's massive renewal program could begin moving rapidly toward completion, instead of hanging in a state of limbo while the search for a director goes on.

Village Needs Help

Last week, The Spectator pointed out that a lack of public interest was seriously hampering the operations of Franklin Village — the county's home for children in need of institutional help.

When an institution is hampered by lack of funds, or a shortage of qualified personnel, that is regrettable but understandable.

But when its programs are being hampered because the public doesn't seem to care, that is regrettable and not the least bit understandable.

Franklin Village does need more money and does need more staff. But it could greatly increase its value with a little help from the community it seeks to serve.

Child Welfare Board officials point out that overcrowding in the Village could be relieved if more potential foster parents would come forward.

Christmas could be made brighter if more local families would offer to take Franklin Village youngsters into their homes for the holiday.

The Spectator urges the Columbus community to take a good look at itself and lend its support to its needy children. In this Christmas season, that's the least we can do.

Time For Action

The recent Thanksgiving holiday weekend, and undoubtedly, the coming Christmas and New Year's weekends, should awaken the newly-elected General Assembly to its most pressing problem—highway safety.

On the nation's highways, Thanksgiving saw record slaughter. In Ohio, the toll went beyond predictions — as usual.

With the population booming and more cars coming onto the highways every year, something must be done soon.

The Spectator has no easy solution to the highway safety mess. But we see clearly that unless some action is taken, the slaughter will continue to increase year after year.

Two years ago, the legislature killed a bill to raise the minimum driving age before it even got out of committee. And Governor Rhodes included in his budget only enough money to hire a bare minimum of new highway patrolmen—while the Highway Safety Department gave away a new car for the winner of a safety slogan contest.

The Spectator urges the members of the 107th General Assembly to forget politics and tackle the highway safety problem immediately.

This, surely, is a matter of life and death.

'Dear, Have You Been Reading The Papers?'

Ohio's Tax Needs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Dr. George Thatcher, Miami University economist who authored the well-known Thatcher Report on Ohio's tax needs in 1962. It is reprinted from the WRFD Commentator.)

There is universal agreement among experts on the subject of plant location that the state and local tax burden is at best a secondary consideration in site selection. Of paramount importance are nearness to the market, availability of raw materials, transportation costs, labor supply and costs, power supply, water supply, etc.

The logical economic reason for naming the tax factor as a secondary consideration in plant location lies in the relationship of state and local tax costs to total costs of manufacturing. Studies in several states show that state and local taxes on manufacturing amount to less than one percent of total costs. Allowing for a 50 percent differential between states would reduce the above figure to one-half of one percent. This in turn would be about halved by deductible state taxes from the federal income tax base. Thus it can be concluded that the complete abolition of state and local taxes would not save business very much.

Neither should one ignore the positive factors implied in the relatively high level of government services provided to industry by the state. Low taxes usually mean a low level of public services. A low level of public services can be a reason why industry is not moving into the state.

What are alternative tax revisions for the state government of Ohio? One source of additional revenue would be to increase the sales tax rate. Each one percent increase in the sales tax would produce an additional $120 million per year. A retail sales tax can produce revenues which are very "large" in relation to state expenditures without "high" rates. Compared with the addition of new taxes, increasing the rate of the sales tax has one great merit. The administrative machinery already exists. Consequently, per dollar of additional yield, the extra cost o administration and compliance would be very low. The sales tax is convenient for taxpayers to pay because it is paid on an easy installment plan as purchases are made.

Slow It Down

To the Editor:

Now that the East Freeway has finally been opened the way it should be (all the way to Hamilton Road), how about some speed limit signs?

There isn't a sign the entire length of the road from the Innerbelt to Hamilton, and some motorists are taking advantage of that fact by turning the freeway into a speedway.

All of Columbus' other freeways are clearly marked for speed, whether it be 50 or 60 miles per hour. But it isn't unusual to be passed on the East Freeway by someone going upwards of 70 or 80 miles an hour.

Something ought to be done before someone is killed.

Harried East Side Motorist

To The Editor:

I want to extend my thanks to everyone who helped us in our March for Muscular Dystrophy on Sunday, Nov. 13.

The people of Franklin County were very cooperative again this year and we are most grateful. I wish particularly to thank our marchers, both adult and the many young people's groups who participated; the firemen throughout the county; the firemen's auxiliary; the Girl Scouts; the senior citizens; and for the publicity given us by the newspapers, radio and television.

marquis childs ★ HHH Has Solution For Slums ★

CHILDS

Even before the votes were counted in the recent election Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey had prepared a fall-back position. His own private prediction was for a loss of 40 or 41 House seats. On that forecast it was clear beyond a doubt that money to finance the Great Society programs would be difficult, if not impossible, to pry out of the 90th Congress.

In a speech to the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company's Urban Affairs Conference in Philadelphia that got almost no attention at the time, Humphrey suggested a way out. Since the cities no longer have the resources to manage the problem of the slums, he said, the slum areas should be "treated exactly as we treat the underdeveloped nations in our foreign aid program."

He proposed loans guaranteed by the Federal government for American business to invest in housing and other projects. Such guaranteed loans have increasingly become the pattern in the aid program to developing countries.

A National Housing Development Fund would, in Humphrey's proposal, provide loans for nonprofit corporations and cooperatives. Without help, the Vice-President noted, private industry cannot make money in most instances in low-income housing.

Moreover, public housing in the past has been a pretty dreary business. It has meant great barracks in which tenants accepted no responsibility, with steady deterioration as a result. The Vice-President called for "real neighborhoods" with green spaces, clean streets, playgrounds and schools.

Whether the Republicans with a gain of 47 seats in the new House would go for something like the guaranteed private loan plan to build low-rent housing is questionable. Party leaders are denying that they mean to team up with Southern Democrats in the kind of coalition that in past years has blocked all social legislation. They insist that the party in Congress will create a new positive image.

Okay, says Humphrey, who seems not in the least daunted by what happened on Nov. 8, let them block it. The theory is that the Democrats will then have something to go to the country with in 1968. The precedent is 1948 and Harry Truman's campaign against the "Eighty-worst Congress."

There is, of course, a difference. The Republicans 20 years ago won control of both houses of Congress. That gave Truman, the underdog, his big opportunity, and he took it with all the fire of a rough-and-tumble fighter.

If something like the Humphrey proposal is put forward — and it has been discussed at length with President Johnson — the jockeying if it is rejected will be to pin the blame on the opposition party. Should 80 to 85 percent of Republicans in the House vote against it, along with most Southerners, the political speeches in the 1968 campaign will write themselves.

Whether this strategy works is another question. Theoretically, the Democrats will still have large majorities in both the Senate and the House. A depression in housing would send widening ripples into the rest of the economy. And the party in power usually gets the blame for bad news on the payroll front.

barry goldwater ★ No Real Consensus Government ★

GOLDWATER

President Johnson has had plenty of time to contemplate the ruins of his so-called consensus government, actually the ruins of his own political ambitions, for there never was a real consensus government except in the fevered imagination of his political propaganda corps.

And now even the most shortsighted should be able to see by the President's personal reaction to his whopping defeat in the congressional elections that politics always was and always will be his guiding star. Consensus was just a billboard word, a salesman's slogan, a peddler's picture.

His past programs never did represent anything like a consensus. In most important cases they squeaked by the Congress with margins of less than a dozen votes.

There is nothing wrong with a President squeaking programs past the Congress — most have had to do it. The wrongness here lies in the extreme nature of the legislation put over on all the American people by such slim margins.

The wrongness of this administration lies in the opportunism with which it has exploited a few congressional votes to make basic changes in the fabric of American life, changes which should have been made only with the fullest, most aware consensus of all the people involved.

Instead, by margins sometimes as small as a half-dozen congressional votes, this administration has moved us farther up the road to socialism than any other.

Congress faces a tangle of welfare programs which have so institutionalized poverty as to make the practice of being poor and on the public dole a legitimate job classification in the eyes of many.

Congress faces a general disrespect for legal process and protection which has been fed, fanned and fired by this administration's constant concessions to voting blocs and its persistent refusal to take firm stands against lawbreakers, regardless of political impact.

And yet, bless them, these congressmen can do it all well if they really want to.

To begin with, they can put the socialist schemes of Lyndon Johnson on a starvation diet. And they can reject any new ones, for they clearly have the strength should the President be so arrogant as to try to slip some new ones past them. And who really doubts that he will?

Meantime, good-by to the phony consensus. And three cheers for a real Congress!

william s. white ★ Members Of Exclusive Club ★

WHITE

Lyndon B. Johnson and Dwight D. Eisenhower are members of the smallest, the most exclusive and the most powerful club in all the world, the club of living American presidents, past and present. There is only one other member, a tough old boy in Missouri called Harry S. Truman.

In temperament, personality and attitude toward many political issues, three more different men could hardly be found.

Upon a single matter, however, no three men could be more as one. This is the total necessity for a truly bipartisan conduct of American foreign policy. This is why President Johnson has asked Eisenhower to make a worldwide tour as an untitled ambassador extraordinary in behalf of the world interests of the United States — and this is why Dwight Eisenhower is giving the matter what in White House lingo is usually termed "active consideration."

To be sure, even if General Eisenhower does not undertake this mission, it will still be difficult for any Republican group to make such partisan use of American foreign policy any time soon.

But this will not bother Eisenhower at all, not because he simply loves to make things easy for a Democrat who is President, but rather because he doesn't at all mind making things easier, if possible, for an institution called the Presidency. Anyhow, this foreign policy is not just Lyndon Johnson's. It is also Dwight Eisenhower's and it is also Harry Truman's.

The truth is that no President in this columnist's memory has actually been partisan in world affairs; and this is not because any one of them has wanted to be a conscientious objector in party warfare. It is simply because each has known — and poignantly known since the Second World War — that partisan politics is a two-bit business indeed when put against the measureless perils to vital American interest that the cold war has brought.

There is a human reason, moreover, for this Presidential togetherness among men who are perfectly capable of cheerfully cutting each other up any day of the week on home affairs. For the fact is that the Presidency of the United States is an infinitely lonely and incredibly brutal task and the only three living men who know what it is really like are named Johnson, Eisenhower and Truman.

All these were the underlying and unspoken factors between two clubmen the other day when Dwight Eisenhower called on Lyndon Johnson at the naval hospital here. There was yet another identity of interest. For, you see, both are what are now called cornpone types who are surely not with it in the politics of the soft-line hipsters.

They really do believe that you can't fight armed invaders solely with splendid rhetoric and "negotiation." They even believe that American fighting men are doing both a good and an honorable job and are entitled not solely to the thanks of the country but also to the comradely leadership of two men who in this respect are neither Republican nor Democrat but only American.

No two ways about it; these two fellows are real squares, Dad — and so is old Mr. Harry S. Truman, stomping around out there in Independence, Mo.

Seniors Take Homemaking Test

Senior class girls from 26 area high schools will join more than 500,000 high school seniors throughout the United States who will take part Tuesday in a written knowledge and attitude test dealing with homemaking.

The national winner in the competition will receive a $5,000 college scholarship from a $110,000 prize fund. National runners-up will receive $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships while state winners will receive $1,500 grants with $500 going to state runners-up.

The program is sponsored by General Mills and is called the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow. State winners will compete in the spring in the finals in Washington, D.C.

Judging is based on test scores plus personal observation and interviews. The program is designed to promote the importance of homemaking as a cereer.

Area high schools participating are St. Mary, Grandview Heights, St. Joseph, Bishop Hartley, St. Francis DeSales, Walnut Ridge, East, Mifflin, Brookhaven, Franklin Heights, South, Bishop Watterson, Bishop Ready, Hamilton Township, Whetstone, Rosemont, Marion Franklin, North, Whitehall-Yearling, Ohio State School for the Blind, West, Canal Winchester, Gahanna Lincoln, Hilliard, Groveport Madison and Reynoldsburg.

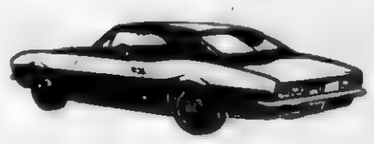
ARMY OF JOY

For Salvation Army workers across the country, Christmas is not a day of personal celebration but for giving cheer to the less fortunate. In larger cities meals are provided for thousands at social centers, dinners are served at transient centers, delivered to shut-ins. Funds come from many sources and the Army's traditional kettle appeal helps "keep the pot boiling."

FRUIT CAKES



Fruit cakes can be kept almost indefinitely if they are properly wrapped and stored. Simply sprinkling orange juice over the cake periodically keeps it from drying out and adds a touch of flavor as well.

And So It Grows

To preserve some autumn leaves, press with a warm iron and soak in a solution of one part glycerine to nine parts water. When the leaves are thoroughly soaked, remove and press between blotters. The leaves will stay flexible.

Let the ground freeze slightly before applying a winter mulch to your perennial flower bed. Then put 3 to 5 inches of such mulching materials as crushed corn cobs, peat moss, or straw on the bed. Use whichever is readily available. Winter mulches prevent heaving of the plants by alternate freezing and thawing that damages root systems.

If you're setting out an apple or pear tree in your backyard, be sure to plant two. Extension horticulturists at Ohio State University say that by planting two trees you'll get better pollination and a better fruit set. The only exception would be if you plant a tree which bears several varieties of a fruit. These don't need companion trees.

Most fruit trees should be planted so the bud union (crook in the stem) is level with the soil line. But the bud unions of dwarf or semi-dwarf trees should be four or five inches above the soil. If not planted this way they will grow to regular size.

A sunny kitchen window is a good spot for a winter herb garden. Pot small clumps of chives or try basil, savory, Rosemary, parsley or any other fresh herb you'd like to have handy.

Roses planted bare-root in the fall appear to be better protected by hilling soil around them. This means that additional soil will have to be brought to the rose beds and hilled up around the canes eight to 10 inches.

You'll help reduce some disease problems in your home garden next season if you plow under all crop refuse in the fall. This material will decay and hasten breakdown of the over-wintering structures of the disease-causing organisms. Or, if plowing under isn't practical for you, put the refuse in a compost pile. But leave the pile for two years before returning it to the garden soil.

After you mow the lawn for the last time, spruce up that mower before putting it in hibernation. Drain the gas tank and wash the mower from top to bottom. Remove the air cleaner and wash all parts in kerosene. Also drain the crank case and replenish the oil as indicated in the directions of the manufacturer. Check the blade and replace if necessary. Otherwise give it a coat of oil to prevent rust.

Boy Scouts of America

AN AGENCY OF YOUR UNITED APPEALS

Which would you pick for your boy if you could?

Clothes don't make the man. But a Boy Scout uniform is a big help. The boy who wears it is part of a program that brings out the best in him. He's discovering the fun of wholesome fellowship with boys his own age. With trained adult volunteers to lend a hand, he's learning exciting new facts and new skills. And, in the traditional high standards of Scouting, he's finding the guide lines for healthy physical, mental and moral growth. Scouting will help your boy become the kind of man you'll be proud of.

Council staff members are on duty today from 9:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. to answer your questions.

News Of Lockbourne

BERTHA GRAY
491-1319

There will be a fellowship dinner at the Lockbourne Methodist Church on Sunday, Dec. 4, at noon.

All new members will be especially recognized at this time.

Thanks to everyone who helped to make the bake and soup sale a success Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kuhlwein were entertained over the weekend by former pastor, Rev. and Mrs. William Bensich at their Fremont home.

The Methodist Church Choir attended the Miami University ball game Saturday, where Tom Peters is on the team.

Out of town visitors of Bertra Gray were Mrs. Edna Adel and Mr. and Mrs. Hoy of Groveport and Mrs. Frieda Kuhlwein and little grandson Scott.

Lawrence Rice spent Thanksgiving with his family in West Virginia.

Association Plans Parties

Chaired by Mrs. Jane Bell and Mrs. Dorothy Fields, the Hamilton Meadows Civic Association will hold a ladies' hat show and sale at the Hamilton High School cafeteria Saturday, Dec. 3 from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m.

When the group met recently negotiations with the township trustees were announced which will result in new street signs for the area.

The trustees have agreed to buy the three and one-half foot concrete pyramids to replace the present metal standards and area residents will assist in their installation and stencilling of the street name on the unique markers.

The group will meet again on Tuesday, Dec. 13, at the high school at 8 p.m. for the annual Christmas party and gift exchange.

Musical Comedy To Open At Center

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Spectator
Entertainment Editor

"Do-Re-Me" a musical comedy is opening at the Jewish Center on Dec. 3 as the first theatrical offering of the Gallery Players' 1966-67 theater season.

Abe Green will be seen as Hubie Cram, in this rollicking revel as a head-in-the-clouds inhabitant of Tin Pan Alley, who thinks he can find a short-cut to fortune by organizing a monopoly in the juke box racket.

Sue Kaye will appear as his resignedly disenchanted wife, whose first song is characteristically called, "Waiting, Waiting" because her dream is, that just once, hubby will keep an appointment with her on time.

Other local actors portraying parts will be: John Crawford, Allen Gundersheimer, Jr., Harold Cohen and Bart Loomis.

Harold M. Eisenstein is the director with Alvin Beck as musical director and Ruth Edelstein assisting.

For tickets and further information phone the Cultural Arts Center at the Jewish Center, 251-2731.

'Texas Across The River' Enters Third Week Of Run

"Texas Across The River" starring Dean Martin, Joey Bishop and Rosemary Forsyth, enters the third week at Columbus' three newest theatres. The Cinemas are at Town and Country, University City and Great Western. It is scheduled to complete its local run on Dec. 6.

Opening on Dec. 7 at all three theatres will be "The Rage" starring Glenn Ford and Stella Stevens.

For the Christmas holidays the movie "Gambit'" will be shown with the opening starting Dec. 23. "Gambit" has a cast topped by Shirley MacLaine, Michael Caine and Herbert Lom.

Miss MacLaine, a three-time Oscar nominee, portrays a Eurasian beauty who becomes involved in the theft of a fabulously valuable bust of the Empress Lissu, an art treasure unearthed by Marco Polo in China. By coincidence, the modern Eurasian girl is the exact likeness of the ancient Eastern queen.

Civic Club To Present Gifts To Cerebral Palsy

Christmas will be celebrated early this year when members of the Central Civic Club of Columbus meet at the Southern Hotel Dec. 6, at 6:30 p.m. for the annual Christmas party.

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of four wheel-chairs to the Cerebral Palsy Center and a check for equipment to the handicapped members of Recreation Unlimited.

'Man Of La Mancha' Opens At Vets Memorial Dec. 13

Tickets are now on sale at the Hartman Theatre box office for the week-long engagement of the award-winning musical, "Man of La Mancha," scheduled to play Veterans Memorial Auditorium from Dec. 13 to Dec. 17.

Evening performances are scheduled for Tuesday through Saturday nights, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

"Man of La Mancha" stars Jose Ferrer as author Miguel de Cervantes and his most famous character, Don Quixote. Harvey plays Quixote's sidekick, Sancho Panza. Also featured are Maura K. Wedge, Wilbur Evans and David Atkinson.

The story of Don Quixote is familiar as a folk tale, but in this musical version, author Dale Wasserman lets Cervantes himself portray the role of the knight.

Composer Mitch Leigh and lyricist Joe Darion have spiced the story with such hit numbers as "I'm Only Thinking of Him" and "The Impossible Dream," along with "Man of La Mancha," "Little Bird, Little Bird" and "Golden Helmet." Albert Marre directed the play and Jack Cole handled the choreography. Scenery and lighting is by Howard Bay, with costumes by Bay and Patton Campbell.

"Man of La Mancha" earned the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award as "Best Musical of 1966," the Outer Circle Award as "Outstanding Musical" and captured five Tony awards, including "Best Musical Play."

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

One of the most frequently told stories belonging to the heritage of western civilization, the story of Joan of Arc, is re-told in "The Lark" which will be presented next week by the Ohio State University Theatre. It will be seen in the University Hall Theatre from Dec. 6 through 10 at p.m. A matinee performance is scheduled at 2:30 p.m. on Dec. 10.

"The Lark," written by French playwright Jean Anouilh, begins with the captured Joan sitting on a stool in a court-room surrounded by the mightiest eclesiastical, military and political men of her age. They have gathered to try her for witchcraft—not because they think her guilty but because her extraordinary achievements have discomforted each of them in some way, and they feel she must be disposed of somehow.

The play consists basically of the trial, but the testimony is continually interrupted and dramatized so that the action transports Joan back and forth in time, flashing back to her first hearing of "voices" on her father's farm, then to the means by which she goes up the chain of command to the presence of the Dauphin of France and persuades him to put her in command of his armies, and then to her victories.

Tickets for the Dec. 6-10 production of "The Lark" are now available by phone, 293-2295.

'The Liquidator' To Be At Cinema Through Dec. 24

Robert McKinley manager at Northland Cinema, reports that the current show "The Liquidator" will run through Dec. 24.

This movie stars Rod Taylor, Trevor Howard and Jill St. John in a spy story with a good story-line.

On Christmas Day, Northland Cinema will open at 11:45 a.m. to show Walt Disney's "Follow Me, Boys" starring Fred MacMurray. During the holidays, show time will be 10 a.m. For other show times phone 263-9777.

2nd Production Of Players Club To Be Presented

Gerald Ness, managing-director for Players Club, announces the second production of the season, "The Physicists," will be presented Dec. 2, 3, 4, and 8, 9, 10 at 8:30 p.m.

The four main leads are: Lynne Roth, Robert Rathbun, Robert Chosy and Angelo Dragonette.

While productions are for members and their guests, anyone interested in Players Club may call (221-4913) for information.

WALNUT RIDGE'S '66-67 MAT VETS

Mat Vets Few, Far Between In East, Hartley, Bexley Camps

(Editor's note — This is the final installment of 1966-'67 wrestling previews on area high school squads. Today's subjects — East, Bishop Hartley and Bexley).

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

EAST

It's pretty tough to improve on a District championship and a City Meet title — especially when you're minus four key performers who netted 78 wins while losing but seven times.

That's the task ahead for East High mat coach Chuck Deyo and his Tiger wrestlers this season.

THE BENGALS compiled a perfect (5-0) dual mark and added a third at the State Meet to their '65-66 achievements and have already been figured as the squad to beat at this season's District Meet

But the challenge will be a big one for Deyo who counts but two returning veterans back from that squad in Ralph Cox (112, was third in state competition, piled up 23-0 mark during regular season) and Danny Young (133).

Missing and missed are heavyweight Willie Jackson (third in state, 20-0), Jake Holloway (second in state at 127, 24-0), Clarence Bennett (District runnerup at 138, 20-3), George White (14-4 at 175) and Wil Ivory (112).

DEYO, WHO sees his biggest problems coming in the upper weights, figures the bulk of his starting spots will be filled by first-year men.

"How well and how quickly they develop will tell the story for us," the Tiger mentor added.

Four good looking prospects up from the Tiger reserves should help soften the heavy graduation losses, however.

SENIOR Keith Stevens, for example, will get his opportunity to start at 103, after wrestling in Cox's shadow for two years.

Other key prospects include Bob Crawford at 127, Benny Slade at 145 and Gerald Avery at 138.

Deyo considers West (Cowboys won reserve title by wide margin last season) as his Tigers toughest competition in a bid for a repeat City Meet title.

DISTRICT-WISE, The Spectator's '65-'66 "Coach of the Year" lists the Cowboys and DeSales (last year's runnerup) as early contenders.

HARTLEY

"Has anyone seen my heavyweight?" is the mournful tune Hawk mat mentor Jim Kennedy is whistling these days.

Kennedy has none in stock to date and, in fact, lists only four lettermen back from Hartley's '65-'66 unit.

"WE'RE AS green as the proverbial grass," Kennedy says, missing such bygone performers as Joe Weldon, P. K. Erwin, Roswell Brown and Mike Newton (gained biggest share of Hawk wins last season).

Whatever success the Hawk grapplers can manage this season will have to start with vets Louie Bernhard (sr., 154), Jack McNamara (jr., 112), Jeff Day (sr., 165) and Bill Cline (138).

Cline's presence on the Hawk squad is still doubtful, however—the veteran currently sidelined via mononucleosis.

BESIDES heavyweight, Kennedy is also "wide open" at 133.

Top prospects for other vacancies include: 103 — junior Dan Cunningham or soph Chuck Fowle; 120 — senior Bob Fowle; 127—junior Bruce Livingston; 138 — senior Jim Ryan and junior Skip Herbert; 145 — junior Charlie Wicks; 175 — soph Paul Jones and senior Tony Passero.

The Hartley mentor lists DeSales ("lost a lot of good boys but had good reserve squad") and Ready ("lot of lettermen returning") as top contenders for the upcoming Central Catholic Meet crown.

BEXLEY

IT'LL BE strictly rebuilding for Lion coach Ben Tenwalde and his Bexley grapplers this season.

The Lions shed eight starters off last year's 6-6 squad and that included such notables as Steve Sloan (10-1 at 120) and Mark Gitlitz (9-2-1 at 145).

Bexley will have to lean heavily on three returning vets —all '65-'66 starters.

PACING THAT trio should be Reese Lattimer, unbeaten (11-0) at 103 last campaign but moving up to either the 112 or 120 slot this season.

Also back are heavyweight Rick Grove and Gary Gitlitz at 165.

Tenwalde rates most spots "wide open" but is taking an extra long look at prospects Mike Neff (112), Matt Unger (138 or 145), Hank Gorchoff (127), Tom Crist (138) and Mike Barr (127).

BEXLEY'S 154 spot is without a leading starter candidate at present but Tenwalde does have four freshman prospects to look over at 103.

Brown Stars Available For Cage Games

The Cleveland Stars basketball team—featuring 14 members of the Cleveland Browns' football squad, is now accepting bookings for games against amateur, semi-pro and professional teams throughout the Midwest starting Jan.

SACRED SYMBOL

Mistletoe was a sacred symbol where the early Druids were concerned. Forests in which this precious plant grew were dedicated to the gods. Legend says that Druids cut mistletoe sprigs with a golden knife and hung them over their doors so that no evil would enter the house.

Youth Camp Hosts Boxing Show Dec. 21

The Herbert F. Christian Youth Camp will host a boxing show Wednesday, Dec. 21, (7:30 p.m.) at Cooper Arena on the State Fairgrounds.

This will initiate the first of six boxing shows which will be held during the coming year.

BOXERS from the Columbus Recreation Centers and Ohio Youth Commission Institutions will participate in these shows.

Windsor Terrace Recreation Center has several boxers who are strong candidates for the 1968 Olympic Boxing Team. Local fans will have an opportunity to see these and other Olympic candidates in action.

Admission is $1 and children accompanied by parents will be admitteed free.

PROCCEDS from this show will be donated to the Herbert F. Christian Youth Camp resident fund, thereby insuring that these youngsters have a Merry Christmas.

GIFT GIVING

The exchange of presents at Christmas is not a tradition of modern vintage. In early times, even before Christianity, priests urged their pagan followers to exchange gifts at the New Year. At first, the gifts were collected by the priests, who then distributed them to the poor. With Christianity, the exchange of gifts was changed to Christmas and the gift-giving tradition has grown with the progress of Christianity.

PIN NEWS

Keglers' Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

Columbus and Southern Ohio's "Litelines" this month carries four pages of clever bowling shots of 18 men's teams and six women's teams.

We've stopped counting those terrific 700 scores — but here are a few which have been reported: Bob Brown (705) in Amos Masters, Carl Raber (700) with Builders at Holiday, Ralph Sim's (714) at Piketon's BPA Singles, and Roy Buckley with 727 in Amos Doubles.

ADD BIGGIES: Dave Hayle with 299 at Wink-o, Nellie Glandon with 635 in a 1061—2933 high for Three C-Ladies' All Star, Charlene Lawson with 632 for Ace Bowling, Linda Franklin's 233 and 231 in a 661 for Tom Dern at Northern Lights Classic, Bill Clement's 278 (667), and Pete Gearhart's 670.

At Gahanna, Grace Keyser made the "impossible" 4-6-7-10 split conversion. Al Johnson bowled an unsanctioned 300 at Western.

Aim to get to Northern Lights for the eight-day (weekend) headpin event sponsored by High Hopes Child Conservation League, closing on Dec. 18.

TYPOGRAPHIC Press, former publishers of Columbus Bowling News, has brought out a new coloring book available for bowling center nurseries. The coloring book spells out "bowling fun" and portrays birds and animals which represents the ten letters in the title. Rita Maben is the creator.

Speaking of 300's — It is interesting to note that 357 of the 10,600 perfect games in ABC were bowled by men between ages of 31 and 40.

The 21 to 30 age group produced 26 percent and the 21 and under seven percent. At the very ends of the ladder are seven 300 games of 13-year-olds (none in the past three seasons) and one 300 by a man 72, that in 1964-65.

THE OWNER of the lanes decided to visit his establishment and talk to some of his patrons. Bowler after bowler told him stories of how they had hit the pocket perfectly and had been robbed.

According to them, they should have had perfect scores. Finally, one bowler said, "I bowled badly. I got just what I deserved—156."

The owner quickly called the manager. "Get this guy out of here," he ordered, "before he ruins all our perfect bowlers."

SWAN BOWLING Lanes now have a staff bowling instructor on hand — Mickey Heil — to help with bowling problems, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Free Junior Bowling instructions will begin Sunday at 9 a.m.

Kossman New Manager Of Expanding T&C Union Store

The Union Co. Town and Country store is in the midst of a major renovation project that will more than double the existing 20,000 square feet of floor space in the big department store.

Portions of the new addition are expected to be open in time for holiday shopping, according to William Kossman, new manager of the Town and Country store.

Kossman, a 1949 graduate of North High School, attended Ohio State University until 1951, when he entered the Army, serving in Korea.

He joined the Union Co. 11 years ago and has been with the Town and Country store for the past four years, serving as assistant manager under Joe Nathan.

When Nathan moved up to the post of coordinator of Union branch stores, Kossman was named to succeed him. Kossman also serves on the board of directors of the Town and Country Business Association.

Kossman, his wife, Jackie, his son, Mark, 8, and his daughter, Beth, 3, live at 522 E. Beechwold-bl.

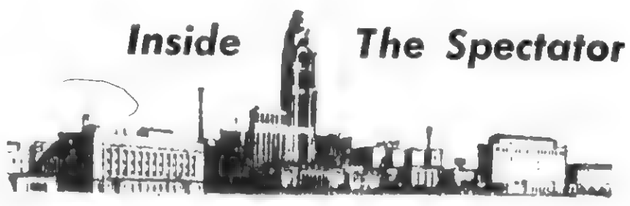
Terry Smales Top Boot

Pvt. Terry L. Smales, son of Mrs. Mary Smales, 1976 Todd-av, has received the top award in his company at Fort Dix "boot camp" after racking up a score of 488 out of a possible 500 points in the Army Physical Combat Proficiency Test. Now assigned to communication School in Fort Gordon, Ga., he played varsity end on the football team and was both a wrestler and track star before graduating from Hamilton Township High School in June.

Watch The Deadline



Six teenagers from the Groveport area have already entered the Lions International Peace Essay Contest. However, Bernie Grebus, president of the Groveport Lions Club, said he hopes more local students will be challenged by the opportunity not only to promote world peace but to compete for the $25,000 first prize or other awards in the $50,000 contest. The deadline for the contest, open to those 14 and under 22 years old is Saturday. Contest rules may be obtained from Grebus, 331 Lesleh-av, or any local Lion.

It's Time To Decorate

Mrs. Henry Young of Bexley will judge the annual Christmas arrangement show planned by the Hamilton Township Garden Club from 4:30 to 6 p.m. Sunday in the Hamilton High School cafeteria. Members will compete in five classes with four additional classes open to children. Following the public viewing, a buffet supper will be served to members and their families.

City Gets Face Lifting For Christmas

Due to the combined efforts of some Reynoldsburg women, city hall is getting a facelifting just in time for the Christmas season.

The city hall grounds are sporting a beautiful six foot Norway spruce all dressed-up for the holiday season.

THE TREE was donated to the Reynoldsburg Garden Club's beautification project by Bob Clymer and his wife Kay.

This face-lifting project was begun in 1958 by the Garden Club, but it is just recently that they are seeing their vision partly fulfilled.

IN ADDITION to this improvement, the Garden Club has also planted three winterking hawthornes, three Douglas firs and eight regal privets in the northwest area of the municipal building. The cost of the project so far has been about $500.

The club is following a planting plan by Burwell Nurseries. Thirty-seven trees and shrubs costing about $1,100 will be planted upon completion of the project.

In 1965, the 18-member garden club planted shrubs around the tomato plaque and placed shrubs in front of city hall.

IN 1961 at the club's instigation, Reynoldsburg Garden Club Council also planted shrubs around the municipal building. But the club is still a long way from its goal, according to the project chairman of the beautification plan, Mrs. Jane Woodman.

"The ladies of the garden club feel that the municipal building is in a conspicuous spot and on display for travelers and residents, but we still need much financial assistance to help complete the project. We have just finished the second phase of the planting plan."

SOME AREA residents and organizations have contributed to the planning project, but the club is still a long way from its goal.

Others who have contributed to the fund are: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bersebach, Mrs. Clarence Umpleby, the Republican Women's Club, the Reynoldsburg Lions Club, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clymer, the Reynoldsburg Women's Club and the Jaycee Wives.

Rams, Stonerock Next Tests For Raider Defense

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Still looking for defensive plugs, Reynoldsburg coach Bill Borland and his Raider quintet play host to Metro opponent number two (Whitehall) Friday, aiming to better a 3-1 standing.

"I'm just not happy with the defense," Borland claimed this week. "It's still a long way off."

WHITEHALL'S Rams, also 3-1, should give that Raider defense a stern test with 6-1 forward Lew Anderson number one "tester."

Anderson popped in 21 markers, pacing Whitehall to a successful Metro debut 43-42 over Pleasant View) last weekend.

But — unfortunately for the Red Raiders — Lew isn't the only shooter the Rams will be bringing along.

IN A 61-56 setback to Chillicothe Saturday, center Steve Allen (6-5) and forward Bill Anderson (6-1) checked in with 15 and 16 points respectively when the opposition defense collapsed on Lew Anderson.

Besides a few brow wrinkles via his defense ("We're not doing things we've been working on"), Borland isn't fretting over developments so far — unless you mention turnovers.

The Raiders gave it away 46 times last weekend (as compared to 50 "gifts" from the opposition).

BUT THE Reynoldsburg mentor was pleased with the balanced scoring evident in the 66-57 win over Franklin Heights and the 66-44 verdict over Watkins Memorial last weekend.

Gary Shade (19), Terry Miller (16) and Dick Baserman (12) took honors vs. the Falcons while Miller (19), John Grayem (10) and Shade (10) hit the twin digits vs. W-M.

Glen Turner and Gene Frazier also hit for eight points apiece against the latter foe.

"IF WE can keep that kind scoring going, we'll be all friht when we meet the good ball clubs, they won't be able to defense any one man," Borland added.

Weekend bouquets went to Baserman ("one of best-ever performers") both defensively and offensively (hit 50 percent vs. F-H), Glen Turner (Baserman's replacement when four fouls sidelined the senior guard) and John Grayem.

The Raiders paced rebounding in both games (50 to 30 over F-H; 65-38 over W-H) with Miller (12 and 17) setting the individual pace.

BORLAND, who figured his Raiders need at least 38 percent from the field to win, got it both nights (41 vs. Falcons, 38 vs. Warriors).

Free throw percentages went to the opposition both nights —although the Raiders turned in 78 percent on 14 of 18 attempts vs. F-H (Falcons hit 13 of 14 for 93 percent).

Baserman, the Raiders' defense specialist who'll key on Lew Anderson Friday, will have an even tougher assignment Saturday when Reynoldsburg visits Circleville for a non-leaguer.

THE TIGERS lost to Miami Trace (75-60) and Grandview (64-56) last weekend but have an expert shooter at guard in Tim Stonerock.

Stonerock fired in 28 of 32 points against M-T and Grandview respectively.

TV, C-W Face Key Loop Battles

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

Friday's Pleasant View-Teays Valley cage contest will be missing some of the glamour that it has had in the past few years with Russ Gregg's bunch (3-1) standing a favorite over Bo Brickels' Panthers (0-3) in a game that has been a toss-up.

The scores over the last three years bear this out, if nothing else does, that the first meeting between the two each year has been hectic.

THE TWO games before last season's 47-40 Pleasant View win went to Teays 51-50 and 54-52, and all three times PV has come back to win the championship of the then South Suburban and South-Central Leagues.

GIVE 'N TAKE—It's little wonder Gahanna cager Fred Browning (center) is looking with disdain on this apparent shuffle pass from teammate Mike Browning (34) to Grove City's Louis Willard (right). Actually the trio was engaged in rebound scramble during Mid-Eight opener for both clubs Friday.

But in the first Metro League basketball battles last Friday night, Teays Valley whipped Hamilton Township, 91-43 while Pleasant View was falling to Whitehall 43-42 after overcoming a 30-16 deficit.

BICKELS FEELS that his defensive-minded Panthers can't figure to play any one of the Vikings very close because he feels all can do the damage.

"This is as good a team as they have had down there," Brickels said, "anyone of them can hurt you because they are all good shots."

BRICKELS DID figure that PV would have to stop 6-4 Rod Teets who owns an 18.5 average, inside.

The Panther problem in the first three games is the lack of a scoring punch beside the 5-9 guard Monte Rhoden, of whom Gregg's feels will get more than a little attention from the Teays defenders Friday. Rhoden is currently matching Teets' average of 18 points.

GREGG LOOKS for Pleasant View's effective style "of strong, pressing defense and controlled offense," that they have worked so well in the past.

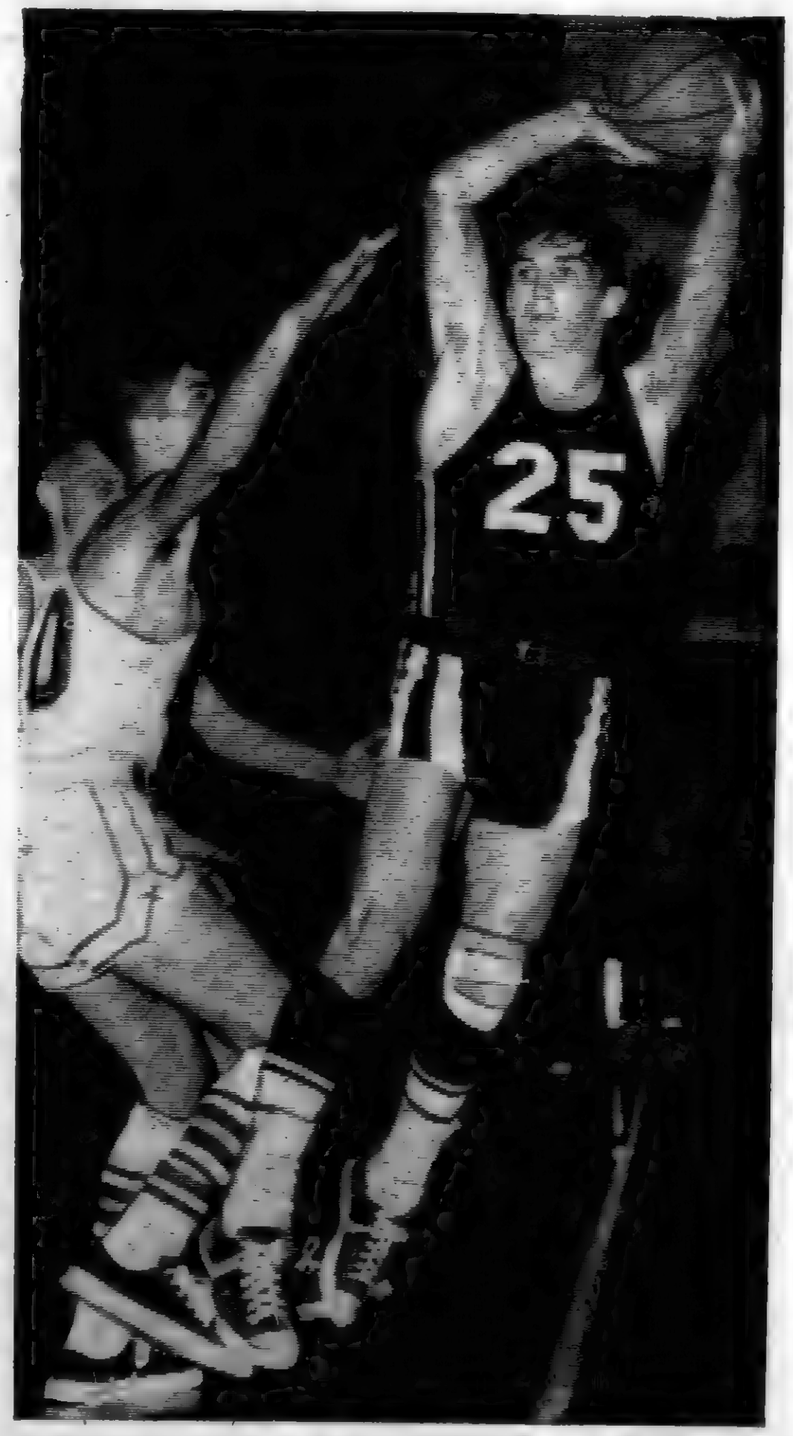
Teays Valley was somewhat limited by such an attack coming from neighboring Westfall Saturday night with TV winning, 42-33.

GREGG NAMED Jim Estep and Vic Love along with Teets as improving contributors to the Viking attack.

St. Mary and Canal Winchester put unbeaten loop and overall marks on the line Friday night in the Franklin County League feature that looms as important as last season's Ram-Indian battle which went to the Giants, 63-61.

The game is set for 8 p.m. on the Ramblers floor.

ST. MARY (1-0) opened play in the rugged Franklin County League last Friday with a 60-56 overtime win over West Jefferson as dandy 6-6 pivot ace Rod Webb poured in 30 points.



Canal Winchester (4-0) took its loop opener, 89-58 over Dublin on the Winchester court with Kim Black managing a surprising 30 point output while previous leader Victor Argobright netted 15.

OTHER C-W wins came over Groveport (62-32), Liberty Union (62-56) and Pickerington (65-55) while the Rams only other action was a second place finish in the preview at Newark Catholic.

Winchester coach Bob Miller looks for Webb to give his group fits inside and feels that stopping him is a must to handling the Rams.

SIZE-WISE, Canal will counter Webb's 6-6 bulk with 6-4 junior Bill Miles, who has an 11.5 average in the first four Indian starts.

Besides Miles' scoring, Canal Winchester relies on the 17.5 shooting of Black and the 16.0 firing of Argobright. One of the top C-W scorers back from last season—Dick Whitmer—has an 11.0 mark thus far with fifth man Jerry Shackelford netting seven ppg and getting a "top defender" tab from Miller.

Scottie Matmen Break Tourney 'Ice' Saturday

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Walnut Ridge hosts the first multi-squad wrestling Invitational of the season Saturday as area high school grapplers take to the mats in the first full week of activity.

The Scotties will play host to Bishop Ready, Granville, Bishop Hartley, Westerville, Whetstone, Groveport and an eighth squad if W-R coach Rick Cermelj is able to fill that last berth by Saturday.

PRELIMS AT W-R will begin at 10 a.m. with finals under way by 4 p.m. A team trophy to the winners of the 11 individual weight classes will be presented at the conclusion of the tourney.

Admission (all day) will be $1 for both adults and students.

Dual matches scheduled this week which could serve as District "barometers" could be East's visit to Brookhaven tomorrow (both rated high on City League list) and Arlington's stop-off at Worthington Friday (both lost heavily via graduation but are still considered District challengers).

FRANKLIN HEIGHTS — another pick by area mat coaches for a top-rate season—travels to Dayton Saturday to test that city's tougher wrestling squads.

The area's newest mat entry —Gahanna — will appear on the home mats for the first time Friday, vs. Grandview's reserves.

Here's the remainder of the week's mat schedule:

TODAY
Groveport at Arlington

THURSDAY
Ready at Franklin Heights
East at Brookhaven
Ohio School for Blind at Grandview
Hamilton Township at Mifflin
Whetstone at South
Grove City at Marysville

FRIDAY
Central at Circleville
Lancaster at Eastmoor
Linden at Walnut Ridge
Arlington at Worthington
Newark at Westerville
Grandview Reserves at Gahanna (4:30 p.m.)

SATURDAY
Walnut Ridge Invitational
Franklin Heights at Dayton
Grandview at Hilliard

MONDAY
Circleville at Pleasant View

TUESDAY
Grove City at Hamilton Township
Whitehall at Hartley
Whitehall Reserves at Gahanna (4:15)

Cruisers Slam 'Cats; H-T Rally Falls Too Short

Groveport's wrestling Cruisers supplied new coach Bob Carter with a winning debut and solidly cast themselves into the "favorite" spot for a third straight Mid-Eight mat title last week with a convincing 37-6 drubbing of Hilliard — the 'Cats rated as the locals' top loop opposition this season.

The Cruisers wasted little time in gaining the upper hand, zooming off to a 23-0 lead thanks to pins by Tom Sparks (103), Jim McConaha (120), Don Miller (127) and Skip Musselman (133), plus a decision by John Queen at 112.

KEITH LEGG'S pin (165), plus verdicts by Jeff Nelle, Dave Gardhardt and Bill Marshall, sealed Hilliard's doom.

The Cruisers also ran away with the reserve contest, 34-10.

Hamilton Township's rally ended too soon last week as the Rangers fell short of Marion-Franklin, 32-29, in an effort to provide new coach Wes Mirrick with a debut victory.

TRAILING 15-0 after the first three classes, the Rangers started a comeback with pins by Jim Smales (127), Mark Haeuecke (133) and Eric Bomhard (145) and a decision by Jeff Nelson vaulting H-T into an 18-15 lead.

But the Red Devils closed with three pins in the final four classes with Bob Engleman's draw at 165 supplying the last two Ranger points.

Potential For Greatness

Despite an overwhelming Republican majority, the upcoming session of the 107th General Assembly may not be as pro-administration or as cut and dried as many people seem to think.

Reapportionment, whatever its drawbacks, served one clear purpose — it turned control of the General Assembly, and particularly of the House of Representatives, over to an urban- suburban power structure rather than the old rural bloc.

What that should mean is that Ohio's cities and suburbs, long ignored or pushed around have their chance to benefit from some truly worthwhile and progressive legislation.

Many freshman Republican legislators, although dragged into the Statehouse on Governor Rhodes' coattails, are nonetheless independent enough to have campaigned on some issues Rhodes prefers to keep quiet, such as state aid to education and the inevitable prospect of increased taxes.

The spirited caucuses staged by members of both parties in the House, which saw election of an entirely new leadership group, also tend to indicate that old customs and old power structures have been swept out the door.

It is the hope of The Spectator Newspapers that the 107th General Assembly will live up to its potential and turn into anything but a rubber stamp for the Rhodes administration.

The potential for real productivity is clearly shown.

Help The Newsies

Again this Saturday, a group of dedicated Columbus civic leaders will be out in the cold at street intersections and in shopping areas trying to raise enough money to clothe the thousands of area school children whose families cannot afford to do the job.

The Charity Newsies, in their familiar white coveralls and red and white newspaper bags, are out, as they put it, "One hundred percent for charity."

These Newsies work long and hard to raise enough money to stock their clothing shop on S. High Street — and they make sure that their money goes to help only those children who really need the help.

The Spectator urges Franklin Countians to support the Charity Newsies drive on Saturday.

Ohio's Tax Needs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Dr. George Thatcher, Miami University economist who authored the well-known Thatcher Report on Ohio's tax needs in 1962. It is reprinted from the WRFD Commentator.)

However, the sales tax has an unfortunate way of penalizing persons whose circumstances compel them to spend high percentages of their incomes, that is, the very poor. In other words, the tax can be very regressive in effect, although I think this argument is overplayed. In a study I just completed, the sales tax is regressive on incomes below $2000 and above $10,000 but quite proportional in between. And the majority of Ohio families have incomes between $2000 and $10,000. A more important criticism of the sales tax is that it discriminates particularly against those with declining income, because consumption must be continued as the tax taxes a larger and larger percentage of income as income decreases. Also, the tax penalizes those with large families. And it discriminates among merchants, penalizing retailers of goods while favoring retailers of services. These discriminations become progressively worse as the tax rate increases.

Many groups feel Ohio's revenue needs should be met by broadening the sales tax base to include services. This would not only increase the productivity of the sales tax but would improve its equity. Regressivity would be reduced because the higher income groups spend disproportionate amounts for services. The discrimination against retailers of goods in favor of retailers of services would be eliminated. A tax of three percent on personal services from the sales tax would yield approximately $80 million in additional revenue from the sales tax if the following kinds of services were taxed: laundries, cleaning and dyeing shops, beauty shops, shoeshines, advertisers, credit bureaus, window cleaners, employment agencies, research and testing labs, movies, bowling, billiards, sports promotions, and all types of repair services. These groups would be the most politically feasible to tax. If all services, including medical, dental and legal were taxed, revenue from the sales tax would increase over $300 million a year.

Some argue that the food exemption should be eliminated. But the regressivity of the tax would be much higher if food were taxed, placing a particularly heavy burden on low income families. If food were taxed, revenue would rise more than $100 million a year.

Legislative Landslide

To The Editor:

William J. Buckley Jr. captioned his column on Nov. 4, 1964, "Land Slides Have a Way of Not Staying in Place." The recent elections prove Mr. Buckley couldn't be more right. Regardless of the reasons, for the Republicans or against the Democrats, the results are the same.

With reapportionment, our seven representatives in Franklin County have become one representative in nine separate districts. Some of these men will do a good, or if you will, an excellent job for their communities and the people who elected them. We need such a man in the 61st District. Do we have one?

Mack Pemberton, our representative-elect, has said on numerous occasions he was running for office only because the Republicans asked him to run and they had no one else for the job. He did so little campaigning even the State House got nervous. A couple of weeks before election our party came to his (their own?) aid with money and volunteer workers. Many of these volunteer workers were drafted from the employes at the Court House and didn't know Mack Pemberton before they were drafted. Mack Pemberton has stated he didn't care one way or the other if he won or lost, except for the natural feeling most of us have for wanting to win. As for the honor of representing the people of the 61st District, Mack Pemberton apparently couldn't care less.

I was bowling one evening when Chalmers Wylie, Mack Pemberton and other Republicans came through. Mack Pemberton stood by the desk while his Court House volunteers did his work. He did not walk one foot from there to sell his party or get a vote. It was a downright insult to the politician and worker he came with.

On the other side, Mr. Sensenbrenner put up a better fight than the general public knows. He gave sanction to and worked with a nonpartisan committee. He spoke at every rally he could attend, put on spaghetti dinners, steak fries and public dances. This man did everything possible to talk to the people in our district. He worked hard for the Democratic and Republican vote. He did not campaign on an anti-Republican platform but rather on the idea of what is good for the 61st District. He took a positive approach all the way and was honest and sincere in his desire to represent all the people of the 61st District.

There were many of our active Republican party members who were appalled and insulted by the lack of interest on the part of Mack Pemberton, therefore we chose to side with and work for Richard Sensenbrenner.

Alas, there were just not not enough Republicans willing to study the issues, they chose to pull levers for their party not knowing or caring if they had a man who wanted the job enough to work for it or at it. The "at it" part should be the most important to all of us.

Certainly as Republicans, we cannot approve of the way our state shirks some of its responsibilities, for instance, education.

The Governor stands very low with the Columbus Education Association and the Ohio Education Association, yet Mack Pemberton, an educator, backed by the C.E.A., has stated he stands with the Governor on educational matters. When a member of his committee was asked about this (Mack was not available) he simply shrugged and said, "Politics make strange bedfellows."

Will Mack Pemberton do his job now that our party has let him slide in free? If he has ever done as much as lobby one bill at the Legislature he will know it is a big job, one which calls for a man who has not only ability but time, energy, know-how and willingness.

The Republicans have had a long wait for a victory and are glad it has come but for some of us the victory in the 61st District was no victory at all but rather a gift from our State Headquarters to Mack Pemberton.

The third anniversary of the assassination of John F. Kennedy has passed, and contrary to the hopes of those closest to the late President, the passage of time has brought an ever-increasing preoccupation with the details of that crime.

A flood of books raise questions about the validity of the findings of the Warren Commission. At least one and perhaps two have been serious efforts at analysis, while the others exploit the seemingly unlimited appetite, particularly in Europe, for the conspiracy theory. If in relation to the timing of the shots Lee Harvey Oswald was not the sole assassin, then a second assassin is the agent of a conspiracy still concealed.

While it was farthest from the intention of the author or the members of the Kennedy family who furnished much of the information, a book, by William Manchester, to be published first in four installments in Look magazine in January and then by Harper & Row in March will raise new doubts and uncertainties.

It may mean a widening — possibly even a sharp break — between the Johnson and the Kennedy factions. One of the President's close associates believes the book has "sinister implications." This refers to details of a quarrel between the then Vice-President, Lyndon Johnson, and the President over the Texas trip.

An ironic commentary is that the concept of the book arose from the belief of Mrs. Kennedy, the widow, that if all the relevant material provided by members of the family and close associates were contained in one volume, other authors might be deterred and the flood of books checked. It would, in short, stop the conjecture, rumor, and speculation that seem to have an endless appeal.

An agreement was originally entered into with Manchester, the author of a warmly sympathetic biography of the late President, that his book on the assassination would not be released until after 1968. In a letter last July, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy released the author from that stipulation. The argument was that the objective had not been achieved, since other books on the assassination were being rushed to completion, and it was advisable to come out at the earliest moment with the authentic account.

Mrs. Kennedy is understood to be deeply distressed over the import of publication of certain material made available to the author. An example is a letter she wrote to her husband before the assassination which is said to concern the relationship between the Johnsons and the Kennedys.

It takes little imagination to see what magazine publication will mean. A spate of headlines will rehearse with new details of the awful events of that day three years ago. This will subject the window and her children to a new blaze of publicity and public curiosity, with lacerating memories recalled in every newspaper, radio and television broadcast.

Mrs. Kennedy left Washington and moved to New York because the parade of sightseers past her Georgetown house meant a constant invasion of her privacy. She sought the anonymity of New York. She is a young and beautiful woman trying to lead her own life.

But something more than the fate of an individual or individuals is at issue. The question, being widely asked here, is whether the public good is being served by a constant rehearsal of a monstrous crime.

GOLDWATER

No matter what their labels, at least 90 percent of the Republican Party unites easily and without argument on such basic points as opposing the expansion of the central government while favoring local government and private enterprise.

The overwhelming proof of Republican unity may be seen in the statements being made currently by some Republicans who label themselves moderate.

Any number of commentators, in writing about the plans of these particular Republicans, point to a single proposal as the keystone of their program, a plan whereby the federal government would return a share of tax money directly to the states without strings.

One report says this proposal will be the basic plank in the personal platform of at least one major contender for the Republican Presidential nomination. Other reports emphasize that basically the same proposal will form a major foundation for Republican legislative proposals in the next session of Congress.

That proposal is basic, important and thoroughly Republican.

Many of the same commentators, acknowledging these facts, now try to use this proposal as a wedge with which to split the party. They persist in labeling it a "moderate" proposal, saying that it shows a "progressive" Republican view of solving problems and implying, of course, that "conservative" Republicans could never come up with anything so imaginative and constructive.

Legislatively, the proposal goes back to 1958 when Melvin Laird, the respected chairman of the Republican House Conferences, introduced a bill for federal-state tax-sharing.

On a national Republican basis the proposal, in detail, goes back to the 1964 Presidential campaign. During that campaign, as the party's candidate, I repeatedly emphasized the need to counterbalance the growing power of the central government in Washington. One of my major, specific proposals along those lines was to have the federal government share taxes with the states, returning a certain percentage of money to them — with no strings attached.

Neither Laird nor I need be called any sort of hyphenated Rapublican — moderate, conservative or what-have-you. We are Republicans, period. And the tax-sharing proposal is a Republican proposal, period. Efforts to turn it into a self-serving gesture for anyone who wants to factionalize the party are not worthy of the party or of the proposal.

The Bobby Kennedy for President movement, which has so long been attempting to challenge if not actually to discredit the Johnson Administration from within the Democratic party, is now suffering internal stresses of its own.

Specifically, there seems to be a division of tactics between those enthusiasts who want Sen. Robert Kennedy to go for broke for the Presidency in 1968 and those who think 1972 would be a sounder bet altogether.

The man who, save for Robert Kennedy himself, was the closest to the mind and purposes of the late John F. Kennedy, Ted Sorensen, has now publicly blown the whistle on the more ardent types who dream of pushing Kennedy into a contest for the nomination as early as 1968.

In a speech in New York of important implications, Sorensen has has warned that nothing could be "more stupid than any effort to run Robert F. Kennedy against either President Johnson or Vice-President Humphrey in 1968."

What this means is that the ablest political mind in the Kennedy group is telling his associates that the Democratic party itself could well be beaten in 1968, no matter who would be the Presidential nominee, if the harsh separatism of the Kennedy extremists is not muted fairly soon.

For Sorensen, at least, among the Kennedy partisans has read his political history. To defeat a sitting President for his party's renomination, if he really wants that renomination, is next to impossible. The most recent illustration of this reality was the case of Harry S. Truman in 1948.

If the polls have been cooling off on President Johnson in 1966, they were positively frigid for President Truman back in 1948. A determined and noisy band of Democratic ultra-liberals of that year maneuvered for months to deny Truman renomination, and indeed were flirting to the end with the nation that they would replace him with none other than Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. And when the Democratic National Convention met in Philadelphia, a casual onlooker would have thought the least popular man there was named Harry S. Truman.

But when the voting began, the anti-Truman putsch collapsed not with a bang but with a whimper. There is, of course, in any case no real analogy between Truman's power situation in 1948 and Johnson's prospective power situation in 1968, for at the very lowest reading Johnson will be far stronger two years from now than was Truman two decades ago.

Accordingly, Sorensen's speech should be greatly useful, if needed, to Kennedy himself — who has given no public encouragement to the 1968 extremists and has in fact publicly discouraged them. For Kennedy's basic problem is not so much with his adversaries as with his unwisely doting friends. If his presidential ambitions are ultimately denied, it will be they who have in fact wrecked them. In truth, those aspiring politicians who most closely wrapped themselves around his name in the elections of this November were in nearly every case defeated for their pains.

In a word, Kennedy's political future clearly rests upon two necessities. The first of these is to convince the Democratic professionals generally that he will not allow personal ambitions to overcome his elementary obligation to be a reasonably good party man. The second is that he disassociate himself from the far-out liberals and move back toward the moderately liberal positions in the party which his late brother consistently occupied.

How To Make Yourself Miserable

What happens to old "Eros" editors?

It all depends whether your name is Ginsberg or Greenberg.

One bearing the former tag didn't fare so well, but Dan Greenberg apparently has it made.

The former Illini who got his feet wet up to his ears with the ill-fated "slick" which drew the wrath of the Supreme Court, has turned to a less risky (though still sometimes risque) form of journalism.

When he was in Columbus recently, he delighted a group of women telling them "How To Be Miserable," the title of his latest book, just off Random House Press.

As members of the Columbus Chapter, Brandeis University National Women's Committee (which supports the first western Jewish-founded, non-sectarian university) most had already adopted this morose character who had hit the best-seller lists with "How To be a Jewish Mother."

However, a few, uninitiated to the mitigated joys of motherhood, had not quite gotten the finer points.

But this time his message unfailingly rang a bell.

After all, who does not routinely practice the art of being miserable as they brush their teeth, wondering how long they'll last?

But with Greenberg's tips, one can give up the amateurish approach and become a real pro.

Pounding his premise that one must "worry creatively," he urges little time be spent on any matter that doesn't have the "three dimensions" of exquisite self-torture.

This means, he explained, there must be basis for thinking something may happen; that if it does, the consequences will be dire and, most important of all, a long-drawn out waiting period is required before the outcome will be known.

But as opportunities like this (Sonny flunking out of Yale, medical prognosis "terminal" or a plunging stock market) don't occur in every life, Greenberg concedes many must simply settle for less.

He strongly suggests "nit picking," negative thinking and simply counting up all the people you know who are either younger or more successful than you.

And if everything else fails, make a list of all the things you once had that are no longer yours (a perfect size-12 figure, the diamond you lost, a perfect backswing and the 100 shares of AT and T you inherited from your father might make a good start).

Greenberg also highly recommends "noises in the night" as a handy source of misery.

But here again, creativity is demanded.

The rank amateur will conjure, as the stairs creak with atmospheric changes, visions of a masked burglar after the family jewels.

The more sophisiticated will shudder with the idea of an escaped schizophrenic with paranoidal tendencies armed with a hatchet.

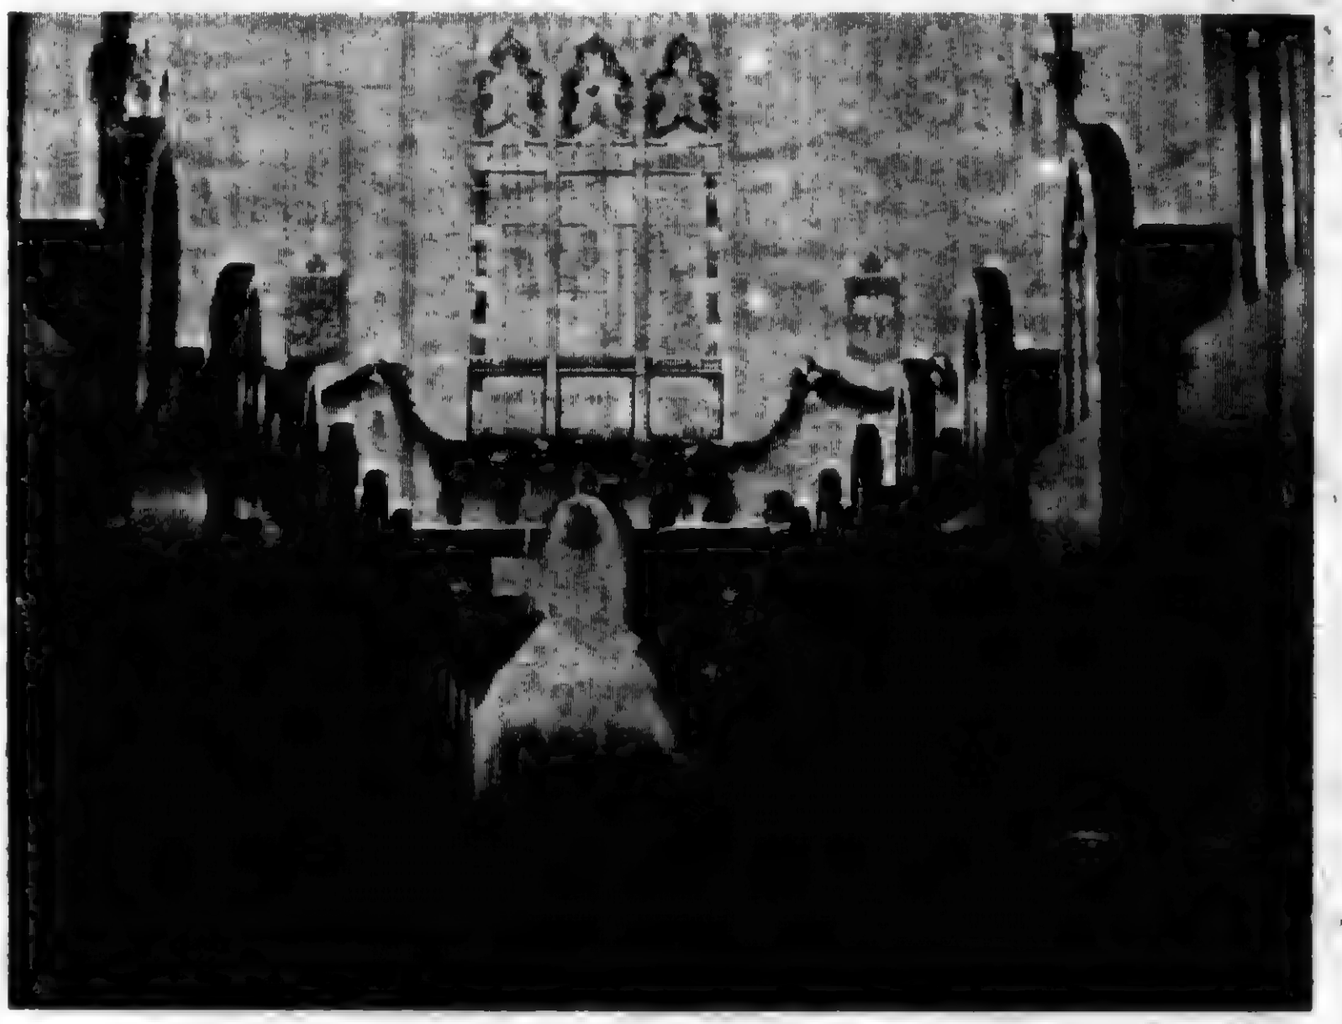
But that is still kid's stuff to the true professional who will be convinced those creaking stairs are heralding the advance of a vampire.

He especially made rapport with the few women who are habitually prompt in keeping appointments.

It follows that those who are prompt will spend a great deal of their time waiting for those who are not.

Greenberg led his audience through the all too-familiar panic that they were (first) in the wrong place; (second) the awaited friend has come and gone and (third) this is his or her way of "telling me our friendship is over."

And finally, as the clock ticks on, one can relish the fact that the bustling lobby or lunch room or bar is filled with persons laughing up their sleeves at someone so publicly abandoned.



Actually probably the reason Greenberg has proved himself a popular writer and promises to be the darling of women's clubs throughout the country is that he leads them to laugh at themselves.

He learned to do it himself several years ago when he realized his student writing was unconsciously aping Salinger's as popularized in "Catcher in the Rye."

Wed to the style, but resisting mimicry, he dashed off "Three Bears in Search of an Author" and whipped it off to Esquire.

TV'S PAM ROGERS
Models Pleated Knit

By URSULA DUBOIS

Rah, rah, rah!

Be a swinger at any of your favorite sporting events. Easy to fashion shells are in constant demand.

The outfit Pam Rogers of NBC television's "Occasional Wife" is modeling is made with the use of two patterns.

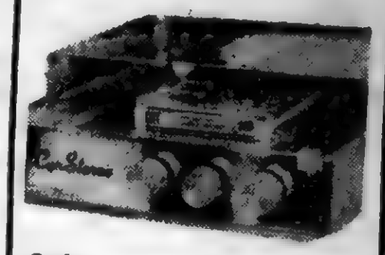
One is shell pattern No. 68. Back and front of the shell are identical and it features a boat neckline. As this shell is so fast to knit, why not make several in various colors! They also look great with capris, pattern No. 135, not shown. It is written for sizes eight through 18, all on one pattern.

Illustrated instructions for pattern No. 68 are written for children in sizes four through 12 and for adults in sizes 12 through 22. All sizes are included on one pattern.

The pleated skirt, pattern No. 98, is made in two pieces. The instructions for the pleats are very simple, yet the finished product will make you look like a pro. Instructions for pattern No. 98 come in sizes eight through 12 for teens and 10 through 20 for adults. All sizes are on one pattern.

To obtain patterns send 50 cents for each, in coin, check, or money order to Ursula duBois, Spectator Newspapers, Box 3307, Van Nuys, Calif. 91407.

Send 15 cents extra for first class mail and special handling.



With so many newcomers to knitting, it is amazing the fright they profess to have when it comes to making a cable in a knitted garment. Yet the cable stitch is an old favorite and one of the easiest to make.

Buy a cable hook from your knitstore. This may be obtained for a few cents. Now you are ready for the test.

Cast on with any yarn 24 stitches. Row 1) Purl 8, knit 1, purl 6, knit 1, purl 8. Row 2) Knit 8, purl 1, knit 6 (on these middle 6 stitches a cable will then be made), purl 1, knit 8. For rows 3, 5, and 7 repeat row 1. For rows 4 and 6 repeat row 2. Now you are on row 8 and ready for a cable stitch. Knit 8, purl 1, slip the next 3 stitches onto your cable hook and hold these to the back of your work, knit the next 3 stitches. Now place the 3 stitches from your cable hook back onto your lefthand needle and knit these 3 stitches. You see how easy it is to make a cable? —Purl 1 and knit 8. Repeat row 1 through row 8 for your cable pattern.

Go to it, knitters. I hope I was able to take the mystery out of a cable stitch.

It's A Mystery

Al Knodel, clerk of Hamilton Local School Board, is asking himself a $60,000 question these days. How did six checks, including that of the master payroll, in the amount of approximately $50,000 end up in a trash receptacle at the Great Southern Shopping Center? When the checks, signed by Knodel but yet awaiting the signature of the board president, Jim Strouse, were discovered missing about two weeks ago, payment was cancelled and new checks issued. Recently Knodel recovered the checks from police, unmutilated and not soiled, still in their original envelope. According to the clerk, the only indication that the checks had been tampered with was that one was out of numerical order. He states police have no clues upon which to base an investigation.

FEARLESS PREDICTIONS

That "new method" looked pretty good for a first attempt that netted the "Fearless One" a spiffy 27-6 total. How's that for openers?

CAGE DATE CHANGED

Wehrle Memorial basketball coach Bob Fowle announced this week that the Wolverines' Dec. 10 cage meeting with South's Reserves has been cancelled.

Skiba Juniors Plan Big Year

The Skiba Juniors, a ski club with the youngster in mind, invites all interested skiers to attend its meeting Monday, Dec. 12 (7:30 p.m.) at the Gloria Restaurant.

The club, in its second year, offers young people a chance to ski regularly (Saturdays, 10 to 12 consecutive weeks at nearby ski areas) with planned instruction and supervision.

This year Skiba Juniors will get the opportunity to compete in a racing program.

More information on the club and its activities can be obtained by attending the Dec. 12 meeting or calling Skiba (889-1163) at 6009 Avery-rd.

Leaders Plan Party

Scout leaders and Den Mothers of the Mohawk District will attend the annual Christmas Roundtable meeting Dec. 8 at Buckeye Steel Casting, 2211 Parsons-av.

Frank Valentine, district commissioner, states that activities will start promptly at 7:30 p.m. with the monthly program theme presentations, "Highway to History" and "Realistic First Aid."

Special Mohawk patches will be awarded to the leaders to present to members of their packs and troops, and eligible leaders will be honored with their own special Mohawk recruiter "Koffee Kups."

Details will be released for the holiday theater party scheduled for the afternoon of Tuesday, Dec. 27 at the Markham. Admission is free for all new members.

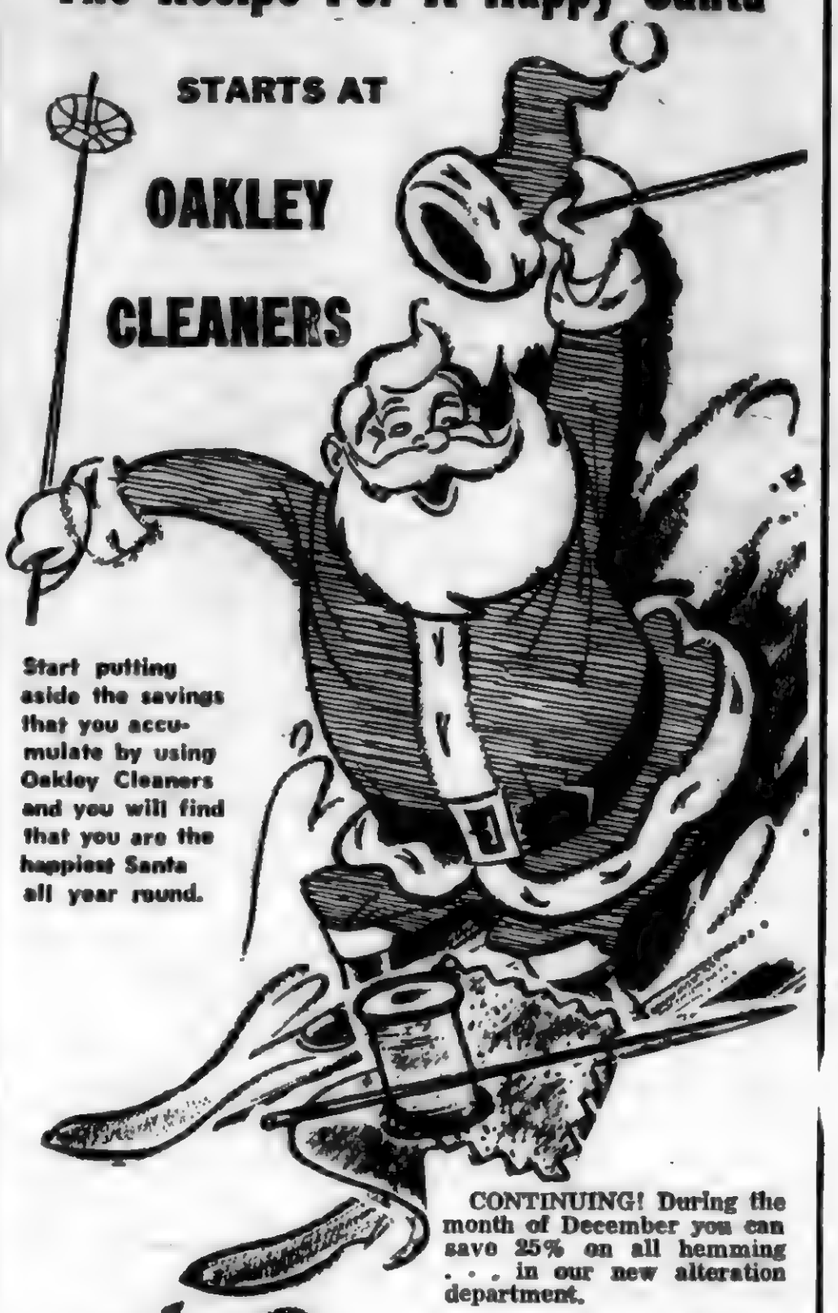
Parking will be reserved in the first two rows of the guarded parking lots at Buckeye.

H. Meadows Lists Prizes For Contest

The Home Decorating Contest sponsored by the Hamilton Meadows Civic Association will be judged between 7 and 9 p.m. Dec. 21.

All entries will be judged on the basis of aptness and originality (rather than on the amount of electricity used) and prizes of $15, $10 and $5 will be given for the three most decorative homes.

In addition a $5 prize will be given for the prettiest windows, a like one for the prettiest door and two more $5 prizes for the two homes showing the most originality.



CCL PLANS PARTY

Levis and Lace CCL will hold its annual Christmas party and gift exchange at the home of Mrs. Howard Burns, 1109 S. Champion-av, Monday, Dec. 19. Mrs. William McGovern, 2782 E. Livingston-av, will be cohostess.

PIN NEWS

Keglers' Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

Gals — plan now to join in the Ohio WBA tourney to be held in Columbus Feb. 4 through Apr. 16 at Western Lanes.

Columbus WBA, as hostess, is planning big things — including a 500 team entry from Franklin County.

WOW! The 299-786 by Bill Hawbecker really put him on top of this season's series list.

Then add other 700's — Bo Graham (701) at Main Lanes, Dave Hoyle (726) at Wink-O, Ed Thomas (721) at Amos and Harley Lewis (716) at Rainbow. So all the lanes are having them.

Consider too the distaff 645 by Jerry Baker at 3-C, the 274 by Ginnie Lane, Loretta Linhart's 249-657, 620 by Silvia Fillipi, Lib Miller's 609, Nancy Tatum's 606 and 601 by Annie Shaw.

THE 1967 ABC tournament in Miami Beach, Fla., will run Mar. 4 through May 7.

Don't discount what the weight of a ball may be doing to your scores. This columnist for some time has been suffering from an arthritic condition of the right arm and a badly bruised pride for her low average.

A new ball with a reduction in weight of two full pounds brought the startling results in the next league play of 50 pins over average in each of the games of the series.

TAKE NO particular pride in the fact that you throw a "heavy" ball. It is more important to be accurate.

Pro men will vie for $800,000 in cash prizes this winter in a 15-city stint, ending with the $100,000 Firestone PBA Tournament of Champions at Akron Apr. 1.

Wayne Zahn ended high PBA money winner last season with a total of $54,720 in three major victories.

SHOULD YOU use a bowling glove? Maybe. These are valuable to help keep a straight hand or wrist, cushion a sore hand, or correct a faulty curve or hook.

But they are not "cure-alls." Before purchasing, talk to your pro-shop owner. He can help you decide whether you really need a glove or not.

Sometimes an elastic bandage on wrist or elbow will do more good to help gain control when weak muscles are concerned.

AND DON'T try them out first in league play — you need to get used to their use. Don't jeopardize an average while experimenting.

PAINTS SELF IMAGE AS FUND DRIVE BEGINS

PPB Refutes 'Willing Helper' Tag

A two-week fund drive in an attempt to meet the requirements of a $78,660 budget has been launched by the People's Poverty Board.

Actually contributions are being solicited by the Community Organization Foundation of Franklin County, an agency which handles financial matters for the PPB.

(ALTHOUGH the boards of the two organizations are nearly identical, the COFF was first heard of last summer when a $5,000 grant was obtained from the Aaron Norman Foundation of New York, the by-laws of which specifically deny grants to organizations political in nature. The PPB claims to be political, educational and social.)

Information released by PPB this week states that individuals, business, labor and other groups will be asked for financial support and that neighborhood clubs and councils will be asked to run joint fund-raising affairs with proceeds to be shared with PPB.

Father Thomas Duffy, a PPB member, is quoted in the December issue of the Newsletter of the Central Ohio Chapter, National Association of Social Workers, on the subject of financing.

IT IS STATED that he believes that PPB is free from the limitations placed on a federal agency and responsibility to controlling interest for financial backing as "all financial resources have come from donations."

Curtis Brooks, director of Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization which administers federal poverty funds locally, also was quoted in the Newsletter concerning the PPB's role.

While deeming its emphasis on citizen participation at the grass roots "refreshing," he states "PPB has been criticized highly because some say they outlived their usefulness, now that the poverty program is going in the right direction. They are now concerning themselves with other issues, all of which are important to the human rights revolution in Columbus."

"IT HAS PROVIDED a necessary force to the poverty program in Columbus — a most necessary irritative force. It is designed primarily to insure that we do not become one of those exclusive institutions excluding people we purport to serve."

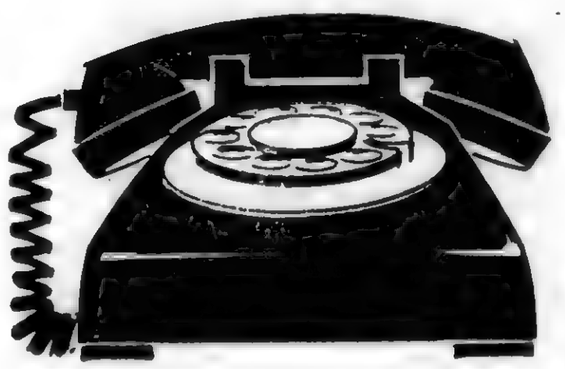
Brooks' evaluation of PPB does not seem to agree too well with its own self-image, as represented in the latest communique to news media.

It is stated that the board sees its role as being wider than just that of "a willing helper" to the anti-poverty program.

It quotes itself as filling an alleged organization and information gap. "Through staff resources and research plus citywide contacts, the PPB will help neighborhood groups to become informed on politics, welfare rights, housing and urban renewal and how to get the most of the consumer dollar."

TO THIS END the $7,000 has been budgeted for a staff director, $4,500 for a secretary, $20,000 for four technical assistants, $32,000 for eight community workers, plus part-time help.

No mention was made in their plea for funds of the stand taken at previous open meetings that the poor must band together and "get what we want" through all available means.



Some of these means suggested in the past included burning pamphlets at appropriate welfare officials' homes, picketing, boycotting schools and/or sending children to school without shoes.

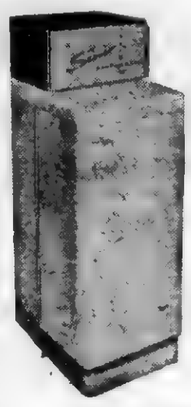
And So It Grows

By knowing a bit of the wood cutters' language, you'll be able to compare local prices of firewood. For example, by buying a standard cord you'll get a stack of wood four feet by four feet by eight feet. A short cord, or rick, measures four feet high and eight feet long, but varies in width depending on the length of a stick. So, a dealer might sell an 18-inch rick, a 24-inch one, or any other size.



If you live a long distance from the source of firewood, you might find the compressed sawdust logs more economical as well as convenient. They're clean and easy starting. Don't worry about what kind of wood the sawdust logs contain, because equal sized logs will burn about the same length of time. When buying regular wood logs, generally you get more for your money if you purchase such hardwoods as oak, hickory, or sugar maple.

DiSalle To Autograph Book At Lazarus

MICHAEL DiSALLE

Michael V. DiSalle, former Ohio Governor and board chairman of The Spectator Newspapers, will appear in Lazarus book department today to autograph and discuss his new book, "Second Choice."

"Second Choice" is the story of the United States vice-presidency and the men who have served in it. DiSalle, a prominent figure on the national political scene, tells why today the number two office, although of crucial importance, is still not the second most important and points out that the careers of second choices such as Andrew Johnson, Theodore Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and Lyndon Johnson have become a cross-section of American history.

In addition to serving as Governor, DiSalle served under President Truman as Administrator of Economic Stability. He served under President Kennedy as one of four Governor-members of the President's Advisory Committee on Inter-governmental Affairs.

Certainly Mattathias Didn't Do Battle For A Pseudo Christmas

By JANE ROBINSON
Spectator Staff Writer

Thoughtful Christian parents often ask themselves if their children are growing up more acutely aware of Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer than of the Star of Bethlehem.

Equally thoughtful Jewish parents are asking if their children are forgetting the 2,000 year old miracle at Modin as they celebrate the eight-day Chanukah.

Marking it as "tragic and ludicrous," Paul Wacks, educational director at the Temple Tifereth Israel, concedes that in some homes, parents, in self-defense, have allowed Chanukah to become an eight-day answer to Santa Claus.

For centuries, eight days in December have been devoted to prayers of thanksgiving for the miracle of Modin in Judea when those of Jewish faith rebelled against pagan use of their temple.,

Originally led by Mattathias and his five sons, in 165 B.C., the uprising that became a fight for religious freedom not only for Judism but for all faiths, grew into an army that eventually entered Jerusalem and rekindled the eternal flame which had been extinguished.

Today, the lighting of the candles of the Menorah, one each night of Chanukah, symbolizes the ancient crusade.

But many believe the wholesale gift-giving that has developed is as inappropriate as the erection of a Christmas tree by one brought up in Judism.

Wacks admits that even the synagogue has given tacit support to the custom with the temple gift shop moving into larger quarters at this time of year.

He points out that at least the gifts, even wrapped in the traditional blue and gold wrapping and bearing a Chanukah greeting card, are those with a religious education theme.

But, the temple shop is not the only store in town.

And Jewish children can be just as demanding as the Gentile small-fry who pore over endless letters to Santa Claus.

One mother and father of four finally curtailed the gift-giving emphasis on purely practical grounds.

Presents for four youngsters for eight nights straight was a bit more than the budget could stand.

According to Wacks, it has taken about 15 years for the custom to get out of hand.

Chanukah is an ancient and sacred holiday, and the feeling is apparently deep-rooted that a sacrilege shall not be made of it.

It appears those who are trying to commercialize Chanukah should be satisfied with the example set at Rosh Hashana—the Jewish New Year.

No time-honored tradition is broken with a simple "Happy New Year" card.

PLANS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Three-Day Gift Sale Scheduled

A three-day Christmas bazaar is planned Dec. 14-16 by the Mary, Dorcus and Ruth Circles of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the South Methodist Church, 179 E. Morrill-av.

With the door opening daily at 10 a.m., lunch will be served from 11 until the 5 p.m. closing hour featuring homemade vegetable soup, chili, sandwiches, pie and coffee.

The gift items are guaranteed to make Christmas shopping a pleasure and Christmas decorations, baked goods and fancy Christmas cookies and candy will be offered. A white elephant and book sale are also promised.

At 2 p.m. each day, the bustle of the bazaar will cease for a 20-minute session of singing old Christmas carols, according to Mrs. William McCleary, chairman of Mary Circle who is also serving as general chairman.

WORTHINGTON SOCIETY SELLS BOOK

Frugal Housewives Take Note

By MARIANNE TOMLINSON
Spectator Fashion Editor

Are you ashamed of economy? If not, the book you need is "The American Frugal Housewife." It's written especially for ladies like you and is filled with all sorts of suggestions on how to economize.

After all, didn't Franklin say "A fat kitchen maketh a lean will' and didn't someone else decide that "Economy is a poor man's revenue; extravagance a rich man's ruin?"

Of course they did and in view of the discontent demonstrated by housewives from coast to coast over high prices, this book should sell like hotcakes . . . which would make the Worthington Historical Society mighty happy. You see, this is one of their "finds" and is a copy of a book of the early 1800's written by Lydia Maria Child.

Maria Child was quite a remarkable lady. In a day and age when it was practically impossible for a woman to gain recognition, she worked as a newspaperwoman, magazine editor, novelist, poet and reformer. She was the foremost woman author of her day turning out novels, stories, poems and stories for children, books on etiquette, a history of world religions and . . . get this . . . a historical survey on the status of women (I'm afraid she'd be disappointed to know they still haven't figured that one out. She was even the unsung author of "Over the river and through the woods, to grandmother's house we go . . ."

No doubt the poem was a nostalgic reference to her childhood in New England, where she learned housewifery and the secrets of woodlore and herbs . . . and it's from this first-hand experience that she writes in "The Frugal Housewife."

Now how does all this tie in with a fashion column? Very simply. Today's high prices are not limited to the grocery store. There is also a crying need for economy when it comes to clothing the family. Mrs. Child has some good suggestions . . .

- Cheap as stockings are, it is good economy to knit them. Hose that are knit wear twice as long as woven ones.
- Patchwork is good economy and a few shillings may be saved by using scraps of gown, curtains, etc.
- In the country where grain is raised, it is a good plan to teach children to prepare and braid straw for their own bonnets and their brothers' hats.
- Buy your woolen yarn in quantities from someone in the country whom you can trust. The thread stores makes profits on it, of course.

Mrs. Child also had strong ideas about health and beauty and she advised the ladies of 1827 thusly . . .

- Rise early. Eat simple food. Take plenty of exercise. Never fear a little fatigue.
- Wear shoes that are large enough. It not only produces corns, but makes the feet misshapen, to cramp them.
- Let those who love to be invalids drink strong green tea, eat pickles, preserves and rich pastries.
- Too frequent use of an ivory comb injures the hair. Do not sleep with the hair frizzled or braided.

If you'd like to learn more . . . or would like a charming, inexpensive ($2.50) Christmas gift, ask for "The Frugal Housewife" at your favorite bookstore. All profits go to restore the Orange Johnson home in Worthington. When the house is completed, it will be the only restored home of an early settler, on its original site, and open to the public.

- You can lease a Mustang with lots of extras.
- Or you can lease one plain.
- You can pay a bit more and choose a plan that includes insurance and maintenance.
- Or really, you can choose any kind of plan that you'd like.
- When it comes to leasing a Mustang we're as flexible as you are.

Decision—

ture were jelled only after bids for the junior high site came in at a prohibitive cost, and architects' estimates for an addition to the junior high were similarly priced.

To dispel any idea that the central office space is a luxury item, Williams described the arrangements currently in use to house the administrative staff.

He has been using the conference room in the junior high, an area needed for teacher-student and teacher-parent conferences and for faculty and student meetings.

THE ASSISTANT superintendent, Ralph Hudson, is operating from the health clinic in Asbury Elementary, and Don Mershon, building co-ordinator, is now in the high school in a cubbyhole designed for janitorial supplies.

The office of the clerk, Charles Dean, is in the file room of the junior high.

Williams further explained that an administrative session is currently a major operation with not only personnel, but records, scattered over three buildings.

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

"The Physicists," which is no doubt the best produced play so far in community theater, is now in production at Players Club for members and guests. For those who are holding membership cards, don't stray from this one. The dates are Dec. 8, 9 and 10.

Drama, which is not being staged enough in community theater, is usually the hardest to present to an audience, especially when a club takes on Friedrich Durrenmatt, the author of "The Physicists." It seems when a drama is produced, theater advocates talk longer and remember longer the play in comparison with comedies.

The action of the play takes place at "Les Cerisiers," a sanatorium for the insane. Three physicists, claiming insanity, become prisoners of their occupation through the help of a hunchbacked spinster psychiatrist. Insanity runs wild through many scenes, yet who is really sane or insane will leave the audience basking in thought long after the trip home.

Without a doubt, Robert Rathbun is the main lead as Johann Wilhelm Mobius. He is truly "in character" and helps the audience to easily understand his character—which is not an easy task by far.

The other two inmates, Robert Chosy as Newton and Angelo Dragonette as Einstein, are believable as the mad scientists and are certainly polished actors.

As for the women cast members, Linda Forbes and Lynn Roth are as excellent as their characters will allow. Both women succeed in being ugly in looks and character with fine acting as a contributing factor.

Gallery Players' 'Do-Re-Me' An Audience Charmer

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Spectator Entertainment Editor

A musical is without a doubt an audience charmer whether good or bad. "Do-Re-Me" which is now being presented by Gallery Players at the Jewish Center has a large cast with small facilities, bringing about the use of an "apron" with "wings" for this show.

The set is creative with the bedroom scenes being rolled onto the "apron" (a built stage extending the width and depth of the original stage) by a quick and lively stage crew. Fantastic scene changes were of professional quality.

Several eye sores are immediate and are certainly distracting in the production. The most unappealing to this reviewer is the unpainted framework. Other distractions include weak singing and orchestra.

These are important things, yet the acting is good, directing is excellent, and above all, the feeling of show business is truly apparent from such names as Abe Green, Sue Kaye, Bart Loomis, John Crawford, Harold Cohen, Cynthia Robbins, Eddie Kaye and Lillian Hubert.

The play concerns the heartwarming story of a nobody, "Hubert Cram," grasping for fame the quick and easy way through various schemes which always fail.

There are 20 musical numbers with only six sounding good. These are "All of My Life," by Abe Green; "Cry Like The Wind" by Cynthia Robbins; "Ambition;" "What's New At The Zoo;" "It's Legitimate" and "Waiting" by Sue Kaye.

The director, Harold Eisenstein, stages a beautiful musical with much stage business going on all the time, which really keeps the audience on its toes.

There are three performances yet, today, tomorrow and Sunday.

Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. For information or reservations, phone 231-2731.

Handel's 'Messiah' On Tap At OWU Concert

All you need to wrap up your Christmas shopping

Now there's no excuse to put off your Christmas shopping. All you need is your shopping list, your City National BankAmericard, and you can "charge it" at more than 1,000 stores and businesses throughout Franklin County.

It's easier to buy things with your BankAmericard than it is with money. There's no fuss or fret or frazzled "shopping nerves" . . . Christmas shopping is fun again. And, you have more time to really enjoy the Holiday.

You don't need cash when you use your BankAmericard. No counting out dollars purchase by purchase, or writing out separate checks. Instead, you write just one check to cover everything . . . on a single monthly statement. You won't have to pay until after Christmas, and you can even spread your payments up to 20 months . . . with no special arrangements needed.

When you use your BankAmericard you don't have to limit your shopping to a few stores or to one area. This Christmas you can shop wherever you fancy . . . all over Franklin County, and choose from a 1,000-store selection.

So, if you've rounded off your gift list . . . relax. The hardest part's over, the rest is easy. With your City National BankAmericard, the all purpose credit card, your Christmas shopping is practically done.

POLICE CHIEF Virgil Peters can lay down the law to creatures bigger than the local juvenile delinquents, and the eight-point buck pictured above learned this fact the hard way.

IT WASN'T AN EASY BUCK FOR POLICE CHIEF PETERS

Mrs. Virgil Peters, wife of Obetz's police chief, is one woman who isn't a "hunting widow."

When Peters takes off to make like Nimrod, the whole family goes along.

BUT THIS year after a rugged weekend spent tenting on a mountain top near Hot Springs, Va., the family, including the couple's sons, returned to Obetz with little to show for their efforts but a broom Peters had manufactured from grass and a stout tree limb and a family-wide yen for a good hot bath.

But Obetz's police chief not give up too easily—he'll stay with it until he gets his man or his buck.

Mounting the truck he uses for his frequent expeditions he headed back to them thar hills, armed with his trusty 30-0-6.

BY NOON last Wednesday he was trailing a herd and soon bended in on a big buck.

Breaking the eight-pointer's neck with his first shot, he finished him off with a shot in the heart.

And then was when the real work began.

WEIGHING about 200 pounds, the deer proved too much for the pole Peters trussed him to, and it was a half-day's job to haul the critter out of the hollow where he'd been downed.

When Peters drove triumphantly back to his hearth side, the family was really impressed with his kill, but really not particularly surprised.

After all, Dad has brought home the venison in nine of his dozen tries since 1955.

FORTUNATELY the family is not addicted to game and Mrs. Peters has no serious qualms about dusting the antlers of a taxidermist's reincarnation.

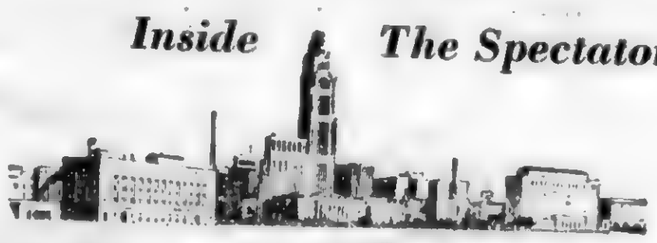
Two Make Honorary

Roger Hicks, Elder Road, Canal Winchester, and Edward Casner, 390 Westport-dr, Groveport, are among the 40 OSU freshmen whose high scholastic averages have earned them election to Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman scholarship honorary fraternity. They were initiated last week before a banquet at the Ohio Union. Each new member received a gold key and a life-membership certificate. Eligibility was established a 3.5 or better grade average during the first quarter or for the first three quarters of registration while carrying at least 13 hours.

Keith In Bellefontaine

Delmas Keith of Groveport has been named assistant superintendent of the Bellefontaine City School System. Keith, who served as principal at Brice and Edwards Elementaries in 1963-64 and at Asbury in 1964-65 before accepting a position with a textbook publishing firm, was elected to the Madison School Board in 1965. He currently plans to maintain his Groveport residency.



Sgt. Dalton Honored

S/Sgt. Herman E. Dalton of LAFB has been awarded the Air Force Commendation medal for duty at Pleiku Air Base in Viet Nam. His honor came in recognition of "the superior professional skill and leadership shown in repairing major damage to assigned aircraft while serving as non-commissioned officer in charge of the repair and reclamation section at Pleiku." Sgt. Dalton, his wife, Joyce and their three children live at 6503 Lockbourne-rd, Lockbourne.

Groveport Insurance Rates Due For Hike

Groveport's grace period is up with the Ohio Inspection Bureau, the agency that determines fire ratings for the village.

In May the board gave the village six months to come up with some answers on the Bureau's demand for a third well with standby power, a determination of possible leaks in the water system and purchase of some minor items of equipment.

THE ALTERNATIVE was a change from classification six to seven which will mean an estimated $2 annual hike in insurance rates for every taxpayer.

Only the stipulation concerning equipment was heeded and Mayor Robert Baer has been informed the board intends to downgrade the Groveport fire protection rating.

Baer seemed to take little comfort that the old rating can be reinstated if and when the improvements are made.

HE STATED frankly that he was irked that the Board of Public Affairs has let the matter slide.

Council expects a few taxpayers to be irked about this matter, but anticipates more annoyance to arise from the house numbering ordinance that was passed by Council Monday night.

Letters will be sent out to villagers (chiefly those on Tallman, Madison and Kessler Streets) whose house numbers have been changed for the sake of consistency. Councilman Mickey McGuire who revised the house number maps, conceded he may wish he had an unlisted number before it is over, but intends to stick to his guns as the haphazard numbering is hopelessly confusing to everyone except the particular residents involved.

ROUTINE business included adoption of a mutual aid pact with other Franklin County law enforcement agencies and of a county-wide radio network—two issues given prior council approval.

Part-time employment of Paul Raver, Jr., and Ronald Arnette as general maintenance workers for the street department was okayed as well as the request of Mrs. Mary Nicholson for installation of a street light on the north end of Center Street near her home.

The street committee was also authorized to place "No Parking signs on the south side of Main Street 60 feet west of Walnut and east to Darfus Funeral Home.

BAER ASSIGNED Council President Frank Smith (also chairman of the finance committee) to audit the costs of extending the water mains 1,100 feet north along College Street to the new Central Office building recently purchased by the Board of Education.

Jim Young, whose property benefited from the extension, was general contractor for the project and shared the cost with the city.

Smith's agreeing to burn the midnight oil on the audit amused council and others who had watched Young and Smith feud during their shared term as councilmen — a feud that failed to die when Young vacated his seat.

BOARD BUYING ADJACENT SITES

After reviewing appraisals from three real estate agents on three parcels of land adjacent to the Canal Winchester school, the Board of Education authorized their purchase at a special meeting.

The board then employed Mrs. Helen Tedrow to represent it in the acquisition of these properties.

She has been instructed to report at the next meeting of the board, Dec. 15.

UNTIL THAT time it is a matter of speculation whether the proposal will be welcomed by the owners.

Actually the matter presents alternatives similar to that of a Hobson choice.

With a school district enjoying the right of eminent domain, an unwilling seller has no alternative but to give up his property.

THE LAW, however, determines that the price paid is a just one.

Recent court opinions have eliminated the nuisance value of a property holder holding out for an exorbitant price as the government agency can proceed with acquisition of the property with a disputed price being settled at leisure in the courts.

In other action the board authorized painting of the gymnasium by the Juniper Decorating Co., and purchase of a new cyclerama (the back drop on a semi-circular track which curtains the auditorium from the gymnasium area).

THE MAIN item on the Dec. 15 agenda, in addition to Mrs. Tedrow's report, is the consideration of the bids on the investment bonds the school will issue for the new construction okayed by the voters at the November election.

Blacklick Foreclosures Resume Abnormal Rate

After a few weeks of relative stability in Blacklick Estates, the foreclosure rate in the area has again reached a rate much higher than is usually experienced in such a subdivision.

On Dec. 10, the following properties were sold by the sheriff on the Court House steps: 3512 Torwood; 3574 Tremaine-rd; 3681 Tyler-dr; 3579 Clearwater-dr, and 3662 Rodell-dr.

Two more residences, 3900 Islenfield-rd and 5072 Wymore-dr, are slated for sale Friday, Dec. 30.

According to one news source who asks not to be identified, FHA has refused platting for further subdivisions in the area because of the abnormal foreclosure rate.

Individual foreclosures have been common during the past year in Blacklick, but not until recently has multiple sale of both finished and unfinished homes in the area been advertised.

SPORTING

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Now that the 1966 football season has found its own special niche in the Great Scorer's record book, sportswriters over the country are voicing their grumbles about an alarming degree of difficulty in being granted that most special of all audiences—the post-game interview with the grid coach.

With college football already towering giant that it is and coaches becoming more and more difficult to see, it seems to indicate the need for a public relations man to serve as a "go - between" betwixt the moody coach and the nosey sportswriters.

Wittenmeier

WE BELIEVE that eventually an afternoon such as the following might unfold:

A large midwestern university's football team has been solidly walloped by its arch-rival, 52-0.

The giant stadium is vacant except for a small group of sportswriters, huddled together for warmth outside a small door leading to the coaches' room.

SUDDENLY a door opens and a smiling figure in a gray-flannel suit appears:

"Good afternoon gentlemen —or should I say 'good evenin'g" he says, noting a full moon, balancing neatly on a stadium tower.

"Look buddy — we've been out here for two hours and 36 minutes. We've all got deadlines to meet. What gives?"

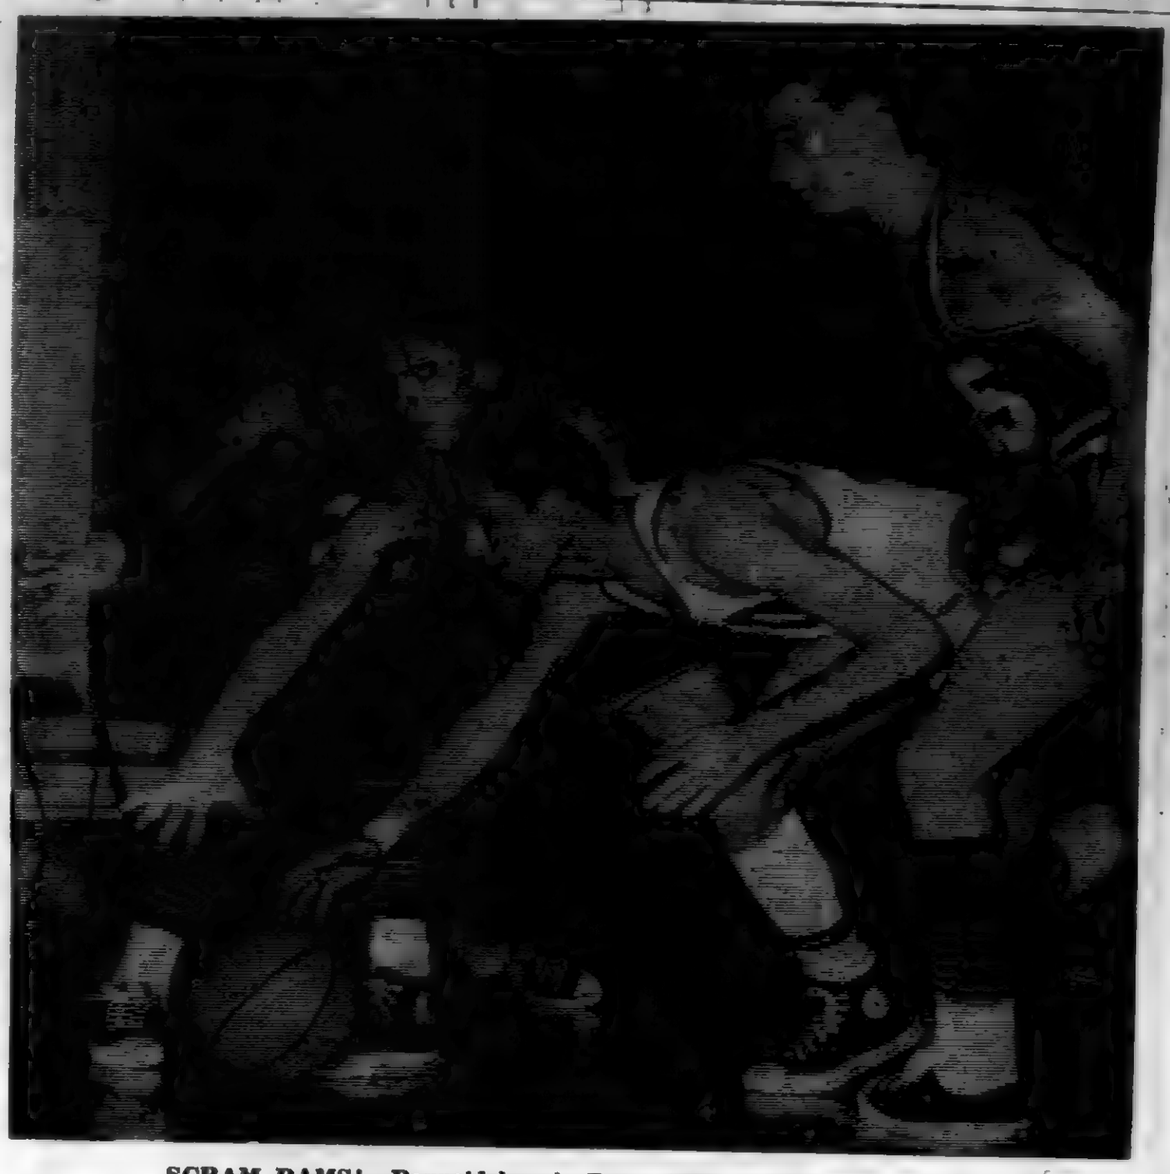
"SORRY ABOUT that. Coach has been showing films of the '57 season — when we won them all, you remember — to a busload of eighth-graders we brought in from Michigan to see the game."

"I would have been with you much sooner but Coach thought it would be a good idea for me to bring them all inside after the first quarter and play 'Pin the Tail on the Alumni President.

"Now if you'll all write your questions down on those forms, we can get started."

A FEW of the writers grumble something about "managed news" as they scrawl out their questions.

"I do hope we don't have any problems this week, gentlemen. After all, I think we'd all agree that the question about that nasty penalty last week was a little uncalled for. Let's keep the waves smooth, shall we?"



With blue-pencil in hand, he looks over the questions.

"NOW HERE—this is what I mean. You fellows know we never use this kind of dirty, six-letter words. The UPI man will have to scratch f-u-m-b-l-e from his list."

"Fine. Very good, Chronicle. I'm putting you down for another set of University water tumblers.

"Gentlemen, we've got a little surprise for you today. Coach was so pleased with your stories last week that he's granting your 47 seconds each. I don't think a little 'hip, hip' would be out of place, gentlemen."

Indians Meet Eagles In 'Must' Tilt; TV Five Faces Hartley, Walnut Ridge

New Albany's once-licked Eagles face Canal Winchester Friday night in key FCL action for both.

The Indians, stopped by St. Mary 60-54, last Friday for their first loss will have to overcome a size problem that West Jefferson's Mike Tyree cut down with 37 points last weekend.

IN OTHER area action slated for Friday: Gahanna handled by Westerville 61-60 in Mid-Eight league action, will try to get on the right footing against Marysville in league play.

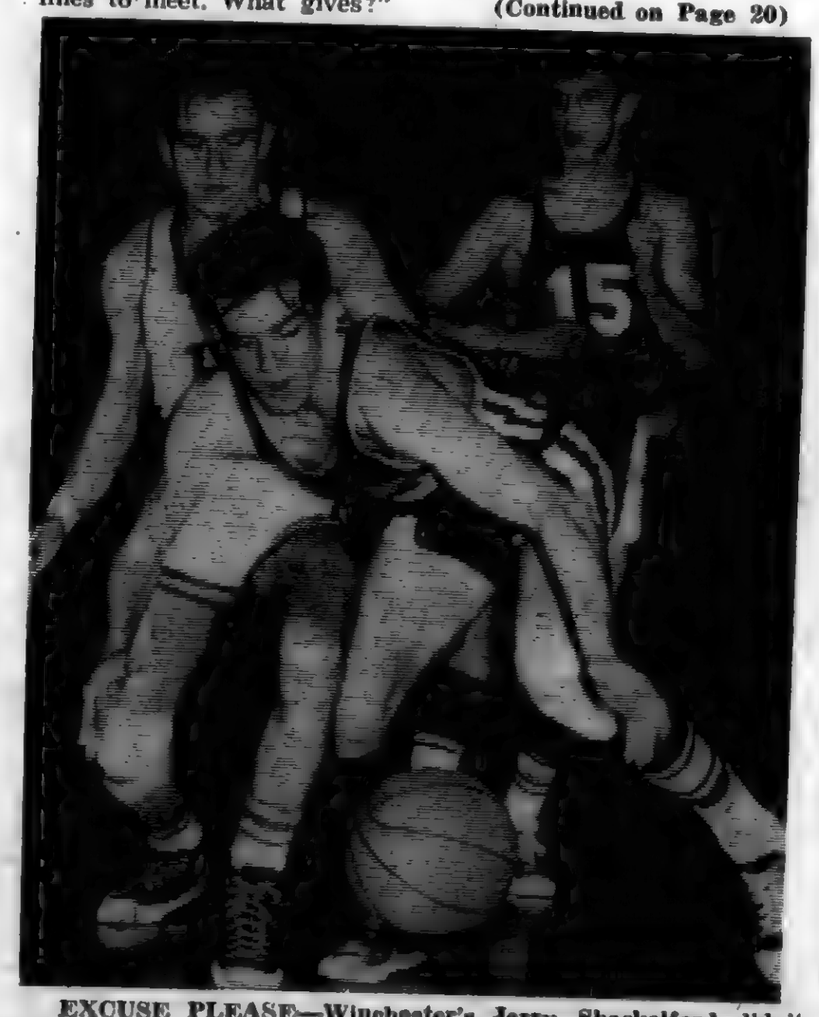
Teays Valley has a load full of non-league trouble facing City member Walnut Ridge and meeting Catholic defending champion Hartley Saturday both on away courts.

HAMILTON Township plays Whitehall with a date with Watterson on Saturday while Groveport sees Westerville Friday night in loop play.

Canal Winchester travels to Logan Elm and Bexley to Gahanna in other Saturday action.

CANAL WINCHESTER got a 27-point scoring effort from Dick Whitmer in the loss to St. Mary, in a game that the Rams held the lead for the whole way.

In the fourth period Canal cut out a 40-35 Ram lead to a 46-45 advantage fell five points behind quickly, never regaining balance.



Average-wise, Kim Black lines up in the first slot with a near 16.0 mark with Whitmer and Argobright following close behnd.

HARTLEY'S Dick Geyer feels that stopping Rod Teets in the pivot and Mike Stone from the forward slot is a must in handling Rus Gregg's TV bunch and avenging the Vikings' 59-54 win over the Hawks last year.

Geyer looks for a tight man-to-man defense with a patterned offensive that has averaged 64 points a game while the defense has limited opponents to a 54-point mark.

THE HAWKS' credentials look like this: recordwise they stand at 2-2 with the offensive averaging 56.1 for the defense allowing 58.2 for the four games.

Top point performers of the week were West Jefferson's Mike Tyree, whose 37-point total lifted the Roughriders over tall New Albany, 92-73, Brookhaven's Tom Shoaf, who banged in 35 points in the Bearcat 93-73 loss to Eastmoor, who hit for 32 points in West's 7970 win over South, and Canal Winchester's Dick points in the Indians' 60-54 loss to St. Mary.

Falcon Tourney, Two Triangulars Highlight Schoolboy Wrestling Card

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Franklin Heights' annual Holiday Invitational, one of the area's number one early-season wrestling "barometers," will field the strongest eight-squad lineup in four seasons Saturday, according to Falcon host, Bob Twiss.

F-H, impressive in early matches this season, should get a severe test from Eastmoor (pre-season favorite for City League title), Arlington and last year's tourney winner West.

OTHER SQUADS vying for invitational honors will be Pleasant View, Grove City, Grandview and Jonathan Alder.

Prelims will get underway at 1 p.m. with consolations and finals starting at 7:30 p.m.

Besides a team trophy, individual cups will go to the 11 weight class champions with medals presented to second and editorials . . .

Food For Thought

It's been a long time since Columbus police have solved a major murder.

The list of unsolved crimes is a long and undistinguished one. The names read like pages out of old history by this time — Loren Bollinger, Mary Margaret Andrews, Chester Scowden, Claude Quisenberry and more.

Last week, the Division of Police got a major break when a 23-year-old drifter walked up to two West Side patrolmen and confessed to a church burglary. Hours later, he was charged with the slaying of Chicago theologian Robert Spike.

But the suspect's confession may be suspect since he is a former mental patient, and that confession is all detectives have to go on. He claims he tossed the murder weapon into a trash can near the site of the killing, but at the time of the crime police claimed they had unsuccessfully searched every trash can in the area.

Last weekend, three members of a Hilltop family were found shot to death. One's throat had ben cut. Police say they have no clues.

The Spectator feels that somehow the Columbus Police Department is missing the boat. We realize fully that police work is tiring, tricky and often frustrating. But murders are solved in other cities with regularity.

Why not here?

Care, Caution, Courtesy

There's an old adage that you can overdo a good thing, but The Spectator doesn't feel that applies to the message of traffic safety during this holiday season.

The collision that claimed three lives on Demorest Road Sunday night should serve as a tragic example of what can happen when courtesy and caution are thrown to the winds.

The Christmas and New Year's weekends are traditionally among the worst of the year as far as traffic deaths are concerned. It is even more tragic that death should strike so many at what should be the most joyous time of the year.

The Spectator newspapers join the Ohio State Highway Patrol and the National Safety Council in emphasizing that just a little more caution could save many lives during this holiday season.

Why, Mayor?

The Spectator hails Mayor Sensenbrenner's idea to line Civic Center Drive with the flags of the 50 states and rename it Avenue of the Flags.

But it occurred to us that the mayor may be cutting off the city's nose to spite its face.

Columbus' downtown street names are well-known for their lack of distinction — witness Broad and High. New York has its Avenue of the Americas, Pittsburgh its Boulevard of the Allies, even little New Concord has its John Glenn Memorial Highway.

How about leaving our Civic Center Drive alone and renaming First Street, or Second, or Third, or Fourth, ad infinitum.

"Is Washington Burning?"

Ohio's Tax Needs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Dr. George Thatcher, Miami University economist who authored the well-known Thatcher Report on Ohio's tax needs in 1962. It is reprinted from the WRFD Commentator.)

Others feel that the rates of selected excise taxes in Ohio should be increased. An increase of one cent on a pack of cigarettes would yield $20 million in additional revenue. Ohio now levies five cents a pack, not high compared to other states. An increase of the tax on beer from 1.5 cents per 12-ounce bottle to 3.5 cents would provide about $40 million in additional revenue.

The main argument in support of selected excises is their ability to produce revenut. (There is also the possibility of reducing consumption of products which either harm the body or increase social costs.) In opposition, however, selective excises discriminate among individuals on the basis of consumer preferences and lead to a modification of the consumption pattern, production and use of resources than would otherwise prevail.

Most public finance experts hold that a personal net income tax logically affords the state a most rational means of measuring and taxing the capacity of its citizens to contribute to the cost of public services. All taxes levied on the taxpayer must come ultimately from his income. Whether he is taxed on his purchases of cigarettes or gasoline, the assessed value of his property, byt a gen-or gasoline, the assessed value of his property, by a gen-eral sales tax or any other tax the taxpayer's income has been tapped. Per capita personal income is thus a measure of the fiscal capacity of individuals to contribute to the financing of public services. The presumption, then, is in favor of those taxes which come out of income directly and in proportion to the size of that income.

The majority of our citizens regard a tax system which follows the ability-to-pay theory as fair and equitable. Income is generally accepted as the best measure of ability to pay. The presumption again, favors a tax directly levied on income. The personal income tax burden, more than most taxes levied by state governments, is difficult to shift and thus permits a fairly accurate measurement of its ultimate burden. An income tax creates tax-consciousness. Taxes that are levied directly on the one who eventually pays them stress to the citizen that government services cost money — a cost which cannot be escaped.

LARC Thanks Voters

To The Editor:

Our committee and the many parents and friends of mentally retarded children would like to thank the voters of Franklin County for the overwhelming approval they gave the levy to aid retarded children on November 8th.

Each person who voted for the levy can take great pride in having had a part in enabling these fine retarded people to realize their full potential. Now that the doors of our special schools and training centers are to remain open another five years, these youngsters can have the opportunity to learn how to live and work in our proud community. Without this support retarded people would have faced a bleak future without work, without pride and without happiness. They would have become wards of the state and consume many tax dollars instead of contributing their share.

We would like also to thank you and your newspaper for your very effective support. Again you have helped get an important message to the public. When the voters knew the story they responded with kindness and intelligence. Our community has thus demonstrated its maturity in dealing with an important moral issue. We hope the community will stand equally ready to help retarded children in future years.

In behalf of several thousand happy, mentally retarded people we offer a humble "Thank You."

Clyde D. Schoenfeld, M.D., Chairman
Levy for Aid to Retarded Children
Committee

Expresses Gratitude

To the Editor:

We have tried to send our sincere thanks to all people who participated in our campaign and we would appreciate your passing along our heartfelt gratitude to your readers. My family and I deeply appreciate the help and friendship we received during the campaign.

One major consolation to me is the dedicated assistance of so many friends. We shall always treasure the fact that so many people came forward as individuals to support a positive campaign based upon the needs and potentials of our district.

We are extremely gratified by our fine showing in the face of such a tremendous election trend. This was only possible as a result of the effort put forth by so many.

We congratulate Mr. Pemberton and wish him well in representing the 61st District.

Again, our sincere appreciation and thanks to all.

barry goldwater ★ Nuclear Step-up Needed ★

GOLDWATER

Red China's continuing nuclear testing and development make increased U.S. nuclear technology and weapons development urgent.

To be sure, Red China's progress is not now an active threat. She has neither a nuclear stockpile nor extensive delivery systems—though any nation, no matter how backwards in large-scale delivery systems could deliver at least one bomb virtually by suitcase if it wanted. But she does have an obvious potential for future trouble, and we must take this into account and do something about it.

Are we?

Right now the answer is, terribly and tragically, that we are headed toward a second-rate defense posture in the 1970's. In that same period the Soviet Union or Red China, or both, could move beyond us in sheer armed power and applied technology.

Can anyone be optimistic about a world in which such an imbalance would exist? Can anyone truly doubt that what recent peace we have had has been due, as Winston Churchill said, to the strength of American arms?

The details of our defense posture are, of course, buried in that favorite graveyard of bureaucratic bumbling — official secrecy.

The outline of the policy that shapes that posture is not buried, however. It is a well known, self-evident reason for grave concern about the future of our preparedness.

In a nutshell, our defense development policy does not permit major innovations in weapons systems unless it can be justified as a response to an equal innovation on the part of a potential enemy. In other words, no new weapons until after the enemy develops something.

These results should be self-evident. We now have an arsenal of superior weapons — thanks almost entirely to decisions made more than six years ago! But our policy says we will not add anything newer until after a potential enemy has made a breakthrough on his own. Only when this present generation of weapons is updated by say Red China or the Soviet will we begin to update ours.

Unless the policy changes we shall see more advances among nations hostile to us while we slide toward a second-rate defensive position.

A firm, no-nonsense review of this policy should be high on the congressional agenda for 1967.

william s. white ★ Middle East Crisis ★

WHITE

A new crisis, or rather a new heating-up of an old and chronic crisis, is churning in the Middle East. As always, the real villain is the Soviet Union. And, again as always, the principal victim is Israel.

The plain reality is that the Russians are running a proxy "war of liberation" against the Israelis through Arab guerrilla attacking forces which use other people's territory — in this case Jordan's.

The Israelis, repeatedly provoked by assaults across their borders from floating Arab guerrillas, finally respond by sending troops in hot pursuit into Jordan. The United Nations, predictably and indeed in this case by sheer necessity, retorts by solemnly condemning Israel. This is an act both of hypocrisy and of quite unavoidable hypocrisy.

For King Hussein of Jordan is not responsible, nor is Jordan collectively, for the circumstance that its soil is being employed by bandits whose hatred of Israel is matched by their hopes to destroy Hussein himself. In truth, Hussein is hard put to keep his own people from insisting upon military counteraction against Israel. Thus, it is clearly necessary to strengthen his restraining hand; hence the U.N. vote of censure against Israel.

This is hard for Israelis, who habitually receive a tut-tut answer when they fo to the U.N., to complain of assaults from without and are habitually found to be bad fellows when they use candid power in self-defense. Again and again, they are on the whip end of a double standard in the U.N. which the Communist members are happy, of course, to employ, and which Western powers are sometimes compelled to employ.

To say that the Western nations simply must so act is to say only the hard truth, in this current instance anyhow. For let Hussein be overthrown in Jordon by alleged "democratic revolutionaries" who are in fact Communist-led infiltrators and the Communists at one stroke will have both destroyed an anti-Communist center and increased their ultimate capacity to put pressure upon Israel itself.

Still, to accept the unalterable realities of a harsh world is one thing; to pretend that this marvelous example of "world opinion" in the the U.N. is a perfectly splendid act is something else again. For in plain words it is a shabby business that the one really strong and responsible anti-Communist power in the Middle East, Israel, must receive the heads-I-win, tails-you-lose justice of the U.N.

No doubt the Israelis will survive this latest instance of the operation of "world opinion," though there is clear danger that the U.N. decision will embolden the aggressors to suppose they can hit Israel's borders with impunity and immunity. Fair-minded men can only hope that this will not be the case. At the very least, fair-minded men owe a great deal of respect for the patience and the toughness of those Israeli fellows who alone must be required to pay the bill for the kind of power politics that must indeed be played in this tragic situation.

marquis childs ★ Another 'Round' To Begin ★

CHILDS

The nuclear giants, once described by Robert Oppenheimer as two scorpions in a bottle, are squaring off for another round in the nuclear arms race. That is the reality behind the hopeful talk about easing tensions and such minuscule achievements as the recent agreement for a direct commercial air route between Moscow and New York.

Of all the decisions Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has had to help shape in his six years in the Pentagon, none is more momentous than the one with which he now is wrestling. That is whether to give the go-ahead for construction of an anti-ballistic missile system. The price tag is in terms that have come to carry no meaning at all — $30 billion or $40 billion.

On both sides of the great divide the basic component is fear and with it the lingering belief that absolute safety is still possible in a world in which rival nation states are armed with nuclear weapons.

Recent history is about to be repeated. With their new-found muscle the Republicans talk of making the "anti-ballistic missile gap" a major charge leading up to 1968. Playing on mass fears, it could be the dominant theme of the next Presidential campaign.

In 1960 the Democrats used the same tactics on the "missile gap."

It was called disastrous. Leaks from the Pentagon and Capitol Hill suggested that America's whole retaliatory capacity could we wiped out by a Soviet first strike. Democrats poured shame and scorn on the Eisenhower Administration for permitting the lag and thereby inviting annihilation.

McNamara had no part in that controversy. He was then nominally a Republican living in Ann Arbor, Mich., executive vice-president of the Ford Motor Co. As he has several times said, three weeks after he became Secretary of Defense, he had established beyond a doubt that the "missile gap" was a myth.

But the propagation of that myth was the reason for a step-up in missile production. It was a big boost for the missile industry. As of today the combined deterrent force — Minute Men, Polaris submarines, manned bombers—gives the United States an estimated superiority on the order of four or five to one. That is, of course, quite well known to the Soviets. It may help to explain their decision to build an atnti-ballistic missile defense or move the arms race up still another notch.

McNamare in a press conference at the Johnson ranch revealed that the Soviets were installing such a defense. This seemed like inviting trouble since it would inspire the kind of crying of doom in the "anti-ballistic missile gap" already begun. But he was sure leaks from one source or another would exaggerate the situation and therefore, wanted to anticipate this with a sober statement of what he believes from all available intelligence to be the true circumstances.

He is convinced that neither side has the capacity for a first-strike knockout which would leave the initiator of a first strike relatively whole, but believes instead that a nuclear exchange between the United States and the Soviet Union would do enormous damage to both parties.

Does this mean that he will be satisfied with continuing research and development of the American anti-ballistic missile into which several billion dollars has already gone? With the rising clamor of politics this does not necessarily follow.

Welfare Union, County At Odds

Franklin County Commissioners and officials of the newly formed welfare workers union are at odds over how, when and where the proposed union is to gain proper recognition.

Charles D. Bannerman, president of the Franklin County Welfare Employees Union, expressed confidence that the union will gain the needed recognition soon.

"We now have 252 employees who have signed cards authorizing dues deductions from their pay checks. This number makes up the 51 percent of welfare workers who are in support of such an organization," he said.

However, Glen Myers, Franklin County Commissioner, said that these persons have only expressed willingness to join the organization but are not members as of now.

"When the union membership includes the majority of the Welfare Department employees, then we will talk to them about recognition," Myers said.

The issue as to whether the welfare workers are to have or not to have a recognized union has been discussed for some time. Two previous attempts have been made to establish such an organization.

Bannerman said that the first attempt failed because of a lack of organization; the second failed because 33 key members of the movement left the agency. This is the closest that any such organization has come in gaining recognition.

The purpose of the union is twofold. First, it will be used as a bargaining agency to improve the working conditions for the staff. Secondly, it will attempt to improve the service to those people who are financially dependent on the community.

Bannerman added that one of the major reasons for the great turnover of staff is the poor salary conditions. A beginning case worker will receive $400 a month. Then come the deductions. "It is very difficult to attract and keep qualified persons in this field because the salaries are so poor," Bannerman said.

"There is a great need for male case workers but it is impossible to get them because of the salary since most men have families to support," he said.

"Many members of the staff would like to join but cannot afford the monthly dues of four dollars," he said.

Other improvements in conditions that will be worked on will be within the building itself.

"Last summer, this old shoe factory was so hot that it was impossible to work. We were sent home early three or four times a week just because of the heat," he said.

The second purpose for the establishment of a union is to improve service to the clients of the department.

The union has already bought a television for the waiting room of the Welfare Department.

"We are not trying to duplicate the services of the agency but rather trying to supplement and expand those services that the agency performs," Bannerman said.

"For too long a time the civil servant has been treated like a civil slave," he said.

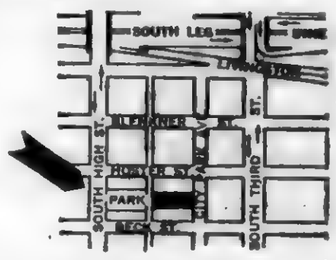
"Through the recognition of a union the working conditions are certain to improve and thereby the service to the community will improve, too."

And So It Grows

All kinds of potted plants are available now to solve your gift-giving and holiday decorating problems. Here are some suggestions plus some tips on their care from Ohio State University Extension floriculturists:

AZALEA — Don't overwater even though they tend to need large quantities of water. Since they're potted in peat moss, it's difficult to tell when to water. Extension specialists say just lift the pot. Water when it feels light. Never let the peat moss dry out completely, since it's difficult to wet again.

CHRISTMAS BEGONIA — Buy this plant when it has a large number of buds. It'll last longer. Also, don't let the soil dry out completely.



JERUSALEM CHERRY and Christmas pepper — Get these plants while the fruit is ripe. Keep them in full sun during the day and where the temperature is 55 degrees at night.

CYCLAMEN — Important for long life of these flowers is to keep them in a cool place about 50 to 55 degrees at night.

Sometimes we wonder if we're too generous.
Some folks say we are.

Maybe we are more generous at Central Savings than we need be. Paying a higher interest rate than you get at commercial banks makes us wonder at times. But doing more for people more and more has proved to be good business for our customers and us. So why change?

The way we see it . . . the folks who say we're too generous could be a little envious. Or feel that they have a good thing going and don't want to match the higher interest rate Central Savings pays.

Whatever the reason . . . there's every reason your savings should be earning the higher 4.5% annual interest rate you get at Central. Actually, your savings earn more because Central also compounds interest quarterly.

So why not open a savings account at Central soon? The sooner the better for you.

Board Business Slow At Regular Session

In a meeting of the Madison School Board Monday, Mrs. Sue Tucker of Groveport was employed to teach Grade 2 at Asbury for the remainder of the year.

A graduate of Tennessee College for Women, she has 13 years' teaching experience.

MRS. TUCKER was employed to replace Mrs. Judith Tuckerman who resigned to accompany her husband, who has taken a position in another part of the state.

A leave of absence was granted to Mrs. Jearline Farley, fifth grade teacher at Groveport. She has asked that the leave, approved because of pregnancy, be effective the second semester.

Phillip K. Williams, superintendent of the district, asked that school board members be ready to consider the expiring contracts of principals in March, those of teachers in April and of non-certificated employes in May.

PRINCIPALS whose contracts expire at the end of the current school year include Roger Birtchner, teaching principal at Edwards; Isabel Miller, teaching principal at Brice, James Pences, junior high principal, and Ralph Hudzon, assistant superintendent to Williams.

The contracts of 72 teachers also expire in June. These include 21 at Asbury, eight at Brice, five at Edwards, nine at Groveport, 10 at the junior high and 19 at Groveport-Madison High School.

Still looking ahead, Williams informed the board that four buses should be replaced next year. While it is state policy to approve replacement of buses after 10 years, one of these will be 12 years old next year, and the other three have already reached 10.

REVIEWING the expiration date of operating levies, the superintendent indicated it will be necessary to ask only for renewal of a .9 mill levy (expiring in 1970) before 1972.

However, with four levies passed during the past three years expiring in 1973 and totaling 17.1 mills, the voters will be asked for continued support for all four in 1972. (Schools have been requested in recent years to arrange expiration of levies simultaneously so that voters will not be asked at frequent intervals for the necessary renewals.)

The latest enrollment report shows 3,553 students enrolled as of Dec. 2. Approximately two-thirds of the student population is at the elementary level with Asbury alone accounting for 1,005 youngsters.

Announces Site For New East Side Chapel

Schoedinger Funeral Service, 229 E. Statest, has announced it has acquired a new site for its far East Side chapel at E. Livingston Avenue and Lansdale Avenue.

Pendergast 'To Sell' South Side Development To NY Publishers

ROBERT PENDERGAST

Development potential of the South Side will be given the "hard-sell" this week when Robert Pendergast visits the editorial offices of "Life," "Time, "Fortune, the "New York Times" and the "Wall Street Journal."

In New York City, accompanying students from Columbus Business University who are acting as local good will ambassadors to Mayor Lindsey, former vice-president Nixon and Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, the city information officer hopes to draw national publicity to Columbus' industrial promise through the mentioned publications.

". . . I HOPE to do a hard selling job to magazines and newspapers on the great growth of Columbus — especially the city's South Side and what this development can mean to new business coming into Columbus."

Pointing out the spectacular growth of the city since 1954 he said, "During the past dozen years, the north and east sides of Columbus have had impressive gains in residential, commercial and industrial development. The west side growth has been more stabilized and the South Side has remained relatively untapped."

HE ANTICIPATED this to change in five to 10 years with operation of the Southernly sewage treatment plant a trigger to the South Side and Southeast becoming "a bonanza of development."

Pendergast's efforts to "sell Columbus" will be nothing new to him as he has frequently demonstrated this type of salesmanship before civic, university and management groups throughout Central Ohio during his two-year stint with the administration.

The delegation he heads will letave Port Columbus at noon tomorrow and return Sunday.

WLW-C PRESENTS FILMS

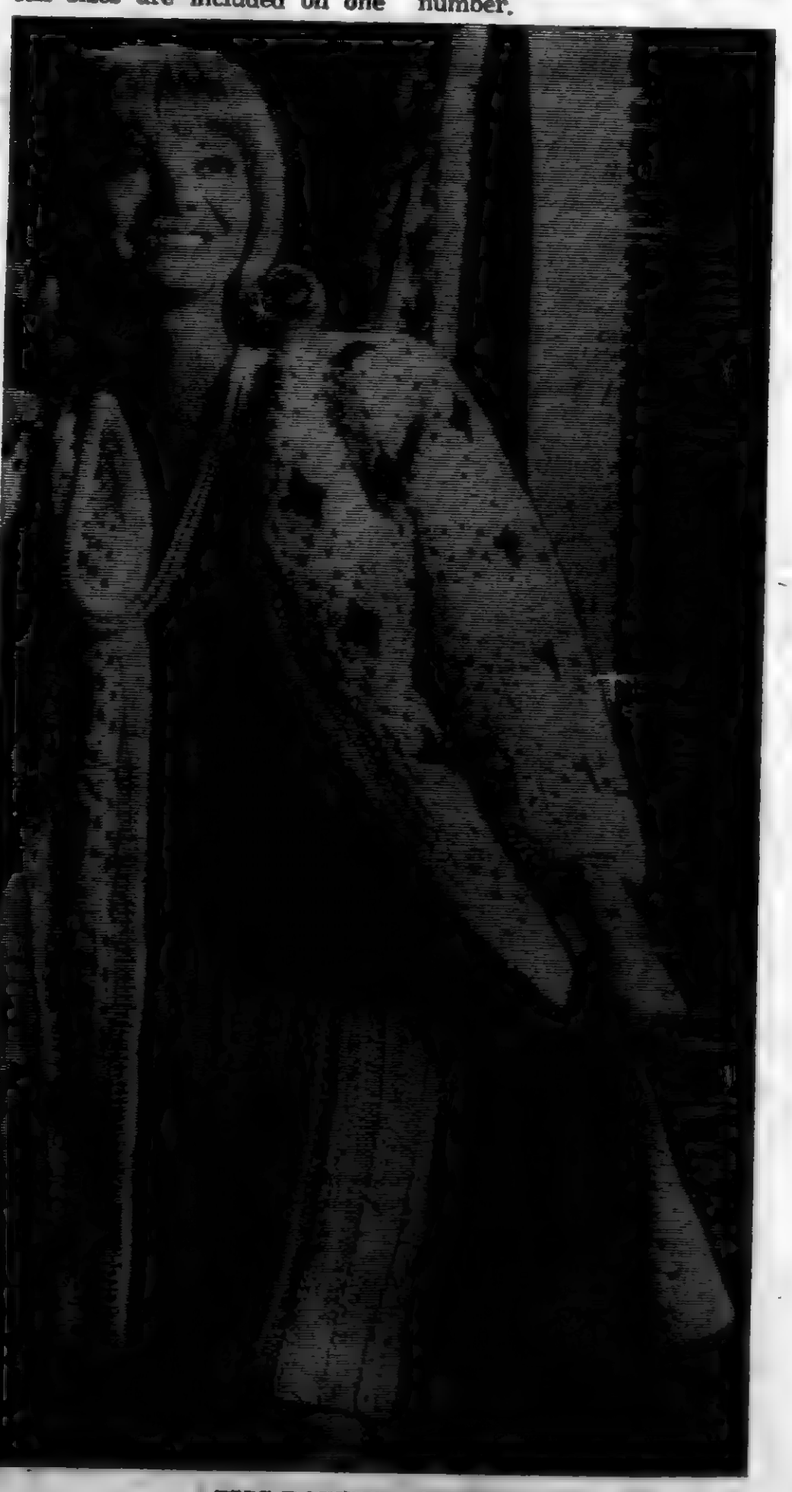
LET'S KNIT

It's A Granny Afghan

By URSULA DuBOIS

Don't wrap your feet into it or throw it on the couch—wear it!



We took this idea straight from granny. It is still the old-fashioned crocheted squares, except we sewed them together in a different manner. The end result is this lovely creation in three colors—white, turquoise, and dark blue — modeled by Patricia Harty of NBC Television's "Occasional Wife."

Illustrated instructions are written in sizes 10 through 20. All sizes are included on one pattern.

The "Poor Boy" dress, Pattern No. 128, for variation, includes instructions for sleeves and a turtleneck.

To obtain pattern 125 or 128 send 50 cents for each pattern in coin, check or money order to Ursula duBois, Spectator Newspapers, Box 3307, Van Nuys, Calif. 91407.

Fifteen cents extra will insure first class mail and special handling. Please print plainly your name, address, pattern number and zip code number.

DIG OUT THAT EASEL KIDS AND HIT THE TRAIL TO FAME

If you see an unusual number of easels set up in Schiller Park and German Village between now and Christmas, do not be surprised.

It is all part of the preparation for the Community Art Display to be climaxed with Art Festival Night Feb. 6.

THROUGH THE cooperative efforts of South Side and Hamilton and Madison District Schools and the sponsorship of the South Side YMCA, a traveling art show is planned in five banks, shopping centers and stores between Jan. 3-Feb. 6.

From the 600 entries expected from students in every grade level, "blue-ribbon" work will be selected to be mounted on art display boards that will be changed every two weeks during the exhibit.

The theme, "Nature in Fall and Winter," has been chosen with close-ups of natural forms as well as general scenes of pets, lakes, trees snow scenes and figure drawings acceptable.

ALTHOUGH ONLY art conforming to this theme will be eligible for "blue ribbon" status, previous work already completed on any subject may be entered and will, with the traveling display and all other entries, be shown at the Art Festival at the YMCA.

All work must be delivered to the school the budding artist attends or taken directly to the "Y" before Christmas. The media may be tempera, colored chalk, charcoal or brush and ink. Any size work may be submitted that is not larger than 12 by 18 inches, but it must all be matted with either chipboard or mat board. No copy work is acceptable.

Designed to promote art appreciation on the community level, the display is viewed as a growing annual event which will eventually encourage area interest in work of all forms of craft and the fine arts.

THE FEBRUARY festival will be open to the public and parents of students who have entered the contest will be invited by personal letter.

15 Seniors Honored By Ohio State

Fifteen students from Southeast schools were honored last week when Ohio State entertained 200 top-ranking high school seniors.

Nominated by their high schools on basis of class standing or high scores on college tests, each received a certificate of commendation for "outstanding academic achievement and for superior scholastic promise."

ATTENDING the reception from Canal Winchester were Susanna Busby, 5400 Bachman-rd; Ted Jenkins, 52 Fairfield-st; Susan Lamb, 63 Park-st; Margaret Sievert, Rt. 2, Carroll; Kathy Ford, 201 Washington-st and Mike Dawson, Rt. 2, Canal Winchester.

Hamilton students include Patti Stewart, 5441 Parsons-av; Mark Haeseck, 1855 Hemlock-st; Linda Meade, 4 Williams-st; Mike Tomsic, 1700 Rohr-rd; Anne Osborne, 5102 Edgeview-rd; Eric Bomhard, 5200 Edgeview-rd; Jay Badders 885 Rt. 665, Lockbourne, rd and Craig Vansant, 5332 Guthrie-rd.

A FLUSTERED FATHER...
...is almost as helpless as his infant offspring. The moment the baby arrives, he manages to forget all of mother's instructions.
But you can help.
A Welcome Wagon hostess will call at your request to lend a helping hand with all the things which dear old Dad's forgotten, and with gifts for the newcomer as well.
So be a friend indeed to that flustered father. When the stork arrives in your neighborhood, call Welcome Wagon at 294-3739

News Notes of Lockbourne

The charge-wide Methodist Christmas party for all youth will be Dec. 23 at South Bloomfield. The Christmas Eve Service is scheduled at 7:30.

The Rev. Charles Hill held services at Hamden, O. Dec. 5 and 6.

St. Matthew's Lutheran Fellowship group will meet Sunday, at 7:30 p.m. and the Brotherhood, Dec. 21, 8 p.m.

The WSCS meeting is postponed until Thursday and will include a covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. Helen Doersam.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sawyer and son, Shannon, left Saturday to return home to Tulsa, Okla., after a week's visit with Ohio relatives.

A Black Feline Waiting For Him

Airman 3/c Stephen K. Ewing claims he isn't superstitious.

Yet the Lockbourne AFB airman took a second look when he received an appointment slip at the base dental clinic recently.

It asked him to report at 1300 hours (1 p.m. to you civilians) on Friday, Jan. 13, to room 13.

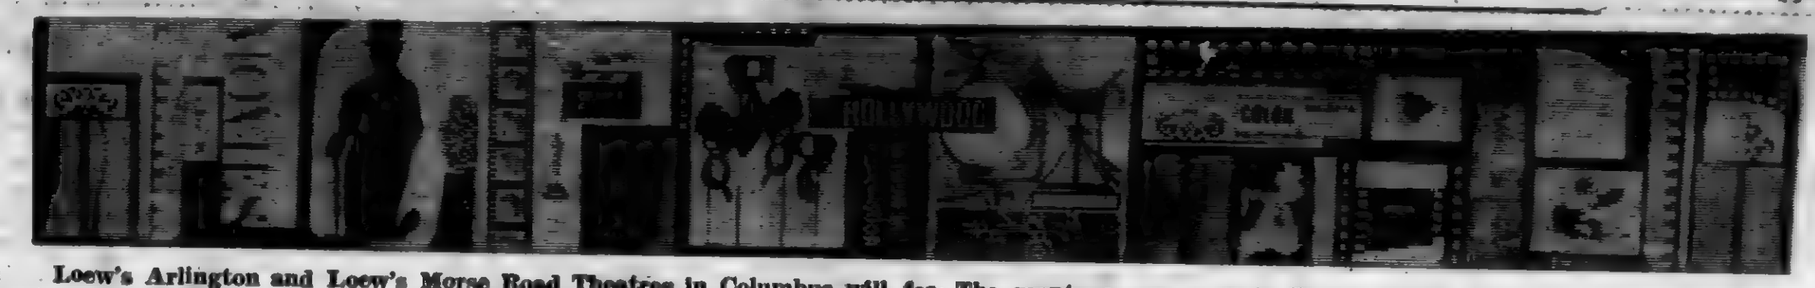
A FEW OF THE younger writers tap their clipboards.



"Now if everybody's signed their medical releases, I think we're ready to go."

The writers follow the figure down the corridor until he stops in front of a glass door marked "Coaches' Shower."

"GENTLEMEN, I'll be right back with your raincoats. And remember — before we go in —it's been a tough afternoon."

Loew's Arlington and Loew's Morse Road Theatres in Columbus will feature giant foyer murals composed of a malange of motion picture symbols. The montages are seventy-five feet wide and seventeen feet high.

UNICEF Offers Cards, Calendars

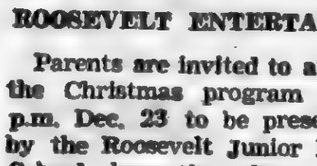
UNICEF, the Nobel Peace Prize-winning United Nations Children's Fund, is currently conducting its annual sale of greeting cards, note paper and calendars in the Columbus area.

Cards may be purchased at the UN office, 65 S. Fourth-st; in East Columbus from Mrs. Bertha Krausz, 1550 E. Broad-st; in Reynoldsburg at the Windmill Gift Shop, 6925 E. Main-st; in Arlington from Mrs. E. S. Preston, 2384 W. Lane-av, or Mrs. Richard W. Edwards, 1892 Edgemont-rd; and in Clintonville from Mrs. E. K. Patton, 202 Winthrop.

The sale is sponsored by the Columbus chapter of the United Nations Association of the United States of America.

Proceeds go to aid needy children and mothers in more than 100 developing nations around the world.

Ruth C. Bailey, 1636 Waltham-rd, chairman of the greeting card committee, said the group hoped to raise in excess of the $3 million raised last year.



Designs for the cards were contributed by artists from Argentina, Canada, France, Germany, Haiti, Hungary, Japan Lebanon and the United States.

ROOSEVELT ENTERTAINS

Parents are invited to attend the Christmas program at 2 p.m. Dec. 23 to be presented by the Roosevelt Junior High School dramatics class.

How long will you stay afloat in the MG Sports Sedan?

- Float over bumps as long as you ride, thanks to a new liquid suspension system.
- Comfortably roomy, too—carries five six-footers, lots of luggage.

Loew's To Open Two Neighborhood Theaters

The two new Loew's showcase theatres nearing completion in Columbus suburbs will open simultaneously on Christmas Day, according to announcement made by Bernard Diamond, general manager of Loew's Theatres, Inc. The new theatres are Loew's Arlington, in the Northwest Shopping Center at Henderson and Reed Roads, and Loew's Morse Road, on Morse Road just east of Interstate 71. Each will seat 1,200.

"Arrivederci, Baby" starring Tony Curtis, Rosanna Schiaffino,, Nancy Kwan and Zsa Zsa Gabor, will be the opening attraction at Loew's new Arlington.

"After the Fox," Peter Seller's comedy successor to "What's New Pussycat?" will open Loew's new Morse Road Theater.

Rein Rabakukk has been named managing director of Loew's Morse Road, and Harold Walton will manage Loew's Arlington.

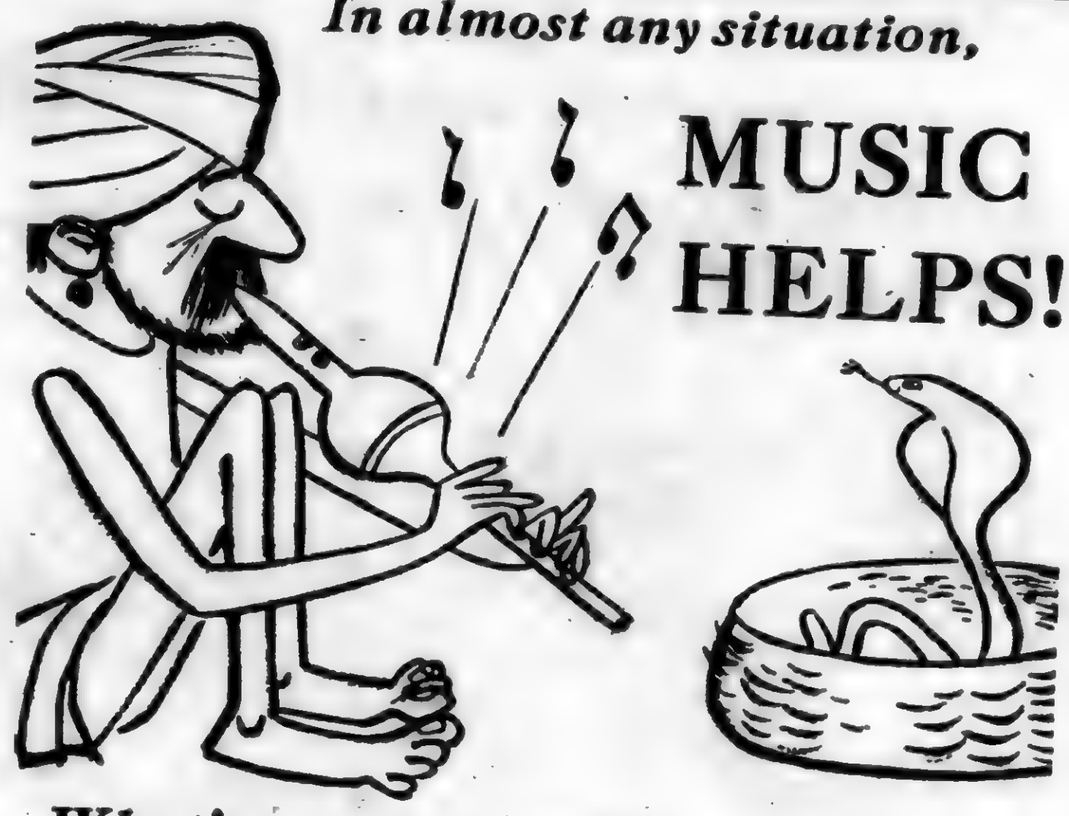
During the opening week, showings will be continuous from 1 p.m. daily.

HONORED

GARY E. TAYLOR, product distribution manager for Midwestern VW Corp of Columbus was presented with Volkswagen, Inc.'s highest award, the diamond pin. The award was made recently in Wolfsburg, W. Ger., during the annual International Award Day ceremonies at Volkswagen headquarters at that place. The diamond award is given for outstanding performance in assigned duties. Taylor is the first member of the Ohio-Kentucky VW distributor sales staff to receive the award. He and his wife, Barbara, live at 309 Lockville-rd, Pickerington.

Mothers To Meet At South Methodist

Group B of the Ohio State University Mothers Club will meet for a noon potluck meeting Tuesday at the South Methodist Church. A Christmas party and gift exchange will follow the noon meal.



Hostesses will be Mrs. Ralph Campbell, Mrs. Wilbur Martin, Mrs. Floyd Lemmon, Mrs. Paul Gage, Mrs. Carl Abbott, Mrs. August Schatz and Mrs. Ben Harrison.

Decision Reviewed To Buy Office Area

Purchase of a building on Hamilton Road to provide central office space for the Madison School District has brought to light several misconceptions existing among local residents concerning future planning.

When the purchase was announced, the question was asked by one man (he claims others have asked the same question), "Why was this expense undertaken when the money is needed to complete the new junior high?"

HE MENTIONS in particular the cafeteria and gymnasium.

The Spectator confirmed with Phillip Williams, superintendent, that the cafeteria is complete as planned for the first building stage.

The building, constructed according to long-range planning, is designed to accommodate a growing student enrollment.

IT IS BELIEVED that within an indeterminate number of years the new junior high will be converted to a senior high facility. With this in mind the architects planned a cafeteria that would meet the needs of tomorrow's high school with a correspondingly large kitchen.

Until that time the surplus cafeteria area was earmarked for the purpose for which it is now being used — that of study hall and library — and the unused kitchen space is adapted to a storage area.

THE GYMNASIUM is not waiting on money for completion but for the contractors to complete the job for which money has long been appropriated.

It is anticipated it will be ready for occupancy by the first of the year.

Williams refused to speculate when the conversion will be undertaken.

THAT IS a question that can only be answered as residential development in the district increases.

A second variable occurs because no one can predict accurately how many high school students in the district will be siphoned from the conventional courses to Eastland Vocational School, scheduled to open in 1968.

The purchase of the building came as no great surprise to those who had kept themselves reasonably well-informed of school business, either through local newspapers or by attending board meetings.

THE ISSUE arose over two years ago when the building now housing McDorman Chevrolet was first considered for office space.

When this was determined impractical many houses were surveyed but none were found with a floor plan adaptable to office use.

Rental of office area in two professional buildings (one at Harbor and Hamilton and another at College and Main) was studied, but the idea was abandoned as a continuing expense without equity being established.

PLANS TO purchase the present Hamilton Road structure were jelled only after bids for the junior high site came in at a prohibitive cost, and architects' estimates for an addition to the junior high were similarly priced.

To dispel any idea that the central office space is a luxury item, Williams described the arrangements currently in use to house the administrative staff.

He has been using the conference room in the junior high, an area needed for teacher-student and teacher-parent conferences and for faculty and student meetings.

THE ASSISTANT superintendent, Ralph Hudson, is operating from the health clinic in Asbury Elementary, and Don Marshon, building co-ordinator, is now in the high schooll in a cubbyhole designed for janitorial supplies.

The office of the clerk, Charles Dean, is in the file room of the junior high.

Williams further explained that an administrative session is currently a major operation with not only personnel, but records, scattered over three buildings.

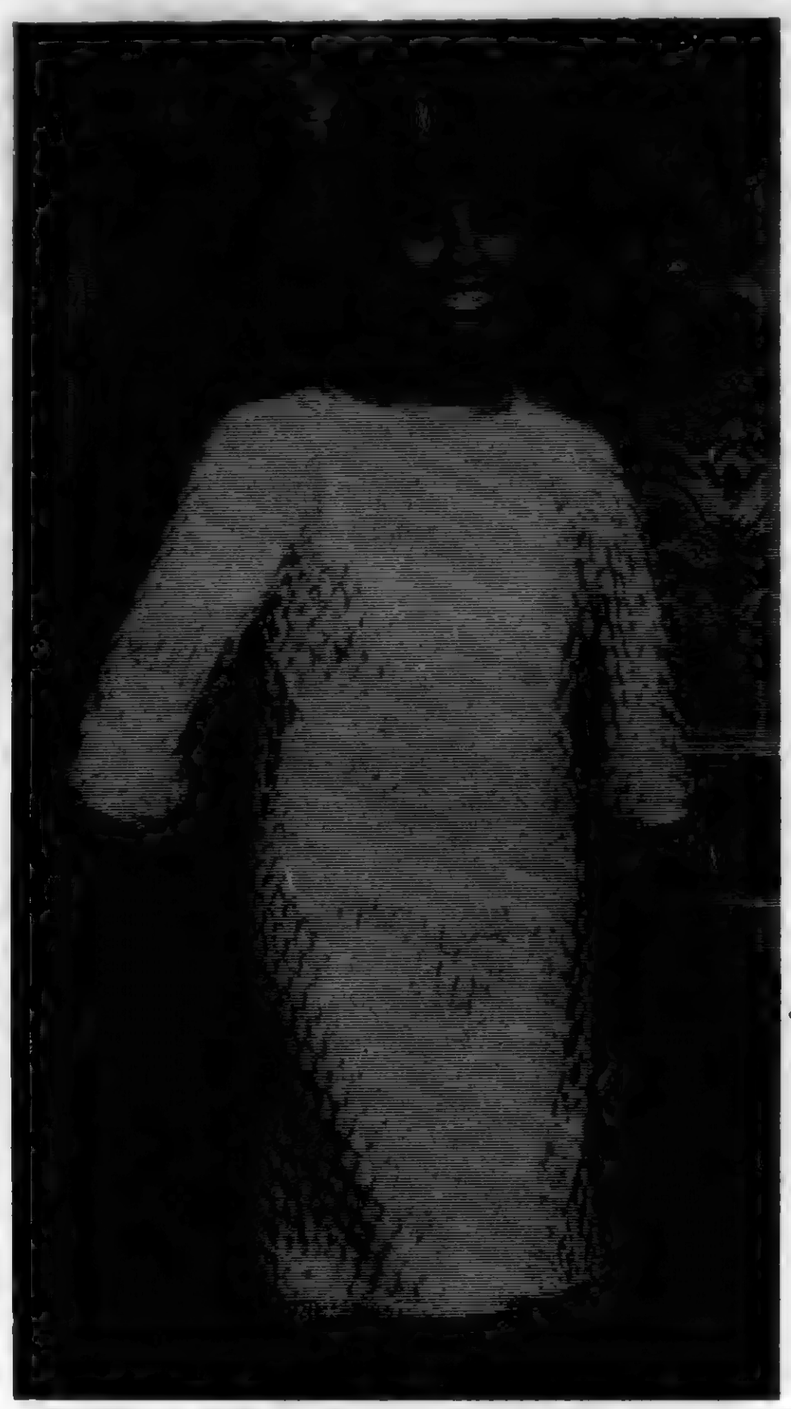
Spectator Fashion Editor

Winter '66 may go down in fashion history as the year of the gleam in milady's wardrobe . . . and it's suggested that you wear your sunglasses if you're shopping for this year's crop of after-five finery for they fairly blind you from the racks.



After dark (only) is the time to shine, and the holiday season provides all kinds of justification for indulging in glitter . . . a little or a lot, as you please.

I see by my monthly Fashion News from Sears that they have some good suggestions.

If you'd like to glow in the dark, try a short dance dress in glistening silver lame—or a sparkling open lattice silver cage over a sliver of a shift. These will not only add lustre to an occasion—but will indicate that, from a fashion view-point, you're pretty bright.

If you'd like to shimmer from head to toe . . . and this season it can be achieved tastefully . . . add swinging earrings of glitter, nylon stockings with a silvery gleam . . . and for good measure . . . silver cutout sandals.

On the other hand, if your holiday plans include entertaining friends at home, dress UP . . . not down . . . and make the evening memorable. Sears fashion departments right now are bursting with sparkling ideas for at-home costumes. A graceful ankle-length brocade hostess coat, in antique gold, would be marvelously flattering. Party pajamas featuring a pullover top in twinkling black and white sequins and black crepe culcottes could conceivably enhance your hostess rating. Or pair a silver metallic shirt and pants . . . or a great halter top or sweater with pants. Set the festive note for your guests . . . and accept their compliments on a wonderful evening.

LIGHTING UP the Christmas scene in this sparkling costume featuring a cutout metallic cage with graceful sleeves floating over a simply-shaped nylon dress.

Continental Fare Opens In Old World Bazaar

The new and different Continental Fare in the Old World Bazaar in German Village is the third business establishment in Columbus opened by German natives Mr. and Mrs. Juergen Klimke.

The Klimkes migrated from Germany to Canada in 1955 and came to the United States in 1958.

Klimke served in the U.S. Army for five years before moving his family to Columbus in 1963. As he puts it, "We fell in love with the city."

Klimke, who learned baking as an apprentice in Germany, opened the Community Bakery Shop at 2460 Cleveland-av in 1966 and then opened Juergen's Konditorei in the Old World Bazaar in 1966.

Three Officers Get Promotions At Huntington

Three officers of the Huntington National Bank were promoted at the recent meeting of the board of directors, it was announced by president Clair E. Fultz.

H. Albert Spencer, 328 S. Southampton, and William H. Waddell,, 385 Smith-rd, were elected assistant vice-presidents. George B. Dellenbach, Jr., 5332 Ivyhurst-dr, was elected assistant cashier.

Spencer is department head of records, coordinator for the time savings program and supervisor of projects for the operations division. Waddell and Dellenbach are commercial loan officers.

"Religion? How square!"

Some people do make religion seem as if it ought to be put in mothballs.

Does that mean you have to?

Sure you're full of social protest. New ideas. Feelings about integrity and justice and today's values.

So is religion.

And your church or synagogue can become—if you help—the place where the action is—in solving the important problems in the world, in your community, in your life.

Don't knock it. Join it.

Worship this week. And put your Faith to work.

SANTA CLAUS and one of his elves (?) whip up some Christmas magic in "Santa Claus" to be shown at Town and Country, University, and Great Western Cinemas Saturday and Sunday. Admission for the Christmas special is 50 cents for children and adults.

Santa Truly Coming To Town Saturday

Santa Claus is coming to Town and Country Cinema, University Cinema and Great Western Cinema Saturday and Sunday.

The jolly spirit of children's desires for Christmas will be on the screen in the Eastman Colorscope motion picture "Santa Claus."

The picture will be a real treat for children. For adult viewers with or without youngsters it has at least two striking phases.

First, it is an undeniably modern movie as the influence of science fiction has reached Santa's workshop or home base. Second, it shows Santa Claus as the messenger of goodwill for children of all nations of the world.

Instead of a log or North Pole cabin full of busy little elves. Santa's helpers. Santa operates from an observatory. He is a benevolent big brother watching children. He owns an all-seeing eye antenna and a big listening ear. He knows which toys children long for in their dreams.

So that adults as well as the children may enjoy this movie, all three cinemas will charge 50 cents for admission.

A DOUBLE on FIRST BID try??

THEY SURE know how to HURT a guy!!

That DOUBLE was telling partner, "My hand is JUST as good as BIDDER'S," and that she's offering partner sufficient SAFETY — "So, GO AHEAD, partner, bid me YOUR BEST SUIT!" Meanwhile, ENEMY is wondering, is this a TAKE-OUT double or a PENALTY double?? We've just answered it—it's a TAKE-OUT double and partner will feel confident and answer partner with her longest or strongest suit!

Curtain Players Slate Tryouts For 'Moon Is Blue'

Curtain Players will hold tryouts Dec. 27 and 28, at 8 p.m. at State Savings Bank in Westerville, Schrock and Westerville Roads.

Tryouts are for the February production of "The Moon Is Blue" which, introduced some ten years ago, was a real knockout, having been barred in several cities.

For copies of "The Moon Is Blue" or information phone production manager Tom Davis at 882-1035.

Players Club Entertains 'La Mancha' Company

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Spectator Entertainmnt Editor

Players Club entertained the cast and company of "Man of La Mancha" Sunday evening as a social function of the club.

Mrs. Pat Santelli, Mrs. Mary Jameson and Mrs. Jean Martinez were the hostesses and definitely created warmth among all attending through charm and having every detail of preparation fully executed.

Leading actors from both groups intermingled with members of each group with each giving and receiving their share of attention as only the theater world could.

Broadway was close at hand Sunday evening with Harvey Lembeck, Wilbur Evans, David Atkinson, and Maura K. Wedge topping the billboard with many other company members giving their time to make quite an evening of theater take place.

Following the reception, an excerpt from "The Physicists" was presented to the "La Mancha" company and in turn the cast of "La Mancha" will present their play to Columbus theater goers this week at Veterans Memorial.

One felt apprehension for the cast and director of "The Physicists" as they opened the curtain to perform to such an outstanding audience. Quickly the apprehension faded as the cast was at its best in acting.

An exciting time was had by all. Enthusiasm for the cast of "La Mancha" spread, and all in attendance vowed to see this Broadway production, as strangers became acquaintances and fans of the cast.

VLT Prepares For Feb. 'Rain'

Village Little Theater will produce "Rain" in February at First Community Church.

The director is Bob Weesner. Bob is a television director for Channel 4.

Leads for "Rain" include Jean Smith as Sadie, Jack Johannigan as Reverend Davidson, Linda Pearce as Mrs. Davidson, William Heldt as Dr. MacPhail, Carole Gregg as Mrs. MacPhail, Clarence Lewis as Joe Horn and Bob Henry as Sgt. O'Hara.

For information phone Jan Taylor at 486-8384.

No Winners On Area Mats

Victory was hard to find on area mats last week as all three entires—Groveport, Hamilton Township and Gahanna — went down to defeat.

Arlington stopped the Cruisers, 22-14; Mifflin edged the Rangers, 25-19, and Gahanna dropped a pair of one-point matches against reserve squads.

GROVEPORT - UA

DECISIONS by John Queen, Jim McConaha, Ronnie Miller and Jeff Nelle pushed the Cruisers off to a 14-8 lead through 145 but Arlington closed with four straight verdicts to hand Groveport its first setback in two outings.

HAMILTON - MIFFLIN

A pair of forfeits (103, 112) made the difference as the Rangers dropped their second straight.

HEAVYWEIGHT Mike Stubbins got an H-T pin-win while teammates John Savel (127) earned a decision, Steve Yates won via forfeit and Roger Milligan, Jeff Nelson and Eric Bomhard gained draws.

Gahanna opened its first-ever mat season with 26-25 and 29-19 setbacks to Hartley and Grandview's reserves respectively.

Tom Vogelpohl (103), Jack Stockley (127), Tom Schneider (138) and Mike Hennis (175) all won via pins in the Hartley setback.

AGAINST Grandview, Vogelpohl and Chris Bell (133) picked up five-pointers while Brian Kearns, Rick Henry and Dan Hundley earned verdicts.

Lion coach Pete Nix reports that the Grandview loss was especially costly since 138-pounder Dan Weber suffered a dislocated shoulder and will be sidelined at least six weeks.

Heavyweight Bill Marshall got Groveport's lone finals win as the Cruisers finished fifth in a seven-team field at Walnut Ridge's invitational Saturday.

THE CRUISERS scored 45 points as compared to the Scotties' 73.

Whetstone (60) placed second, followed by Granville (55) and Westerville (48).

Skip Musselman (133) took a second place while Tom Sparks, John Queen and Roger Adams gained consolation wins.

We Wish You A Merry Christmas

The stars winked over the world on that night nearly two thousand years ago. And a baby's cry pierced the snow-filled stillness of winter. That quall from a manger has echoed down the corridors of the centuris and the season of Christ's birth has come to be known as Christmas.

It is written that a star guided three wise men from the East to that humble manger in Bethlehem. And that these men, believing in the Deity of the newborn infant before them, presented the Christ with gold, frankencense and myrrh.

The wise men, along with the gift of the Son of God himself, has, through the ages, given rise to a season in which the joy is giving, a season of brotherly love, a season that remembers the birth of the Christ.

Yet, now there are millions who have not heard the squall of that infant. And in the countries that have, the custom has usurped the commemoration, so that the emphasis is not on giving as much as exchange. And the cash register clicks off the count of a forgetting people.

There are some who would tell you the infant never was born. And there are others who would tell you His Father never existed. And there are still more who would tell you the winter solstice was a pagan time of celebration even before the alleged birth of the Christ. And there are some who have heard the squall and said that its echo is so faint, it has no meaning in this, the Twentieth Century.

As modern man looks around his imperfect world, he is puzzled by the billions who have not even heard of the Christ; he is puzzled by the meaning of war; he is puzzled by the meaning of suffering, death and disease. He is puzzled about the enormity of space and the meaning of time; he is puzzled about the process of aging, the test-tube production of life, the artificial extension of personality, the trick of organ replacement, the enormity of planet exploration and the technological possibility of human extinction. His mind shrinks at the magnitude of the population problem. He is puzzled as to the meaning of history, the ploddings of philosophy, the dictums of theology.

Man looks at his world of the Twentieth Century and sees the accelerated pace of his daily life skip from a walk to a run. He hears the rumblings of the wit, the sage, the wise man, the priest, the minister, the rabbi, the fool, the biologist, the psychiatrist and the physicist. He hears the preachings of all these and he looks inside to an infinity of the interior and outside to an infinity of the cosmos.

Where is the soul if children are created in a laboratory by a biologist? Where is God if the secrets of life can be unraveled by the physicist? Where is the sanctity of personal human worth if the science of the mind can manipulate an entire culture into acts of robots? Where is Heaven if the dead are dead forever? Where is Hell if there is no Heaven?

It is said this is the age of anxiety. With all these questions, man has a right to be anxious. He has a right to be perplexed. In the lights of the Twentieth Century, in view of the life-death questions to be answered, with the aura of a breakdown of the entire traditional structure that has held the Western world together for 2000 years, we have yet to interpret the squall of the infant and apply it today.

And at Christmas, it is good to remember what we must unify. It is good to remember that this is the season of the birth of Christ.

And no matter what the questions or what the problems . . . no matter what the belief, that squall is the cry of love.

And a more unifying sound has yet to be heard.

Boom Lowered On T-V District

Teays Valley District voters pulled their children out of the fire at the polls last week but failed to wrestle the future of their education out of the frying pan.

The school doors will remain open, thanks to a 1195-396 passage (55 percent needed) of a six-mill renewal levy.

BUT THE rejection of an additional three-mill increase in operating income (defeated 807-751) left the District still skating on some mighty thin ice.

District voters were awakening this week to the repercussions of their negative vote on the three-mill increase.

After a special meeting Monday night, Pickaway County Superintendent of Schools George McDowell announced the following "economy measures":

ALL SCHOOL facilities will be closed at 5 p.m. daily for all school and community functions. (PTA and Booster Clubs will be permitted one regular meeting per month.)

Other groups may use the facilities on a rental basis only to compensate for utility and services costs.

Some groups which will be affected by the latter ruling are: music lessons and practices, money-making projects by groups (dances), athletic practices and games and dramatic activities.

McDOWELL also reported that no monies are available for the following: science and math equipment, audio-visual equipment, library and reading circle books, supplemental textbooks, reference books

Teens, Senior Citizens Embrace Civic Center

The availability of a Civic Center in Groveport has obviously taken hold with both young and young-at-heart in the village.

Pete Franks reported the second Teen Dance resulted in "a terrific turnout" and the village councilman labeled the dance a big success in raising funds for the Civic Center.

HOPES FOR making improvements at the Center (including a regulation-sized pool table) may soon be realized if the village response continues at its present pace.

Franks also hopes to organize a folk singing show for Christmas week.

But just as responsive to the new Civic Center are the village's Senion Citizens who held their first official Civic Center function — a Potluck Supper — last week.

MRS. CHARLES Stewart reported last week that the Center is available to Senior Citizens on Wednesdays and Thursdays at least through the holidays.

Last Thursday evening, Mrs. Gatwood from the Columbus Senior Citizens Center visited the Center to instruct local women on the making of Christmas wreaths.

Activity lists — polling the interests of village residents — have been posted on the wall of the Center.

Franks also reported that Civic Center Booster stickers —provided for those who contribute to the Center — are available.

Property Owners To Receive 'Final Offer' From C-W Board

Plans to enlarge Canal Winchester's school playground area ran into a snag last week as two of three adjoining property owners refused to accept the school's bid for their property from Mrs. Helen Tedrow —the Board's acquisition representative.

The Board then made what Superintendent Carl Miller termed "our final offer" on the parcels of land.

MILLER INDICATED that appropriation proceedings would be initiated if the offers were again refused.

"We hope we don't have to do this," Miller stated, "but we have no alternative if our offer is rejected."

Miller reported after a special meeting Monday night that surveys have been authorized on two of the properties.

THE C-W Superintendent added that no further action had been taken on the two parcels of land still reluctant to accept the Board's offer.

Miller expressed doubt that any more action would be taken before Jan. 10 when the Board has its reorganization meeting.

As of presstime, no agreement had been reached on purchase of the Peer property and negotiations were still going on for the Morey parcel.

AN ACQUISITION price on the third (Teegardin) property has already been settled to the satisfaction of both parties, according to Miller.

With the school district enjoying the right of eminent domain, an unwilling seller has no alternative but to give up his property — providing the law determines the offer is a just one.

IN OTHER action, the Board —accepted the bid of J. A. White in Cincinnati on the investment bonds to be issued for $587,000 construction okayed by voters in November. The interest rate of four and one-eighth percent was a welcome surprise (one-eighth percent below that received for the $1.5 million East Franklin County Vocational School) as interest rates add from 30 to 40 percent to building costs. Gahanna Shoots For Top Spot

THE SPECTATOR SPORTS

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

Gahanna will have visions of sugar plums dancing in its head as it tries to take the star off the top of the Mid-Eight League in London tonight.

John Stanley's tall Lions, who are currently running with a 4-3 record, can pick up valuable ground they lost a few weeks ago to Westerville (61-60).

BUT GAHANNA can't rest, win or lose, after tonight, Friday they meet Hilliard (2-4) also in Mid-Eight League action. The Wildcats are just a shade below first division in the loop, and pose a pretty potent offensive man in Lynn Kramer, who hits for a near 20 points per game average.

"They have a real fine ball club," commented Stanley on Wednesday's opponent London, "and they show you a lot of things."

TWO OF the more important items they offer for inspection are a couple of sweet-shooting Raiders in Howard Porter and Mike Alexander, a pair of near 19 point men.

"They have size in the pivot (6-5 Jim Pena) and I feel that this Porter is one of the best guards in the league," Stanley added.

JOHN'S BEEN impressed with the improvement of all 12 of his Lions: "They have all been carrying out their assignments to help make us a better ball team."

In a comparable score: Grove City beat London in London last Friday night 48-47 on a last second shot by center Roger White and Gahann nipped Grove City, 51-49 early in the year.

STANLEY FEELS that Friday's opponent Hilliard offers some good outside shooting centered around Kramer. "I saw him at Bexley and he is a very impressive shooter," John added.

For Groveport's first year coach Bill Schneider, a flash of optimism shines forth in an 0-7 season when his Cruisers meet Dick Hopkins' Grandview Bobcats (3-4).

"THEY ARE more our size, but have a little more experience than we do," Bill said. "I have a little more optimism going into this one."

Schneider offered at least one reason for that in the fact that Groveport's defense has been getting tighter. "But if we could just get the ball in the basket a little more," he added.

GROVEPORT has been averaging 40.8 points a game and connecting on only 24.8 percent of their field shots. "That just isn't good enough to win," Bill said.

Another item that the Cruiser mentor would like to limit is the 19.5 turnovers per game that has plagued his group thus far.

Current Groveport point leaders are John Cundiff (10.8) and Larry White (8.0).

CAGE NOTES: East's Tigers came through with the first century mark of the season last Friday night with a 102-53 win over visiting Whetstone. Hart pulled his talented first group with 2:07 remaining in the third period with the mark standing at 68-37, and a speedy second bunch handled things from that point.

The East subs were paced by the nine point scoring of Randy Bias and Ken Turner's eight points. The magic 100th point was notched by Howard Harris. Hart's second group mounted 34 points in 10 minutes.

THE TIGERS' dandy soph scoring ace Eddie Ratleff was point leader of the night with 20 while a trio of 14 point scorers . . . Herky Hairston, Randy Smith and Mel Fowlkes . . . carried most of the load.

East's other standout sophomore, Nicky Connor, saw limited action due to a knee injury.

IN SATURDAY night action — Hartley's Hawks saddled Teays Valley with its worst setback of the year, 68-47. Hartley's defenders put the clamps on the Vikings near 20 ppg scorer Rod Teets, who scored six, all on free throws.

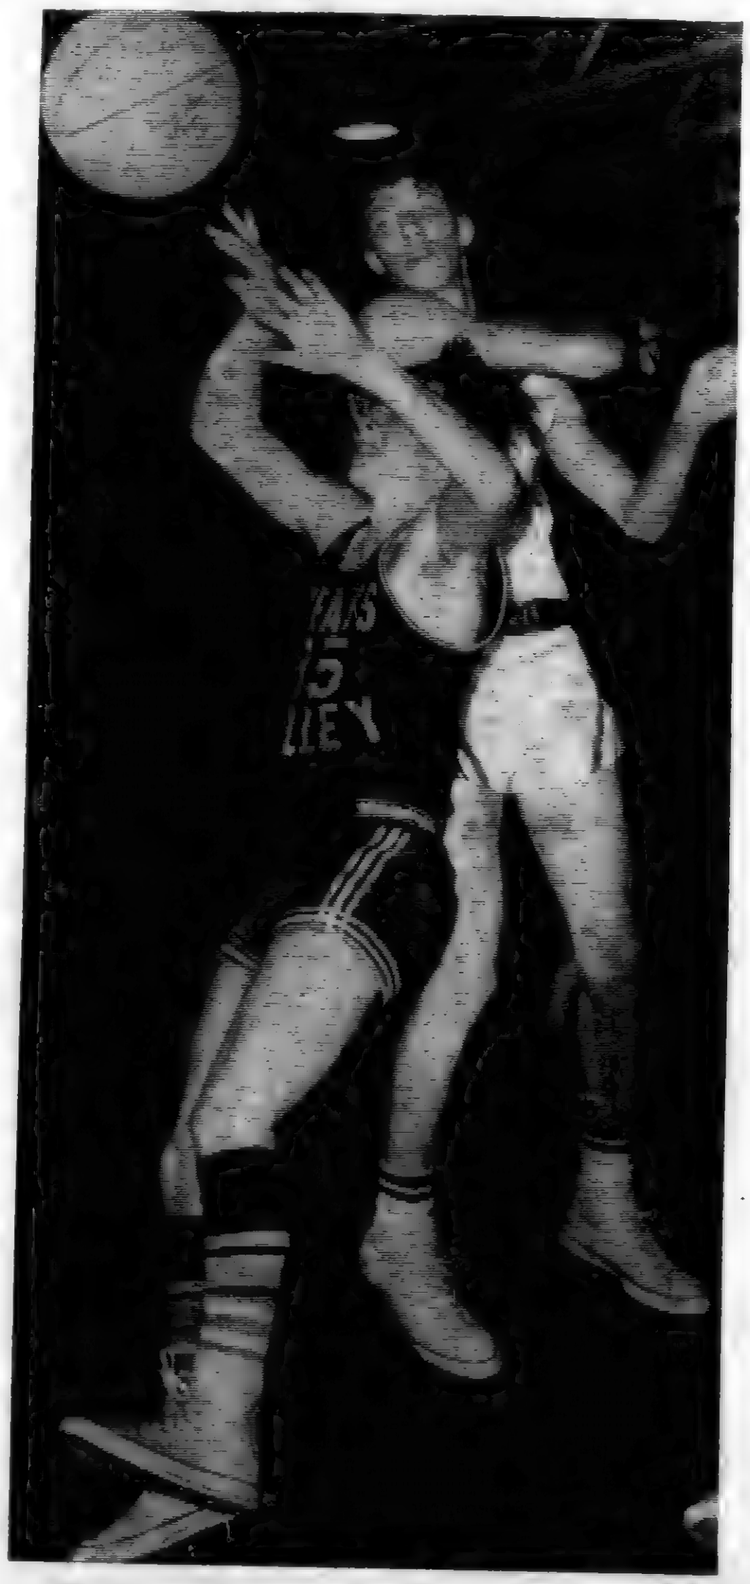
"We couldn't get the ball to him," said Teays' Russ Gregg, "he had a cold night besides their pressure." (Teets previous low was five points against Pleasant View last year).

HARTLEY'S Dick Geyer credited 6-2 Jim Trapp with a second half shutout on Teets and Pat Grady with a stellar second period performance limiting Teets to a pair of foul shots.

Ron Leatherwood took up the slack for Teets with his 15 point effort as Hawk Rodney Parker netted 21 (game high) and Tom Brewer added 19 to the winner's cause.

AT ST. MARY, returning old grads at the Rams' homecoming liked the Saints 1966-67 look as Rod Webb netted 15 first period points in the Rams 68-50 win over Mifflin.

Webb, leading rebounding at 6-5 and key assist man besides, finished with 18 points as the Rams rolled to 42-12 halftime lead. Webb played little of the game besides the first canto. Mike Shawver added 15 to the Saints total.



TOP POINT performers of the week were headed by West Jefferson's Mike Tyree, who notched 35 points in the Roughriders 72-63 loss to Southeastern.

Tyree was followed by Northland's Jim Frazier, who canned 34 points in the Vikings 87-63 win over Fairfield Reemelin, Canal Winchester's Kim Black, who netted 31 points in the Indians 89-70 Friday win over New Albany, New Albany's Randy Wickiser, who tossed in 30 points as the Eagles got back on the win trail with a 85-73 triumph over Danville and Ready's Tom Jackson who fired in 28 points in the Silver Knights' 82-59 pasting of Olentangy.

OTHER area cage action this weekend finds Whitehall (4-3) facing Bexley (1-2), Hamilton Township (0-5) traveling to Reynoldsdburg (5-2), Carroll (2-3) facing Canal Winchester (5-2) (Tuesday) and Eastmoor (5-0) meeting Walnut Ridge (0-4 Friday in City League action.

Look Forward . .

Look Spectator

WHACK! — Viking eager Ron Leatherwood (15) found his path to the basket impaired Saturday by Hartley's Tom Brewer who promptly disjoined Leatherwood from the basketball. Hartley toppled T-V, 68-47.

SCREEN TEST—Reynoldsburg's Marv Shade (right) gets the most he can out of a screen set up by teammate Gary Bussey (13) Saturday night but it isn't enough to discourage Pleasant View defender Marv Roush (24). Raiders defeated Panthers in Metro loop clash, 64-54.

Comment And Criticism

editorials . . .

Christmas, 1966

Are there any among us who would admit he is old enough to remember the first hue and cry raised against the "commercialization" of Christmas?

Probably not, and the suspicion is there that the accusation may have been with us for nearly as long as the holiday itself.

For those who may feel guilty as they rush into the status-crazed crowd intent on being the giver who gives the most . . . the most lavish, the most beautiful the most unique, to the most people . . . the conscience can be salved by telling oneself that Christmas, the Holy Day, and Christmas, the national holiday, are two distinct and separate celebrations. It is just bad timing that they fall at the same time of year.

Walking through the stores and driving down the streets of Columbus' downtown area, the Scroogiest of us must admit the lights and displays are magnificent . . . a pageantry to rival a medieval coronation.

The sight of children mould seem to make it all worthwhile when we see them look at the glitter with squeals of delight and wonder in their eyes.

Parents, and grandparents, too, may look at the opulence with which we are swathed (or suffocated) and wonder . . . and wonder . . . and wonder . . .

In Protest

The Spectator Newspapers feel compelled to protest in a strong voice any attempt by the Columbus Police Department or Safety Director Fred Simon to put a clamp on information released to news media by the department.

Deserved or not, the local police force has gained a somewhat lack-lustre reputaion — caused mainly by its failure to solve several notorious murders.

Any move to cut off information the public has a right to know can only lead to the conclusion that the department is hiding something.

What is even more aggravatig z to professional newsmen and to the intelligent public is the department's constant use of recent Supreme Court decisions as an apron to hide behind.

Local homicide detectives now have a little speech they recite when asked embarrassing questions, indicating that "recent Supreme Court decisions" preclude the release of any information on crimes under investigation.

This is a mockery not only of the Supreme Court but of a free and independent press, guaranteed in the First Amendment to the Constitution.

True, the Escobedo and Miranda decisions do restrict the release of certain information, particularly in regard to alleged confessions by suspects.

But Justice Tom Clark, one of the authors of the Miranda decision, has since stated that the court meant no attempt whatsoever to restrict the public's right to know the facts surrounding police work.

As we indicated last week, these newspapers are fully aware that police work is a complicated, frustrating and often thankless job.

But that is no excuse for police refusing to reveal information that the public demands, and has a right, to know.

The Spectator urges Safety Director Simon to consider seriously the implications of a clampdown on the release of public information.

The press and the public will not stand still very long for any infringement on the right of a free press.

Ohio's Tax Needs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Dr. George Thatcher, Miami University economist who authored the well-known Thatcher Report on Ohio's tax needs in 1962. It is reprinted from the WRFD Commentator.)

An income tax is a most versatile tax. It can be made to reflect whatever the community thinks should be the pattern of distribution among income levels and classes. Some favor a flat-rate tax. For each one percent rate applied to "taxable income" as defined by federal law, approximately $160 million a year in revenue would be produced. Arguments for a flat-rate tax are: the present distribution of the combined tax burden of federal-state-local tax systems is progressive, therefore there is no need to add another progressive tax to the tax system. A flat-rate tax would have less effect on incentives to work, save and invest. Moreover, it is argued that a flat-rate tax will be less likely to cause industry to migrate or in other ways prejudice the industrial development of the state.

If a progressive rate tax is desired it can be made to yield whatever amount is desired. For example, a tax similar to that used in New York would yield in Ohio approximately $560 million annually; a California-type tax, $200 million, and an Oregon-type tax, $740 million. The main argument supporting a progressive tax is that it follows the ability-to-pay theory and thus produces a more equitable distribution of the tax burden. Moreover, it offsets the high regressivity of existing state and local taxes in Ohio.

Many fiscal authorities argue that a state income tax should be levied as a supplement to the federal income tax; that is, the state should levy an income tax on each resident equal to a prescribed percentage of his federal income tax. For example, if a resident of Ohio had a federal personal income tax liability of $1000 and the state supplementary rate was 10 percent he would pay $100 to the state. Such a tax would yield from $250 to $270 million a year.

In opposing a state personal income tax, some claim that because the federal government already taxes personal income so heavily, there is little room left for a state income tax. In rejoinder, the proponents of a personal income tax emphasize that, in the last analysis, all taxes come out of the income of individuals. Logically, then to say that there is no room for a state personal income tax is to say that there is no base for any increase in taxes.

Replies To Coach

To the Editor:

It is indeed a sad day for little league football when a West Side coach utilizes the poison pen routine to flaunt himself by attempting to destroy all other little league organizations in his area.

When poisonous venom, half truths, distorted remarks, and out-right inaccuracies are spewed from the mouth of one who has zeal without knowledge, all that is required is sufficient time and that individual will soon destroy himself and his organization just as Nazi Germany fell under Hitler.

Would it not be better to write and teach about the brotherhood of man and the understanding and co-operation of others?

What kind of an individual does it take to subscribe to such degrading tactics, especially when children are concerned? One wonders what stronger course would have been taken if an adult program was involved.

Truthfully, how much time did the coach spend in obtaining and assembling the bleachers at Westgate Park? He was not involved in the agreement and had no knowledge of the due back date, yet chose to use this excuse as a preaching block to spread his venom and exalt himself.

What motivates such actions? Why not tell all? Do you dare?

In answer to the letter from Dick Johnson last week November 23, 1966:

No one stole the stands! The fathers and Westgate Boys Booster Club members returned the stands from whence they were kindly loaned. Neither the city nor you had any part in their being set up or removal.

We parents and Booster members are proud of all our boys and their fine coaches. They have gained much in football tactics. We have enjoyed a very entertaining and rewarding season.

william s. white ★ GOP Troops Restive ★

WHITE

Even though two successive G.O.P. gatherings and one devoted professional operator — National Chairman Ray Bliss — have now proclaimed unity to be the one great all-party objective, certain hard-nosed realities are already dimming this shining goal.

The 1968 Republican Governors' Conference has ended with the conservative Governor-elect of California, Ronald Reagan, speaking kindly of the liberal Governor of Michigan, George Romney, and vice versa. Bliss, for his part, has been able to inform the G.O.P. Coordinating Committee that the curve of acceptance of the Republican party among the voters is turning markedly upward for the first time since the years of President Eisenhower.

But below the surface the troops are restive, and the one real question before the party is not whether it can really mute its now traditional right-wing-left-wing discord but simply whether an inevitable collision can be held to manageable shock proportions for the elections of 1968.

If Romney's refusal to support the Presidential ticket headed in 1964 by Barry Goldwater has seemingly been largely forgiven by the new conservative forces captained by Reagan, an equivalent absolution is not yet in the mind of Goldwater himself.

In the Senate — which for the first time in years has no real Presidential aspirant among its members — there is now developing a little-noted but not inconsiderable intraparty struggle. It involves the choice of a Senator to succeed to an open party-leadership post, that of chairman of the G.O.P. Senatorial Campaign Committee.

The liberal and predominantly Eastern Republicans in the Senate — which is to say generally those who favor a Romney Presidential nomination in 1968 — are behind Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania for this place. But the more or less old guard Republican wing is looking with far more favor upon some such Senator as George Murphy of California.

This, in a small but significant way, precisely illustrates the nature of the current maneuvering within the party generally. The outcome of the fight probably will depend largely upon the decision of the Republican Senate floor leader, Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois. And if, as is now subtly indicated, Dirksen decides that a Murphy and not a Scott shall have the campaign chairmanship, this will be one up for the old guard forces, whose likely Presidential choice at last will be Richard Nixon, and one down for the Romney people.

The post involved is far from the most important in this country or indeed even in the Senate itself. In Murphy's hands, however, or in the hands of any other Senator who is not of the Romney group, it would mean that the regular Republicans in the new Senate would hold every significant party leadership post save that of the job of whip, which will no doubt be retained by Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California.

Kuchel is a liberal Republican, and while he is not committed as to his Presidential choice in 1968, it is a fact that he did not support Reagan this year in California and is thus in the position of a party bolter in his own state.

Not only the Senate regulars but apparently the Reagan men in California as well are prepared to overlook Kuchel's party transgressions so long as the Romney forces will not try too hard to move one of their own men into the chairmanship of the campaign committee.

marquis childs ★ New Ground For TV ★

CHILDS

If television is a "vast wasteland," as Newton Minow said when he was chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, it is also a tangle of deeply entrenched interests. As they take the first steps toward a decision that must be reached some time in the coming year, the commissioners know they are moving through a field booby-trapped on every hand with the threat of imminent explosion as the penalty for one misstep.

It began when McGeorge Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation, threw out a proposal for a revolutionary change in the balance of TV programming. Or it seemed revolutionary to the three networks that have been quite happy with their highly profitable commercial operation.

What Bundy proposed was a domestic satellite system, similar to the transatlantic and the transpacific satellites, that would be operated on a nonprofit basis. The networks would pay for using the satellite to relay their programs across the country and the money would go to support a greatly expanded educational network with resources that would mean imaginative and stimulating programs. The proposal had been worked up by Fred Friendly, TV consultant to the foundation who in his years with CBS had fathered exciting and provocative documentaries that broke new ground.

This fantastic new medium of television, Bundy and Friendly were in effect saying, has been monopolized for the mass audience. The three networks turn out programs so alike it is hard to tell one from another, and increasingly they have fallen back on old movies. But there is another audience that would like something more than Westerns and mystery spoofs, and we think it's time that audience got a break.

Bundy's proposal touched off wide controversy. Should we, the commercial TV interests asked, be called on to support a competitor by our payments to a domestic satellite corporation? And what about the investment of A.T.&T. in the microwave stations that currently relay programs across the country? What about the semi-governmental, semi-private Comsat Corporation operating the ocean satellites for profit and presumably with a stake in a domestic satellite system?

To the surprise of almost everyone, Gen. James McCormack, Comsat president, after first opposing the Ford plan, came out in favor of it. He added that all satellite users — telephone and telegraph — should be included in the proposal if Bundy's nonprofit satellite were to earn anything like the $30,000,000 a year that would give educational TV a new status.

Since it is obvious that the FCC all on its own cannot make the final determination, Sen. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island has held hearings before his Communications subcommittee, with most of the principal witnesses walking gingerly through the tangle of conflicting interests. In the course of these hearings Pastore threw out an idea calculated to strike chills into an industry that has been a fantastic money-maker. Why not, he suggested, a TVA in space, referring to the Tennessee Valley Authority, the government agency that generates and distributes electric power on the yardstick theory.

"There's a precedent," Pastore said. "Space is a natural resource. And it belongs to the people. It's something to think about."

FCC Commissioner Lee Loevinger in a recent speech defended television as the culture of the lowbrow and warned the "elite" to stay out of it. But Bundy, along with many others, is demanding that it be more than that.

barry goldwater ★ Berkeley Bullies ★

GOLDWATER

Once again some disturbed and disorderly students at the University of California's Berkeley campus have demonstrated that their cause has nothing to do with freedom, academic or otherwise.

They are not pressing for their right to do anything, but to end everyone else's right to do anything of which they, the self-appointed student dictators, do not approve.

Berkeley's most recent disturbances cannot be viewed in any other light by reasonable men. The students objected to the presence on the campus of a naval recruiter. What could be more obvious to demonstrate their authoritarian attitude?

The action of the students would be far more consistent with their shouts for freedom, for instance, if they objected to the forced military service of college students. But their position is that a student on their campus should not have the right to talk to a naval recruiter about voluntarily entering the armed forces.

Exactly this same authoritarian, dogmatic position was obvious when Berkeley began first to acquire its reputation as America's first purely political university. Then, you may recall, the students rioted in the name of a so-called Free Speech Movement.

I have long and steadily defended the right of Communists, as an example, to speak on public campuses, so long as their opponents and all other political and philosophical factions equally have that right. It is when speakers begin calling for the initiation of violence against someone else that the people in the community have a clear responsibility to protect themselves. Short of that, speech should be — and to a degree not found elsewhere in the world it is — free in this country.

But Berkeley's first outburst, despite its name, was not aimed at free speech. Quite the contrary, it was aimed specifically and actively at denying the right to speak to any segment of the university not connected with the violent element.

Speakers representing other views were dragged from platforms. Microphones were snatched from them.

Nothing has changed. The object of the current disturbance is violently to deny rights to anyone not in agreement with or enrolled in the controlling student movement. It is not enough for a student simply to be for freedom. He must work to deny freedom to anyone with whom the student junta disagrees.

These bullies of the left are not students, but thugs. Action to end their violence would permit real freedom at Berkeley.

The Mohawk (Scout) District's "Holiday" Theater Party has been scheduled Tuesday, Dec. 27, at the Markham Theatre, with doors opening at 1 p.m.

There will be three hours of movies (beginning at 1:30 p.m.) plus a special performance by an Indian Dance team (Mike Fuller, Al Sauer, John Mower, Greg Straight and Ted Fuller from Troop 53, Mohawk District).

DURING THE three-hour party, a drawing for the third and last free airplane ride will be made.

Boys can be enrolled at the theatre before the party and receive a ticket to attend the function.

Each new boy must bring with him a completed Scout application form signed by the cubmaster or scoutmaster of the unit which he will be joining.

IF A BOY has a question as to which unit he will join, he should contact H. G. Icenhower at 444-2121.

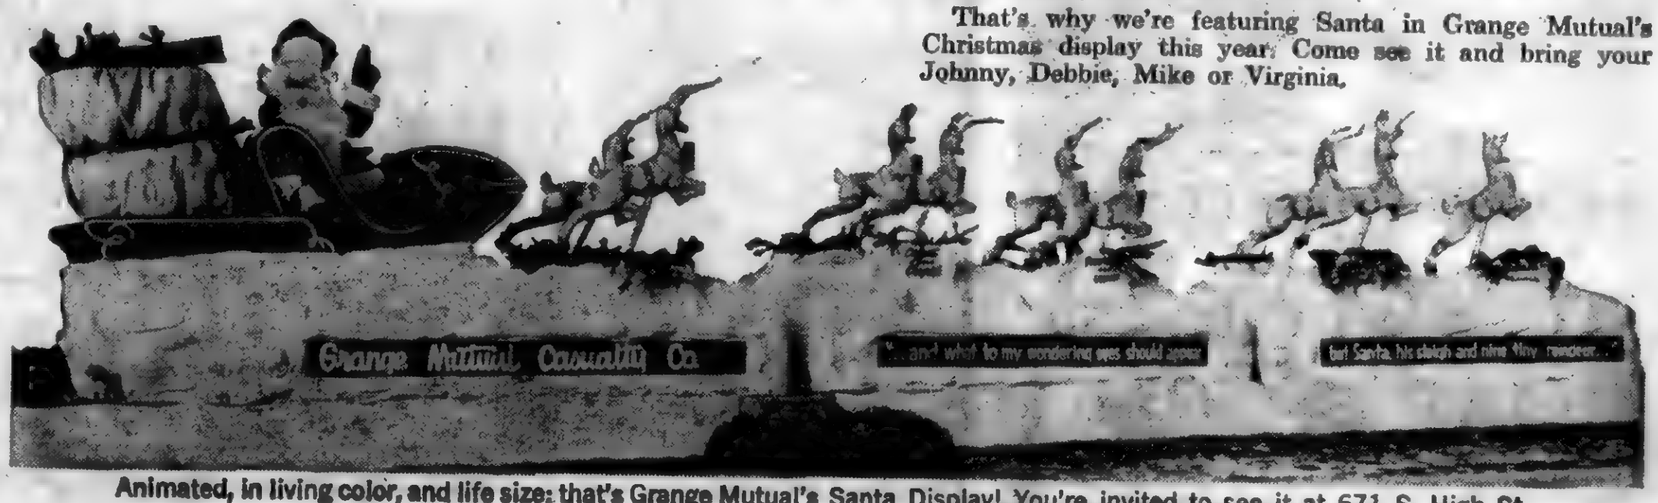
Yes, Virginia (and Johnny, Debbie and Mike) there is a Santa Claus

It's inevitable. The day surely arrives when children want to know what the real Santa Claus is like.

Frank Church, editor of the old New York Sun, published the answer to that one over 50 years ago. Eight year old Virginia O'Hanlon scrawled a note asking the editor, "... Please tell me the truth — is there a Santa Claus?" Frank Church's answer is now famous for its classic poignancy.

Church wrote, "... Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished...."



We suspect Mr. Church addressed himself to all of us when he continued, "... Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Frank Church had a spiritual dimension that permitted him to see beyond the veil into that hidden world of "supernal beauty and glory." If the Santa Claus legend can inspire that kind of vision, we're all for it.

That's why we're featuring Santa in Grange Mutual's Christmas display this year. Come see it and bring your Johnny, Debbie, Mike or Virginia.

Animated, in living color, and life size; that's Grange Mutual's Santa Display! You're invited to see it at 671 S. High St.

Pendergast Labels NY 'Sales' Visit Success

If New York City and the nation aren't more aware of Columbus, Ohio, after last weekend, you can't blame City Information Officer Bob Pendergast.

Pendergast, visiting New York with students of the Columbus Business University, "sold" the Capital City during a whirlwind schedule which included stops at Time and Life magazines, the New York Times and Wall Street Journal, the New York Stock Exchange and industrial sites such as Allied Chemicals and U.S. Steel.

PENDERGAST was optimistic about the fruits of his visits and reported his hosts "impressed by the one-two (city and state) punch which is aggressively seeking new development and business for Columbus and Ohio."

His visit to Time magazine was primarily directed at selling the city's Urban-Renewal program (Time did a cover article on urban-renewal, featuring Philadelphia several years ago).

Pendergast's portfolio of information included the new Columbus Convention Bureau booklet, information on the Columbus Business Forum, a brochure on the Lockbourne Industrial Park and notice that Columbus is one of the contestants in the All-American City contest.

FORMER vice-president Richard Nixon and New York Mayor John Lindsay were enrolled in CBU's new business forum and Lindsay marked the occasion by proclaiming "Columbus Good Will Ambassador Week."

Nixon called Columbus "one

Resolution For Inactive Deposits:

(FORM 5:03)
BE IT RESOLVED, by the board of education of the Canal Winchester Local School District, Franklin and Fairfield Counties, Ohio, that on estimate duly made, moneys of said school district, aggregating a maximum amount of $587,000, shall be awarded as inactive deposits.
BE IT RESOLVED, that the active and inactive moneys of said school district shall be deposited in a bank or banks as provided by law; and be it further resolved, that the bank or banks in said school district offering the highest rate of interest per annum on inactive deposits be made the depository or depositories of such funds of said school district for a period of two years from the 10th day of January, 1967. If, however, no bank in said school district bids a satisfactory rate of interest per annum on said inactive deposits, than the bank or banks conveniently located outside of said school district bidding the highest rate of interest per annum on inactive deposits, shall be made the depository of such funds of said school district, interest on inactive deposits to be paid quarterly and computed from the date of deposit; and be it further
RESOLVED, that the bids be received until 4:00 P.M. on the 9th day of January, 1967, and that notice to all banks in said school district and such other banks as may be necessary be given by publication as provided by law. Said board of education reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and be it further
RESOLVED, that said board of education shall meet at its regular meeting place on the 10th day of January, 1967, at 8:15 p.m., for designation of depositories.

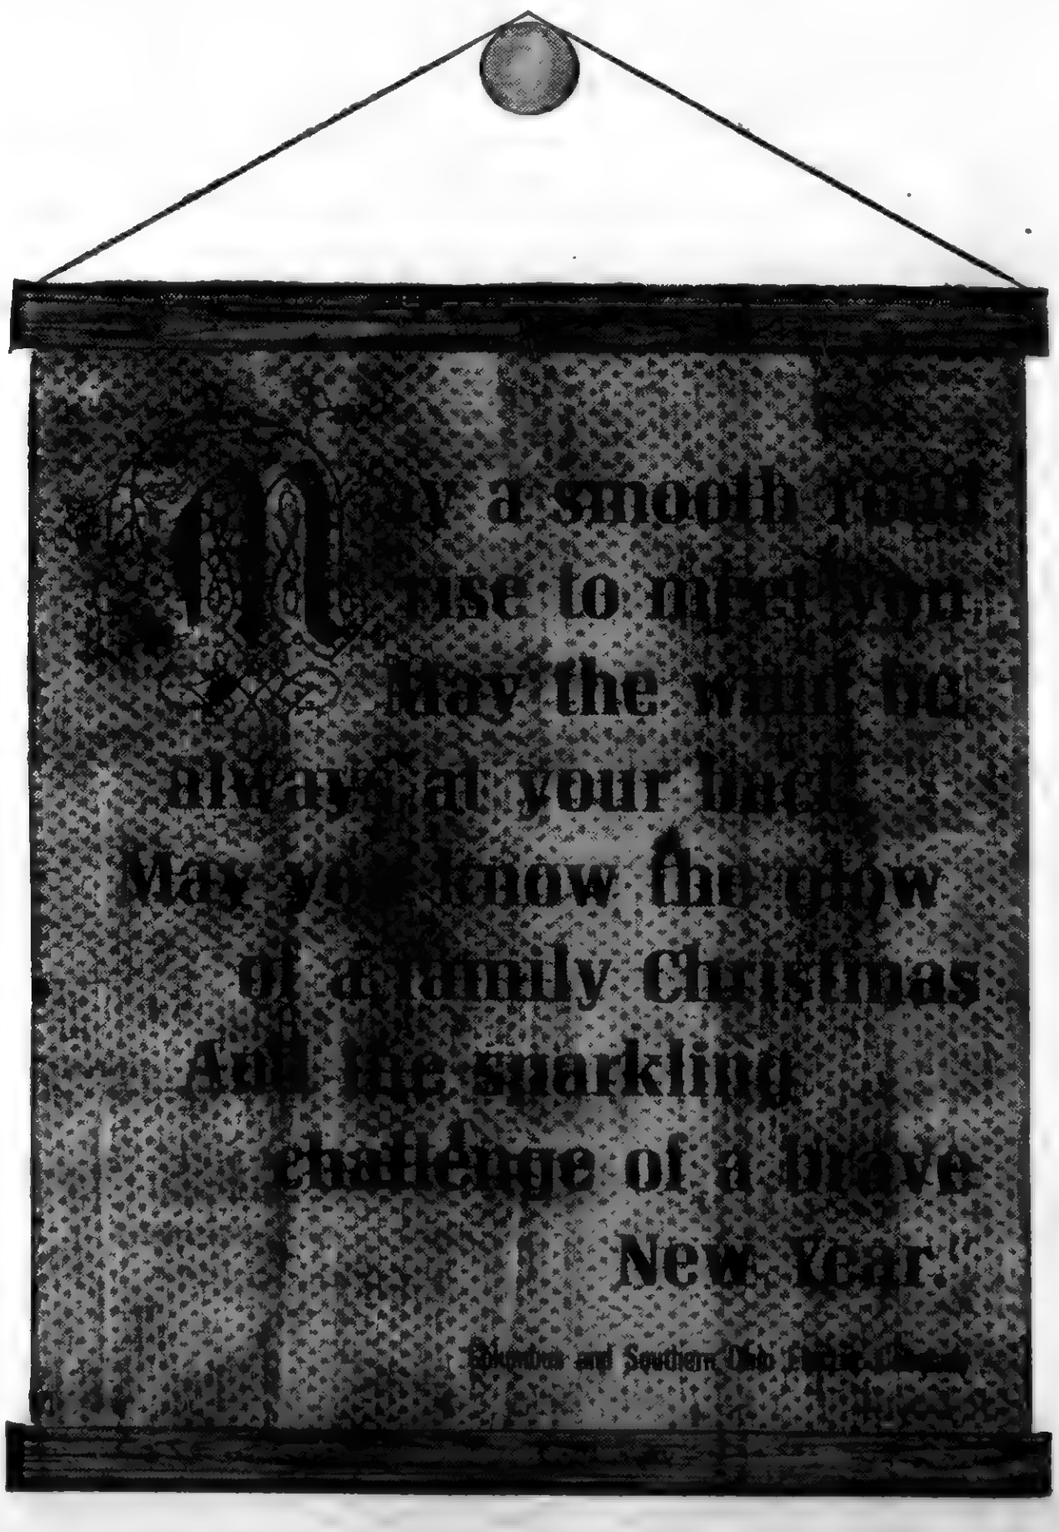
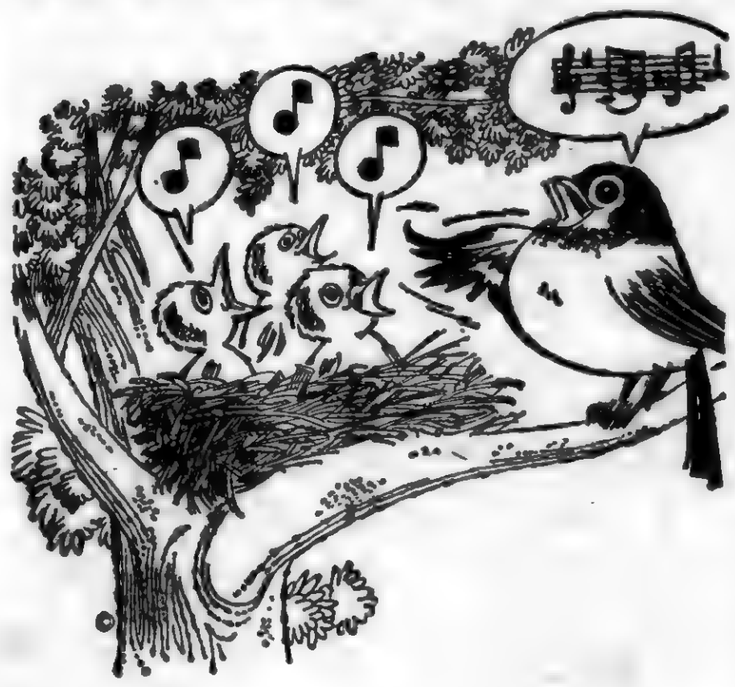
IN LOVING MEMORY



Jack E. Elliott, who passed away 1 year ago, on Dec. 5, 1965.

You are gone dear,
Son and brother
Beyond the world of tears.
But memories of you
with be with us
Through the passing years.



Sadly missed by Parents, Sister and Brothe-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Allan Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schenck.

Look Forward.

Jaycees Cite Governor Rhodes' Work With Physical Fitness Programs

The Columbus Jaycees have cited Governor James A. Rhodes for his exceptional contribution to physical fitness promotion.

The citation recognizes Rhodes' longtime devotion, unique creativity, inspirational leadership, administrative ability and widespread, effective contributions to the physical fitness of our community, state and nation.

Some of the organizations in which the governor has played a major role in establishing during his public career are:

The Knot Hole Gang, the National Caddie Association, the National Golf Tournament for Caddies, the Columbus Boys Club, the Zooligans and the All-American Newspaperboys Sports Scholarship program.

He created the Ohio Teen-Age Hall of Fame which recognizes outstanding accomplishments of Ohio teen-agers.

For many years the governor has been an active member of both the Amateur Athletic Union and the U. S. Olympic Committee and is one of the founders of the Pan-American Games.

The governor previously has received the Silver Keystone Award of the Boys' Clubs of America and the Helms Foundation Award, both of which were conferred for his work in combating juvenile delinquency.

Davidson-Green Mechanic Gets Training Course

Leo Hocke, mechanic for Davidson-Green, Inc., has completed a week's training in front axle repairs for Volkswagen cars, trucks and station wagons at the technical training center of Midwest VW Corp. in Columbus.

All VW mechanics receive continuous schooling while in the employ of an authorized dealership.

Sensenbrenner Orders Review Of Snow Emergency Ordinance

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner has instructed the Safety and Service departments to review the existing snow emergency ordinance to increase its effectiveness. The ordinance was passed in 1961 and has not proven effective to provide for snow removal on the major arterial street system.

The existing ordinance No. 29-61 was passed Jan. 9, 1961, and lists 46 streets on which parking is prohibited during emergencies due to excessive snow. The fine for violation is established at not less than $15 nor more than $50 or imprisonment not more than six months or both. The emergency was declared two or three times during the heavy snows of 1961, however, no parking violation citations were issued by the police division.

The streets involved were designated by a yellow band painted on utility poles. Since that time, many poles have been removed or repainted. The police division has found that the yellow band regulation was difficult to enforce because the public did not understand its meaning. Mayor Sensenbrenner has requested that a special sign be developed for installation along these emergency routes.

The signs would prohibit parking on the streets when it is declared that an emergency exists due to excessive snow.

Hillel Announces Programs For New Lecture Series

Paul Lipson, who will play the lead part of Tevye in matinee performances of "Fiddler on the Roof" during its Columbus stay, will kick off the new series of Sunday night forums at the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation on the OSU campus.

Lipson's program will be presented Jan. 8.

Other programs in the winter quarter series are:

Jan. 15: Rev. Leopold Bernhardt of First English Lutheran Church and Nolan J. Rindfleisch of the OSU social work department on "If Your Neighbor Wax Poor."

Jan. 22: Rabbi Harry Kaplan of Hillel, Rev. Jonathon Mitchell of St. Stephens Episcopal Church and Father Richard Dahl of Newman Hall on "Ecumenism and the Inter-Faith Dialogue on the Campus."

Jan. 29: Dr. Alfred Jospe of the national Hillel office on "Intermarriage on the Campus —Myth or Reality?"

Feb. 5: Loyal N. Gould, assistant professor of Journalism at OSU, on "Germany Today— "Is There a Danger of a Nazi Revival?"

Feb. 12: OSU graduate Dr. Eugene Borowitz of Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in New York, on "How God Talks to Man."

Feb. 19: Rabbi Max Ticktin, director of Hillel at the University of Chicago, on "The Jew: His Tradition and the War and Peace Issue."

Feb. 26: Dr. Richard Goodman, professor of medicine at OSU, on "An Adventure in Israeli Archaeology.'"

All programs are free and open to the public.

Bridge Quickies

By ROSE NAFZGER

The LEAD that partner has just led—

She REALLY should'a stood in bed!

We ALL know the OPENING lead is often, the MOST crucial play of a hand! So, novice bridge players, you really should memorize the four suggested ways to lead—emphasized by all experts! The most logical lead: from the suit your partner had bid;— from a three card honor sequence, lead the highest card; —if no-trump, lead the fourth from the largest and the strongest suit; — if none of these apply — how about leading from a major suit, if enemy had not mentioned them at all? Doesn't THAT make sense?

Concentrate on all the above —it's not hard — and you'll eliminate one of the TOUGHER problems of bridge!

Deposit that Christmas Bonus in Huntington Savings

Your Christmas bonus, with Huntington's high-yield interest added, could pay for that vacation you've wanted next year. It could be the beginning of a regular savings program that will provide the down-payment on a home someday . . . or a college education for your children.

Use it as the beginning of a long-term savings plan. If you add a $10 weekly deposit throughout next year you'll have an extra $531.36 to add to it. Many large savings accounts at Huntington began with the deposit of a Christmas Bonus and money gifts. You can do it, too.

Blind Association Offers Braille Children's Books

Mrs. Charles Baumgartner is legally blind — but she felt that shouldn't stop her from reading children's books to her two and one-half-year-old daughter, Melanie.

Mrs. Baumgartner's persistence led to the development of a new program offered to blind residents of the Columbus area by the Blind Association of Central Ohio.

More than 25 selected children's books have now been transposed into Braille for sightless parents.

In order to permit sightless children to enjoy the illustrations, plastic strips with Braille letters are attached beneath the printed lines on each page.

Brailling was done by the Junior League Braillists under Mrs. Keith McNamara. The books were bound by the Beth Tikvah Sisterhood. The books are sold only slightly higher than the original price since donations and volunteer work cover most of the cost of Braille paper.

The books are available at the Blind Association at 1393 N. High-st.

LEGALLY BLIND, Mrs. Charles Baumgartner can now read children's stories to her daughter, Melanie, because of a Blind Association of Central Ohio project which takes children's books and transposes them into Braille for blind parents. Mrs. Baumgartner originated the idea.

Northland Merchants Plan 'Santa-Viet Nam' Program

For hundreds of Central Ohio families, Christmas will be just another day without father—who is fighting with the American forces in Viet Nam.

But the Northland Shopping Center Merchants Association is working on a project it hopes will make Christmas brighter for the families of our fighting men—"Operation Santa—Viet Nam."

The merchants' plan is to provide gifts for all children 12 years old and younger whose fathers are stationed in Viet Nam this Christmas.

Mothers and guardians of children of Viet Nam veterans are asked to submit application forms to the merchants association to qualify their children for gifts.

The applications should include the name of the serviceman, his rank and branch of service and mailing address; the names of each child, his sex and age and the name, address and telephone number of the mother or guardian.

The coupons should be mailed to Operation Santa-Viet Nam, Northland Shopping Center, 1711 Northland Mallway, Columbus 43224.

To provide enough gifts for the children, the association is looking for "Good Neighbor Santas" to insure distribution to all eligible children.

Gifts for the project may be left under the Christmas tree at the Northland clock tower.

Parsons Parents Group To Meet

"The Association of Parents of Minimal Neurologically Handicapped Children" will meet Jan. 5 at 8 p.m. at Parsons Elementary School.

An informative program will feature Mrs. Eleanor Gaskill, one of the teachers wro will narrate slides of the various adjustment classes showing the activities of the children in these classes.

Marine Pfc. Assigned To Vet Nam Regiment

Marine Pfc. Robert C. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith, 614 Nashoba-av, has been assigned to the 1st Battalion, Fifth Marine Regiment, First Marine Division at Chu Lui in Viet Nam.

The battalion is engaged in search and destroy missions against the enemy and a civic action program among the civilian population.

Lower Net Profits Are Reported

Net earnings of $633,000 for the third quarter of 1966 and $1,158,000 for the first nine months of the fiscal year have been reported by the Shoe Corporation of America.

Herbert H. Schiff, Shoe Corp. president, said comparable figures last year were $897,000 and $1,661,000 respectively.

Schiff said all divisions of the company continued to be profitable except one non-shoe division and that "current reports indicate decline in sales in this division has been arrested."

The company opened 48 shoe units and closed 36 in the nine-month period; one appliance department and two department stores were opened. Present plans call for the closing of four more stores in 1966 and for opening of 33 and closing of 15 stores in 1967.

Symphony Women Receive Donation

Carl Papal, executive producer of WBNS-TV, has presented a donation of $1,000 to the Columbus Symphony Orchestra in return for election reporting provided by the Women's Association and Conductor's Committee. This donation will be used for matching funds toward the Ford Foundation.

Mrs. Glen Thomas, Tempo Unit, was chairman of the special election reporting committee. The special committee consisted of Mrs. Elanor A. Gelpi, Mrs. William Hicks, Mrs. H. E. Kitzmiller, Mrs. Alan W. McCracken, Mrs. John F. Myer, Mrs. John S. Stevens and John L. Kuempel of the Conductor's Committee.

The whole family is leaving town on a well-earned vacation . . . all paid for by Mom's new flame. (A hard working, good-looking, clean-cut type. Really sweet-talked Mom. Even convinced Dad.)

Mom's new flame is her new Gas furnace. And this dependable new Gas furnace is slashing those heating bills to about one-third the cost of the electric heating they had in their old house. Gas heat is saving Dad up to several hundred dollars each year in heating bills. And with that kind of money saved . . . live a little! Britisher Sheds Formal Togs For US Casuals

Universal's Technicolor romantic suspense-thriller, "Gambit," will open at the Town & Country Cinema, Great Western and University Cinemas today.

Co-starring with Shirley McLaine and Herbert Lom is British actor Michael Caine. Caine has been conquered by Hollywood informality.

"There is nothing stiff, nothing formal about California life," he states. "Quite different from London and, as a matter of fact, all of England."

"During the three months I spent in Hollywood, I made more new friends than at any similar period of my life at home," he admits.

Caine also admires the sports style clothes worn in California. He quickly discarded the white shirt and tie for day wear when he was not working. Polo shirts and slacks and a sports jacket replaced the sack suit.

"One doesn't need be rich to be well turned-out in America, and I suppose that is the reason that American men are probably the best-dressed in the world," he said.

Doctor in the Kitchen

by W. W. Bauer, M.D.
Consultant, National Dairy Council

THE KITCHEN IS A HEALTH CENTER

Doctor in the kitchen?

What's a doctor doing in the kitchen?

Kitchens are for homemakers — cooks; not doctors!

Well, now, let's just see.

Kitchens are certainly for cooking and otherwise preparing food, aren't they? Well then, isn't food a basic essential for living, along with water and air? And isn't the right food, properly selected, important and indeed essential, for good health, vigor and fitness? I've always thought so.

So maybe a doctor in the kitchen might be of some use in helping the homemaker with her important job of feeding her family correctly, economically, and happily, and with the least wear and tear on herself. Not by telling her how to run her house. She knows about that. But in keeping her up to the minute in the fast-moving world of nutritional research.

New Knowledge

New knowledge is being developed all the time by thousands of nutritional and clinical research workers, and reported in more journals than the homemaker could possibly read. Wouldn't it be helpful to have a stand-by source of such information in your kitchen once a week?

So, may I look in?

Kitchens Also Dangerous

Kitchens, I regret to say, are also places where homemakers get hurt. They deal with sharp knives, jagged cans, hot utensils and liquids, whirling beaters and other electric appliances. Water or grease gets spilled on floors and causes falls. Escaping gas may explode: hot grease may start fires. Broken glassware may cause serious cuts. Perhaps the doctor's advice might be helpful in knowing what to do when such situations develop—or still better to keep them from developing. With your permission, madam?

Many Opinions

Many questions arise in the course of a week's meal planning and preparation. And over the bridge table, or at the laundromat, many opinions about food are expressed, some correct, some not.

There are, for example, homemakers who even wonder whether proteins and carbohydrates should be eaten at the same meal. Let's get the record straight. There is absolutely no reason for such concern. The notion that proteins and carbohydrates should not be eaten at the same meal arose from a dietary fad more than thirty years ago, and still pops up once in a while. Indeed, most foods naturally contain both of these nutrients.

Common Sense Nutrition

In nutrition, there are plenty of questions. Most people don't know the facts. For this reason, I hope you'll join the doctor in the kitchen next week, and for many more weeks to come. We'll talk common-sense nutrition for you and your family.

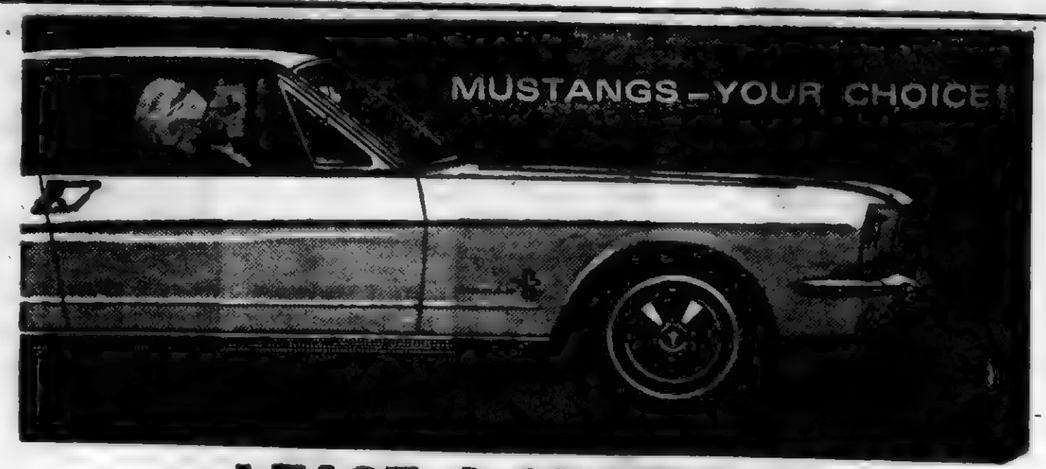
Good day — and good eating!

Senior Citizens Christmas Party Slated Friday

The annual Center Christmas party at the Senior Citizen's Recreation Center will be held at 2 p.m, Friday.

The program will be opened with music by the Center Chorus under the direction of Ruth Marion, recreation leader.

Mrs. Zella Thompson will give a Christmas story followed by the arrival of Santa Claus to carry out the member gift exchange.



Carol singing will be done by all present and the party will end with dancing to music by the Center's Old Time Band. All members are encouraged to attend and bring an exchange gift.

Gifts will be wrapped at the Center for those wishing this service.

Parsons Parents Group To Meet

"The Association of Parents of Minimal Neurologically Handicapped Children" will meet Jan. 5 at 8 p.m. at Parsons Elementary School.

An informative program will feature Mrs. Eleanor Gaskill, one of the teachers wro will narrate slides of the various adjustment classes showing the activities of the children in these classes.

and encyclopedias, maps, globes, charts and other transparencies.

The Superintendent suggested that a lack of expenditures on the above items by the District will ultimately eliminate any possibility of the District to qualify for additional monies from the Federal Government.

(The District received $36,000 worth of library books last year. An equal amount of money must come from the local Board to qualify for Federal assistance.)

ANOTHER big economy item, announced by McDowell, concerns school buses.

The use of school buses will be restricted to the regular routes and all educational field trips, band and athletic trips will be eliminated unless paid for via athletic or booster funds (25 cents per mile plus cost of driver).

All new bus purchases have been postponed indefinitely. McDowell pointed out that the District needs to buy two or three buses per year in order to keep up the necessary rotation.

THERE WILL be no capital outlay for educational equipment needed to accommodate the increasing District enrollment and make necessary equipment replacements.

McDowell also announced that maintenance and repair of the District's high school and three elementary buildings will be held to an emergency basis only (possibly putting off minor repairs until they become major ones).

The purchase of all school supplies will be cut as much as possible with the result — in McDowell's estimation—a loss of efficiency which could apply to classroom construction itself.

McDOWELL also announced that additional economy measures would be necessary by this summer.

In other action Mondy night, the Board sold the Duvall School building for $12,000 to Mrs. Whipple who plans to use the building as a private preschool facility.

"I'LL HELP Dad this time" said little Johnna Rauckis, 3½, as her pop, M/Sgt. John Rauckis, reenlisted for his fifth straight time while stationed at Lockbourne AFB.

VETERAN SERGEANT ENLISTS FIFTH TIME

It happens only once in a "thousand times," but it happened at Lockbourne AFB to Master Sgt. John Rauckis.

Sgt. Rauckis disproved the theory that settling down with your family in one area for any length of time is just not a "normal" part of Air Force life. He reenlisted Nov. 19 for the fifth straight time at Lockbourne. The 23-year service veteran previously reenlisted here in 1952, 1955, 1959 and 1963.

During these 14 years he has been stationed at Lockbourne except for two years (May 1964-May 1966) when he was at Pease AFB, Portsmouth, N.H.

Rauckis is quick to point out that although he has called Lockbourne "home" for 12 years he figures he has traveled around the world at least once while on rotational duty with Strategic Air Command units from Lockbourne AFB.

A native of Pennsylvania, the sergeant is a maintenance team chief with the 301st Organizational Maintenance Squadron, part of the 301st Air Refueling Wing here.

He has seen many changes during his stay at Lockbourne. He said, "The base has undergone a complete modernization — new buildings, another runway built and housing area (Capehart) built in what used to be a wooded area.

"The interesting part is comparing today with what the base looked like and where various facilities were located a few years ago," he said. Sergt. Rauckis says that he hopes to be around Lockbourne for a "few" more years, but admits that he can't picture what the base will look like in the future—anything can happen in the aerospace age.

..Sgt. Rauckis and his wife, Marie, and their children—Martin, 16, and Johnna, 3—reside on base at 1776 Spruce-dr.

LAFB NCO Gets Biggest Re-Up Bonus

S/Sgt. James R. McCarthy Jr. is one man Air Force recruiters would like to have at their side.

McCarthy, of Lockbourne AFB's 317th Field Maintenance Squadron, will receive $6,222 for re-enlisting Dec. 10 in the Air Force under the Variable Re-enlistment Bonus plan.

The 29-year-old McCarthy thus receives the highest-ever bonus ever given a Lockbourne member since the program began last Jan. 1.

Sgt. McCarthy has already been paid his regular bonus ($1,244.40) and one-fourth the VRB sum — the remainder payable in equal installments on each re-enlistment anniversary.

You Want To Take A Walk?

A recent suggestion by Mayor Robert Baer that one or more retired men of the community be employed as "walking" policemen (uniformed but unarmed, except with mace) didn't get too far, but it is a matter the safetey committee intends to pursnue.

Baer believes that older men are perfectly competent to escort school children across the thoroughfares, ticket illegal parking and create a law enforcement image.

A counter proposal of employing women for the job didn't fare much better than Baer's. Safety chairman Bob Degenhart promises eary recommendations to relieve the present demands on the time of Police Chief Al Whipple.

Along with the Urban-Renewal program, Pendergast stressed the increasing potential of the South Side.

SELLING points included a $15 million sewer plant (should be ready by August, 1967) which will open up approximately 10,000 acres for industrial development, the $7 million Southwestern Airport (Norton-Alkire-rds) and the continued exploration of a highway development program on the South Side (Refugee-Frank-rd linkup to Outerbelt).

The Ad Altare Dei Award was presented to Mason C. Reddix, Jr., left, and Edward G. Johnson, Jr., by Capt. Cyrill M. Stolarik, the base Catholic chaplain, at a Court of Honor ceremony this week.

Two Lockbourne Scouts Earn Ad Altare Dei Award

Two boys from Lockbourne AFB Boy Scout Troop 107 this week became the first base Scouts ever to earn the Ad Altare Dei Award, one of scoutings highest honors.

Star Scout Edward G. Johnson, Jr., 13, son of Major and Mrs. Edward G. Johnson, and Scout First Class Mason C. Reddix, Jr., 12, son of Major and Mrs. Mason Reddix, were presented the awards by Chaplain (Capt.) Cyrill M. Stolarik, a base Catholic chaplain during Court of Honor ceremonies.

Requirements for earning the award included at least one year's work in civic and church and Country Award given to Protestant youngsters that meet the requirements. Only activities. Among these activities was a 14-mile pilgrimage Aug. 6 by the two scouts to perform special services for St. Vincent's Mission House in Groveport.

The Ad Altare Dei Award, part of the Scout program sponsored by the Catholic Church, is similiar to the God one base youngster holds the latter award. He is Douglas M. Withington, 15, son of Chaplain (Major) and Mrs. Laurence Withington.

Ad Altare Dei, meaning "I will go to the altar of God," was incorporated into the scouting program 35 years ago.

Schiller Sets 'Adopt Family' Dance, Dec. 23

Schiller Recreation Center wishes to invite everybody, young and old, to the "Adopt-A-Family" Dance Friday, 7:30 to 10 p.m.

The "price of admission" is a can of food, fruit (such as oranges and apples) or 25 cents for buying meat. The more that is brought, the more families can be helped this Christmas.

Schiller will be closed Monday, Dec. 26, and Jan. 2. Center hours following Christmas will be noon until 10 p.m. until after New Year.

'Fine-Free Fortnight' Begins At Library

"Fine Free Fortnight" begins Friday at the Columbus Public Library in anticipation of the first increase in overdue fines and fees at the library in more than a quarter of a century.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner declared the suspension of fines from Saturday until Jan. 8 and urged all area residents to "probe the recesses of their homes in an attempt to return all library books and materials to the Columbus Public Library for the use of all residents of this community and its environs."

Beginning Jan. 9, the daily rate for overdue books borrowed on adult cards will increase from two cents to five cents. The two-cent fine for juveniles remains in effect.

Fees for reserving books will go up from five cents to a dime. The maximum cumulative fine on any item will increase from $1 to the retail price of the book, and replacement costs for lost books will go up from the library net price to the retail price plus all fines.

City Librarian Edward Daniels indicated the fine-free period could be considered "a Christmas present or a chance to start the New Year with a clean slate."

Daniels said the new schedule would bring Columbus into line with other major cities but would not fully compensate for the increased costs of recovering overdue books and replacing lost library materials.

"Book fines were never intended to produce revenue," he said, "but only as a means of getting materials back to the library for the use of other patrons."

Although the library and its branches will be open only nine days during the 16-day amnesty period, books may be returned in after-hours receptacles any time during the period.

The suspension of fines also applies to overdue recordings and painting reproductions, but they must be returned during library hours.

H-T Board Weighs Eastland Bid

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Staff Writer

Hamilton Township will join the growing list of area schools employing the Franklin County Data Processing system after the school board flashed the "green light" at last week's board meeting.

Two other agenda items—a proposal to join the County (Eastland) Vocational School and/or adding two more vocational education programs at H-T — were tabled until the Board meets again in January.

BY A NARROW 3-2 vote, the Board agreed to raise lunch prices by five cents (35 for junior-senior high students; 30 for elementary students).

Adult lunches were raised to 40 cents in both elementary and high cafeterias. Extra milk was raised to three cents.

The price increase to be effective Jan. 3, was made necessary — according to Supt. John Savel — because of rising food costs and cooks' salaries, neither of which are paid for by Board funds.

Data Processing

THE BOARD unanimously voted to join in the county system (cost of $1 per student) after it was reported by Superintendent Savel that the county processing system would relieve teachers at H-T from many time-consuming administrative duties.

The county system will take over processing of such items as attendance, grade cards, schedules, inventories, etc.

County representative Jerry Hartman pointed out that his office at present processes 30,000 students and by increasing that number to 70,000 his office could move over to a more efficient computer system without raising the cost of the service to the school districts.

THE NEIGHBORING South-Western School District adopted the county system just two weeks ago.

Savel pointed out that the adoption of the county system would not disrupt H-T's present data processing system.

EASTLAND

County Superintendent of Schools Tom Quick, using the theme that "we can do things together that we can't do separately," spoke on behalf of the new vocational education school.

THE H-T staff, administration and vocational teachers had recommended that Hamilton join Eastland by Jan. 1.

Eastland, located on a 40-acre plot at Williams and Hamilton-rds (next to Madison Jr. High) will cost over three million dollars. Ground breaking should take place next June or July.

Eastland will offer horticulture, landscape and grounds keeping, office machine operation, high-skill stenography, accounting, data processing, office duplication, distributive education, dental technique, machine trades, cosmetology, electrician and electronics technician training, auto body repairs, auto mechanics, sheet metal and welding work, carpentry, drafting, chemistry lab assistant, commercial artist and occupational work experience courses to its students.

THE SCHOOL expects to serve some 1000 students and plans to open by Sept. 1968.

Five districts — Jefferson (Gahanna), Reynoldsburg, Whitehall, Canal Winchester and Madison (Groveport) — have already agreed to participate and have voted taxes to pay their way (two mills beginning Jan. 1967).

Procedure for Hamilton to enter the cooperative school would be: (1) H-T Board approval, (2) acceptance by the Vocational Board, (3) a 60-day waiting period during which H-T's intention of joining Eastland would be adverticed in the newspaper, (4) is no opposition by district voters (majority of electorate must sign petition against) the auditor would levy a tax on the district.

PRESENTLY, the tax would include a total of two mills (.6 bonds — could be lowered by growth and more schools participating — and 1.4 operating).

Should Hamilton be accepted into the Eastland fold, no taxes would be collected from the District until Jan. 1, 1968.

The Board also heard a proposal to introduce three more vocational education programs at the school (Occupation Work Experience, Electricity-Electronics and Addressograph-Multigraph-Varitype).

THE ADDITION of the three would raise the total of such programs at H-T to seven (figures show that H-T has 196 prospective V-E prospects,

Winchester 'Lands' Top Science Awards

Canal Winchester is one of Ohio high schools honored for outstanding science programs by the Ohio Academy of Science.

The award includes a grant of $150 for further improvement of the school's scientific program and a commemorating plaque noting its achievement.

These awards, named for Dr. Frederick A. Krecker, founder of the Junior Academy of Science, are co-sponsored by Battelle Memorial Institute.

THE ACADEMY states that the selections are based on the preparation and interests of science teachers, content and philosophy of the curriculum, laboratory facilities, budgets, use of community resources and other items relating to a well-rounded science program.

Carl Miller, C-W superintendent, explained that the local department offers general science and both beginning and advanced biology under Dr. Judson Wynkoop and chemistry and physics, taught by David Veenendaal.

Phases of the program deemed by school authorities as undoubtedly responsible for the honor) are increased budget for the department, adoption of the biology curriculum prepared by the American Institute of Biology science department - wide participation in an annual science fair and attainments of individual students beyond the local level in the scientific field.

READING THE good news that another "feather" has been added to Canal Winchester's Science Department "cap" are (from left) Superintendent Carl Miller, Dr. Judson Wynkoop and David Veenendaal.

SNOOPY MEETS THE COLONEL

SNOOPY, World War I ace of the comic strip "Peanuts," was sent to Lockbourne AFB after his creator Charles M. Shultz learned of his following among the members of the 87th Fighter Interceptor Squadron. Shown admiring the autographed drawing of Snoopy, atop his Sopwith Camel doghouse," cursing the ever-pursuing Red Baron, is Lt. Col. Roy W. King, 3093 Cressing-st, commander of the 87th.

Tom Will Step Down, Then Up

Charlie Braun will replace Tom Moore as president of the Tri-County Kiwanis when the new slate of officers is formally installed at the president's banquet Feb. 11.

Others at the helm of Kiwanis during 1967 will be Thornton Smith, president-elect; Gerald Anderson, first vice-president; Ted Smiley, secretary and Robert Waibel, treasurer.

Moore actually is stepping up rather than down as he is taking over the post of public relations chairman at the District level.

LAFB Scout Troop 107 Holds Court Of Honor

Seven Lockbourne Air Force Base Troop 107 Boy Scouts received rank advancements, and seven others were honored as den chiefs at Court of Honor ceremonies in the Base Chapel One Annex this week.

Mark Hunter was awarded the Gold Eagle Palm, Scouting's second highest rank. Advanced to Life Scouts, the fourth highest Scout rank, were Edward Johnson, Michael MacDonald and Ralph Landers. Howard Cartwright was promoted to Scout Second Class while David Stephens, Olen Bryant and Wayne Sauerheber were elevated to Tenderfoot.

IN ADDITION, seven Scouts received shoulder cords, symbolic of Den Chiefs. They were Michael MacDonald, Mason Reddix, Edward Johnson, William Eppler, Ralph Landers, Tracy Hare and Daniel Decker.

Thirty-six merit badges and 16 Logan Trail Medals, given for completion of a 19 mile trek, were also presented to base Scouts.

SCOUTMASTER Gerald Arsenault made the rank presentations and James Decker, a member of the Hamilton South Elementary School Parent Teachers' Association, presented the other awards. The PTA sponsored the Court of Honor program.

SELLERS IN CHASE

PETER SELLERS (The Fox) is disguised as a priest to avoid the police in one of the funny scenes from his new comedy, "After The Fox," to be shown at Loew's Morse Road Theater which opens Christmas day.

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

As the Holidays quickly approach, I would like to take a few lines of type to wish all entertainers a joyous and safe holiday.

Entertainers, whether on stage, on camera or performing in nightclubs, will be giving and sharing their talents with many entertainment seekers these next two weeks.

Year round, entertainment marches on, but only during the holidays is the entertainment field so important because we all seek extra enjoyment. Those of us who will be fortunate to see and hear the talents displayed should count the blessings we bask in through so many talented performers.

Merry Christmas and a fulfilling New Year to the audiences, the readers of the theater page and especially to the actors, actresses, musicians and vocalists who make the word — entertainment.

OSU Professor To Instruct Lab

Mrs. David Roth, Jewish Center drama committee chairman, announces that Dr. Charles Ritter will return to Gallery Players' Actors' Lab as a guest instructor.

Ritter is an assistant professor of theaotre at Ohio State University. He has been in the Speech Department since 1960.

Play technique, staging, direction, voice and actual presentations are the format of the Lab. Excerpts from the plays with attention focusing on both individual and group performance lend the practical experience so often requested by those interested in community theater.

For further information call Gallery Players' office at 231-2731.

Tyo Trio Featured At Everglades

Appearing at the Everglades this week and next will be the Bob Tyo Trio. Bob as the lead man plays an electric organ which is custom built to produce a variety of sounds.

Vick Pecor will play the drums. This entertainment is nightly for the patrons' dancing or listening pleasure.

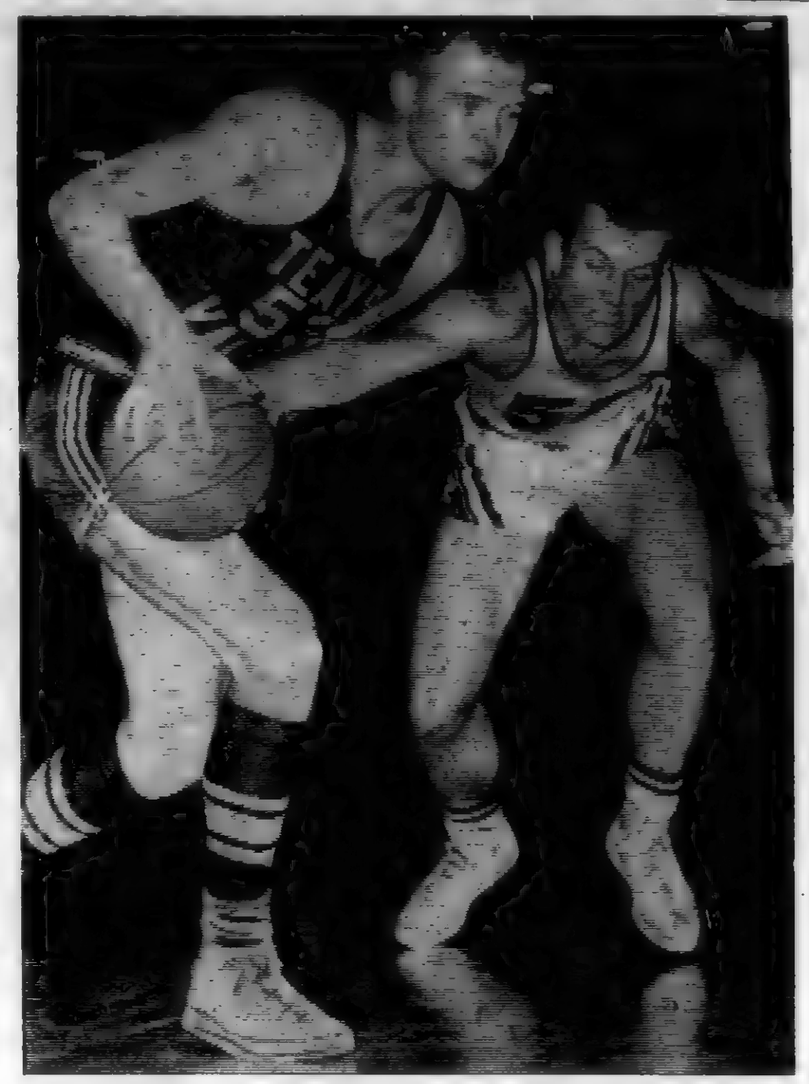
VIKING EFFORT — Teays Valley cager Rod Teets (53) didn't quite make it on this drive at the basket Saturday as he collided with the Hawks' Jim Trapp (44). Moving in on the play are Hartley's Rod Parker (left) and Tom Brewer (right).

Grandview Invite Tops Mat Card

With the approaching holidays cutting deeply into high school athletic schedules, only Grandview's Quadrangular rates as a wrestling "headliner" this week.

The tourney, scheduled for tomorrow, will bring Bishop Ready, Central and Hamilton Township to host coach John Cisler's Bobcat mats.

THE FIRST annual Invitational will get under way with prelims at 7 p.m., finals following immediately thereafter.



The winning team will receive a trophy. Admission will be $1.

Here is the remainder of the week's mat schedule:

TODAY
Pleasant View at North
Linden McKinley at Marion Franklin
South at West

THURSDAY
Grandview Tournament: (Ready, Grandview, Central and Hamilton Township)
Brookhaven at Watterson
Mifflin at Jonathan Alder
Gahanna at Walnut Ridge Reserves
DeSales, Hartley at Catholic Invitational (Cleveland)

FRIDAY
Walnut Ridge at Eastmoor
Westerville at Worthington
Whitehall at Bexley
Groveport at Cincinnati Tourney

Little Bucks Finalize Florida Plans

The Little Buckeyes have completed plans for participation in the Hollywood (Fla.) Bowl Classic, Dec. 29, at McArthur Field.

The Little Bucks will play a 130-lb. Hollywood area All-Star team which will outweigh the visitors by five pounds per man.

TAKE THAT—Pictures are often misleading as in the case here as Reynoldsburg's Paul Lauderback (left) appears to be landing a solid right to the chin of Pleasant View's Marv Roush as the latter gets off a pass to a Panther teammate. Reynoldsburg maintained Metro League lead with victory over P-V.

THE TWO-TIME Key West Bowl champs who are unbeaten in four years of competition (held opponents to only four TDs) originally were scheduled to play in a Bowl game in Fort Lauderdale.

But head coach Tom Krieger explained that weight and age conflicts forced alterations of Little Buckeye plans for the latter site.

The locals have been working out twice a week — outdoors when weather has permitted—and have had practice sessions as guests of both Denison University and Kenyon College.

THE LITTLE Buckeyes will leave Columbus the morning of Monday, Dec. 26 by Eastern jetliner, making the short jump to Hollywood via bus after arrival in Miami.

After a practice session on the 26th, plans are being formulated for the team to attend the East-West Shrine game in the Orange Bowl that night.

The three days prior to the game will involve practice sessions and educational tours for the team.

MAKING THE trip to the Florida Bowl game will be the 29 team members, coach Krieger and four of his assistants and three members of the local press, including Spectator Sports Editor Jack Wittenmeier.

PIN NEWS

Keglers' Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

During four weekends in January, the Optimist Club of Western Columbus will hold its annual Headpin Tourney.

Jan. 8 is set aside for a Celebrity Bowl Kick-off. The "names" roll the ball at 2 p.m.

Four top winners of the grand roll-off of 10th Annual Heart Fund event, rolled the highest number of pins over average in their respective divisions. Grand prize of a Florida week goes to Charles Ruton, Mary Lou McMaster, Ruth Grant and Bill Jones.

THE 63RD Annual Ohio State Bowling Association (men) tournament will be held in Akron Mar. 4 through May 21.

Greater Columbus area AJBC (juniors) Christmas Handicap Singles is set for Dec. 26-27 at Northern Lights. For information call 235-6244.

HERE WE go again with biggies — Bud Roach (716) for Shoemaker Rental at Olentangy, Bob Sell's 705 for Ace Bowling, Bob Brown's consistent 245-249-245-739 for Rowe Motors, Ed Matchel and his 290 for Bargainland. Breyfogle Builders rolled 3057 in the Rainbow Classic and Ace Bowling 3079.

Also Millard Bardford's 633 in Local 2173 League at Northern, Mary Collier and her 255 for Disco Techs, Betty Duncan with 250, Billie Shaw's 620, Gen Graham had a 617, Flo Schrieler with nine strikes for 275, Liz Keener with 266 (625) at Northern Lights Snowbird and the Rainbow Forest pair (Nancy Tatum 643 and Loretta Linhart 629).

EMMA PHALER retired from WIBC, but not from bowling. She spends weekends with junior leagues at St. John's.

A new bowling ball called "AD. Just a Sight" designed to let the bowler "sight-in" on the target area. It is made of plastic with a two color insert, consisting of three red prongs on a white field and meets with ABC regulations.

A SCORE of 111 in the seventh frame is almost universally accepted as a "beer" frame and someone gets stuck. But did you know that the total of 102 in any frame is the most unusual score one can get in bowling? Watch for yourself from now on and you will find that the number 102 rarely appears on any score sheet.

Have you made your contribution recently to BVL, the bowlers' own charity.

Gahanna Drops Pair

Despite fine showings by Tom Schneider (138) and (hw) Dan Hundley, Gahanna dropped a pair of wrestling outings last week — 29-16 to Groveport's reserves and 30-18 to Whitehall J-V's.

Sixth Graders Adopt Soldiers

A sixth grade class from Rose Hill School in Reynoldsburg has adopted F Company, Third Platoon, Second Battalion, U.S. 26 Marines as its very own.

Class members have sent three packages to the company now serving in Viet Nam. Two contained letters and Christmas cards while instant foods and beverages were sent in a third.

Miss Catherine Cook, the teacher, gave two reasons for the "adoption." First, the students wanted to show appreciation to the men for the sacrifices which they are making as they serve in Viet Nam, and secondly, for the class to understand the importance of the Viet Nam situation from a social studies point of view.

Mayor Twyford Receives Award

Reynoldsburg's Mayor George W. Twyford received an award for outstanding community service at the Franklin County Young Democrat Club's Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner held at the Southern Hotel Friday.

The award was one of three given to Democrats by the organization, John Jones, assistant service director, was given the outstanding Democrat award, and Kenneth Penn mayor of Urbancrest, received an award for outstanding community service.

three additions would take care of at least 140 of that total).

Acceptance of the three programs would require 6400 more square feet of space and cost $38,000 in additional equipment.

In other action, the Board accepted: resignations of teachers Mrs. Rochelle Gustafson, Mrs. Judith Pollak, Mrs. Vita Carman and Mrs. Carol Traeger and bus driver Earl Bush; employed George Yaeger (Obetz principal), teachers Vickie Friedman, Charlotte Ginter, Rosemary Drummond and Barbara Kroeker, bus driver Andrew Price and sub custodians William Roller Floyd Everts, Herbert Keller and John Steubins.

THE BOARD did little to endear itself to H-T seniors, moving the baccalaureate date back a week to May 28 and commencement to May 29.

The change was necessary to conform to state standards which stipulate that students maintain a school session of 180 days.

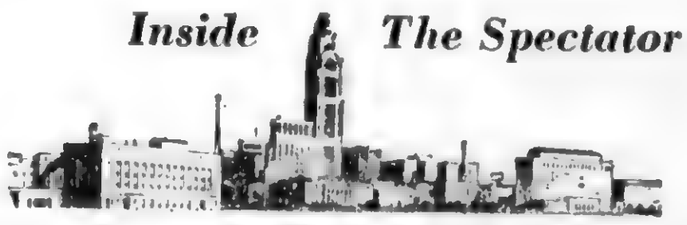
Mike's Checking

Canal Winchester mayor Mike Miller reports he's still trying to solve the mystery as to why the village took a cut in 1967 funds allocated by the Franklin County Budget Commission recently. C-W will receive $17,200 in '67, a reduction of $6800 from last year's sum. According to Miller the cutback shouldn't seriously affect the village's anticipated expenditures.

Two Receive Medals

T/Sgt. Donald C. Walker and S/Sgt. William J. Slough of Lockbourne AFB received Air Force Commendation medals last week for outstanding achievment while serving in Southeast Asia. Walker served as an air operations supervisor at Clark AFB in the Philipp nes while Slough was a C-123 Provider loadmaster instru or at Tan Son Nhut AFB in Viet Nam.



H-M Decoration Winner

Seven Hamilton Meadows residents received cash prizes last week from the Civic Associations in the community's Christmas house decorating contest. A three-man panel of judges (all non-residents) picked the following winners: Most Decorative Home — first place: Leland Roth, 5149 Edgeview-rd; second — Cebert Jarrells, 5095 Astoria-av; third—Oakley Jaynes, 916 Premier-dr; Most Original Decoration—first place: Bob Holford, 5291 Guthrie-ct; second —Jim Drake, 860 Olympia-dr; Best Window Decoration: Earl Stewart, 5043 Sutherland-dr; Best Door Decoration: Margaret Grill, 1147 Secrest-av. More 'Economy' Possible For T-V

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Staff Writer

If Teays Valley school district residents thought economy measures laid down last week by the local board in the wake of a three-mill levy failure were stern, they'd better take another deep breath.

In fact, that expression "economy" might become the most shop-worn seven-letter in the district's vocabulary in the coming months.

TEAYS VALLEY Superintendent of Schools and high school principal Benis Lutz described the "seven points" (reported in last week's Spectator) laid down as economy measures by the board as "somewhat minor when compared with measures which might have to come later."

"We've got to face reality," Lutz added. "We've got just so much (money) to work with and when it's gone, that's it."

Some of thos possible added economy measures (possibly necessary by this summer and next fall) include:

(1) PUTTING the Drivers' Education program on a tuition basis or eliminating it completely.

(2) Cutting out special teachers (not required by state standards) for elementary music and art and high school electives (art, industrial arts such as metal, photography, woodworking, mechanical drawing, offering only one foreign language instead of three).

(3) Elimination of a supervised recreation program.

(4) ELIMINATION of workbooks (provided now up through grade eight).

(5) No purchase of educational supplies for new ('67) school year (music instruments and music, new text books, physical education and playground equipment, classroom supplies).

(6) Necessity of instituting a laboratory fee for classes in industrial arts, physical education, music and science.

(7) INABILITY to hire new teachers despite climbing enrollment).

North Central regulations stipulate that no teacher should have to teach more than 180 students and six classes. (Lutz admitted that the district is pushing this figure now in several instances).

Based on past enrollment figures, Lutz figures the district can count on 70 to 100 more students this fall. "We're about due for an abnormal surge in enrollment. We've been fortunate not to have one as yet," Lutz claims.

"WHAT PEOPLE just don't seem to realize is that, although the tax evaluation has not increased over the past six years, we're educating 600 more students."

The three-mill levy has now failed twice. Lutz says whether more economy measures need to be taken or not depends on whether or not the board decides to hold another election.

The earliest possible date for another vote on the levy would be May, 1967, and even if the levy should pass then, monies wouldn't be available until January, 1968.

LUTZ THEORIZED that the board might wait until November, 1967, for another vote since only a majority (rather than 55 percent) would be necessary for passage.

"We could cut out basketball games (as other districts with a similar problem have done) and get a lot of votes," Lutz added.

"But that approach doesn't save money. Athletics are self-sustaining and don't detract from our operating funds."

LUTZ ALSO pointed out that the economy measures could possibly jeopardize the district's standing with the North Central and result in the loss of accreditation.

"For example, to meet N.C. standards we need a full-time consultant. N.C. suggests one consultant for every 300 pupils. We presently have a half-time consultant for 625 pupils."

Lutz explained that the district's standing with the N.C. could depend largely on school teaching personnel available next fall.

LAST YEAR T-V experienced a 20 percent tournover in teachers, or twice as many departees since the new high school began operation.

"Other districts around us have been raising their salary schedules and putting on the pressure. Hamilton Township, for example, is way above us in teachers' salaries, the T-V principal added.

"According to the N.C. we must have proper library and guidance ratios and we can't do it without the proper people.

"WE HAVE no way of assuring ourselves that our present teaching staff will remain under these circumstances. In fact, it's safe to assume and contemplate more turnover by next fall."

This reporter questioned Lutz about school bus transportation for district students — an item which one T-V teacher suggested last week could do more than anything else to supply a more affirmative vote next time at the polls.

Cutting out school transportation entirely (except for elementary students who live within two miles of their building) would be a last resort, according to Lutz.

"BUT IT COULD become a distinct possibility by next fall. We would have no alternative if the situation hasn't improved by that time."

Whatever measures that must be taken will be carefully considered by the board, Lutz added.

"Every voter in the district was informed before the election that these economy measures would come to pass if the levy failed at the polls," he continued. "We hope by putting them into effect and trying to save as much as possible, we can forestall the other measures.

"BUT IT should be pointed out that the savings in dollars has come at the cost of elimination of people and programs we feel are necessary to the students' education.

"And it should also be emphasized that, should there be no improvement in the present situation, the remaining measures will have to be taken."

Lutz reported that 62 percent of the total budget goes to teachers' salaries, 12-14 percent for personnel in non-professional jobs, another slice into retirement, and yet another for the fixed utility charges.

"That doesn't leave much to work with," he concluded.

'SURE, WE can struggle along and have school but we continue to operate at a deficit. The result is more and more dependence on an advance draw.

"We've been conserving as much as possible for the past three years to keep the situation from getting to the point where it is now (Lutz himself has served as high school principal and superintendent for those last three years).

"But we know we've got major roofing repairs coming up in the elementary schools and out of some 27 buses we've got eight or 10 that are 10 years old now. Something must be done soon on both of these items."

"WE DON'T believe our people are against education. They're just resisting taxes. This was proven out all over the state this fall.

"People say the state's got to do more. But when the state does more, it always takes more than it gives."

Lutz qualified his "tax resistance" statement by referring to voting results on the recent T-V levies.

The six-mill renewal (on a precinct-by-precinct basis) passed solidly, the lowest margin being 64 percent.

THE THREE-MILL new operating levy passed in only four precincts, however.

Jim Young Balks At Village Audit Choice

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Staff Writer

What appeared to be a routine matter of an audit assignment at Groveport's Dec. 12 council session might not be so routine after all.

At that meeting, Mayor Bob Baer appointed Council president Frank Smith to audit costs of the extension of a water line from the village water plant to the property of Jim Young on Hamilton-rd, north of the water plant.

LAST NOV. 18, Young entered into a contract with the Village, agreeing to pay the costs of the extension. Via terms of the agreement, Young is required to pay the full costs of the line extenson.

Groveport, on the other hand, agreed to refuse tap-in privileges to all other property owners unless such owners pay 50 percent of the cost of extension to Young.

To establish the cost of the extension for purposes of future reimbursement of 50 percent cost to Young (should any property owner wish to tap the line), the contract requires an audit of costs by project engineer Arthur G. Wyatt and another suitable person designated by the Village.

ACCORDING to a letter sent to Mayor Baer and Council from Young's attorney—Richard V. Patchen—Frank Smith the mayor's appointee is not suitable to Young as an auditor of his costs.

The letter from Patchen stipulated: "Because of prior disagreements with Mr. Smith over the public affairs of Groveport, Mr. Young has every reason to believe that Mr. Smith could not perform this service dispassionately."

The letter contained photostatic copies of all vouchers and paid bills representing the cost of the line extension to Young and concluded with a request for Council to appoint someone other than Smith to represent the Village in the audit.

MAYOR BAER reported he will bring the matter up at the next Village council meeting. "Personally, I believe I made a wise choice. Frank Smith is certainly qualified to make the audit.

"But I'll leave it up to Council to decide. I'm not very concerned about it," the mayor concluded.

Baer admitted he didn't expect to find any fault with Young's cost figures. According to the mayor, Young's original estimate ($5900) exceeded his actul cost report ($6400) by some $500.

"BUT THERE'S no problem there," Baer continued. "The audit is a routine matter to determine what his (Young's) costs involved."

As far as the Village costs are concerned, Baer related that they involved installation of three fire hydrants and $600 of the $800 engineering fee.

"The way I figure, that's still cheap as far as the Village is concerned," the mayor added.

"I REALLY don't see what the problem is," Baer said. "I feel I appointed a good man to do the job. Besides, there's nothing in our contract with Mr. Young which says he must approve our choice of auditor."

Baer also admitted that he wasn't exactly pleased with a Spectator report on the meeting at which Smith was appointed by the mayor.

The Dec. 14 Spectator article (included in Patchen's letter to Baer and Council) pointed out a history of animosity between Young and Smith.

"LET'S JUST say the article didn't help matters any," Baer concluded.

Installed As Honored Queen

IN with the NEW...
HERE COMES '67

Time to say goodbye to 1966 . . . a good year in a fine community in which we are glad and proud to have our part — a year in which we have made new friends, cemented old friendships — a year in which deposits and the capibilities of this home-owned, home-controlled full-service bank have increased most gratifyingly.

To YOU, loyal friends, we say "Thank You" for the pleasure of serving you. We wish you health, happiness and prosperity throughout 1967.

Moving Forward

Columbus is apparently ready to move into a crash program to meet its desperate mass transit needs.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner has already called for an area-wide conference to discuss the mounting urban transit problem.

The Development Committee for Greater Columbus has assured the mayor that it, too, is concerned and will cooperate in any effort to get a positive program moving.

Utilities Director William Brooks has withdrawn from the City Council race to continue his battle to get the city to take over public transportation in Columbus.

The Spectator urges all interested parties to join with the mayor in working now to solve a problem that can only get worse in the coming months and years.

Pressing Business

Central Ohioans have a major stake in the upcoming session of Congress.

At stake are the vital Alum and Mill Creek dams — which the area has pretty much taken for granted since the controversy over who should build the dam was settled in favor of the Army Engineers.

But with federal spending due to be cut, there is now the fear that unless the money is appropriated in this session Central Ohio may not get that federally-built water project.

The Spectator urges all those who fought for the Alum and Mill Creek dams to begin putting the pressure on again.

And Franklin County Congressmen Sam Devine and Chalmers Wylie should make securing the project their first order of business in the new session.

New Year Dawns

A new year dawns at midnight Saturday—but it dawns with dark clouds already on its horizon.

This is the season of Peace on Earth, Goodwill to Men, but there is no peace and goodwill is in short supply.

We can only hope that 1967 will be far brighter than its tarnished predecessor — a year of war and of strife.

The Spectator Newspapers offer their best wishes for a Happy New Year — and their prayers that the waning days of 1967 will again see peace on this troubled globe.

"Cease-Fire Over Here? Are You Nuts?"

Ohio's Tax Needs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Dr. George Thatcher, Miami University economist who authored the well-known Thatcher Report on Ohio's tax needs in 1962. It is reprinted from the WRFD Commentator.)

The fact is, if there is taxpaying ability for an increased sales tax or any other tax, there is taxpaying capacity for an income tax. Furthermore, a substantial portion of the burden will be borne by the federal government, since state income taxes are deductible in calculating federal income tax liability.

It is also claimed that a personal income tax has deleterious effects on economic growth. There is no convincing evidence that this is so. If taxes were increased by the state, the total burden would be the same regardless of the kind of tax levied — only the distribution of the burden would be different. The fact that 33 states have used a personal income tax without materially affecting their rates of economic growth also refutes this argument.

One of the major problems in adopting an income tax in Ohio is the constitutional requirement that 50 percent of the tax collected by the state shall be returned to the county, school district, city, village, or township in which the income originates. The distribution of revenues on the basis of origin ignores both the relative needs and the taxable capacities of the various local governments to meet necessary expenditures. Some areas may receive more than they need with a consequent tendency toward waste of funds and others may receive too little, resulting in low standards of public service. This provision of the constitution should be repealed before an income tax is adopted in the state.

Finally, it is argued that the "preemption doctrine" as interpreted by Ohio courts prevents local governments from using a tax source which is utilized by the state. Thus, if the state adopts a personal income tax, all existing municipal income taxes would be illegal. Such a development, it is feared, would mean financial crises for many cities. Municipal income taxes last year produced $107 million. Whether the "preemption doctrine" can be repealed by legislative action or whether a constitutional amendment is needed is debatable, but it should be clarified.

Post-Mortem

To The Editor:

Some response to the letter by L. C. S. that appeared in this column seems to be in order.

Perhaps as a Republican he should be made aware of the fact that the party bosses did not have anyone to run in the 61st District and were not going to run anyone. Mack Pemberton was asked to run by non-politicians.

Without intending any criticism of Dick Sensenbrenner, perhaps the public is not very impressed with what politicians have to say at "rallies, spaghetti dinners, steak fries, public dances" or other campaign functions. Mack Pemberton is not a politician. He is a well-known citizen on the West Side and because people knew him as a responsible individual, they were evidently happy to have him represent them. Perhaps he was elected because of the very facts and behavior which L. C. S. criticized.

Pemberton will probably not be a particularly effective lobbyist. But I'll bet he will not be told how to vote by the many pressure groups that lobby at the Statehouse. He will vote for those things which he feels are beneficial to our community and state and vote against those things which he opposes. He has no debts to special interest groups — not even the Republican Party.

I think that's great. It's what we need at all levels of government — honest, responsible, intelligent private citizens willing to spend some of their time to make honest, responsible, intelligent decisions about how goverment can best serve society and the individual.

N. M. T.

More Post-Mortem

To The Editor:

Post-mortems on election results have long been a favorite pastime on the political scene. And the anonymous, initial-signatured "L.C.S." letter to The Spectator editor, concerning Mack Pemberton, is a case in point.

Now that the people have spoken in the 61st district, and in the spirit of fair play, let's give Mr. Pemberton a chance to see how well he performs—not malign him. This is the valid test of his qualifications.

Should Richard Sensenbrenner have won, we would have taken the same attitude.

From the sidelines, it would appear that the hard-hitting campaign was cleanly fought on both sides, barring the usual political scars. Both Dick and Mack played a square-shooting game. We admire them both.

Now that the contest is over let's join ranks to see that Mack is given every encouragement and support, and that Mack, in turn, will judiciously see fit to honor the wishes, where possible, of his constituents in the 61st.

He goes to the legislature with the best wishes of the people in his district. We predict that he will deliver, and come the next election, the electorate will have an opportunity to evaluate his efforts. Good luck, Mack.

Safe Driving

To The Editor:

I am not a defender of speeding or reckless driving but I think the letter which appeared in the Nov. 30 Spectator failed to take into account the number of safe, sane drivers using the East Freeway (I-70).

I have found in many years behind the wheel that posted speed signs do not make a safe driver.

Those who wish to disregard safety regulations do so, speed limit signs or no.

The responsibility of being a good driver rests with the man behind the wheel himself—not with any signs the City or State do or do not post.

don maclean ★ Unhealthy Situation Remains ★

(Marquis Childs Is On Vacation)

The law by which taxpayers can give $1 to finance presidential campaigns is being hailed by many politicians as a great step forward. My question: Toward what?

As you know, it suddenly occurred to our legislators — after almost 200 years — that it was "unhealthy" for our presidents to be indebted to big campaign contributors. So, if you now check a little box on your 1967 tax return, $1 of your taxes will go into a special fund to be divided between the two major parties at election time.

Unfortunately, the law doesn't prevent the parties from continuing to solicit campaign donations. It seems to me that the "unhealthy" situation still exists. All the law really means is that the politicians will have just that much more money to drive us crazy with ads, billboards and commercials.

The 1967 check-off will raise an estimated $60 million for the 1968 presidential campaigns. It's bad enough that some politicians perpetuate themselves in office by spending our tax dollars without restraint. To think that now they can use our tax dollars to gain office in the first place is galling, to say the least.

Another question: If a taxpayer can designate what some of his taxes ($1) can be used for, has he not the right to do likewise with the other dollars? Some folks are against their tax money helping to support the Viet Nam War. Others are against the poverty program. Our politicians may wish they'd never started this.

The new law says a third political party cannot receive any of this slush fund unless it garners at least five million votes. The advantage this gives the two major parties seems to end forever the threat of a third party ever establishing itself. Perhaps this is political realism, but it sure isn't democracy.

Of course, supporters of the idea say it opens the White House door to all men (provided they're Democrats or Republicans, that is), not just men with huge personal fortunes. Actually, it does nothing of the kind. It means merely that a rich man will have the public's money "plus" his own to campaign with. His leverage remains the same.

Finally, there's nothing in the law saying how each party can spend its share of the fund. It can use it all to defeat some promising opposition presidential prospect at an early stage in his career. What amuses me is the fact that when it was first introduced, this law was called "the Clean Elections Bill." Oh, sure.

barry goldwater ★ TV Election Coverage ★

GOLDWATER

Anyone who has been holding his breath waiting for an explanation or apology from the TV networks regarding coverage of the November elections would by now have turned a very dark shade of blue.

Everyone who watched TV that night was impressed, I am sure, by the disbelief and then horror with which virtually every commentator greeted every smidgen of news that showed a conservative candidate in the lead.

The apparently unbearable truth of Ronald Reagan's sweeping victory was manfully resisted until just about the last of the figures were in. In cases involving liberal leads, however, the votes of a single precinct were enough to declare the man a winner —only be be quietly retracted later in the morning.

People who had gone to bed convinced by network computers and commentators that Republicans might have picked up 20 to 30 seats in the House awoke to find 47 Republican seats had been gained, along with three senate seats and eight state houses.

Later, and with little or no thanks to the TV networks, they could learn that 28 million Americans had voted for Republicans, that only 24 million had voted for Democrats and that 25 states, with 293 electoral votes, now had Republican governors as compared with 24 states, and 233 electoral votes, having Democrat governors. (Georgia is omitted from the figures until the gubernatorial race there is settled.)

The point is that the networks performed very badly in reporting the elections. Actually they misreported them. Since they are so fond of dissecting every other phase of American life, in public, we might now expect them to dissect their own failure.

At least it would be interesting to know if they plan to do anything to correct the situation. But we have heard or seen hardly a peep from this most vocal and visual of all media.

Two fortunate facts, however, have emerged. One is that the distortions of TV coverage did not, apparently, significantly affect voting in the in the later time zones as had been feared my many. Republican gains were substantial in those time zones despite the fact that a Republican voter could have been tempted to stay home because "all mos lost" according to TV.

The other is that impulsive cries for public control of TV newscasting have not, and I hope will not, get anywhere. Censorship simply is not the answer to any such problem. Competition is.

The worse some TV coverage becomes the more probable it becomes that a better and competing coverage will emerge or that people will turn to other and more objective printed media. Public control is not the answer. Free choice energetically exercised is.

william s. white ★ Book Trouble Brewing ★

WHITE

Elementary and no longer avoidable journalistic duty compels at last a candid examination of the implications of the immense furor raised over a forthcoming Kennedy family-sponsored book dealing with the assassination of the late President.

Any man who offers himself as a commentator has the obligation to comment upon public matters so manifestly and so inescapably involving high public interest. All the same, never has one columnist approached that obligation with more reluctance — or more sadness.

For among the questions raised here is the towering question whether the right and understandable grief of the Kennedy family at the loss of a gallant husband and brother entitles that family to control the writing of the history of an era in which, as a great public man, he was the central part. The simple truth is that more and more the Kennedy family has treated that history as though it were essentially its own private affair.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy now goes to court to suspend the publication of a book which she herself commissioned through a hand-picked author, William Manchester, after other prospective writers had been warned off. It appears that her primary motive is to bring about the removal of "inaccurate and unfair references" to "other individuals" — meaning President Johnson.

The fact that she now moves to do this only illustrates the wrongness of the whole arrangement. For precisely because this has so long and so widely been heralded as a family-authorized book, whatever unfair assaults Manchester has made upon Mr. Johnson attain a status they could not conceivably have reached otherwise.

But that this is also a most belated step is surely clear, since the book is already in print and 2 million copies of installments excerpted from it have already been run off by Look magazine. Moreover, since Mrs. Kennedy herself states that Manchester at the very outset — back in 1964 — accepted a contractual obligation to write nothing not approved by both Mrs. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, it is difficult to suppose that such attacks as have been made upon President Johnson were based on nothing more than authorial malice.

For months, Manchester's precise position in all this has been equally the subject of leak and rumor. He was, and he was not, hired or commissioned or retained to do the book as a Kennedy family project. Hired or not, the fact remains that he was at any rate positively guaranteed a fortune the moment he was given the go-ahead. It is repeatedly stated in print that his guarantee of revenue from Look alone was in the neighborhood of $600,000.

For months, too, this Washington newspaperman, like many another, has shrunk from going into this affair, not because it was not in the area of legitimate public interest but simply because one who also loved and admired President John F. Kennedy flinched from writing any word that might hurt his widow.

But a point has been reached where it must be remembered that grief and great respect for the dead President must not be allowed forever to deny the most elementary fairness to his successor. President Johnson has had to bear a frightful burden in the unremitting hostility of the Kennedy cult and its common attitude that the man who now sits in the White House is not simply a constitutional successor to another man slain in memorable tragedy but only a crude usurper.

Every mature newspaperman in Washington knows that this is the plain truth. Every writer in the United States — and every publisher — knows, too, that the smile or the frown of the Kennedy cult has a power over the fortunes of any kind of book that this country has never known before.

City Tests Signs Aimed At Identifying Freeway Locations

Those cryptic reflecting signs on the light poles on the South Innerbelt and East Freeway are the first step in what the city administration hopes will be an effective method of identifying any location on Columbus freeway system.

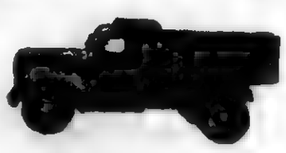
Recent incidents of accidents which led police on merry chases because of poor directions led to a stepped-up program of clearly marking the complicated freeway system.

The present test section includes the eastbound roadway of the South Innerbelt and the eastbound lanes of the East Freeway (I-70) from the Innerbelt to the Miller Avenue exit ramp.

The test signs, in several colors, indicate the designation of the freeway, the direction of travel and mileage designations in hundredths of a mile.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner indicated that most motorists will be expected to already know the freeway and direction they are traveling and thus would have to remember only the mileage designation in reporting an accident or disabled vehicle. Ramps will also be marked with a ramp designation and mileage key.

This is the second such test in Columbus. In 1965, similar test signs were placed on light poles along the Goodale Expressway. Results were encouraging, but no further steps were taken.



Sensenbrenner said the new markings "should pinpoint areas needing maintenance, thus eliminating time wasted in looking for damaged areas, and permit accurate locating of accidents on police reports, an essential item in the proper analysis of accident data and in determination of accident causes.

The mayor called the program "a step forward both in providing quick aid to those involved in an accident and in helping to prevent accidents through proper accident analysis and preventive highway maintenance."

A total of 1,350 signs will be needed to cover the entire city freeway network, the mayor said.

Once color and layout of the test signs are evaluated, the signs will be fabricated by the maintenance shop of the city's Divisions of Traffic Engineering.

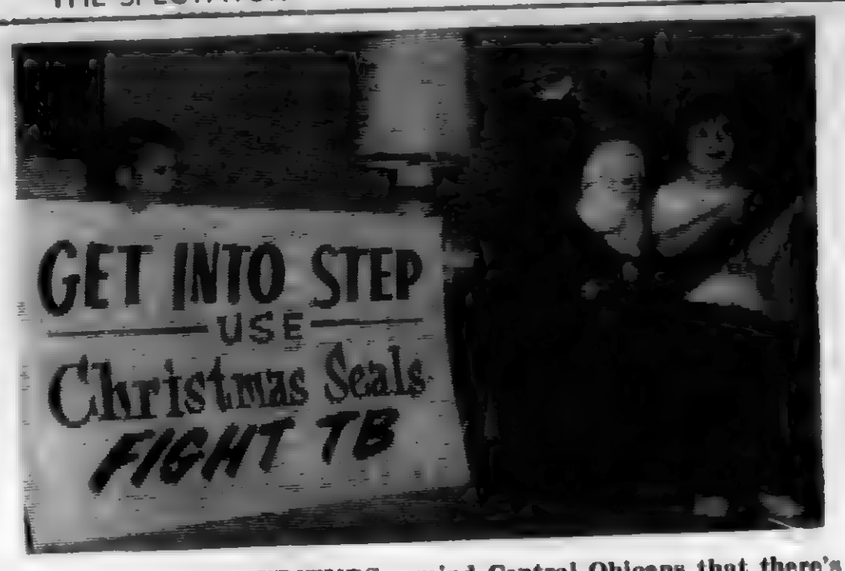
One Week To Go In T-B Seal Drive

Charles L. Spohn, honorary chairman of the 1966 Christmas Seal drive, reminded Central Ohioans today that the campaign will continue until Saturday with a goal of $225,000.

"Because Columbus and Franklin County are growing, the Tuberculosis Society needs to attain its new goal to expand its services to the increasing population," Spohn said.

"The victory over contagious tuberculosis is not near its end," he said. "Last year 16 residents of the area died of TB and 243 new cases were discovered."

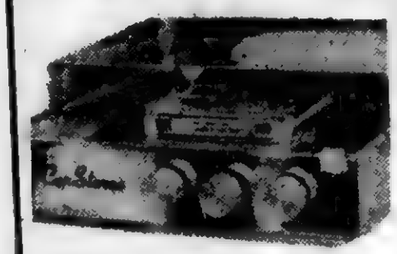
Spohn said the Society depends entirely on donations for its support.



Newsies Seek $30,000 To Reach 1967 Goal

The Charity Newsies fund-raising campaign to clothe needy children in Columbus and Franklin County is still $30,000 short of the goal of $130,000 needed, according to the latest figures released by Newsies Treasurer Ed Brinkman.

While proceeds from the annual Pep Dinner and the 60th newspaper sale total over $100,000, additional donations are needed to help outfit over 7,000 children from 2,500 families in the area.



Donations are still being accepted, and anyone can send his check to Newsies Headquarters, 716 S. High-st, Columbus, Ohio, 43216.

In addition to completely outfitting needy school-age children, the Newsies provide fuel, food and clothing for emergency cases such as disaster victims.

SANTA AND FRIENDS remind Central Ohioans that there's still time to contribute to the Christmas Seal drive. The "friends" are two-year-old John Lindy of Dublin and his four-year-old sister, Krisa Sue.

Sometimes we wonder if we're too generous.

Some folks say we are.

Maybe we are more generous at Central Savings than we need be. Paying a higher interest rate than you get at commercial banks makes us wonder at times. But doing more for people more and more has proved to be good business for our customers and us. So why change?

The way we see it . . . the folks who say we're too generous could be a little envious. Or feel that they have a good thing going and don't want to match the higher interest rate Central Savings pays.

Whatever the reason . . . there's every reason your savings should be earning the higher 4.5% annual interest rate you get at Central. Actually, your savings earn more because Central also compounds interest quarterly.

So why not open a savings account at Central soon? The sooner the better for you.

A pair of holiday tournaments and East's trip to northern Ohio highlight a sparse holiday cage slate tonight, Thursday and Friday.

Watterson's Christmas classic gets under way tonight with the host Eagles entertaining Arlington, North, and Whetstone. The finals are slated for Thursday eve.

READY'S CAGE tourney starts tomorrow with Grandview, West and Pleasant View joining the Silver Knights of Pat Penn. Finals are scheduled for Friday.

Arlington (3-5) opens up the Watterson show tonight at 7 going against North (1-5) with Watterson (6-0) meeting Whetstone (2-4) in the second game.

Thursday the losers meet at 7 with the winners coming back at 8:30.

IN THE READY classic Grandview (4-4) takes on West (4-3) in the 7 o'clock opener with host Ready (2-3) matching baskets with Pleasant View (1-6) at 8:30.

East's trip to Canton and Cuyahoga Falls will answer a question on the strength of the Tigers. East (5-0), which has run up a 79-44 average per game score, will face Cuyahoga Falls tonight and Canton Lincoln, which handled Linden (8-1) 56-53 earlier in the season, Thursday. Both of East's upcoming opponents are still in the unbeaten category.

CAGE NOTES: Linden posted win number eight against a lone defeat with a 78-51 win at Central. The Panthers of Vince Chickerella ran to a 17-2 lead with more than two minutes remaining in the first period and were never seriously threatened after that.

Linden was paced in the offensive column by the 20 point firing of Jim Clark, who upped his personal total to 128 points in nine games, and the 15 point scoring of Ed Young, Linden's all-City performer.

YOUNG AND Jim Cleamons paved the Panther way to victory with a 55-36 command of the boards over smaller Central. The Pirates were led by Willie Lipsey's 12 point banging and the heady board play of Ed McGee.

Central's Wayne Rittenhouse figured that his boys just didn't react fast enough to the swifter Panthers and felt that "their press didn't hurt us because we were getting some bunnies off of it, but we tossed the ball away (24 times) too much after we were set up."

CENTRAL'S MENTOR was pleased with the performance of 6-3½ sophomore Mike Jones, who netted nine points in his first Pirate start. "He's a comer," Wayne added.

Grandview's Dick Hopkins was pleased with his Bobcats' performance that riddled Groveport 77-49 Friday night. Said Dick: "They all turned in a good job, but Mark Todd was putting more in the bucket than he has been."

TODD, a 6-0 junior, netted 23 points to bring his personal log to 106 points, three behind team leader Jim Burchfield, who had 15 in the win over Groveport.

Top point performers of the week were headed by the 29 point output of West's Mike Dreeling in the Cowboys' 82-72 win over Marion Franklin.

Marion Franklin's Dana Zartman netted 26 points in a losing cause while Larry White was hitting for 25 in Groveport's fall to Grandview.

Holiday Mat Action Light

Area matmen will take the holiday season off before starting the new year as a light card is planned for the upcoming week.

Included on the docket is Worthington's trip to Maple Heights, a Cleveland area mat toughie.

Here is the remainder of the week's schedule:

THURSDAY
DeSales at Dayton Tournament
Westerville at Hartley
FRIDAY
DeSales at Dayton Tournament
Worthington at Maple Heights

ROBERT LOEHNER

Robert G. Loehner has been named president of Cussins and Fearn, Inc., operators of Cussins and Fearn Stores and Buckeye Mart Department Stores in Central Ohio.

Loehner succeeds Carl Wunderlich, who will assume the presidency of Alden's Inc., in Chicago.

Loehner, of Baltimore, Ohio, has been with Cussins and Fearn for 30 years, beginning in 1936 as a truck driver and progressing to general merchandise manager and vice-president, a position he was named to in 1964.

Philip F. Ficocella, 641 Montrose-av, secretary and treasurer since 1962, was promoted to the position of executive vice-president, while Gerald R. McKown, 1244 Northwest-bl, was named to succeed Leohner.

Wundelich also announced that Richard Elsea, 5530 Cherrywood, has been promoted from sales manager to the newly-created position of vice-president of sales and personnel training.

Edward H. Anderson, vice-president of store operations, and John A. Morgan, vice-president of real estate and store development, were renamed to their positions.

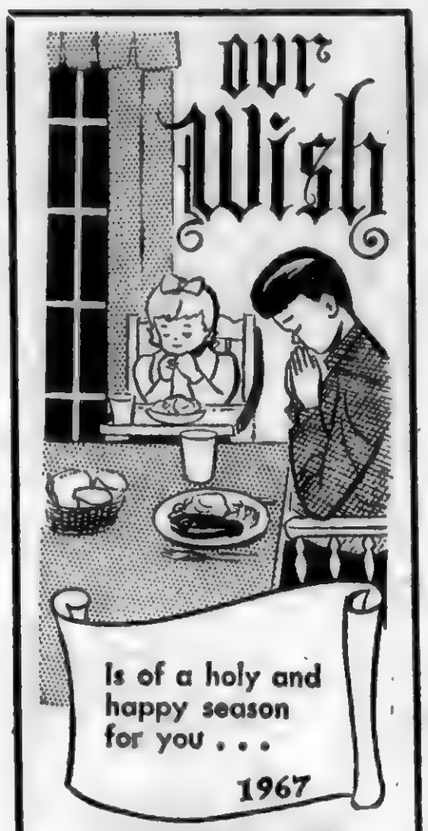
Churches To Recognize Goodwill Sunday, Jan. 8

An estimated 150 churches of 15 denominations in the Columbus area will observe Goodwill Sunday Jan. 8, by distributing literature calling attention to the needs and services of Goodwill Industries.

Goodwill Industries of Central Ohio, headquartered at 1331 Edgehill-rd, served nearly 900 handicapped persons last year, according to the Rev. George Morey Evans, executive director.

Services to the handicapped include testing for skills or potential skills, on-the-job training, and community placement.



Expansion of facilities during the past year has added training stations for close to 100 more handicapped persons, Evans said, but the number needing services accelerates at a faster rate. Clients are referred by local and state rehabilitation agencies, as well as by families and friends—also, clients may be self-referred.

Goodwill's materials are clothing and household goods donatd by families and businesses. Clients are tested and trained as they recondition goods for sale and perform contract jobs such as sorting, inspecting and packaging for local business firms.

Evans pointed out that the agency is totally dependent upon the community for materials to keep the workshops in operation.

The non-profit organization was founded in Boston in 1902, and came to Columbus in 1939. During the past 10 years, branch operations of workshops and stores were started in Chillicothe, Marion, Newark and Portsmouth. Outlying stores are in Mt. Vernon, Lancaster and Jackson.

Goodwill Industries is a United Appeal Agency, which is more than 90 percent self-supporting.

Theater Notes

By CLAUDIA ELKINS

"Gambit" is here. Three cheers are due. Spicy intrigue, superb acting along with dazzling costumes and scenery bring forth on the screen a true form of entertainment.

The opening scenes are in Hong Kong where "Nicole Chang," Shirley MacLaine, as a night-club entertainer is appearing at the International Place of Joy meets "Harry," Michael Caine, who describes a flawless scheme to steal a sculpture which is priceless.

Nicole's resemblance to this sculpture will bring her $5,000, a British passport and an elegant wardrobe if she will charm the owner of the sculpture for a few hours while Harry steals you know what!

The owner, Shahbander Herbert Lom, was once married to the very likeness of the sculpture and though she died after only one year of marriage, this sculpture is his most valuable possession.

Well, several things go wrong, all delightful to the audience; love enters and an intriguing night of entertainment will long be remembered.

Yes, three cheers are due—Town & Country Cinema, Great Western and University Cinema. A very good holiday show for almost any age.

Theater readers, did you know that aside from his many business facets in theater land, Danny Deeds also has time for designing and making his own Christmas decorations?

The decorations are in display in the dining area at the Maramor. Several are displayed at the draped windows showing taste in simplicity yet so right for the elegant atmosphere. These are made of styrofoam and gold Christmas balls.

For the centerpiece, Danny has again used styrofoam to cut out a reindeer scene with many little decorations added to set-off this season.

A special thank you to charming Bill Dorsey for taking his time to show-off his boss's decorating flair.

Bulgarian Artist To Exhibit Paintings, Lecture At Battelle

Dimitar Krustev, Bulgarian born portrait artist and lecturer, will exhibit his paintings of the Mayan Indians, Tuesday through Feb. 17, in the Battelle Auditorium.

Stimulated by an interest in the vanishing aspects of Indian civilizations, Krustev recently spent three months in the Guatemalan and Yucatan jungles studying and painting the natives of the ancient Mayan civilization. A film record of this adventure will be shown at Battelle at 4 p.m. Jan. 22. A reception for the artist will follow the showing. The public is invited to both the film and the reception (4-6 p.m.)

Coming to the United States in 1947, Krustev received his bachelor of arts degree from Kent State University and his master of arts degree from the State University of Iowa. In addition, he studied at the Art Students League in New York. at present he is the director of the Grant Gallery in Des Moines, Ia.

The exhibit will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and at other times when public functions are scheduled in the auditorium.

Drawings, specifications and bid forms are on file at the office of the Architect, and at the office of the Board of Education, where they may be examined during regular office hours. Individual copies may be obtained from the Architect and they shall be returned with the bid. Deposit of $10 is required with request, but fully refundable (less postage) if the bidder is an established dealer in the kind of equipment which he proposes to bid. For all others, a non-returnable fee of $5 will be charged for each set of documents. All bids must be submitted only on bid forms which will be furnished.

Each bid submitted must contain the full name of every person interested therein and shall be accompanied by a bid bond or a certified check, payable to the order of the Board of Education, in the sum of 10% of the amount of the bid and conditioned that if the bid be accepted a contract will be entered into and the performance of it properly secured by a performance bond in an amount equal to 50% of the contract price. Should any bid be rejected, such bid security shall be returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted, such bid security will be returned upon the proper execution and securing of the contract. The security will be forfeited by the bidder if such conditions are not fulfilled.

Bids shall be sealed and addressed to Clerk of the Board of Education, and the envelope shall be marked to show item of equipment bid upon and shall show the name of the bidder.

No bid may be withdrawn in less than 45 days and the right to reject any or all bids or parts thereof and the right to waive informatilties or irregularities in bids is reserved.

By Order of the Board of Education

Resolution For Inactive Deposits:

(FORM 5:43)

BE IT RESOLVED, by the board of education of the Canal Winchester Local School District, Franklin and Fairfield Counties, Ohio, that on estimate duly made, moneys of said school district, aggregating a maximum amount of $887,000, shall be awarded as inactive deposits.

BE IT RESOLVED, that the active and inactive moneys of said school district shall be deposited in a bank or banks as provided by law; and be it further resolved, that the bank or banks in said school district offering the highest rate of interest per annum on inactive deposits be made the depository or depositories of such funds of said school district for a period of two years from the 10th day of January, 1967. If, however, no bank in said school district bids a satisfactory rate of interest per annum on said inactive deposits, than the bank or banks conveniently located outside of said school district bidding the highest rate of interest per annum on inactive deposits, shall be made the depository of such funds of said school district, interest on inactive deposits to be paid quarterly and computed from the date of deposit; and be it further

RESOLVED, that the bids be received until 4:00 P.M. on the 9th day of January, 1967, and that notice to all banks in said school district and such other banks as may be necessary be given by publication as provided by law. Said board of education reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and be it further

RESOLVED, that said board of education shall meet at its regular meeting place on the 10th day of January, 1967, at 8:15 p.m., for designation of depositories.
